FOREWORD

BY JAY WILSON,
GAME DIRECTOR OF DIABLO III

Fifteen years ago, the original Diablo was released on an unsuspecting world. This ingenious blend of action and role-playing game came at a time when the game industry said that role-playing games were dead. Boy, did that turn out to be wrong. The Diablo games have been some of the most successful of all time, and we're proud to present to you the game that we hope carries on that tradition.

Fifteen years ago, my wife was my fiancée, my daughter was years away, and if you'd told me I'd be working with such an amazing team to make a follow-up to one of my favorite games of all time, I'd have told you that you were a crazy person. In my house, the name Diablo was often spoken in hushed tones of excitement. It conjures up the memory and anticipation of countless hours scouring unforgiving dungeons with insanely powerful heroes, the joy of finding that perfect item, the fear of what might be around the next corner, and the thrill of sharing that adventure with other people. It's a lot to live up to!

Fortunately, I've been blessed to work alongside the most talented and amazing team I've ever had the pleasure to know, filled with gifted alumni of the previous Diablo games as well as excited newcomers like myself. To bring this team together and make a sequel worthy of the Diablo name, we knew we'd first need to fully understand what made the original games great before we could even begin to try making something better. To embark on this epic task, we established a set of pillars—or ideals—that we feel define Diablo, Diablo II, and Diablo II: Lord of Destruction. These seven pillars are Powerful Heroes, Replayability, Well-Paced Rewards, Approachability, Strong Setting, Customization, and Multiplayer Always.

Powerful Heroes are at the heart of the Diablo experience. A mighty barbarian standing against an endless horde of demons is a core image that drives what makes Diablo great. Replayability comes through smart design of your game; in Diablo, we use random environments, random encounters, and even random monsters. We added random scripted events to support Diablo III's strong story focus. Well-Paced Rewards—an awesome item, a new monster, a new environment, or the spectacle of a mighty boss—help keep players excited about what's coming next.

As deep as the Diablo games are, they have also always been easy to get into and play, so making the game Approachable was an important goal for us. There are a lot of fantasy games out there, but none of them feel quite like Diablo, with its Strong Setting that pits good versus evil in an eternal struggle between the High Heavens and the Burning Hells. Giving players powerful options to Customize their characters is important. We accomplished this through endless varieties of randomly generated items, a skill system that provides the freedom to experiment, and the new rune system that enables two characters using the same abilities to play very differently. Finally, all Diablo games have had a clear Multiplayer focus, being fully playable cooperatively at any time.

Add to those pillars some new goals, like a deeper combat model, stronger story, and a more challenging and sustainable end game, and we think Diablo III has the makings to be the greatest Diablo yet.

The strategy guide you hold in your hands has been designed to help you find your way through this new and perilous chapter in the ongoing struggle between humanity and the forces of the Burning Hells. The good people at Brady Games have tirelessly scoured through endless variations of random environments, battled towering bosses, and pored through piles of loot to bring to you all of the information you need to take your Barbarian, Wizard, Witch Doctor, Demon Hunter, or Monk to the pinnacle of power.

Welcome, or welcome back, to the world of Diablo. It's a cruel world, but you'll find that with a strong arm, a sharp axe, and a quick spell, you can face the forces of evil... and work them over for all the phat loot you could ever hope for. Good hunting, fellow adventurers!

Two decades have passed since the demonic lords, Diablo, Mephisto, and Baal, set out across the world of Sanctuary on a vicious rampage, twisting humanity to their unholy will.

Yet for those who battled the Prime Evils, the memory fades slowly.

When Deckard Cain returns to the ruins of Tristram Cathedral, seeking clues to defeat new stirrings of evil, a fiery omen of doom falls from the heavens, striking the very ground where Diablo once entered the world. This fire from the sky reawakens ancient evils and calls the heroes of Sanctuary to defend the mortal world against the rising powers of the Burning Hells once again.

WELCOME TO SANCTUARY

ABOUT THIS GUIDE

The tome you now hold is your key to unlocking the secrets of Diablo III, and to surviving the trials that now test all who walk the lands of Sanctuary. To get the most from this book, you must first understand the random nature of Diablo III, and the challenges that its unique style presents to players (and strategy guide authors).

The majority of what you experience every time you play Diablo III is unique to your individual playthrough. The enemies you encounter, the layout of dungeons, and the loot you gain is wholly randomized. Even side-quests and the very presence and location of caves may be different each time you play the game. But all of this randomness occurs within a scientific framework. There are rules—more complex than you can imagine—that govern the where, when, and what that customize the experience.

The wizards at Blizzard have granted us a thorough look under the hood. And though we were forced to swear upon a Nephalem altar that we would never divulge their arcane secrets, our knowledge of the game's inner workings has allowed us to create a compendium of which even Abd al-Hazir would be proud. Our knowledge of what is and isn't possible within the Diablo III framework has been injected into each and every segment of the book. Here are just a few of the topics covered:

- Our Quest Guide provides a comprehensive walkthrough of the game's primary campaign. The 31 quests are divided into four Acts and include maps of all towns, enemy information for first encounters, sources of loot, details on each Unique monster as you encounter them, and brief descriptions for all possible sub-events you might discover in a given area. Dungeon-specific tactics are provided for unique architectural pieces, written in the first-person narrative of an explorer's journal. Finally, we provide in-depth boss battle strategy, including skill suggestions for all five classes.
- For each of the five Heroes, we have included strategic recommendations, details on their skill progression as they level up, a look at their first six armor styles, and a comprehensive discussion of each class's many active and passive skills. Tactical advice and data are also provided for all skill and Runestone pairings.
- Our Denizens of Hell Bestiary contains all you need to know about the monsters of Diablo III and how they behave. This section provides a complete analysis of all monster traits, a discussion of each monster class, and a comprehensive A-to-Z listing of every creature in the game. Each monster entry includes the following: complete monster data, health globe drop percentages, resistances, attack ratings, and a detailed discussion of the enemy's behavior in combat.
- A big part of the fun in Diablo has always been collecting, comparing, and outfitting the Hero with the best possible loot. Our Loot Management chapter is the ultimate resource for understanding the equipment nomenclature, including the many affixes that comprise weapon and armor names. It also includes data for all types of weaponry, including Legendary Weapons, as well as all potions, scrolls, gems, and accessories.
- This book also covers several other important aspects of the game, including a chapter on Artisans & Crafting, a guide to using Blizzard's new Auction House, and an exhaustive list of the game's many Achievements. Finally, our Hero's Basics chapter aims to get your solo adventure off to a solid start. We also provide practical advice on how to successfully lead a party into combat and live to tell about it.

DIABLOⓈ TIMELINE

964

Led by Azmodan and Belial, many of the Hells' lesser demons rise up against the Prime Evils in a rebellion that culminates in the Dark Exile. Diablo, Mephisto, and Baal are exiled to Sanctuary from the Burning Hells.

1004

The archangel Tyrael gathers together mortal heroes to create the Horadrim. He bestows the Soulstones upon them and tasks them with tracking down and imprisoning the Prime Evils.

1009

Mephisto is captured in a Soulstone, which is then given to a fledgling religious order known as the Zakarum.

1010

Baal is tracked to the desert near Lut Gholein. Tal Rasha, the leader of the Horadrim, sacrifices himself to capture Baal in a damaged Soulstone.

1019

Diablo is finally captured by a group of Horadrim monks led by Jered Cain. The monks bury Diablo's Soulstone near the river Talsande in Khanduras, and a Horadric monastery with a network of catacombs is built over the burial spot.

1025

The town of Tristram is established around the Horadric monastery.

1080

The Horadric monastery in Tristram is abandoned.

1100

The Horadrim, with no quests left to undertake, fade into history and legend.

1258

The eastern lord Leoric comes to Tristram, declares himself its king, and converts the old, long-unused Horadric monastery to a Zakarum cathedral. His advisor, Archbishop Lazarus, secretly releases Diablo from imprisonment.

King Leoric descends into madness as he valiantly struggles to resist Diablo's possession.

Increasingly deranged, King Leoric begins imprisoning all who question his authority and executing them as traitors. He declares war on the kingdom of Westmarch.

Under Diablo's influence, Archbishop Lazarus kidnaps King Leoric's son, Prince Albrecht. The terrified child is possessed by Diablo.

Lachdanan, captain of King Leoric's army, returns from the disastrous war with Westmarch and is forced to kill Leoric. The fallen monarch curses Lachdanan and his followers with his dying breath. Not long afterward, Lachdanan and the king's guards are attacked by Leoric, resurrected as the Skeleton King, as they attempt to bury him.

Archbishop Lazarus leads a group of villagers into the cathedral and abandons them to a bloodthirsty butcher demon. People begin fleeing Tristram in droves.

A lone hero arrives in Tristram and defeats the bloated, fetid, butcher demon.

The hero defeats the Skeleton King and kills Archbishop Lazarus.

Diablo is defeated by the hero, who then tries to contain Diablo within himself. Despite the hero's noble intentions, his valiant spirit quickly succumbs to Diablo's corruption. He becomes the Dark Wanderer, leaving Tristram behind shortly before legions of foul demons attack and destroy the town and its inhabitants.

1264

A group of heroes begins a quest to defeat Diablo and his brothers. The heroes defeat the demoness Andariel and journey east, following the Wanderer.

The demon lord Duriel is defeated within the tomb of Tal Rasha; it is discovered that Baal is already free from his Soulstone.

The Dark Wanderer completes his transformation into Diablo; Mephisto is destroyed beneath the jungles of Kurast by the band of heroes.

Diablo is defeated. His Soulstone is destroyed, along with Mephisto's, upon the Hellforge.

Baal and his army march on Mount Arreat.

The heroes follow Baal to Mount Arreat for the final conflict between man and the last of the Prime Evils. Although the heroes defeat Baal, his demonic army continues to advance.

The angel Tyrael discovers that Baal has succeeded in corrupting the Worldstone housed within Mount Arreat. Realizing that the Worldstone cannot be restored, Tyrael reluctantly destroys it. The resulting explosion destroys Mount Arreat, ravages much of the countryside, and decimates Baal's army.

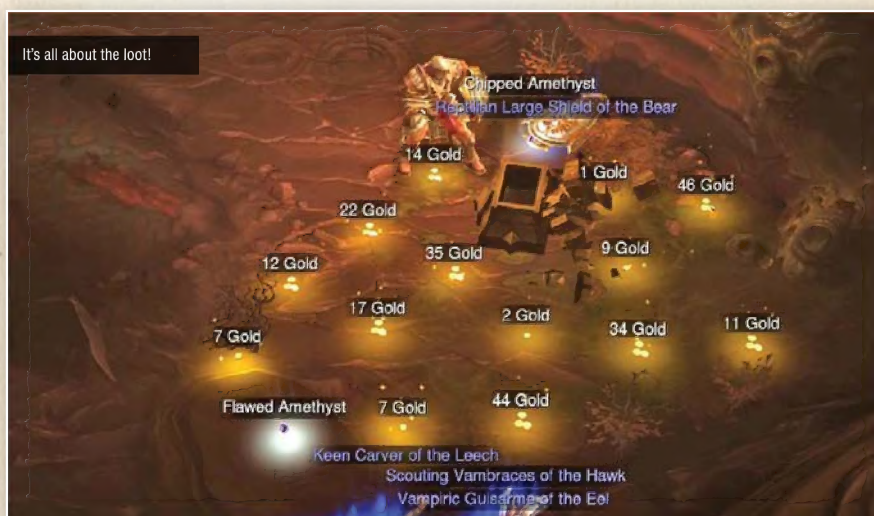

THE HERO'S BASICS

The best-selling Diablo franchise has long been regarded as the pinnacle of the action-RPG landscape. Not only did the previous games in this series insert the terms “dungeon crawler” and “hack-and-slash” into the lexicon of gaming, but the addictive gameplay of previous Diablo installments is responsible for inspiring an entire sub-genre of similar titles. Nevertheless, there can be only one Diablo and now, after more than a decade, the Lord of Terror has returned—and much has changed...

Diablo III has been painstakingly designed to be accessible to newcomers while still retaining all of the core gameplay that made previous releases so wildly popular. Anyone, no matter their level of gaming experience, can quickly get up to speed with the game and enjoy early success. But there is a wealth of complexity hidden just beneath the easy-to-learn exterior. That's where this chapter comes in. Beginners and veterans alike will find much to learn on the following pages. We've crafted this section to serve as a complement to the user's manual and in-game tutorials. We begin by introducing the core concepts helpful for beginners and gradually add layers of information to help readers understand the finer points of the game's many systems.*

ADVENTURING FUNDAMENTALS

At its heart, Diablo III is a game centered on combat and the endless hunt for rare and powerful loot—namely gold, gems, and equipment. Everything you do in the game is geared toward making your character—one of five playable Hero classes—stronger and more deadly. You will slaughter thousands of Hell's minions during your journey and, in doing so, will earn lots of experience (XP), gold, equipment, potions, crafting materials, and much more. All of these rewards better prepare you for the fights to come—and there's always another fight lurking around the corner.

Before you head out into the world and lay blade to your first hellspawn, it's worth going over a few of the core gameplay concepts, as well as some advice on using this strategy guide. This section covers the following topics:

- Controls
- XP and gold
- Completing quests
- The Journal
- Life and death
- Finding loot
- Exploration

Many advanced aspects of the gameplay such as crafting, special items, followers, buffs, stats, and combat bonuses are explained in detail later in this chapter and throughout the guide.

CONTROLS

At its most elemental level, Diablo III is played using little more than your mouse, its two buttons, and the number keys on your keyboard. Click the left mouse button to move the Hero, click on enemies or objects to have the Hero interact with the target (or use the primary skill), and use the right mouse button and number keys to perform skills. Of course, there are many other commands that may prove useful in the heat of battle.

The key bindings can be modified to your liking at any time via the Options menu. The following tables show the default key bindings for gameplay, adjusting system settings, and communicating with friends while playing the game cooperatively. It's possible to add a second key binding to each of the commands to further customize the experience. This is particularly helpful if you use a specialized control pad when playing on a desktop computer, but want to maintain the default controls when playing on a laptop.

A WORD ON RANDOMIZATION

The Diablo franchise is known for creating a random experience that's unique to each individual playthrough. This randomization is generated within a heavily-tested framework designed to create a balanced experience that differs each time you play the game. For example, although the exact number and assortment of enemies you face at any specific time is random, each type of enemy is limited to a handful of locations. Similarly, each enemy species has a corresponding level for each difficulty mode, but the number of hit points (HP) any individual monster has is randomly determined within a range set by the developers.

Randomization also occurs within the maps. The exterior shapes of maps are static and never change, but the sub-events you encounter within them, the locations of some Waypoints, and the presence of Shrines, Healing Wells, and Chests are all random. In contrast, each floor of a dungeon or cave is randomly generated. Dungeons will always constitute a pre-determined number of floors of a particular size (small, medium, large, etc.), but the actual geometry and architecture of each dungeon and cave changes every time you play the game—they are generated on the fly from a large collection of tiles.

Lastly, nearly all aspects of equipment are wholly randomized. Every enemy you kill has a chance to drop gold; multiple pieces of equipment, items, and gold; or nothing at all. There is a chance, albeit very small, that a low-level enemy may even drop something very rare and valuable. In general, the higher the level of the enemy you kill, the better your odds are of getting a magical, rare, or legendary piece of equipment.

Hold Your Ground

It's often strategically important to maintain your current position and not charge toward your enemies. This is especially true when using a ranged combatant or trying to remain near an ally. Holding the "Shift" key makes the Hero stand still while performing skills or basic attacks. Although Heroes equipped with ranged skills or weapons will attack from afar when an enemy is targeted, accidentally targeting the ground may cause the Hero to take off running. Holding the "Shift" key prevents this from happening.

Shifting Inventory

Learn these quick shortcuts to equip, sell, and compare equipment in your Inventory Panel faster. Hover over the piece of equipment to see how it compares to whatever you've already equipped. Hold the "Alt" key while hovering over an item to compare it to your other similarly equipped item when dual wielding weaponry and wearing two rings. Click and drag to the appropriate slot to equip the item or simply right-click the equipment to have it instantly equipped. Sell items when interacting with a merchant by right-clicking the equipment. Be careful not to right-click the gear you purchase while still in this screen or you'll just sell it back to the merchant. Either click and drag to equip your newly purchased gear or close the merchant panel first.

Customize Your Own Emotes

Many of the emotes have been left unassigned by default. You can customize their key bindings to the other number pad keys or any other keys you might not be using. It's also possible to reassign some of the existing key bindings to these emotes. We recommend playing the game with the existing key bindings for a while before making too many changes. Customize these settings only after you know for sure the commands you aren't likely to use and which ones you want at your fingertips.

FOUR QUEST-BASED ACTS

Diablo III consists of 31 main story quests spread across 4 Acts. Most quests are initiated by talking to a non-playable characters (NPC) with an "!" over his or her head. This will update the Journal with quest information. The name of the quest and current objective will appear on-screen, just below the mini-map. Additional bonus quests and events can also be triggered throughout your adventure by talking with other NPCs and interacting with certain objects in the environment.

Quest-giving NPCs aren't the only ones with whom you can interact, of course. Conversation with all NPCs is triggered by clicking on them. Some will offer small-talk, while others will provide a list of topics they can discuss. You never know what you might learn from the other villagers, so always speak with them. Completing quests earns XP and gold.

LIFE AND DEATH

Life is cheap in Sanctuary, but fortunately for aspiring Heroes like you, second chances are plentiful. The red orb in the lower-left corner of the screen represents your Life meter. All classes of Heroes begin their journey with an equal amount of Life, also known as hit points (HP), and the goal is the same: never allow this meter to empty. Your character's maximum Life increases over time as the Hero levels up and increases his Vitality rating. The amount of Life per Vitality the Hero gains scales with levels. At level 1, the Hero gains 10 Life per Vitality; at level 60, the Hero gains 35 Life per Vitality. Increasing the Vitality rating is a key concern for Heroes specializing in close-quarters combat such as the Barbarian. Vitality can be increased by equipping certain equipment and gems. Runes can also be used to increase a character's Life.

The game ends if the player's character is emptied of Life. At this time, you can continue from the previous checkpoint (unless playing Hardcore mode where death is permanent).

It's important to understand why you died and to take measures to prevent it from happening again. Even though you don't lose any XP or gold upon dying, your equipped weapons, armor, and accessories all suffer 10% depletion in their durability (at level 10 and beyond). Equipment retains 100% of its functionality until completely broken (resulting in a durability rating of zero). A yellow on-screen icon will appear when a piece of equipment has fallen below 50% of its full durability. The icon will be replaced with a red one if it loses all durability. These items are also outlined in yellow or red in the Inventory Panel to make it easier to spot which pieces need repairing. Repairs can be made at most merchants, provided you have the requisite amount of gold.

CHECKPOINTS AND SAVING

There is no manual quick-saving or loading in Diablo III. Your Hero's stats, equipment, and settings are saved automatically as you play the game. The game saves your progress when you complete quests, reach in-game checkpoints, die, or exit the game. Note each checkpoint you reach as you near the end of a gaming session: either push on to the next checkpoint or quest completion, or consider stopping sooner. Partial progress across an area, including optional sub-events, may not be saved if you exit the game before reaching the next checkpoint.

HEALTH GLOBES AND POTIONS

Avoiding enemy attacks and cultivating a high Armor rating (which reduces all damage from enemies) are key to staying alive, but no Hero can avoid damage forever. Over time equipment, skills, and runes yield the abilities to regain Life per second, steal Life from enemies, and even gain Life per hit and/or per kill. But these perks alone will not keep you alive. That's where health globes and health potions come into play.

Diablo III differs significantly from previous games in this series with regard to the player's reliance on health potions. Instead of rapidly consuming a large quantity of potions, Heroes must now rely heavily upon strategic collection of health globes. These come in two sizes and replenish a percentage of your maximum Life when collected. Note that health globes do not provide an instantaneous restoration of Life—it takes several seconds for the full benefit to be achieved. Every enemy you kill has a chance to drop a health globe of a certain size. Common monsters have a varying chance to drop health globes that restore 20% of your Max Life; Champion monsters may drop up to two health globes that restore 35% Max Life each; and Rare monsters will always drop four that restore 35% Max Life each (see the "Denizens of Hell" chapter of this guide for more information).

Heal Me, Brother!

A priest in each Act can provide free, instant healing if you ask him for a blessing.

Health globes, like gold, are automatically collected as the Hero moves within a specific radius of them. This happens regardless of the Hero's current amount of Life, so it's important to monitor your Life closely and avoid picking up health globes that you might need later on. This is particularly true during boss fights or battles with tougher Rare and Champion monsters. Health globes persist on the battlefield for a full minute, so it pays to leave them where they fall until you absolutely need them. Collecting a health globe when you already have full Life cheats you out of healing you may need later on.

Although the importance of potions has been significantly reduced compared to Diablo II, they still play a critical role in times of emergency. Health potions come in a variety of sizes (larger ones become available at higher levels) and instantly restore a set quantity of Life. Potions are automatically assigned to a Potion Slot on your action bar and can be consumed on command with a tap of the "Q" key. You can also right-click a potion in the Inventory Panel if you wish. It's always worth having a number of health potions on hand, but drinking a potion also triggers a 30-second cooldown, so think twice before using one because you won't be able to drink another until half a minute has passed. Use potions if health globes are not available or when you're running dangerously low on Life only.

You will also find Healing Wells scattered throughout the world. These red fonts are a staple of past Diablo games and instantly replenish all of your lost Life. Healing Wells regenerate every 30 seconds, allowing you to use the same one repeatedly if necessary.

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

Each of the five classes has a unique resource that's used to fuel the Hero's active skills. Its name, maximum quantity, and method by which the resource is generated differ slightly between the classes, but its purpose is always the same. Whether dealing with the Barbarian's Fury, the Monk's Spirit, or the Witch Doctor's Mana, this resource is the fuel that powers the Hero's attack skills and defensive abilities. The orb in the lower right-hand corner of the screen indicates the current amount of this resource. Hover over the orb to see a tooltip showing the exact number (note that each class's resource appears in a different color).

Split Personality

Demon Hunters have not one, but two resources: Hatred and Discipline. This class has a maximum of 100 Hatred, but only 30 Discipline (initially). These two resources are used separately to power differing styles of skills, adding to the flexibility of the Demon Hunter experience.

All character classes in previous Diablo games used a common, naturally regenerating resource—Mana—and relied heavily upon potions to restore it in a hurry. There are no Mana potions in Diablo III. Instead, each class's unique resource is either generated naturally (by using resource-generating skills) or through the assistance of special runes and passive skills. The details for each resource are explained in the Heroes chapter of this guide, but here's a quick summary:

Barbarian: Fury is generated through basic weapon attacks and through the use of Fury-generating skills. The Barbarian can accumulate a default maximum of 100 Fury, but this resource slowly drains over time.

Demon Hunter: Hatred is a quickly-regenerating resource that powers many of the Demon Hunter's attack skills. The Hero can maintain 100 max Hatred and generate the resource through Hatred-generating skills. The class's other resource, Discipline, fuels evasive and tactical skills. Discipline regenerates slowly and carries an initial max of 30.

Monk: Spirit is generated exclusively through the use of Spirit-generating skills. Spirit doesn't drain like the Barbarian's Fury. The Monk can increase the maximum pool of Spirit from 150 to 250 with the right passive skill equipped.

Witch Doctor: The Witch Doctor is the only class with a maximum resource amount that increases per level. The Hero begins with a maximum of 150 Mana, but gains 10 additional Mana per level. Mana is used to power all of the Witch Doctor's skills and is regenerated naturally. Skills cost additional Mana as the Hero levels up.

Wizard: Wizards use Arcane Power to fuel their magic. This resource regenerates the fastest of all the classes and carries an initial maximum pool of 100. The Hero has several Signature spells that carry no resource cost, helping to extend the available pool of Arcane Power.

EXPERIENCE AND LEVELING UP

COMBAT BONUSES

Combat Bonuses award additional XP for a variety of accomplishments. These include killing a number of enemies in a single blow, destroying a large quantity of objects in quick succession, using a dungeon trap to kill multiple foes simultaneously, or even surviving a set amount of time while below 25% Life. The XP bonuses aren't very large, but they make it worth trying to rack up as many kills as fast as you can.

Every monster you kill, quest you complete, and new piece of lore you discover yields experience points (XP). This slowly fills the long horizontal meter stretching between the Life and Resource orbs. The Hero, beginning the game at level 1, gains a new level every time this meter fills. The amount of XP needed to gain a new level is quite small at first, but increases substantially over time as the Hero gets stronger. For example, it requires more XP (and therefore more time spent playing) to level up from level 52 to 53 than it does to advance from level 1 all the way to level 7.

An individual Hero can grow in strength and ultimately reach the level cap of 60, but this is no small task. All Heroes begin play on Normal difficulty at level 1 and have the potential to reach level 31 by the end of Act IV. The Hero can grow approximately to level 50 by the end of Nightmare difficulty, and reach the level cap of 60 by the end of the Hell difficulty setting. This leaves the Hero to attempt the daunting Inferno difficulty at a static level 60 (all monsters on Inferno difficulty are level 61 or higher).

LEVELING PERKS

So what does leveling up gain you? For starters, all Heroes gain a set increase to their core stats of Strength, Dexterity, Intelligence, and Vitality. These increases range from 1 to 3 per attribute and differ from class to class (see the Heroes section for specific info).

Leveling up also carries several major benefits that directly affect gameplay. For starters, it earns you access to new active skills, passive skills, and runes. Unlocking the first skill in a new category unlocks an additional skill slot that's available for use immediately. The effectiveness of many of your skills (and the resource cost of the Witch Doctor's skills) increases automatically with each newly gained level, ensuring that even your most basic skills—those unlocked at a very low level—are worth using later in the game. Skills and runes are detailed in full within each of the Heroes chapters.

Another benefit to leveling up is that certain potions and pieces of equipment can be used only by Heroes of a particular level. Leveling up gradually gets you access to these new items, some of which are available in shops. The flipside to this is that the enemies also gain access to new traits at higher levels, thus making sure the action continues to gradually get more difficult. A piece of equipment's level requirement will appear in a red font if the Hero does not yet meet the requirement.

THAT NEW SKILL SMELL

Say you just gained access to a new skill, but don't have an empty skill slot to which you can assign it yet. No problem! You can swap active skills and runes within the skill category at any time during play without even returning to town. The newly equipped skill will be ready for use after the requisite cooldown period, which is based on difficulty.

All Heroes have skills distributed across Primary, Secondary, Defensive, and three additional class-specific categories. If you'd like to be able to organize your skills outside of the pre-determined categories, simply enter the Options menu and check the box for "Elective Mode." This will allow you to assign the skills to any group and skill slot that's been unlocked. This is particularly useful if, for example, you want access to two Signature spells as the Wizard.

DIFFICULTY LEVELS

Unlike other games, you do not choose which difficulty you start with—there's no skipping a so-called easy mode to advance straight to a higher difficulty. Diablo III is designed for a player to progress from a Level 1 Hero on Normal difficulty to a Level 60 Hero by the end of Hell difficulty. Only then can the player attempt Inferno mode—hint: bring backup! Players are free to replay any completed quest (or a complete Act) on any completed difficulty mode, but they cannot jump ahead. The reason for this is simple: You'll die. Fast.

Every monster in the game has been assigned four different levels with four corresponding HP ranges, one for each difficulty level. The very first enemies you encounter on Overlook Road may be level 1 on Normal difficulty, but those same enemies are level 31 on Nightmare, level 51 on Hell, and level 61 on Inferno.

Enemy level isn't the only change that takes place from one difficulty level to the next. There are rare and powerful enemy traits that don't appear in the game until Nightmare mode. Similarly, enemies on Hell and Inferno mode are allowed to possess more complex and dangerous combinations of traits than you would ever dare consider on Normal mode.

DIFFICULTY SCALING BASED ON NUMBER OF PLAYERS

DESCRIPTION	NORMAL	NIGHTMARE	HELL	INFERNO
Monster HP increase per additional player	75%	85%	95%	110%
Monster XP increase per additional player	0	0	0	0
Monster DMG increase per additional player	0	5%	10%	15%

THE HUNT FOR LOOT

SOURCES OF LOOT

Overlook Road quickly introduces both breakable and searchable objects. Breakable objects are smashed to pieces when struck with an attack or skill and often yield gold or loot. The cursor changes to a weapon icon when hovering above a breakable object. Searchable objects such as a Tristram Militia Corpse may also contain gold, loot, or a piece of lore. The cursor changes to a hand when hovering above a searchable object.

There are many grades of breakable and searchable objects scattered throughout Sanctuary, and each region has its own unique selection. Every object is capable of yielding valuable items, but there's a better chance of finding a rare item when inspecting less common objects. Rarer objects also have a higher likelihood of holding larger volumes of gold and multiple items.

We've included "Sources of Loot" tables throughout our Quest Guide to draw attention to each type of clickable/smashable object found in every region. Consult these tables to know what to look for while you're exploring—some of the things you can break might surprise you!

You come for the story; you stay for the promise of rare and powerful loot. The Diablo franchise has long been about the quest for the ultimate weapon and the perfect set of armor. Diablo III takes this to a whole new level. Not only has the quantity and variety of loot been expanded, but a sophisticated crafting system and Auction House have opened the door for exciting new methods of acquiring that sought-after piece of loot.

The term “loot” loosely refers to anything that you can pick up in the game environment such as gold, weapons, armor, and potions. For the purpose of this discussion, we’re primarily talking about weapons, armor, and accessories that can be equipped in the Inventory Panel.

Loot is primarily obtained through one of two ways: defeating enemies or interacting with clickable/smashable objects like barrels, chests, and corpses. Although gold (and health globes for that matter) can be picked up by simply running past them, you must click on equipment individually to add it to your inventory. You also must have room in the inventory for it to be placed. All pieces of equipment either take up one or two blocks within your inventory. Unwanted items can be sold to a vendor, salvaged for crafting materials (magic, rare, and legendary equipment only), or discarded. Click-and-drag an unwanted item from the inventory onto the ground to discard it.

Given the massive quantity of loot you'll find over the course of your adventure, it pays to learn early on what's worth picking up. This guide's Loot Management chapter contains a detailed analysis of every item in the game and what makes the different types special. But we've included a few basic tips in this chapter to get you started.

EQUIPMENT COLOR GRADES

Each piece of equipment that hits the ground is given a color-coded name. Although the name reveals a lot of information about the item's traits, its color immediately provides a general rating of its quality.

Gray: Common equipment bearing a negative quality trait is given a gray name (e.g., crude, broken, faulty). This stuff is generally not worth picking up unless you currently lack that category of armor. For example, if your Hero is still without footwear, any pair of boots is better than none at all.

White: A white label is assigned to common equipment that lacks any magical properties. White-labeled equipment should be collected while playing Act I, but can generally be ignored after that. Common equipment cannot be salvaged by the Blacksmith and is generally not worth the space it occupies in your inventory. If you have room and are heading back to town, then pick it up to sell. Otherwise, don't bother.

Blue: Equipment with at least one magical property is assigned the color blue. Always pick up this variety and compare it to the gear you're currently using. Also, magical equipment can be salvaged for crafting materials by the Blacksmith or sold for a decent sum of gold at any vendor.

Yellow: Rare equipment is yellow. These pieces always deserve comparison and consideration. They typically have higher base stats and a greater number of random properties. Rare equipment yields rare crafting materials when salvaged and can be sold for a small fortune at any vendor.

Orange: Legendary equipment is similar to rare equipment, but is not randomly generated. It has a unique name and specific, predetermined properties in addition to the random properties it might also have. Legendary equipment can be sold for a considerable amount of gold or salvaged for legendary crafting materials. Think long and hard about selling such a unique piece of gear to a vendor.

Green: Some Legendary equipment is part of a matching set. Acquiring a complete set of matching Legendary equipment grants a special bonus and is considered one of the crowning achievements in the life of a Diablo fan. These items are given a green name (on an orange background) and should never be sold or salvaged. Place them in your stash if you don't wish to use them or consider selling them in the Auction House.

ELEMENTALS AND STATUS EFFECTS

Many of the equipment and skills you will come to use inflict damage as one of the following six elemental properties: Fire, Cold, Lightning, Arcane, Holy, or Poison. Elementals do not counter one another (e.g., Fire does not inflict additional damage to Cold enemies), but rather add additional damage to all enemies.

There are a number of status effects in the game that both Heroes and enemies are capable of inflicting. Some are completely unique to specific creatures (these are covered in our Bestiary and Quest Guide where appropriate) and others that are far more common. Many of these may seem similar to one another at first glance, so read the descriptions carefully to understand their subtle differences. All status effects last for only a brief period in most cases.

Blind: Blinded enemies have stars over their heads, but can continue to walk. They will not attack unless provoked, as they are unaware of your location.

Confusion: Confusion causes enemies to lose track of friend and foe. Targets that are Confused may attack other foes.

Charmed: Charmed targets will switch allegiances and fight alongside the Hero against the other enemies for a short period. Attacking a Charmed enemy breaks the spell.

Chill: A Chilled enemy moves slowly, but can still move and attack.

Fear: Feared targets lose control and immediately run in the opposite direction of the attacker for a short period. They are unable to attack or change direction until the Fear ends.

Frozen: A Frozen enemy is encased in ice and is unable to move, attack, or cast spells until thawed.

Rooted: Rooted enemies maintain the ability to attack and cast spells, but are temporarily stuck in place.

Silenced: Silenced enemies cannot cast spells, but can move and attack with basic attacks.

Slow: Enemies that are Slowed simply move at a slower pace, making them more susceptible to follow-up attacks.

Stun: A Stunned target is identified by the stars over its head. They cannot move or attack.

YOUR STASH

The chest near the Slaughtered Calf Inn in New Tristram will travel with you not just from town to town, but across all the characters you create on your Battle.net account. The items you place in the stash, as with the gold in your inventory, are shared across all of your characters. This means that you can place class-specific weapons and armor into the stash while playing as one character, start a new character in another class, and retrieve it from the stash. This effectively allows you to put items aside for safe keeping (perfect if you don't yet meet the level requirement) and also share and trade items between multiple characters on your account.

EXPLORING THE MAP

The mini-map in the upper right-hand corner of the screen (press TAB to see a full-screen version) is revealed as you explore the area. It's often worthwhile to fully explore an area and reveal 100% of the map, not only to maximize your chance of stumbling upon an interesting sub-event, but also to ensure that you've encountered all enemies, had the chance to click on all available loot sources, and earned as much XP as you possibly can at that location. The mini-map will remain "painted-in" during your current session, but will revert to the undiscovered state if you leave the game and return to the same area later.

The name of the area you're currently traversing appears directly above the mini-map on the screen. Many areas contain multiple dungeons or small side-areas with their own unique names. Larger areas often fall under the umbrella of a larger regional name, as shown in the Waypoint locations list.

ENTERING BUILDINGS AND DUNGEONS

Click on the sparkling yellow glow to enter an area. This is your cue that a location can be accessed and explored. Blue glowing sparkles indicate optional side-areas (referred to as sub-events throughout our Quest Guide) such as the cellars and wells in the Old Tristram Road area.

SHRINES

Healing Wells and Waypoints are two of the more helpful entities you'll encounter in the game. The third is a Shrine—tall statues that grant 120 seconds of a particular blessing (buff). There are four types of Shrines in the world, but they all look the same: ornate statues taller than the Hero with a gem-like point on top. Each Shrine's buff has a corresponding icon that will appear over the action bar. Mouse over it for a tool-tip and to see how much time remains on the blessing.

Protection Shrine: Damage taken reduced by 25%.

Fortune Shrine: +25% Magic and Gold find.

Frenzied Shrine: +25% Attack Speed.

Shrine of Enlightenment: +25% Experience from enemies.

WAYPOINTS

Once you discover a Waypoint, you can teleport back to that area from any Waypoint. They exist in your town (each Act has a town or camp with a Waypoint) and also throughout many of the areas you visit. Waypoints are arranged within the Waypoint menu by region. For example, both the New Tristram and Old Ruins Waypoints fall under the "Tristram" heading. Although you will eventually possess the ability to summon a Town Portal on command, Waypoints serve as Checkpoints and offer the ability to travel instantly without having to channel the Town Portal.

STATS, FOLLOWERS, AND COOPERATIVE PLAY

The preceding information was presented to help first-time players to become familiar with how the game is played, and also how this guide can help. The remaining portion of this chapter provides a deeper understanding of the game's mechanics.

UNDERSTANDING ATTRIBUTES & STATS

The Hero/Inventory Panel contains information about more than just equipment and potions. It also has all of the data you can ever hope to learn about your Hero's many statistical ratings. The major attributes are shown alongside the equipment panel, but there's much more data beneath the Details button.

MAJOR ATTRIBUTES

Strength: This is the primary attribute for Barbarians. Increases to Strength correspond directly to an increase in overall Armor rating for all classes. Boosts in Strength increase damage by all Barbarian attacks.

Dexterity: This is the primary attribute for Demon Hunters and Monks. Increases in Dexterity correspond directly to an improved Dodge Chance for all classes, as well as increased damage for all Demon Hunter and Monk attacks.

Intelligence: This is the primary attribute for Witch Doctors and Wizards. Increases in Intelligence correspond to improved resistances for all classes and better damage for Witch Doctor and Wizard attacks.

Vitality: Determines the maximum amount of Life—if this value reaches zero, the Hero dies. Each additional point of Vitality increases maximum Life.

Armor: Equip the Hero with protective equipment, gems, and passive skills to increase the Armor rating. Armor reduces all damage from enemies by a set percentage, relative to the Hero's level.

DPS: An abbreviation for damage per second. This number reflects the amount of damage the Hero can inflict per second based on weapons, attributes, attack speed, critical hit chance, critical hit damage percentage, passive skills, and dual-wielding attack speed increases.

ADDITIONAL STATS

Press the Details button on the Inventory Panel to inspect the finer points of each major attribute. As the following descriptions show, each Hero has a multitude of ratings that affect how they perform in combat and exploration. You can mouse over any of the categories for a tooltip explanation of what it means. We elaborate on some of the broader concepts here.

OFFENSE

Damage Increased by Strength/Skills: This refers back to the class's primary attribute rating and its corresponding Damage Bonus. Increase the Damage Bonus by improving the Hero's primary attribute with equipment and gems and by utilizing appropriate passive skills.

Attacks per Second: One of the keys to inflicting greater damage per second (DPS) is to increase the number of attacks per second. This is based on weapon speed (smaller, lighter weapons tend to be quicker), but can also be increased through equipment and buffs.

Critical Hit Chance: Critical Hits deal 50.00% bonus damage, but don't come frequently. Increase the chance of landing a Critical Hit by using equipment and runes that focus on improving this fundamental aspect.

Critical Hit Damage: The amount of bonus damage inflicted during a Critical Hit, expressed as a percentage of base damage. This value begins at 50% and can be improved with runes, gem, and gear.

DEFENSE

Block Amount: The amount of damage prevented whenever an attack is blocked. The block amount can be increased by equipping a better shield.

Block Chance: The Hero will only block damage when a block occurs (just because the Hero may carry a shield doesn't guarantee this). Block chance indicates the likelihood of a block occurring each time the Hero is attacked. Increase the block chance with skills and items.

Dodge Chance: The Hero is also capable of completely dodging an enemy's attack, thereby avoiding all damage from the attack. Dodge Chance reflects the Hero's current percentage chance of a dodge occurring. Increase this rating by improving Dexterity and through the use of equipment and skills.

Damage Reduction: This value is a reflection of the Hero's Armor rating and reveals the current reduction in all damage received by attacks of an enemy of equal level to the Hero. The damage reduction percentage can be increased through Strength enhancements and with equipment and skills.

Resistances: The Hero can gain resistances to each of the five types of elemental damage by increasing the Intelligence attribute and equipping specific skills and items. Protection against Cold, Fire, Lightning, Poison, and Arcane/Holy damage can significantly reduce the damage incurred by a set percentage, based on the enemy's level relative to that of the Hero.

LIFE

Maximum Life: Life is what keeps the Hero alive and is represented by the large red orb in the bottom of the screen. The Hero dies if this Life orb runs dry. Increase the maximum amount of Life by raising the Vitality rating and equipping items and skills that boost Life.

Life Per Second: Heroes may recover Life automatically as they explore the world of Sanctuary. This "Life Regen" value is based on the skills and equipment being used. Heroes do not begin with any Life Regen.

Life Steal: With the right equipment and buffs, the Hero can steal Life from an enemy with each attack. This value indicates the percentage of damage inflicted by the Hero that is recovered as Life.

Life Per Kill: Similar to Life Steal, this bonus allows the Hero to recover a set amount of Life for each deadly blow delivered. Increase the Life Per Kill value with equipment and skills.

Life Per Hit: Even better than Life Per Kill, equipment and skills that grant Life Per Hit allow the Hero to recover Life every time an attack strikes an enemy.

RESOURCE

Maximum Resource: The maximum amount of the Hero's resource available. This value is determined by class and level and can be increased only through the use of very specific skills.

Resource Regenerated Per Second: The amount of resource regenerated every second. The Barbarian and Monk do not begin with any natural resource regeneration, but the other classes regenerate naturally. All classes can raise their resource regeneration with specific skills.

ADVENTURE

Movement Speed: Determines the speed at which the Hero moves relative to the standard rate of movement for that class. Movement speed can be increased through equipment and skills.

Gold Find: Use equipment and skills that increase the amount of gold dropped by monsters or found in chests and other environmental objects. This rating shows the percentage of gold increased above the base value.

Magic Find: This value indicates how more likely the Hero is to find a magical or rare item when opening a chest or killing an enemy. The chance of finding a magical item is dependent on Hero level and class of monster or object/chest, but it can be increased with equipment and skills.

FOLLOWERS

Your journey across Sanctuary doesn't need to be a solo affair. You'll encounter three Followers along the way who will be willing to accompany you if you so choose. These Followers (called Hirelings in previous Diablo games) are NPCs that not only assist in combat, but can level up, be given better equipment, and even learn skills! Of course, you don't need to enlist the help of a Follower if you don't want to, but we mention several key areas throughout our Quest Guide where one can certainly make a tough battle a little easier.

Some things to keep in mind about Followers:

- Right-click the Follower icon in the upper-left corner of the screen to Talk, Hire, Dismiss, or Retrain them.
- Retraining a Follower doesn't come cheap, but it allows you to select new skills.
- You can hire only one Follower at a time. The others will wait for you at camp.
- Each Follower has a specific type of special accessory that can be equipped: Templar Relics, Scoundrel Tokens, and Enchantress Focuses.
- Followers won't die, but they will drop to a knee when drained of Life. They will automatically revive themselves after about 10 seconds.
- Whenever you hire a Follower, he/she will be one level below that of the Hero, but you will likely need to upgrade his/her equipment.
- Followers are healed by health globes that you pick up, but they cannot pick them up on their own. Followers earn XP for enemies they kill, but do not collect gold or pick up equipment.

Stats for all followers is dependent on the items that they are spawned with, which is random. The values listed here are based on Followers without any equipment.

TEMPLAR

The Templar is a melee combatant met in the Cathedral during Act 1. This Follower is an honorable knight of the church who is devoted to being your faithful ally. The Templar can heal the Hero in addition to performing several useful attacks and taunts.

SCOUNDREL

The Scoundrel wields two-handed ranged weapons and has a personality that's the polar opposite of the Templar. The Scoundrel is an excellent marksman that you'll meet in the Fields of Misery. His skills inflict considerable damage, but few will aid you directly like that of the Templar.

Anatomy: Increases Critical Hit Chance by 3% for the Scoundrel and his allies.

ENCHANTRESS

The Enchantress is as naïve as she is powerful, but her innocence of the world around her is not a limitation. The Enchantress is encountered near the entrance to the Sundered Canyon and she'll happily accompany you through the Stinging Winds. She has access to several powerful attacks, as well as buffs that serve to protect the Hero and allies.

Weaponry: Staves, 2-Handed Wands, 2-Handed Axes, 2-Handed Swords, 2-Handed Maces
She may also wield the 1-handed versions of these weapons, but cannot slot an offhand weapon.

Level 30 Skills

Focused Mind: An aura that increases attack speed by 3% for allies within 40 yards.

Mass Control: The Enchantress lobbs a bulb of magical energy at the player that will hex all enemies within 15 yards into chickens for 5 seconds. Hexed enemies are unable to perform offensive actions. Cooldown is 60 seconds.

C⊕⊕PERATIVE PLAY

Followers aren't the only option for sharing the experience with others on your adventure, as Diablo III can be played with up to three additional players. Adding players increases the difficulty, but not so much as to make it more difficult than playing alone. This is especially true on Inferno difficulty, which is designed to be extremely difficult for a solo player.

There is not a perfect way to play cooperatively, as skill selection and battle tactics have to fit each player's style, as well as the group dynamic. Nevertheless, we've made sure to include tips and suggestions for cooperative play throughout this strategy guide. Cooperative play has several key benefits with none of the negatives that people may remember from past experiences.

- Gold and loot drops all occur client-side, thus removing the worry of having another player steal the loot you fought hard to earn. Items dropped from a monster or chest are yours and yours alone. Other players will see a wholly different set of loot.
- Items you remove from your inventory and drop on the ground exist server-side and can be picked up by anyone. Use this ability to pool resources, trade items, and better outfit one another.
- It pays to coordinate skills and play styles to complement one another instead of duplicating each other's efforts.
- Communicate! Let your allies know if you've been downed, are heading back to Town, or if you're waiting for a skill to cooldown or are in need of a potion.
- Work together to gang up on enemies. Lone wolves tend to get themselves killed. Remember that the game scales in difficulty based on the number of players in the game.
- Each player's custom Banner will be positioned near the Waypoint in town. Click an ally's Banner to instantly teleport to their position.
- Revive one another! Not only does this save a player from a lengthy respawn timer from dying multiple times in succession, but it also keeps them in the battle without having to return.
- Call out targets, coordinate skill attacks, and remember your strengths and share them with the team. It's equally important to coordinate trips back to town for crafting and gathering supplies.

BARBARIAN

I tire of the empty battles I once craved. I wander, outcast, while my tribe curses the gods who abandoned us. Our home is in ruins, yet I stand firm.

Six days ago, the falling star struck the town of Tristram. The dead rose in its wake. What evil is this? Could it be what I have sought these long years? A foe worthy of my blade?

This stoic warrior uses tremendous physical strength to crush foes.

- The Barbarian moves aggressively, unleashing a multitude of attacks on enemies.
- Tough and unyielding, Barbarians tower above other warriors, using their rage and physical ability to crush their enemies in close quarters. Their primary attribute is Strength.
- Fury drives the Barbarian's assaults and is generated in the thick of combat by dealing and receiving damage.

HEROIC GROWTH

The Barbarian utilizes brute strength and the natural protection of muscular form in battle. Naturally drawn to close-quarters combat, the Barbarian has less need for the demands of a higher Dexterity rating than some of the other Heroes. A higher Vitality attribute helps to keep the Barbarian alive long enough to land the additional blows needed to make up for the class's reduced dodge chance and low resistances.

THE BARBARIAN GROWS STRONGER

Attribute	Base Rating at Level 1	Initial Value	Rating Increase per Level	Base Rating at Level 60
Strength*	10	10.00% Damage Bonus for Barbarians. Increases armor by 10.	+3	187
Dexterity	8	Increases dodge chance by 0.80%.	+1	67
Intelligence	8	Increases resistances by 0.8.	+1	67
Vitality	9	130 Life.	+2	127

*Indicates primary attribute for this class.

EQUIPPED FOR BATTLE

WEAPONRY

Special: 1H Mighty Weapon, 2H Mighty Weapon

The name alone says it all—Barbarian. The mind fills with images of a hulking brute standing tall in the face of danger, his right hand clutching any manner of bladed instrument, his left hoisting a heavy shield. The Barbarian class is as timeless as Diablo itself—and so is his style of combat.

Like most warriors who lived to see another day, the Barbarian can effectively wield virtually any melee weapon and dual-wield most combinations, as well. Of course, there are trade-offs to consider when choosing how to equip your Barbarian. We recommend opting for the weapon that yields the highest damage-per-second (dps) rating possible early on, whether it be two one-handed swords or a single two-handed axe or blade. Swap these weapons out with more powerful ones as they become available until you either find yourself needing to increase the Hero's armor rating or acquire a shield that is simply too powerful to leave unused.

Unlike some of the other classes, the Barbarian's class-specific weapons—the mighty weapons—tend not to be accessible until the Hero has reached level 6 or higher. Mighty weapons often carry a number of additional properties that make them worth wielding. They bring out the best in the Barbarian.

ARMOR STYLES

The Barbarian's armor addresses the needs of a muscular melee combatant. It focuses on protecting the wearer's vital organs and limbs above all else. After all, a Barbarian is only as strong as the arm that wields the sword. Early Barbarian armor affords little coverage of the abdominal region or legs, instead seeking to protect heart, lungs, and arms. Advanced armor styles cover more of the body in piecemeal fashion, but it is not until Barbarians reach a much higher level and near the completion of their quest that they gain access to head-to-toe coverings. Barbarians prize intimidation over fashion and any adornments and flourishes added are done so for the sole purpose of striking fear in the heart of the opponent.

ABOUT ARMOR STYLES

The following armor appearances serve merely to illustrate what a prototypical Hero might look like at any given level. In reality, the Hero will likely possess multiple styles of armor simultaneously, therefore having a far more unique appearance that blends two or more of the styles displayed here. And upon considering the numerous colors of dyes that are available, it is unlikely that any two Heroes of the same class will look identical.

The Barbarian is unprotected from the elements and enemy attacks alike as the Hero first approaches New Tristram.

Early armor is primitive and consists of little more than cloth and fur, leaving much of the Hero exposed (levels 1-6).

Quilted and woven padding is added to protect the shoulder, head, and forearms (levels 7-13).

Leather adds enhanced protection, while spikes and horns increase the Barbarian's ability to intimidate (levels 14-19).

Chainmail and armor plating protect the Barbarian's vitals and cover much more of the Hero's body (levels 20-24).

Finer quality metal is fabricated into splint and Brigandine style equipment (levels 25-28).

Quality metals and craftsmanship create the Hero's final armor style in Normal difficulty (levels 29-31).

SKILLS & RUNES

The Barbarian's skills are primarily offensive in nature and designed to increase the amount of damage he can inflict on as many enemies as possible. The Barbarian makes his living with close-range combat, but skills such as Weapon Throw and Ancient Spear grant him the ability to launch a ranged attack. Seismic Slam is perhaps the Barbarian's greatest ranged attack, enabling him to damage many enemies at considerable range.

Whereas most other classes have active skills that grant protective auras and healing capabilities in the traditional RPG sense, the Barbarian has neither. Threatening Shout, Ignore Pain, and War Cry are the closest thing the Barbarian has to skills that focus on self-preservation. Players will need to turn to the Barbarian's passive skills when looking for more protection. Better still, focus on equipping armor and runes that provide large Vitality boosts.

RESOURCE: FURY

The Barbarian's skills are fueled by Fury, a resource that ebbs and flows with the rising temper of the Barbarian. He generates 4 Fury by performing standard weapon attacks and 3 or more through the use of skills such as Bash and Ground Stomp. The Barbarian can accumulate a maximum of 100 Fury; however, Fury should not be saved for later. Unlike the other Heroes' resources, Fury gradually drains over time, making it the only resource with a use-it-or-lose-it quality. Fortunately, the passive skill Unforgiving can be assigned to reverse this flow of Fury, granting the Barbarian the ability to slowly generate Fury over time without the need to be in combat. However, this skill is not unlocked until the Hero reaches level 55.

PASSIVE SKILLS

The first passive skill slot unlocks at level 10. Subsequent slots unlock at levels 20 and 30. Once chosen, the following skills contribute to the Hero's strength and abilities in the background, requiring no further player input or resource. Consider your playing style and current assortment of active skills when choosing which passive skills to activate.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

BASH

Brutally smash an enemy for 150% weapon damage with a 20% chance for Knockback.

- Generates 6 Fury per attack.

Bash is available at the start of the Barbarian's quest and is a great alternative to a basic melee attack—there is no cooldown and it generates Fury with each swing. The Barbarian winds up and unleashes a mighty backhand swing of his right-hand weapon that inflicts heavy damage to the enemy directly in front of him. The chance to knock the enemy back not only helps create some breathing room, but also makes this an excellent attack to pair with skills that strike from a slightly greater range, such as Hammer of the Ancients or Leap Attack.

RUNES

Bash is a useful skill early in the Barbarian's quest as it affords the Hero the chance to deal greater damage and gain Fury at the same time. There are many other skills that can inflict heavy damage, but most consume the Barbarian's resource or have a cooldown period. Clobber's ability to Stun the target can prove particularly helpful in later Acts. Clobber a Rare to Stun it while you deal with its Minions. Punish is very helpful against both single-target threats, as well as large groups of enemies, particularly on the higher difficulty settings. Consider opting for Instigation to maximize the Fury gained from this attack, while settling for the base 150% weapon damage and 20% Knockback chance.

Clobber

Unlocked: Level 6

Instead of Knockback, each hit has a 20% chance to Stun the target for 3 seconds.

Onslaught

Unlocked: Level 13

Add 2 reverberations that cause 22% weapon damage per strike. Removes the chance for Knockback.

Punish

Unlocked: Level 26

Each attack increases the damage of all of your skills by 6% for 5 seconds. This effect stacks up to 3 times.

Instigation

Unlocked: Level 44

Generate 6 additional Fury per attack.

Pulverize

Unlocked: Level 52

Causes a shockwave that inflicts 38% weapon damage to enemies in a 26 yard line behind the targeted enemy.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

CLEAVE

Swing your weapon in a wide arc to deal 120% weapon damage to all enemies caught in the swing.

- Generates 5 Fury per attack

The basic Cleave attack essentially replaces the Bash skill in the Barbarian's repertoire. Although it generates one fewer Fury per attack and strikes with slightly less damage, the attack is swung much wider than Bash. Cleave can inflict its damage to numerous enemies. All enemies in a roughly 160-degree arc receive the full impact of the attack.

Cleave won't hit the back row of enemies, so position the Barbarian to strike the maximum number of foes.

RUNES

Players typically opt for Cleave over Bash because they want to hit multiple enemies per swing, a feat made easier with Rupture. Rupture causes victims slain by Cleave to explode and damage all enemies within 8 yards, greatly expanding the base attack's reach! Players with a very high Critical Hit Chance can use Scattering Blast to gain a valuable method of crowd control. Those seeking pure DPS for single-target situations should consider Broad Sweep; being able to control the movement of enemies is extremely important on higher difficulties, particularly against packs of Champion and Rare enemies. Gathering Storm temporarily slows the movement of all enemies struck by the Cleave swing.

Rupture

Unlocked: Level 9

Enemies slain by Cleave explode, causing 85% weapon damage to all other enemies within 8 yards.

Reaping Swing

Unlocked: Level 18

Generate 3 additional Fury per enemy hit.

Scattering Blast

Unlocked: Level 30

On Critical Hits, knock enemies back 9 yards and inflict 60% weapon damage to enemies where they land.

Broad Sweep

Unlocked: Level 47

Increase damage to 156% weapon damage to enemies caught in the swing.

Gathering Storm

Unlocked: Level 55

Enemies cleaved have their movement speed reduced by 80% for 1 second(s).

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

FRENZY

Swing for 110% weapon damage. Frenzy attack speed increases by 15% with each swing. This effect can stack up to 5 times for a total bonus of 75% attack speed.

- Generates 3 Fury per attack

This skill's ability to stack five times for a massive 75% increase in attack speed easily offsets the drop in weapon damage compared to Bash and Cleave. Deploy the Frenzy attack over and over as fast as you can to mercilessly slash at the enemy, all the while generating 3 Fury per swing. This is a great technique to employ while waiting for a more powerful skill to cooldown, especially when fighting a single, powerful foe.

The Barbarian swings with such speed during a Frenzy attack that the weapon becomes just a blur.

RUNES

Many of Frenzy's corresponding runes carry an entertaining element of chance that may be appealing to your style of play and current difficulty level. Triumph heals you for a sizable percentage of your maximum Life whenever Frenzy kills an enemy—continue slashing away until the enemy is dead to guarantee some healing. Triumph is very useful whenever soloing, and the higher your Vitality rating, the more health you're healed! Maniac is perfect for those focused on all-out aggression and a high DPS by adding a stackable boost to your weapon damage. Sidearm yields a one-in-four chance to throw a piercing axe at a nearby enemy that strikes all foes in its path, adding an element of surprise AOE damage to a skill that is primarily geared toward single foes. Relentless yields a boost to the Barbarian's movement speed. This mid-level rune is instrumental in allowing the Barbarian to employ hit-and-run tactics against boss enemies.

Sidearm

Unlocked: Level 17

Each strike has a 25% chance to throw a piercing axe at a nearby enemy that deals 110% weapon damage to all enemies in its path.

Triumph

Unlocked: Level 22

Killing an enemy with Frenzy heals you for 8% of your maximum Life over 6 seconds.

Relentless

Unlocked: Level 34

While under the effects of Frenzy, you gain 15% increased movement speed.

Smite

Unlocked: Level 51

Add a 20% chance to call down a bolt of lightning from above, stunning your target for 2 seconds.

Maniac

Unlocked: Level 59

Each Frenzy effect also increases your damage by 4%.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

HAMMER OF THE ANCIENTS

Call forth a massive hammer to smash enemies directly in front of you for 200% weapon damage. Hammer of the Ancients has a 5% increased chance to critical hit.

- Costs 20 Fury

Despite the low level at which it unlocks, Hammer of the Ancients is a powerful skill that many Barbarians will continue to use deep into the adventure. The relatively low Fury cost and lack of cooldown makes this a perfect skill to deploy in quick succession against tightly spaced enemies or single foes with a large health pool. Later, once you gain level 4, perform Ground Stomp to stun the enemies and gain Fury, hit the weaker foes with basic attacks to accumulate a little more Fury, then target the tougher monsters with two quick Hammer of the Ancients strikes to inflict a total in excess of 500% weapon damage.

The Hammer of the Ancients strikes about one yard in front of the Hero and can damage multiple enemies.

RUNES

Rolling Thunder significantly increases the skill's AOE damage and makes it a top choice against large groups of enemies, particularly on Normal difficulty. Swap in the Smash rune when preparing for a boss battle to gain a tremendous boost to attack damage at the point of impact. This is especially useful against enemies that don't spawn in many minions. The Devil's Anvil and Thunderstrike are both beneficial when crowd-control is your top priority. Consider using either of these runes when playing cooperatively with a Demon Hunter or Monk on Hell or Inferno difficulty. Barbarians boasting a high Critical Hit Chance but limited Vitality and attempting to solo higher difficulties should consider using the Birthright rune to boost their survivability.

Rolling Thunder

Unlocked: Level 7

Create a shockwave that deals 155% weapon damage to all enemies within 22 yards in front of you.

Smash

Unlocked: Level 15

Strike a smaller area for 270% weapon damage.

The Devil's Anvil

Unlocked: Level 27

Create a tremor at the point of impact for 2 seconds that slows the movement speed of enemies by 60%.

Thunderstrike

Unlocked: Level 39

Whenever you kill an enemy with Hammer of the Ancients, every other enemy within 10 yards is stunned for 3 seconds.

Birthright

Unlocked: Level 55

Critical Hits have a 10% chance to cause enemies to drop treasure or health globes.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

REND

A sweeping strike causes all nearby enemies to bleed for 210% weapon damage as Physical over 3 seconds.

- Costs 20 Fury

Rend is perfect for dealing recurring damage over time to multiple enemies. In short, the Barbarian slashes in all directions, inflicting deep wounds to every monster within approximately 9 yards. The gushing blood is your signal that these foes are continuing to suffer continuous weapon damage every second. The speed of the attack combined with the lack of cooldown and relatively low Fury cost make this an excellent skill to use against large mobs, particularly if you have lightweight, fast attacking weapons with high DPS. Slash at the enemies with Cleave, then perform Rend to watch them bleed out while you move on to safety or assail another nearby group.

It doesn't matter how many enemies are within the area of effect; they're all going to bleed!

RUNES

Each of Rend's available runes provides a significant improvement to the base attack and is worth using as it unlocks. Ravage, which substantially increases the range of the base attack, is a high AOE attack that excels in large crowds. Blood Lust returns a portion of damage dealt as Life and can be a font of health for those with a very high DPS rating. Lacerate and Mutilate both increase the damage dealt to enemies struck by Rend. Bloodbath is tough to beat when striking out against large hordes of enemies on Hell and Inferno difficulty. Enemies killed while bleeding will cause all nearby foes to begin bleeding, an effect that chains continuously as long as there are enough enemies.

Ravage

Unlocked: Level 11

Increase the range of Rend to hit all enemies within 14 yards.

Blood Lust

Unlocked: Level 19

Gain 6% of the damage done by Rend as Life.

Lacerate

Unlocked: Level 33

Increase damage to 271% weapon damage as Physical every second for 3 seconds.

Mutilate

Unlocked: Level 45

Increase bleeding duration to 5 seconds.

Bloodbath

Unlocked: Level 56

Enemies killed while bleeding cause all foes within 10 yards to begin bleeding for 60% weapon damage as Physical over 3 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

SEISMIC SLAM

Slam the ground to cause a wave of destruction that deals 155% weapon damage and knockback to targets in a 45-yard arc.

- Costs 30 Fury

Approaching several enemies that are spread out in front of you? If so, this is the skill of choice! Seismic Slam deals considerable damage to all targets up to 45 yards in front of the Barbarian. The quake's waves gradually spread out as they travel away from the Hero, ensuring that even those enemies not directly in front get swept up in the tremor. The addition of knockback ensures that the Barbarian maintains a safe distance and buys adequate time to unleash a follow-up attack.

Seismic Slam is especially useful against shielded foes, enabling the Barbarian to hit them from underfoot!

RUNES

Seismic Slam is a potent AOE attack that blends moderate damage with knockback. Stagger amplifies the skill's utility as a crowd control attack by adding a chance to briefly stun enemies. Shattered Ground provides a dramatic boost to both the DPS and knockback aspects of the skill, making it a valuable rune for even the highest difficulties. Rumble inflicts additional damage after the initial strike, which may just be enough to soften up a group of enemies while you flee to recover. Cracking Rift concentrates the attack along a lengthy, narrow path. This is an excellent choice when fighting through narrow corridors or tackling a boss enemy.

Stagger

Add a 70% chance of stunning enemies for 1.5 seconds.

Shattered Ground

Unlocked: Level 25

Increase damage to 202% weapon damage and boost the knockback by 100%.

Rumble

Unlocked: Level 37

The ground continues to shake after the initial strike, damaging enemies in the area for 30% weapon damage.

Strength from Earth

Unlocked: Level 48

Reduced Fury cost to 15 Fury.

Cracking Rift

Unlocked: Level 57

Focus the seismic shockwaves along a narrow path to inflict 255% weapon damage to targets along a 42-yard path.

ACTIVE SKILL: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

WHIRLWIND

Deliver multiple attacks to everything in your path for 100% weapon damage.

- Costs 16 Fury.

Build up the Barbarian's Fury pool and unleash him like a spinning top into a mob of hellspawn with Whirlwind. The skill drains Fury at a rate of 16 per second, but can be extended for as long as you continue to hold the secondary mouse button or until Fury runs dry. Steer the Barbarian as he spins and slashes his way through the enemy horde. Guide him in a close-range orbit around tougher foes to slice them repeatedly for solid damage. Pair Whirlwind with the Relentless passive skill to give yourself a method of escape when low on Life and Fury.

Whirlwind slashes through enemy defenses and is just as useful against multiple foes as it is loners.

RUNES

The Dust Devils rune increases the AOE damage of Whirlwind through the generation of tornadoes that travel along a random path and inflict damage to enemies beyond the Barbarian's reach. Blood Funnel is perfect for Barbarians with a very high Critical Hit Chance as it helps to restore a small percentage of Life with every Critical Hit. Wind Shear returns Fury with each hit and makes it possible to maintain a lengthy Whirlwind attack (hold the key), especially when paired with the Unforgiving passive skill. Volcanic Eruption increases the damage of the skill by transforming the basic melee attack so that a torrent of magma streams from the Barbarian as he spins.

Dust Devils

Unlocked: Level 24

Generate violent tornadoes that inflict 40% weapon damage to enemies in their path.

Hurricane

Unlocked: Level 29

Increase your movement speed during Whirlwind to your full run speed.

Blood Funnel

Unlocked: Level 37

Critical strikes restore 0.5% of your maximum Life.

Wind Shear

Unlocked: Level 44

Every enemy hit returns 1 Fury.

Volcanic Eruption

Unlocked: Level 59

Turns Whirlwind into a torrent of magma that inflicts 130% weapon damage.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

GROUND STOMP

Smash the ground, stunning all enemies within 12 yards for 4 seconds.

- Generates 15 Fury
- Cooldown 12 seconds.

Ground Stomp is an excellent skill to use when facing a large number of enemies, especially when you need to buy yourself a little time. Although its rune-less form doesn't inflict any damage, it impacts all enemies within the specified radius simultaneously and has a 100% chance to stun. Perform Ground Stomp in the thick of the enemy throng, then move to the perimeter of the group and launch your follow-up attacks. Ground Stomp is an ideal way to generate Fury at low levels, and the cooldown period in no way detracts from the skill's usefulness.

The stars above a monster's head indicate that they're stunned.

RUNES

Ground Stomp is the Barbarian's primary enemy-control skill and each of the runes can be used to boost the effects. Deafening Crash slows affected enemies for several seconds after the stun effects wear off, thus yielding a total of 7 seconds of movement control! Wrenching Smash is ideal for battling numerous enemies in open spaces, as it draws enemies in before impact and doubles the AOE radius. Trembling Stomp adds weapon damage to the skill, but not necessarily enough to outweigh the increased movement control of the other runes. Consider using Trembling Stomp in narrower areas or when you have companions who either want to focus on pure DPS or have other movement control skills. Avalanche knocks back foes and deals weapon damage to enemies in the area where they land—this is a great rune to slot when you are focused on survivability as it instantly creates breathing room for a cornered Barbarian.

Deafening Crash

Unlocked: Level 12

Enemies in the area have their movement speed slowed by 60% for 3 seconds after they recover from being stunned.

Wrenching Smash

Unlocked: Level 18

Increase the area of effect to 24 yards. Enemies are pulled closer before the strike lands.

Trembling Stomp

Unlocked: Level 28

Enemies in the area also take 76% weapon damage.

Foot of the Mountain

Unlocked: Level 40

Increase Fury gained to 30.

Avalanche

Unlocked: Level 54

Knock back targets 12 yards and inflict 55% weapon damage to enemies in the landing area.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

LEAP

"Leap into the air, dealing 85% weapon damage to all enemies within 8 yards of your destination and slowing their movement speed by 60% for 3 seconds."

- Generates 15 Fury
- Cooldown 10 seconds

The Barbarian's bulky frame and heavy armor do little to impede the Hero's leaping ability. The Barbarian can quickly vault high into the air and strike the ground with a force powerful enough to inflict 85% damage on all enemies nearby. Not only can this skill be used to rapidly close the gap on a distant cluster of foes, but it can also be used to escape a dire situation. Leap needn't only be used for offense—use this skill to bound over a suffocating mass of enemies to freedom. Leap can be used to generate Fury (must strike an enemy), but the cooldown period limits its effectiveness as a pure Fury generating skill.

This valuable skill can be used to attack groups of enemies or to escape a dangerous situation.

RUNES

Leap Attack is unique in that it can be used to both launch the Barbarian into the fray and also provide him with a means of escape. When slotting a rune, consider whether you're playing alone or cooperatively. In the former situation, you'll be using it primarily as a means of escape; while in the latter case, it can help you in traditional Barbarian "tanking" duty. Death From Above actually aids both uses as it stuns those enemies around the landing area. Call of Arreat draws enemies toward the Barbarian upon landing the attack and can be used to rescue an overwhelmed teammate (or maximize the payoff for a follow-up AOE attack). Leap into the thick of the action with Toppling Impact slotted to send enemies crashing into one another, leaving a nice clear space in which to operate. Iron Impact is an excellent rune for solo players and tanking co-op players. Use its tremendous Armor boost to ensure a safe escape when fleeing a sticky situation, or to absorb enemy attacks while your ranged companions attack from afar.

Iron Impact

Unlocked: Level 14
Gain 300% additional Armor for 4 seconds after landing.

Launch

Unlocked: Level 21
Jump into the air with such great force that enemies within 8 yards from the origin of the jump are also slowed by 60% for 3 seconds.

Toppling Impact

Unlocked: Level 32
Send enemies hurtling 20 yards into other nearby foes, who suffer 15% weapon damage and are pushed back in a chain up to 2 times.

Call of Arreat

Unlocked: Level 44
Shockwaves burst forth from the ground, increasing the radius of effect to 16 yards and pulling affected enemies toward you.

Death From Above

Unlocked: Level 60
Land with such force that enemies have a 100% chance to be stunned for 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SPRINT

Increase movement speed by 40% for 3 seconds.

- Costs 20 Fury

Enemies can't hit what they can't catch! Use Sprint to escape devastating enemies and quickly flee to Healing Wells or the safety of your allies when necessary. The Barbarian may not look like a fast mover, but he can outrun all but the fastest of foes with the Sprint ability. Activate the skill for an unimpeded four seconds of increased movement speed (though he can be stunned). This can also come in handy when chasing after a pesky Treasure Goblin!

The red glow behind the Barbarian is your cue that the Sprint effect is still active.

RUNES

There are unique options to consider when selecting a rune for Sprint. Rush enhances the skill's suitability as an escape mechanism by increasing dodge chance during the Sprint. Dash away from your enemies with Run Like the Wind slotted to leave a trail of tornadoes in your wake. Gangway turns Sprint into a skill approaching the Monk's Tempest Rush, knocking enemies back and dealing moderate damage in the process. Lastly, Forced March is the ideal rune to slot during co-op play, particularly if you're playing with other Barbarians or a Monk as it increases the movement speed of nearby allies. This is particularly helpful for enemies engaging in hit-and-run tactics.

Rush

Unlocked: Level 23
Increase dodge chance by 12% while sprinting.

Run Like the Wind

Unlocked: Level 29
Tornadoes rage in the wake of the Sprint, each one inflicting 60% weapon damage.

Marathon

Unlocked: Level 38
Increase the movement speed bonus to 50% for 5 seconds.

Gangway

Unlocked: Level 46
Slam through enemies, knocking them back and inflicting 25% weapon damage.

Forced March

Unlocked: Level 53
Increase the movement speed of allies within 50 yards by 20% for 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

IGNORE PAIN

Reduce all damage taken by 65% for 5 seconds.

- Cooldown 30 seconds

Stuck in a tough fight and running low on Health Potions? Ignore Pain can be the difference between surviving a perilous encounter and winding up dead. The three seconds the effect lasts may not sound like much, but it's often long enough to withstand the enemy's best shot and help you get to that next Health Globe or stay alive until your Health Potion cooldown is over. Ignore Pain has no Fury cost, but does have a moderately long cooldown. Save it for when you really need it, and not a moment sooner!

The ghostly wooden shields that orbit the Barbarian are your indicator that the effect is still active.

RUNES

Ignore Pain serves an important role for the Barbarian, a veritable escape hatch through which he can elude what may otherwise be certain death. Iron Hide nearly doubles the effect's duration and really comes in handy when confronting packs of Champion and Rare enemies. Slot Ignorance is Bliss and quickly perform powerful attacks such as Earthquake or Seismic Slam while Ignore Pain is active to recover a portion of the damage dealt as Life. This pairing allows the Barbarian to protect, heal, and attack himself all at once. Mob Rule is worth slotting when playing alongside another front-line combatant such as the Templar, a Monk, or another Barbarian. Contempt for Weakness reflects half of the ignored damage back at the enemy and is particularly useful in crowds when individual attacks are much harder to maneuver around than those of single targets or boss enemies.

Bravado

Unlocked: Level 26

When activated, knockback all enemies within 12 yards and deal 50% weapon damage to them.

Iron Hide

Unlocked: Level 31

Increase duration to 7 seconds.

Ignorance is Bliss

Unlocked: Level 36

While Ignore Pain is active, gain 20% of all damage dealt as Life.

Mob Rule

Unlocked: Level 43

Extend the effect to nearby allies, reducing damage taken by 65% for 3 seconds.

Contempt for Weakness

Unlocked: Level 58

Reflect 50% of ignored damage back at the enemy.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): MIGHT

ANCIENT SPEAR

Throw a spear to pull an enemy back toward you, briefly slowing the target's movement by 60% and dealing 185% weapon damage.

- Generates 15 Fury
- Cooldown 10 seconds

Ancient Spear allows the Barbarian to toss a magical spear that not only damages the enemy, but also pulls it back toward the Barbarian's position and slows its movement. This is a valuable ability when you're trying to maintain a specific position, whether it's within an ally's aura or a tactically advantageous location. Perhaps the best part of Ancient Spear is that it generates 15 Fury. Use it to retrieve a distant enemy, then strike with a powerful follow-up skill, such as Hammer of the Ancients or Rend. This is particularly useful against summoners and other enemies that try to keep their distance.

Target a ranged enemy off in the distance, then reel the foe in for a follow-up attack.

RUNES

Grappling Hooks allows the Barbarian to pull three enemies back at once and is useful against groups of ranged enemies, or when needing to quickly yank several enemies away from a Demon Hunter, Witch Doctor, or Wizard companion. Dread Spear is another rune that can be slotted to boost the Barbarian's self-reliance. With Dread Spear slotted, the more damage the Barbarian inflicts, the more Life he is returned! Harpoon makes it possible to draw multiple foes toward the Barbarian with a single spear. This is particularly useful when enemies are funneling through a narrow chokepoint and you want to make sure some enemies block the opening before a tougher foe enters. Rage Flip is extremely helpful on Inferno mode, especially when trying to keep a single tough monster at a distance while you deal with lesser adversaries. Rage Flip deals heavy damage and pulls the targeted enemy away from the Barbarian!

Grappling Hooks

Unlocked: Level 15

Throw 3 spears. Each one pulls back the enemy it hits.

Skirmish

Unlocked: Level 23

Increases Fury gained to 30.

Dread Spear

Unlocked: Level 32

Gain Life equal to 60% of the damage inflicted.

Harpoon

Unlocked: Level 39

Pierce through multiple enemies in a straight line and drag them all back.

Rage Flip

Unlocked: Level 49

Enemies hit with Ancient Spear are pulled in the opposite direction and damage is increased to 213% weapon damage.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): MIGHT

REVENGE

Inflict 220% weapon damage to all nearby enemies. You heal 5.0% of your maximum Life for each enemy hit. Revenge has a 15% chance to become active each time you are hit.

Revenge neither requires nor generates Fury and it has no cooldown. Instead, this powerful skill has a 15% chance of becoming active each time the Barbarian is struck by an enemy. Revenge can be a true lifesaver in tough battles against large numbers of enemies, not only for the extra damage the attack inflicts, but also for the 5.0% Life gained for each foe hit when you unleash the attack. The downside to this is that players must pay close attention to the action bar to see when it becomes active. This is a very valuable skill when taking on the hordes of hellspawn on Hell and Inferno difficulties!

The Barbarian whirls around quickly and strikes all enemies within 8 yards for 220% weapon damage.

RUNES

Vengeance is Mine extends the Barbarian's survivability when wading into the thick of an enemy horde. Revenge is more likely to become active when there are more enemies striking the Hero and this rune not only returns more Life per enemy hit, but also generates a small amount of Fury to help power other skills. Slot the Best Served Cold rune and slash out at your enemies with a higher Critical Hit Chance. The Life gained by activating Revenge with Best Served Cold slotted can help you maintain position alongside the mass of hellspawn. Grudge aids by knocking all nearby enemies back a considerable distance, a feat that can prove helpful in times of self-rescue! Provocation doubles the chance Revenge becomes active when struck by an enemy. This is particularly valuable when tanking for co-op partners on Inferno difficulty—keep an eye on the action bar and your finger on the button!

Vengeance is Mine

Unlocked: Level 19
Gain 5 Fury each time Revenge is used and improve Life gained from each enemy hit to 8%.

Best Served Cold

Unlocked: Level 25
After using Revenge, your critical strike chance is increased by 10% for 12 seconds.

Retribution

Unlocked: Level 36
Increase damage to 286% weapon damage.

Grudge

Unlocked: Level 41
Knock enemies back 24 yards whenever Revenge is used.

Provocation

Unlocked: Level 52
Increase the chance Revenge will become active to 30% each time you are hit by an attack.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): MIGHT FURIOUS CHARGE

Rush forward, knocking back enemies and inflicting 195% weapon damage to enemies along the path of the charge. Generates Fury only if you hit an enemy.

- Generates 15 Fury
- Cooldown 10 seconds

Furious Charge is a potent attack that can quickly close the gap between you and a target while damaging and knocking back any enemies encountered during the charge. It generates 15 Fury and has a brief cooldown. If the Barbarian already has at least some Fury on hand, then unleash Furious Charge and follow it with a pair of Hammer of the Ancients attacks to obliterate the enemies just struck. This two-pronged attack works extremely well, especially with a higher starting pool of Fury—perform three Hammer strikes, then another Furious Charge or Leap Attack to keep the chain going.

The Barbarian dashes forward and sweeps her arms back upon contact to knock the enemies astray.

RUNES

Battering Ram is an excellent option for those focused on generating as much DPS as possible with the attack. Move within several yards of a group of enemies before unleashing the attack. Merciless Assault can reduce the entirety of the skill's cooldown if the enemies are plentiful and tightly grouped. String consecutive Furious Charges together to quickly advance and retreat in and out of the enemy's reach. Bull Rush adds another layer of crowd control to the skill, but only for those with a very high Critical Hit Chance. This is worth considering once you've acquired gear and gems that yield at least a 35% Critical Hit Chance; otherwise, opt for another rune. Juggernaut is particularly useful on Inferno difficulty when self-preservation is of the utmost importance. This rune gives the Barbarian a much-needed method of healing himself, thereby freeing his teammates to focus on dishing out DPS.

Battering Ram

Increase damage at the destination to 283% weapon damage.

Merciless Assault

Unlocked: Level 33
Cooldown is reduced by 2 seconds for every target hit. This effect can reduce the cooldown by up to 10 seconds.

Stamina

Unlocked: Level 38
Generate 8 Fury for each target hit while charging.

Bull Rush

Unlocked: Level 47
Any targets that are critically hit by Furious Charge will be stunned for 2.5 seconds.

Juggernaut

Unlocked: Level 56
Regain 8% of your maximum Life for each target hit by Furious Charge.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): MIGHT

OVERPOWER

Deal 165% weapon damage to all targets within 9 yards. If Overpower scores a critical hit, there's a change to lower the cooldown to 1 second.

- Cooldown 15 seconds

This skill, like Revenge, requires no Fury and may not even have a cooldown, but it does require the player to pay careful attention to the action bar and/or damage values. Quickly activate the skill to press the advantage and unleash a spinning attack that deals considerable damage to all nearby enemies. Given the skill's lack of cooldown should it land a critical hit, this is best saved for Heroes with a high Critical Hit Chance. Wait until you notice the Barbarian readily landing critical hits before assigning the corresponding action bar slot with Overpower. Although you may prefer turning off damage numbers in the game options screen, it pays to leave critical hit damage numbers enabled—watch for the yellow digits!

Quickly activate Overpower after landing a critical hit to inflict heavy damage on all nearby enemies.

RUNES

Overpower is designed to be used as an AOE attack against large crowds of enemies, but the rune you choose can shift it to a more offensive or defensive skill. Revel aids the Barbarian in his role as the group's tank, allowing him to wade into battle, activate Overpower after taking significant damage, and be instantly healed. Those with an already high Critical Hit Chance can effectively chain Overpower with the help of Killing Spree. The rune's boost to Critical Hit Chance extends for several seconds, providing multiple chances to reset the skill's cooldown and instantly activate it again! Momentum can prove helpful against Champion packs, as it stands to instantly generate enough Fury to fuel Wrath of the Berserker or Call of the Ancients. Crushing Advance straddles the line between offense and defense, but should only be used against packs of melee enemies—it will not help you against archers and other ranged foes!

Storm of Steel

Unlocked: Level 29
Throw up to 3 axes at nearby enemies, inflicting 50% weapon damage each.

Killing Spree

Unlocked: Level 34
Your chance to Critical Hit is increased by 10% for 6 seconds.

Crushing Advance

Unlocked: Level 42
Reflect 30% of incoming melee damage for 4 seconds after Overpower is activated.

Momentum

Unlocked: Level 48
Overpower generates 12 Fury for every enemy hit.

Revel

Unlocked: Level 59
Heal 8% of your maximum Life for every enemy hit.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): TACTICS

WEAPON THROW

Hurl a throwing weapon at an enemy for 120% weapon damage and Slow the movement of the enemy by 60% for 2 seconds.

- Costs 10 Fury

Weapon Throw can be used regardless of the weapon currently being used by the Barbarian, as the weapon thrown by the skill is not the one currently being wielded by the Hero. This skill gives the Barbarian an important ranged attack against Plagued, Molten, and Electrified enemies who are otherwise hazardous up close. Not only can Weapon Throw strike a single enemy several yards away, but this skill also slows the enemy's movement for several seconds, creating the perfect opportunity to target another foe with the same attack and buy even more time before being surrounded. Target the tougher foes with Weapon Throw to slow their approach, then set about slaughtering the weaker monsters.

Weapon Throw gives the Barbarian a valuable ranged attack to use against enemies outside melee range.

RUNES

The biggest limitation in the Weapon Throw skill is that it hits only one enemy. For that reason alone, it's hard to go against Ricochet as it causes the weapon to ricochet and hit additional enemies. Throwing Hammer replaces the throwing axe with a hammer and yields a very high chance to briefly stun the target, yielding another crowd control option. Stupefy is another attractive option for Weapon Throw, as it carries a chance to Confuse the targeted foe into attacking other monsters if it hits the target's head. Stupefy is particularly worthwhile when fending off a pack of Champion enemies. Dread Bomb completely transforms the skill into an AOE juggernaut at the expense of your entire Fury pool!

Mighty Throw

Unlocked: Level 21
Increase thrown weapon damage to 155% weapon damage.

Ricochet

Unlocked: Level 25
Cause the weapon to ricochet and hit up to 3 targets within 20 yards of each other.

Throwing Hammer

Unlocked: Level 33
Hurl a hammer with a 75% chance to Stun the target for 2 seconds.

Stupefy

Unlocked: Level 42
Aim for the head, gaining a 20% chance of causing your target to become confused and attack other enemies for 6 seconds.

Dread Bomb

Unlocked: Level 54
Expend all remaining Fury to throw a corpse that inflicts an additional 3% weapon damage for each point of Fury expended to all enemies within 12 yards of the target.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): TACTICS

THREATENING SHOUT

Shout with great ferocity, reducing damage done by enemies within 25 yards by 20% for 15 seconds.

- Costs 15 Fury
- Cooldown 15 seconds

Being successful in battle isn't always about maximizing the damage you inflict; it can be just as valuable to lessen the attack power of your enemies. Threatening Shout does exactly that for all foes within 25 yards, thus making it that much safer for a lone Barbarian to wade into a violent mob. Threatening Shout has a 15-second cooldown, so use it as often as you can if there are still a lot of enemies nearby (or if you're low on health and potions).

The red waves of Threatening Shout frighten all enemies within 25 yards.

RUNES

Reducing the damage enemies can inflict is only half the battle; it's also important to control their movement and attack whenever possible. Falter slows enemy attack speed for several seconds, allowing the Barbarian to stand toe-to-toe with the affected and suffer fewer blows. Intimidate slows the movement of all affected enemies substantially, making it possible for even the rather heavy-footed Barbarian to employ hit-and-run tactics. Those playing cooperatively can use Demoralize to easily "taunt" enemies away from their teammates by forcing the affected enemies to focus their attacks on the Barbarian. Terrify yields a 35% chance that enemies will briefly flee the area. Although temporary, any chance to scare off a few enemies can go a long way in aiding your survival, especially when dealing with a pack of Champions.

Intimidate

Unlocked: Level 23

Affected enemies also have their movement speed reduced by 30%.

Falter

Unlocked: Level 28

Affected enemies also have their attack speed reduced by 15% for 5 seconds.

Grim Harvest

Unlocked: Level 37

Enemies are badly shaken and have a 15% chance to drop additional treasure.

Demoralize

Unlocked: Level 43

Affected enemies are also taunted to attack you for 3 seconds.

Terrify

Unlocked: Level 57

Enemies are severely demoralized. Each enemy has a 35% chance to flee for 2.5 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): TACTICS

BATTLE RAGE

Enter a rage that increases damage by 15% and critical hit chance by 3% for 30 seconds.

- Costs 20 Fury

Battle Rage is worth deploying at the start of a tougher fight, whether against multiple Champion enemies or a Rare and its minions. The effect applies to basic attacks and skills alike. For example, a weapon that inflicts 20 damage will deal 23 damage when Battle Rage is active. Perform Hammer of the Ancients while that weapon is equipped to strike for 46 damage. This may not sound like much, but the Barbarian can land a lot of attacks in a 30-second span, and that doesn't include the increased chance of scoring a critical hit. Best of all, the relatively low Fury cost makes it possible to keep Battle Rage going virtually indefinitely when paired with Fury-generating skills.

The Barbarian glows red when entering Battle Rage.

RUNES

Battle Rage is the first true "buff" to unlock for the Barbarian and yields a boost to damage and critical hit chance. Most of the skill's accompanying runes yield the chance for bonus effect to occur if a critical hit occurs, but the odds are unknown. The relatively low Fury cost of Battle Rage makes slotting Ferocity unnecessary once additional runes become unlocked. Into the Fray yields the chance to generate additional Fury, almost enough to recast Battle Rage. Bloodshed yields the chance for critical hits to cause an explosion of blood that deals damage to all other nearby enemies. As attractive as these options may be, it's hard to beat a sure thing. Marauder's Rage doubles Battle Rage's damage bonus—an effect you can count on!

Marauder's Rage

Unlocked: Level 26

Increase damage bonus to 30%.

Ferocity

Unlocked: Level 31

While under the effects of Battle Rage, critical hits have a chance to increase the duration of Battle Rage by 2 seconds.

Swords to Ploughshares

Unlocked: Level 38

While under the effects of Battle Rage, critical hits have up to a 5% chance to cause enemies to drop additional health globes.

Into the Fray

Unlocked: Level 46

While under the effects of Battle Rage, critical hits have a chance to generate 15 additional Fury.

Bloodshed

Unlocked: Level 54

While under the effects of Battle Rage, critical hits have a chance to cause an explosion of blood, dealing 20% of the damage done to all other nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): TACTICS

WAR CRY

Unleash a rallying cry to increase Armor for you and all allies within 30 yards by 20% for 60 seconds.

- Generates 30 Fury
- Cooldown 30 seconds

It's hard to beat a full minute of protection for you and your allies—Followers or human co-op partners. War Cry generates a moderate amount of Fury and has a short cooldown of just 30 seconds, despite +20% armor rating (or 40% w/ Hardened Wrath Rune) of the Barbarian and all nearby allies! Use War Cry when heading into battle against Champion or Rare monsters, or when preparing to tackle a particularly difficult dungeon. Make your teammates aware that you're going to use War Cry so they know to move closer to the Barbarian's position.

War Cry doesn't damage nearby enemies; the blue waves that spread out double the armor rating of nearby allies.

RUNES

Hardened Wrath doubles the Armor bonus for you and your nearby allies while War Cry is active—be sure to gather your companions around you before activating it. Invigorate goes a long way toward increasing the Barbarian's survivability when he's in the thick of the fray. This rune increases maximum Life and heals a moderate amount of HP per second throughout the duration of War Cry. The only thing better than taking reduced damage is not being hit at all; Veteran's Warning grants a sizable dodge bonus to the Barbarian during the length of War Cry. Impunity is worth slotting if your equipped gear doesn't yield high resistances. The higher resistances that Impunity affords will come in handy on Hell and Inferno difficulty when so many enemies have multiple affixes that deal elemental damage.

Hardened Wrath

Unlocked: Level 32
Increase the Armor bonus to 40%.

Charge!

Unlocked: Level 35
Increase Fury gained to 60.

Invigorate

Unlocked: Level 41
Increase maximum Life by 10% and regenerate 43 Life per second while affected by War Cry.

Veteran's Warning

Unlocked: Level 49
War Cry also grants 15% dodge bonus.

Impunity

Unlocked: Level 60
All of your resistances are increased by 50% while affected by War Cry.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): RAGE

EARTHQUAKE

Shake the ground violently, dealing 2000% weapon damage as Fire over 8 seconds to all enemies within 18 yards.

- Costs 50 Fury
- Cooldown 120 seconds

Earthquake is more than an upgrade of the Seismic Slam skill. This powerful area attack deals prolonged devastating damage to all enemies within 18 yards of the Hero (the attack radiates out in all directions). The sustained jolt deals enough damage over time to equate to hitting each enemy 16 times! This is not only the Barbarian's most powerful AOE attack, but it's also an excellent method of crowd control. The skill's protracted cooldown mandates that you use it only when necessary!

The ground ruptures with volcanic force when the Earthquake skill is triggered.

RUNES

Giant's Stride is the first of several runes to unlock that add secondary tremors to the Earthquake skill. Giant's Stride allows you to guide the tremors with your movement, either leading them toward or away from harm. Chilling Earth is an excellent rune to slot on higher difficulties and when dealing with fast-moving melee enemies, as it significantly slows their movement and is a top-shelf method of crowd control. The Mountain's Call increases the frequency at which you can trigger Earthquake and removes the Fury cost—something to consider if you'd rather not slot the Unforgiving passive skill. The Aftershocks rune maintains the shape and form of the skill, but adds secondary tremors that inflict knockback and inflict Fire damage. This is helpful in wide-open areas where you're more likely to be surrounded. Path of Fire is similar to Aftershocks (minus the knockback), but directs the tremors ahead of the Barbarian, thus making it more suitable for interiors and narrow spaces.

Giant's Stride

Unlocked: Level 24
Secondary tremors follow your movement and inflict 65% weapon damage as Fire.

Chilling Earth

Unlocked: Level 29
Create an icy patch, causing Earthquake's damage to turn cold and slow the movement of enemies by 80%.

The Mountain's Call

Unlocked: Level 39
Remove the Fury cost and reduce the cooldown to 105 seconds.

Aftershocks

Unlocked: Level 50
Secondary tremors knock enemies back and inflict 65% weapon damage as Fire.

Path of Fire

Unlocked: Level 56
Project secondary tremors up to 12 yards ahead of you that inflict 65% weapon damage as Fire.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): RAGE

CALL OF THE ANCIENTS

Summon the ancient Barbarians Talic, Korlic, and Madawc to fight alongside you for 15 seconds. Each deals 60% weapon damage per swing in addition to bonus abilities. Talic wields a sword and shield and uses the Whirlwind skill. Korlic wields a massive polearm and uses the Cleave skill. Madawc dual-wields axes and utilizes the Weapon Throw skill.

- Costs 50 Fury
- Cooldown 120 seconds

This high level skill is one of the most impressive ones the Barbarian can learn and is worth every bit of its exceptional Fury cost. Call of the Ancients summons three golden Barbarians to fight alongside the Hero, each with a different weapon and skill. Talic, Korlic, and Madawc don't generate or consume Fury, but that doesn't stop them from attacking with the Whirlwind, Cleave, and Weapon Throw skill—all the while leaving you to focus on other enemies. Keep in mind the lengthy cooldown—8x the length of their active period—and only trigger this skill when there are enough enemies nearby to make it worthwhile.

The arrival of the Ancients is a sight to behold!

RUNES

Duty to the Clan increases the duration that the Ancients fight alongside you, but note that they can still perish in battle. Watch your Ancients closely to see if they are getting killed or survive to the end of the skill's effect before using a rune that will extend their stay. Korlic's Might is advantageous against smaller groups of tough enemies and in tighter spaces. Madawc's Madness deals less damage than Korlic's Might, but stands to impact a larger number of enemies. Talic's Anger deals the most damage of all the runes for Call of the Ancients and is useful against Champion packs and isolated single targets, as well as boss enemies.

The Council Rises

Unlocked: Level 31
The Ancients inflict 66% weapon damage with each attack and have 100% additional armor.

Duty to the Clan

Unlocked: Level 37
Increase duration to 20 seconds.

Korlic's Might

Unlocked: Level 45
Korlic gains the skill Furious Charge, which deals 200% of your weapon damage to all enemies in a line.

Madawc's Madness

Unlocked: Level 51
Madawc gains the skill Seismic Slam, which deals 180% of your weapon damage to enemies in an arc.

Talic's Anger

Unlocked: Level 58
Talic gains the skill Leap Attack, which deals 250% of your weapon damage to enemies in the area of the leap.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): RAGE

WRATH OF THE BERSERKER

Enter a berserker rage, raising several attributes for 15 seconds: Critical Hit +10%, Attack Speed +25%, Dodge Chance +20%, Movement Speed +20%.

- Costs 50 Fury
- Cooldown 120 seconds

The last skill to unlock for the Barbarian is also the most devastating. Wrath of the Berserker provides significant increases to all of the Barbarian's key combat attributes. It lasts only 15 seconds, but the Barbarian will run faster, dodge more attacks, strike quicker, and land many more critical hits during this time. The Hero effectively becomes an ultimate warrior. Unleash the Barbarian's inner wrath and go for the kill, beat a path to safety, or to simply enjoy the sheer power of going berserk!

Wrath of the Berserker completely changes the Barbarian's appearance, making him wildly more intimidating than usual.

RUNES

Arreat's Wail is ideal for multiple enemies when trying to balance DPS with survivability. The huge increase in attack damage and addition of Knockback make it possible to escape almost any situation. Barbarians with a very high Critical Hit Chance can use the Slaughter rune to add a damaging AOE component to the skill. Activate Wrath of the Berserker and begin using other skill/rune pairings that boost Critical Hit Chance to cause a number of explosions. Striding Giant triples the increased dodge bonus, effectively giving enemies a mere 40% chance of landing an attack while Wrath of the Berserker is active. Slot Thrive on Chaos along with other skills and runes that maximize your Fury generation to gain an extra second of berserker rage for every 25 Fury generated. One option is to activate War Cry (with the Charge! rune selected) to instantly gain enough Fury to extend Wrath of the Berserker by 2 seconds. Other options include Bash with the Instigate rune and Ancient Spear with the Skirmish rune.

Arreat's Wail

Unlocked: Level 36
Activating Wrath of the Berserker knocks back all enemies within 12 yards and deals 430% weapon damage to them.

Insanity

Unlocked: Level 40
While active, your damage is also increased by 100%.

Slaughter

Unlocked: Level 46
Landing a critical hit while Wrath of the Berserker is active has a chance to cause an explosion of blood, dealing 155% weapon damage to all enemies within 15 yards.

Striding Giant

Unlocked: Level 52
Increase the bonus dodge chance granted to 60%.

Thrive on Chaos

Unlocked: Level 60
Every 25 Fury gained while Wrath of the Berserker is active adds 1 second to the duration of the effect.

PASSIVE SKILL

POUND OF FLESH

Increases the chance of finding a Health Globe by 25% and you gain 100% additional Life from health globes.

It may not seem like much, but a 25% increase in Health Globe drop chance can really make a difference when battling a Rare monster and its minions. Nevertheless, it's hard to recommend this skill over Ruthless for general exploration and questing when first reaching level 10 unless you have low Vitality or zero Life Regen. Pound of Flesh is useful against boss enemies and Rares, especially if you are low on potions and have no other means of healing.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

PASSIVE SKILL

RUTHLESS

Critical hit chance increased by 5%. Critical hit damage increased by 50%.

Heroes with a high Critical Hit Chance should certainly consider equipping Ruthless in one of their passive skill slots. This skill significantly increases the damage done by landing a critical hit. Even if only one of every 8 or more blows lands for a critical hit, it's still worth it, especially when using the Frenzy skill. Furthermore, the 5% increase to Critical Hit Chance makes a more pronounced difference if you already have a high rating to begin with.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

PASSIVE SKILL

NERVES OF STEEL

Your Armor is increased by 100% of your Vitality.

Nerves of Steel is an excellent skill to slot during boss fights and if your equipped gear has yielded boosts to Vitality instead of Armor. Heroes with very high Vitality ratings will gain the largest benefit from this skill. Those with high Armor and a very high Vitality rating may use Nerves of Steel in lieu of runes that focus on returning damage as Life in favor of one that inflicts greater damage.

UNLOCKED
lvl 13

PASSIVE SKILL

WEAPONS MASTER

Gain a bonus based on the weapon type of your main hand weapon. Swords/Daggers: +15% increased damage. Maces/Axes: +10% chance to critical hit. Polearms/Spears: +10% attack speed. Mighty Weapons: +3 Fury per hit.

Weapons Master provides a modest bonus based on the weapon in the Hero's right hand. Although this skill also applies to those wielding a two-handed weapon (or dual wielding), it's particularly useful when using a weapon-and-shield combination. Carrying a shield often comes at the slight expense of offensive power, depending on the weapon the Hero is using. This skill helps to offset what you may be giving up. It's important to note that the bonus is an increase to your existing rating—a 10% increase to Critical Hit Chance can lift your 5% rating to a desirable 15%!

UNLOCKED
lvl 16

PASSIVE SKILL

BERSERKER RAGE

Inflict an additional 25% damage while at maximum Fury.

Despite yielding an impressive 25% damage boost, the conditions for which Berserker Rage's effects come into play are quite rare. Unless equipped with the Unforgiving passive skill, the Barbarian is unlikely to remain at maximum Fury for long. Especially given the tempting nature of his many attack skills. Slot this skill alongside the Unforgiving passive skill after reaching level 29 and only if you tend to rely on attacks that generate Fury rather than consume it.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

PASSIVE SKILL

INSPIRING PRESENCE

The duration of your shouts is doubled. While benefitting from your War Cry or Battle Rage, you regenerate 1% of your maximum Life per second. Your shouts are Battle Rage, Threatening Shout, and War Cry.

Inspiring Presence can be particularly useful if you use any of the three shouts often. Doubling the length of time enemies attack with less power (Threatening Shout), your attacks are enhanced (Battle Rage) or you and your allies have increased armor (War Cry) not only turns a difficult battle in your favor, but also helps the party conserve Health Potions. It is almost unthinkable to not slot this skill along with War Cry when tackling Hell or Inferno difficulty modes with a party.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

PASSIVE SKILL

BLOODTHIRST

Gain 3% of all damage done as Life.

UNLOCKED
lvl 24

Bloodthirst is a good skill to use if you're having trouble staying alive due to less-than-optimal Armor and Strength ratings, particularly for those who are eschewing a shield in favor of dual-wielding. It's often worth slotting Bloodthirst prior to any boss battles. Small green HP numbers will appear on the screen to indicate how much Life you are gaining from each attack (unless disabled in options).

PASSIVE SKILL

ANIMOSITY

Increases Fury generation by 10% and maximum Fury is increased by 20.

UNLOCKED
lvl 27

The more Fury the Barbarian has, the more frequently he can deploy his attack skills. Use Animosity to gain more Fury from primary attacks and those attack skills that generate Fury. It also compounds the effects of Unforgiving to further boost natural Fury regeneration and raises the amount of Fury the Barbarian can accumulate to 120. Animosity is another passive skill that can be used to help maintain the conditions necessary for the Berserker Rage effects to activate.

PASSIVE SKILL

SUPERSTITION

Reduces all non-physical damage by 20%. Whenever you take damage from a ranged or elemental attack, you have a chance to gain 3 Fury.

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

Consider the enemies you're about to battle before equipping this skill as the large majority of monstes only inflict physical damage. That said, there are certain dungeons that crawl with poisonous creatures, particularly in the deserts beyond Caldeum. There are also tombs in that region with elemental members of the spider species. The reduction of non-physical damage is especially helpful during boss battles.

Superstition's additional benefits will also come in handy.

PASSIVE SKILL

TOUGH AS NAILS

Increases armor by 25%. Thorns damage dealt is increased by 50%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

Tough as Nails is a good skill to use if you're having trouble staying alive due to a less-than-optimal Armor rating, particularly for those who are eschewing a shield in favor of dual-wielding. It's often worth slotting Tough as Nails prior to any boss battles. This skill is especially worthwhile if the Barbarian is currently equipped with armor that deals Thorns damage (rare at lower levels). Thorns damage is dealt to attacking monsters that come in direct contact with the Hero's armor, as if they were striking a cactus or porcupine.

PASSIVE SKILL

NO ESCAPE

UNLOCKED
lvl 35

Increases the damage of Ancient Spear and Weapon Throw by 10%. In addition, a critical hit with Ancient Spear automatically resets the cooldown and critical hits with Weapon Throw have a chance to return 14 Fury.

The Barbarian is a melee-based combatant, but it's hard to argue against also having a ranged attack handy. And regardless of whether you use Ancient Spear or Weapon Throw, this is a useful passive skill to slot. The immediate cooldown reset of No Escape also triggers when the enemy death is caused by the effects of a rune paired with Ancient Spear. Consider slotting Ancient Spear with the Rage Flip rune and No Escape for a tremendously lethal—and safe—ranged attack that is perfect for battling Rare and Champion foes on Hell and Inferno difficulties.

PASSIVE SKILL

RELENTLESS

UNLOCKED
lvl 40

While below 20% Life, all skills cost no Fury and all damage taken is reduced by 50%.

Relentless essentially forestalls death to give the Hero the time he may need for a Health Potion to cooldown or for a Health Globe to drop. This is a good skill to equip during tough battles against bosses and when playing on Hell or Inferno difficulties. Otherwise, the skill slot may be better used to help keep the Hero above 20% Life. After all, it will serve you better in the long term to address the reasons that leave the Barbarian with so little Life.

PASSIVE SKILL

BRAWLER

UNLOCKED
lvl 45

As long as there are 3 enemies within 8 yards, all of your damage is increased by 30%.

This is a great skill to employ both in group and solo play, as the Barbarian is often thrust into the thick of the battle. Slot this skill before entering a cave or dungeon, especially those that are narrower in design (or during the major battles of Act III where enemies fill the screen). Those performing "tank" duties for a party should certainly consider keeping this skill slotted. Be sure to swap in another passive skill before engaging a boss in combat, as this may well go to waste in all boss battles except the preliminary battle against Belial.

PASSIVE SKILL

JUGGERNAUT

UNLOCKED
lvl 50

The duration of control impairing effects on you are reduced by 20%. In addition, whenever you become stunned, feared, or charmed, you have a chance to recover 15% of your maximum Life.

Juggernaut helps to minimize the Barbarian's susceptibility to fears, charms, stuns, or snares and all other control-impairing status effects. There's no way to fully avoid being hit with the occasional status effect, so you'll have to decide whether the reduction in status effect duration is worth one of your precious passive skill slots. Try using this skill only when necessary—wait for a situation where you repeatedly find yourself stunned or feared, then equip it.

PASSIVE SKILL

UNFORGIVING

UNLOCKED
lvl 55

You no longer degenerate Fury. Instead, you gain 1 Fury every 2 seconds.

Once unlocked, Unforgiving deserves serious consideration for one of your passive skill slots. This makes it possible to build up a supply of Fury before entering into a battle with a boss enemy. It also means that you can afford to slot more of the Fury-consuming skill-rune pairs and less Fury generating skills. Of course, gaining 1 Fury every 2 seconds is not enough to fuel the most powerful skills; you'll still need to generate Fury the old-fashioned way!

PASSIVE SKILL

BOON OF BUL-KATHOS

UNLOCKED
lvl 60

The cooldown on your Earthquake, Call of the Ancients, and Wrath of the Berserker skills is reduced by 30 seconds.

Earthquake, Call of the Ancients, and Wrath of the Berserker are the three most devastating skills in the Barbarian's repertoire and this skill grants a 25% reduction in cooldown. This makes it possible to cast any of those skills five times in six minutes, whereas it would take a full eight minutes to cast the skill for the fifth time without Boon of Bul-Kathos. The 30-second cooldown reduction may not sound like much, but it could certainly mean the difference between life and death on higher difficulty modes.

DEMON HUNTER

My family was butchered by hellspawn. To witness such a thing is enough to leave your mind in ruins. The madness killed my sister. And left me frightened—and alone.

Until I was rescued. Rescued by survivors who had joined together to rid the world of the creatures of Hell. They saw in me the strength to resist the demons. They forged me into a weapon. Now I am ready.

Ranged weaponry and shadow manipulation make this vengeful hero an elusive stalker of demons.

- The Demon Hunter uses a variety of traps and escape skills to evade the grasp of foes.
- Lethal and agile, Demon Hunters move fluidly across the battlefield, maneuvering into position to strike their enemies from a distance. Their primary attribute is Dexterity.
- The Demon Hunter's attacks and tactical skills are powered by the dual forces of Hatred and Discipline. Hatred is rapidly regenerated, but Discipline is slowly recovered.

HEROIC GROWTH

The Demon Hunter's high Dexterity yields the same attack bonus as the other Heroes receive, but improves upon it with a slightly higher dodge chance. The Demon Hunter is fortunate to be as agile and evasive as she is, given her lower Strength and armor ratings, when compared to the Barbarian. Each of these attributes increases slowly as she gains levels, forcing the Demon Hunter to stay clear of melee battles and employ a more delicate, crafty approach to combat. This class can hit every bit as hard as the others, but Demon Hunters must do it from a distance or suffer the consequences.

EQUIPPED FOR BATTLE

WEAPONRY

Special: Hand Crossbow

The Demon Hunter is the premiere ranged combatant of Diablo III and shares some commonality with the Rogue and Amazon classes of the previous titles. The Hero's lithe physique, acrobatic skill, and tactical superiority enable her to slip in and out of combat with ease, seldom giving an enemy a target they can hit.

Though the Demon Hunter can equip most melee weapons and shields, swords, axes, and the like should only be used if no ranged weapon is available. Melee weapons require the type of close-range combat that runs counter to the Demon Hunter's training and render many of her skills ineffective.

The Demon Hunter begins her journey armed with a single one-handed crossbow, or "hand crossbow." It's possible to outfit the Demon Hunter's free hand with a melee weapon or shield, but it's often best to equip a second one-handed crossbow. The Hero can also wield a single two-handed crossbow or two-handed bow. These weapons tend to be heavier and inflict greater damage, but have a much slower firing rate. Pay close attention to the Hero's Attack and damage-per-second ratings to see which weapon(s) provide the best damage-per-second, all other attributes and properties being equal. When opting to dual-wield crossbows, always assign the more powerful of the two weapons to the Demon Hunter's right hand as she'll almost always fire that weapon first.

ARMOR STYLES

The Demon Hunter's style of dress focuses on stealth and the need to move quickly—and silently—across the battlefield. Demon Hunter clothing tends to be form-fitting, black or neutral in color, and lacks many of the flourishes that adorn other armor styles. Their knee-high boots and the quiver of arrows that hangs from their belt is a part of their outfit that never goes out of style. Demon Hunters are drawn to the shadows and seek to shield their face with a hood early on. They maintain a simple style of dress for much of their career, with the fluttering tail end of their signature scarf being the only accessory that is not purely utilitarian in design. Demon Hunters don't begin to dress in a flashy manner until much later while playing Nightmare difficulty.

ABOUT ARMOR STYLES

The following armor appearances serve merely to illustrate what a prototypical Hero might look like at any given level. In reality, the Hero will likely possess multiple styles of armor simultaneously, therefore having a far more unique appearance that blends two or more of the styles displayed here. And upon considering the numerous colors of dyes that are available, it is unlikely that any two Heroes of the same class will look identical.

The Demon Hunter is protected from the forest undergrowth, but not much else.

Cloth coverings offer minimal protection to the legs and torso while gloves shield their hands from their weapon's bowstring (levels 1-6).

The Demon Hunter gains basic shoulder armor and pulls a hood down far over her eyes (levels 7-13).

Leather upgrades increase protection throughout and a proper helm replaces the hood (levels 14-19).

The addition of proper armor plating and abdominal chainmail adds bulk to the otherwise slender form beneath the outfit (levels 20-24).

The finer quality metals used in this armor provides a slimmer look along with a lightweight armored hood (levels 25-28).

The Demon Hunter's final armor style in Normal difficulty offers a glimpse of the intricate offerings available later (levels 29-31).

SKILLS & RUNES

The Demon Hunter's split resource pool presents a clear division in the style of her skills. Most of them are fueled by Hatred and take advantage of her ranged weaponry to launch powerful attacks at distant foes. Many of the Demon Hunter's skills can be configured with runes to fire rockets or add elemental properties the Hero's weaponry might not possess. Conversely, the Demon Hunter's Discipline-based skills tend to be more tactical in nature and designed to either trick her attackers or to aid in evasion. Still, there are other skills like Companion and Sentry that are powered by Discipline and are primarily offensive in nature.

The Demon Hunter has access to a variety of skills that defy easy categorization. Demon Hunters are able to take advantage of their mastery of shadowy forces to employ skills such as Smoke Screen, Strafe, and Vault to aid in avoiding enemy capture. Runes help to leech Life from her foes and many of the Demon Hunter's passive skills capitalize on the Hero's high Dexterity rating.

RESOURCE: HATRED AND DISCIPLINE

The Demon Hunter's skills are powered by two resource types: Hatred and Discipline. Hatred fuels many of the Demon Hunter's attack skills. Hatred regenerates quickly and the Demon Hunter carries a maximum of 125 Hatred. Conversely, Discipline regenerates much slower and is used to power many of the Hero's evasive and tactical skills. The Demon Hunter initially maintains a maximum Discipline of 30.

HUNGERING ARROW

Fire a magically imbued arrow that seeks out targets for 115% weapon damage and has a 35% chance to pierce through targets.

- Generates 3 Hatred.

This magical arrow is capable of turning up to 180 degrees mid-flight to home in on an enemy for considerable weapon damage. It has a 35% chance to pierce the initial target and change course to seek another target, which it might also pierce. Hungering Arrow's homing capability isn't foolproof, however, so aim as close to the enemies as possible. This skill won't always correct for wildly inaccurate shots.

The powerful Hungering Arrow homes in on enemies and has a 35% chance to pierce and target a second foe.

RUNES

Piercing Arrow increases the chance that the arrow will pierce its target from 35% to 50% and affords a high chance of striking two enemies with each shot fired. Cinder Arrow increases the overall DPS of the attack and adds an element of Fire. Shatter Shot and Spray of Teeth both add AOE damage to the skill. Shatter Shot causes the arrow to split into three arrows upon a successful pierce. This gives you roughly a one-in-three chance of striking a total of four enemies with a single arrow! Those with a really high Critical Hit Chance should switch to Spray of Teeth when facing large groups of enemies.

Piercing Arrow

Unlocked: Level 6
Increase the chance for the arrow to pierce to 50%.

Cinder Arrow

Unlocked: Level 17
Light the arrow on fire, dealing 35% additional weapon damage as Fire over 3 seconds.

Shatter Shot

Unlocked: Level 26
If the arrow successfully pierces the first target, the arrow splits into 3 arrows.

Devouring Arrow

Unlocked: Level 42
Each consecutive pierce increases the damage of the arrow by 70%.

Spray of Teeth

Unlocked: Level 52
Successful critical hits cause a burst of bone to explode from the target, dealing 50% weapon damage to enemies in that area.

ENTANGLING SHOT

Imbue an arrow with shadow energy that deals 75% weapon damage and entangles up to 2 enemies, slowing their movement by 60% for 2 seconds.

- Generates 3 Hatred.

The blades that adorn the Entangling Shot arrow are designed to damage and snare up to two nearby enemies. This purple-glowing attack has no Hatred cost and provides the Demon Hunter with the breathing room she craves. Target a fast-moving melee combatant (preferably one in close proximity to another), then open fire with subsequent basic attacks, knowing the enemy has been slowed and won't be able to move within striking range any time soon.

Take full advantage of Entangling Shot's ability to slow enemy movement by aiming at two closely-spaced foes.

RUNES

Entangling Shot's primary draw is that it slows the movement of up to two targets. The Chain Gang rune doubles this number and makes the skill suitable for small packs of enemies, as well as for use against single targets. Depending on the situation, Heavy Burden's doubling of the slow duration may be more beneficial. This rune only affects up to two targets, but slows them for four seconds. Justice is Served doubles the Hatred generated with each shot, effectively allowing you to slow a number of enemies, accumulate Hatred, then unleash a powerful attack to clean up the snared foes. Bounty Hunter is one of the many runes available to the Demon Hunter that returns a portion of damage as Life.

Chain Gang

Unlocked: Level 9
Hit up to 4 targets.

Chain Lightning

Unlocked: Level 18
Strike targets with electrified chains that do an additional 28% weapon damage per second as Lightning for 2 seconds.

Heavy Burden

Unlocked: Level 34
Increase the slow movement duration to 4 seconds.

Justice is Served

Unlocked: Level 47
Increase the Hatred generated to 6 per shot.

Bounty Hunter

Unlocked: Level 54
Gain 6% of the damage dealt as Life.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

BOLA SHOT

Shoot out an explosive bola that wraps itself around its target. After 1 second, the bola explodes dealing 130% weapon damage as Fire to the target and an additional 110% weapon damage as Fire to all other targets within 7 yards.

- Generates 3 Hatred.

Bola Shot is one of the Demon Hunter's most important low-level skills, as it deals solid damage to the target and all enemies within 7 yards. The explosion follows a short one-second delay, thereby reducing the need to plan the attack in advance. Just aim at the central enemy in a group and watch as they all take damage. Bola Shot can be fired in quick succession and has zero cooldown.

Take aim at the center enemy with Bola Shot to ensure the entire group is damaged.

RUNES

Volatile Explosives doubles the affected area of the Bola Shot skill and provides the Demon Hunter with an excellent low level AOE skill-rune pairing. Thunder Ball focuses the attack primarily on the main target, generating a chance for the explosion to briefly stun the enemy. Acid Strike is an excellent choice against a pack of Champions, as it fires three bolas per attack, each of which inflicts as much Poison damage as the standard skill. Imminent Doom amplifies the damage dealt by the Bola Shot explosion, but at the expense of a lengthier delay. The explosion will come after two seconds instead of one—avoid killing the enemy you target with Bola Shot before the explosion!

Volatile Explosives

Unlocked: Level 14
Increase the explosion radius to 14 yards.

Thunder Ball

Unlocked: Level 24
When the bola explodes, it deals 130% weapon damage as Lightning and has a 35% chance to Stun the primary target for 1.5 seconds.

Acid Strike

Unlocked: Level 37
Shoot 3 bolas that each deal 130% weapon damage as Poison. The bolas no longer explode for area damage to nearby targets.

Bitter Pill

Unlocked: Level 51
When the bola explodes, you have a 35% chance to gain 3 Discipline.

Imminent Doom

Unlocked: Level 57
Augment the bola to deal 182% weapon damage as Arcane to the target and 154% weapon damage as Arcane to all other targets within 7 yards, but increases the explosion delay to 2 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

GRENADES

Throw out three grenades that explode for 95% weapon damage as Fire each.

- Generates 3 Hatred.

The Demon Hunter lobbs the three Grenades out simultaneously with little fanfare. The Grenades typically take a small bounce and explode after a slight delay and only inflict damage. Grenades are useful against a tight group of enemies as the explosions are rather small individually. The damage inflicted increases as the Hero grows in strength and acquires better equipment, but the Grenades skill is far more effective once it has been assigned a rune. Without one, these Grenades are likely to inflict a similar amount of damage as the Hero's base weapon, although to a number of enemies simultaneously.

The volley of three Grenades is enough to damage multiple enemies at once, provided they're in a tight pack.

RUNES

Cluster Grenades is an excellent AOE attack that not only increases the damage of the base skill, but also spreads that damage across all enemies inside an 8-yard radius. Fire Bomb is the opposite of Cluster Grenades; throw a single grenade that deals moderately heavy damage to a single target. Stun Grenades behaves much like the base skill, but each volley of thrown grenades carries the chance to stun enemies for 2 seconds. Gas Grenades allows the Demon Hunter to target a primary threat and leave a cloud of Poison that deals additional damage for 3 seconds to all foes that enter the area. This is a great attack against a Rare and its minions, or against a column of enemies funneling through a chokepoint.

Tinkerer

Unlocked: Level 22
Increases Hatred generation to 6 Hatred.

Cluster Grenades

Unlocked: Level 32
Throw Cluster Grenades that deal 112% weapon damage as Fire over an 8-yard radius.

Fire Bomb

Unlocked: Level 40
Throw a single grenade that deals 124% weapon damage as Fire.

Stun Grenades

Unlocked: Level 48
Hurl grenades that have a 15% chance to Stun enemies for 2 seconds.

Gas Grenades

Unlocked: Level 60
Throw gas grenades that explode for 95% weapon damage as Poison, leaving a cloud that deals an additional 25% weapon damage per second as Poison for 3 seconds to enemies who stand in the area.

IMPALE

Impale a target for 250% weapon damage.

- Costs 25 Hatred.

Impale is a dreadfully powerful attack that's ideal against isolated threats. Line up your shot and watch as it deals terrific damage in an instant. Few enemies can withstand multiple Impale shots fired in quick succession. This is an important skill to have on hand, particularly heading into a boss battle or wherever enemies attack in smaller numbers. It's also a premiere single-target DPS attack that will serve you well on higher difficulties, particularly once your Critical Hit Chance increases.

Few enemies can withstand the power of Impale!

RUNES

Impact is one of the first runes you unlock for a skill that maintains the skill's heavy DPS while adding an element of control. The addition of Knockback and temporary stun is a tremendous boon to Impale. Chemical Burn adds a Bleed effect to the skill and is a fine alternative to Impact, particularly against major foes that are immune to stun and Knockback. Players with a very high Critical Hit Chance will want to slot Grievous Wounds as soon as it is unlocked. Overpenetration is worth slotting when entering a dungeon or negotiating the tight walkways of the Skycrown Battlements, where the enemies often line up to attack. Awareness maintains the single-target DPS focus of the base attack, but adds an AOE defensive measure that transforms the skill into one with near-universal application.

Impact

Unlocked: Level 7

Impale has a 65% chance to knock the target back and Stun it for 1.5 seconds.

Chemical Burn

Unlocked: Level 15

Your target will also Bleed for 125% weapon damage as Physical over 2 seconds.

Overpenetration

Unlocked: Level 28

The knife will pierce through all enemies in a straight line.

Awareness

Unlocked: Level 53

After the initial throw, release multiple blades centered on you, dealing 75% weapon damage to all enemies within 10 yards.

Grievous Wounds

Unlocked: Level 58

Gain 100% additional damage to critical hits.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

RAPID FIRE

Rapidly fire for 228% weapon damage as Physical.

- Costs 20 Hatred initially, and an additional 10 Hatred while channeling.

Rapid Fire effectively converts the Demon Hunter's crossbow into a fully-automatic ballista. Hold the right mouse button to fire an endless stream of arrows at a cost of roughly 20 Hatred per second. The arrows don't hit for much weapon damage individually, but the skill fires so many arrows at such a high rate that the net gain is a much higher damage-per-second attack.

The Demon Hunter can fire three arrows at close range before the first even hits the target!

RUNES

Web Shot is perfect for keeping a pack of fast-charging enemies at bay, as every shot dramatically slows enemy movement for 1 second. Spray your Rapid Fire arrows in a sweeping motion across the enemy front to halt their advance. Fire Support launches three homing rockets every second while you channel Rapid Fire. The rockets can be made even more effective by slotting the Ballistics passive skill. High Velocity adds Poison to the arrows along with a 40% chance to pierce enemies. Bombardment transforms the skill into a potent AOE attack by launching a steady stream of grenades instead of arrows. Grenades explode for heavy damage—nearly 3x weapon damage—and all within a 4-yard radius! Target foes in a sweeping motion to spray the grenades across a wider area when dealing with large packs of enemies in the open.

Withering Fire

Unlocked: Level 11

Reduces the initial Hatred cost to 5, and ignites your arrows, causing them to deal Fire damage.

Web Shot

Unlocked: Level 19

Slow the movement of affected targets by 80% for 1 second.

Fire Support

Unlocked: Level 32

While channeling Rapid Fire, launch 3 homing rockets every second. Each rocket deals 35% weapon damage as Physical to nearby targets.

High Velocity

Unlocked: Level 45

Fire Poison arrows that have a 40% chance to pierce through enemies.

Bombardment

Unlocked: Level 56

Rapidly fire grenades instead of arrows for 276% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within a 4-yard radius.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

CHAKRAM

Fire a swirling Chakram that does 150% weapon damage as Physical to enemies along its path.

- Costs 10 Hatred.

The individual Chakram flies in an irregular pattern away from the Demon Hunter, drawing circles in the air as it slices into the distance at chest level. It has no cooldown and multiple Chakrams can be thrown in quick succession, provided you have enough Hatred. The Chakram grows in strength as the Demon Hunter levels up, but there's no getting around its built-in inaccuracy. Enemies directly ahead of the Hero can nonetheless slip past without being hit. Despite the relatively low Hatred cost, this is a skill that all but requires a rune just to reduce the inaccuracy.

Multiple Chakrams can be thrown in quick succession, but nearby enemies may still evade the attacks.

RUNES

Twin Chakrams not only increases the total damage dealt (if both Chakrams hit the same target), but also boosts the chance of scoring a hit in the first place. Enemies will have a tougher time avoiding the Chakram when there are two of them being thrown each time you attack! Serpentine, Razor Disk, and Boomerang each modify the damage and flight path of the Chakram while adding Poison, Arcane, and Lightning damage, respectively. Experiment with them to see which you like best. Shuriken Cloud shifts the Chakram skill to one that is more defensive in nature. With this rune slotted, the Demon Hunter is surrounded by spinning Chakrams for two minutes that slash away at enemies that get too close.

Twin Chakrams

Unlocked: Level 18

A second Chakram mirrors the first. Each Chakram deals 100% weapon damage as Physical.

Serpentine

Unlocked: Level 26

The Chakram follows a slow curve, dealing 203% weapon damage as Poison to enemies along the path.

Razor Disk

Unlocked: Level 34

The Chakram spirals out from the targeted location, dealing 165% weapon damage as Arcane to enemies along the path.

Boomerang

Unlocked: Level 48

The Chakram path turns into a loop, dealing 188% weapon damage as Lightning to enemies along the path.

Shuriken Cloud

Unlocked: Level 57

Surround yourself with spinning Chakrams for 120 seconds, dealing 48% weapon damage per second as Physical to nearby enemies.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

ELEMENTAL ARROW

Shoot an elemental charged arrow that deals 155% weapon damage as Fire damage to all targets it passes through.

- Costs 10 Hatred.

Elemental Arrow is another potent skill that can pierce through multiple enemies in a straight line. Although it's not as effective against enemies with Fire resistance, runes can be slotted to alter the skill's elemental affinity. Consider the situation and the likelihood of hitting multiple enemies before assigning it to your right mouse button, as it may be better spent with Impale or a different attack if there aren't many enemies being funneled to your position.

Fire a flaming arrow straight through multiple enemies for 100% weapon damage.

RUNES

Ball Lightning serves as a good replacement to the Fire damage of the base skill when dealing with large groups of enemies in a spread formation. Ball Lightning can electrocute and harm even those foes that avoid the arrow, so long as they aren't too far away. Frost Arrow allows each arrow fired to split into multiple arrows, damaging and slowing the movement of multiple enemies per attack. Screaming Skull maintains the skill's normal behavior, but adds the chance to temporarily invoke fear in some enemies. Having several of the enemies flee in panic can prove to be a life-saver when backed into a corner. Nether Tentacles returns damage dealt along the arrow's path as Life. The 3% kick-back can really add up in crowded areas.

Ball Lightning

Unlocked: Level 24

Fire a slow moving arrow that electrocutes enemies along its path for 155% weapon damage as Lightning.

Frost Arrow

Unlocked: Level 29

Fire a Frost arrow that splits into multiple arrows after hitting its target, dealing 170% weapon damage as Cold. Affected enemies have their movement speed slowed by 60% for 1 second.

Screaming Skull

Unlocked: Level 36

Grants a 35% chance to shoot a skull that will fear affected enemies for 2 seconds.

Lightning Bolts

Unlocked: Level 43

Fire electrified bolts that stun enemies for 1.5 seconds when they critically hit.

Nether Tentacles

Unlocked: Level 59

Shadow Tentacles deals 155% weapon damage to enemies along its path and returns 3% of damage dealt as Life to you.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

CALTROPS

Lay a trap of caltrops on the ground that activates when an enemy approaches. Once sprung, the caltrops slow the movement of enemies within 12 yards by 60%. This trap lasts 6 seconds.

- Costs 8 Discipline.

Named after an antique form of non-explosive landmine designed to puncture the feet of pursuers, the Demon Hunter's Caltrops spring open and slow the movement of all enemies within 12 yards. Caltrops are indispensable for a Hero like the Demon Hunter, who excels at ranged combat and needs to keep fast-moving enemies at a distance. Lay down the Caltrops then back away and open fire. The speed reduction should last long enough to kill all but the toughest of foes.

The Demon Hunter can lay down multiple Caltrops at once, effectively slowing several enemies.

RUNES

Torturous Ground doesn't just increase the degree to which enemies are slowed, but also immobilizes them for 2 seconds. This is extremely effective against large groups of monsters, and when facing a Rare or pack of Champions. Jagged Spikes maintains the base skill's primary function, but causes the Spike Trap to also inflict a moderate amount of damage to those snared by it. Use multiple Spike Traps with Jagged Spikes to catch a large number of enemies, then follow up the attack with Rain of Vengeance or other AOE attack! Carved Stakes lowers the Discipline cost enough to make it possible to deploy as many as five Spike Traps at once instead of the typical three! Bait the Trap yields an increase to your Critical Hit Chance. Place one or two Spike Traps down near the enemies, back away, then place a third down and stand inside it while you take aim.

Hooked Spines

Unlocked: Level 12
Increase the slowing amount to 80%.

Torturous Ground

Unlocked: Level 18
When the trap is sprung, all enemies in the area are immobilized for 2 seconds.

Jagged Spikes

Unlocked: Level 28
Enemies in the area also take 45% weapon damage.

Carved Stakes

Unlocked: Level 41
Reduce the cost of Caltrops to 6 Discipline.

Bait the Trap

Unlocked: Level 54
Become empowered while standing in the area of effect, gaining an additional 10% Critical Hit Chance with all attacks.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SMOKE SCREEN

Vanish behind a wall of smoke, becoming momentarily invisible for 3 seconds.

- Costs 15 Discipline.

Not even the minions of hell can hit what they can't see. And they won't be able to see the Demon Hunter once she's gone invisible. Vanish in a cloud of smoke to escape a sticky situation, collect nearby health globes, or simply run far away without being attacked from behind. Smoke Screen's effects don't last for long, so have a plan ready before performing this skill; otherwise, you could waste the 24 Discipline the skill costs. Of course, you can always perform the skill again if you have enough Discipline saved, thereby buying yourself 6 more seconds of invisibility. Smoke Screen is particularly helpful when playing cooperatively, as it allows the Demon Hunter to slip into the fray to revive a downed ally.

You'll still be able to see your Hero during Smoke Screen, but the enemies won't!

RUNES

Displacement increases movement speed while Smoke Screen is activated and could make a big difference when trying to rescue a fallen ally or escape a near-death situation. Lingering Fog increases the duration of the effect by 33%, thus reducing the likelihood that you'll need to cast Smoke Screen twice in quick succession. Breathe Deep gives you a reason to cast Smoke Screen even when not facing significant threat—activate it whenever you're in need of a quick 60 Hatred. Choking Gas leaves a deadly fog for the enemies you're fleeing. Draw them in, then use Smoke Screen to leave them in a cloud of gas that deals damage over time.

Displacement

Unlocked: Level 14
Gain 35% movement speed when activated.

Lingering Fog

Unlocked: Level 23
Increase the duration of the effect to 4 seconds.

Breathe Deep

Unlocked: Level 33
While invisible, you gain 20 Hatred per second.

Special Recipe

Unlocked: Level 44
Reduce the cost to 21 Discipline.

Choking Gas

Unlocked: Level 59
Leave behind a cloud of gas that deals 70% weapon damage per second as Physical to enemies in the area for 5 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SHADOW POWER

Draw in the power of the shadows, gaining 20% of all damage done as Life for 3 seconds.

- Costs 20 Discipline.

Shadow Power allows the Demon Hunter to draw upon the energy of the shadows to heal through the damage she inflicts on others. Activate Shadow Power immediately prior to launching a barrage of AOE attacks to gain 20% of the damage done to each of the targets hit back in the form of Life. Make sure you have plenty of Hatred on hand to fuel the skills you'll likely be attacking with and unleash Shadow Power whenever Life is running low and there are no available health globes. Shadow Power is most effective against large groups of enemies or, if your Critical Hit Chance is very high, when targeting a single enemy with a high DPS attack like Impale.

RUNES

Night Bane adds significant Hatred regeneration for the 3 seconds that Shadow Power is active, allowing you to further fuel those attacks that you'll be using to gain as much Life as possible. Blood Moon increases the amount of Life gained by 50% and is tremendously helpful on higher difficulties. Shadow Power lasts for only three seconds, but Gloom can provide dramatic level of damage reduction in addition to returning a portion of damage as Life. Shadow Glide helps the Demon Hunter by increasing movement speed while Shadow Power is active. Activate Shadow Power, quickly launch a major attack to regain Life, then use Shadow Glide's increased movement speed to dash to safety.

Night Bane

Unlocked: Level 21
Gain an additional 15 Hatred per second while Shadow Power is active.

Blood Moon

Unlocked: Level 29
Increases damage done as Life to 30%.

Well of Darkness

Unlocked: Level 37
Reduces Discipline cost to 16.

Gloom

Unlocked: Level 51
Reduce incoming damage by 65% while Shadow Power is active.

Shadow Glide

Unlocked: Level 58
Gain 40% bonus to movement speed while Shadow Power is active.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): HUNTING

VAULT

Tumble acrobatically 35 yards.

- Costs 10 Discipline.

The Demon Hunter has split resources for a reason, and one of them is the Vault skill. This evasive maneuver is of vital importance against boss enemies and for use wherever there are large numbers of enemies in a small space. Vault allows the Demon Hunter to use her acrobatic skills to quickly put distance between herself and the monsters in pursuit.

RUNES

Pay close attention to how you use Vault before considering the Acrobatics rune. Those who find themselves using Vault multiple times in quick succession will want to steer clear of this rune. Rattling Roll allows the Demon Hunter to Vault into a group of enemies, knock them back and stun them, then quickly Vault away or launch follow-up attacks. Tumble makes it possible to Vault twice in quick succession for just 15 Discipline instead of 20. Although Vault is commonly used as a way to escape the enemy horde, Trail of Cinders sets enemies along the path aflame. Equip this rune, allow your Discipline pool to fill, then Vault a zigzag path through a mass of hellspawn to set numerous foes on fire.

Action Shot

Unlocked: Level 16
As you travel, shoot arrows for 75% weapon damage at nearby targets.

Rattling Roll

Unlocked: Level 23
All enemies within 8 yards of your destination are knocked back and stunned for 1.5 seconds.

Tumble

Unlocked: Level 33
After using Vault, your next Vault within 6 seconds has its Discipline cost reduced by 50%.

Acrobatics

Unlocked: Level 38
Removes the Discipline cost, but adds a 15-second cooldown.

Trail of Cinders

Unlocked: Level 49
Ignite with fire, dealing 100% weapon damage as Fire to everything along your path.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): HUNTING

PREPARATION

Instantly restore all Discipline.

- Cooldown 45 seconds.

Rather than require a resource to use, Preparation actually replenishes all of the Demon Hunter's Discipline. It's just one of two skills that carries a cooldown—it can only be used once every 45 seconds. Preparation is especially helpful for deploying a Sentry, performing Vault, and activating other Discipline-based skills. Unlike Hatred, Discipline replenishes rather slowly, making this an important skill to learn. The lengthy cooldown requires you to cast it only when you truly need it; otherwise, you may find yourself low on Discipline at the wrong time.

A beam of red energy reveals the Discipline flowing back into the Demon Hunter.

RUNES

Invigoration allows you to enjoy the benefits of 40 Discipline for 5 seconds after using Preparation. Consider your skill choice carefully before selecting this rune or you may not actually be in position to take advantage of it. Punishment flips the skill's behavior and allows you to spend 20 Discipline in exchange for instantly regaining all Hatred. As with Invigoration, pay close attention to your skill selection, usage, and how often you run out of each resource before selecting either of these runes. Battle Scars heals the Demon Hunter 60% of maximum Life each time Preparation is used. Focused Mind increases the amount of Discipline that is restored, but spreads it out over time (as opposed to Invigoration's temporary resource pool increase). This makes it possible to string Discipline-heavy skills together over time without having to use your extra Discipline inside of 5 seconds as you would with Invigoration.

Invigoration

Unlocked: Level 19

Increase maximum Discipline by 10 for 5 seconds when using Preparation.

Punishment

Unlocked: Level 25

Restore all Hatred for 20 Discipline. Preparation has no cooldown

Battle Scars

Unlocked: Level 35

Regain 60% Life when using Preparation.

Focused Mind

Unlocked: Level 44

Gain 45 Discipline over 15 seconds, restoring it immediately.

Backup Plan

Unlocked: Level 52

There is a 30% chance that Preparation's cooldown will not be triggered.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): HUNTING

COMPANION

Summon a raven companion that will periodically peck at your enemies for 36% of your weapon damage as Physical.

- Costs 10 Discipline.

Why should the Witch Doctor have all the pets? Summon a Companion to periodically attack enemies. The Raven doesn't inflict much damage, but it's a very cheap skill to cast, the effect lasts indefinitely, and a little extra damage is sometimes all it takes to finish off an enemy. Enemies killed by the Companion still have a chance to drop a health globe or loot.

A constant companion, the raven lasts indefinitely, but only inflicts occasional minor damage to enemies.

RUNES

Spider Companion doesn't yield a Companion that can inflict heavy damage, but its bites do slow victim's movement considerably for two seconds. Bat Companion helps to increase your Hatred regen by 3 Hatred per second, a considerable amount! Boar Companion offers a middle ground between the standard Raven Companion and the Wolf Companion. It doesn't inflict as much damage as the wolf, but the Companion stays with you much longer. Ferret Companion collects gold and increases the amount of gold found on monsters. The increase to your gold find percentage may not sound significant, but every little bit counts when saving up for repair costs on Hell and Inferno difficulty. Wolf Companion yields a potent ally to fight by your side for 25 seconds. Wolf Companion is particularly useful against a pack of Champions or if you simply need some help with a number of fast-moving enemies that have you surrounded.

Spider Companion

Unlocked: Level 22

Summon a spider instead of a raven. The spider's attacks also Slow the movement of enemies by 60% for 2 seconds.

Bat Companion

Unlocked: Level 29

Summon a bat instead of a raven. The bat grants you 3 Hatred per second.

Boar Companion

Unlocked: Level 41

Summon a boar instead of a raven. The boar's attacks hit all enemies in an area.

Ferret Companion

Unlocked: Level 49

Summon ferrets instead of a raven. The ferrets collect gold for you and increase gold found on monsters by 10%.

Wolf Companion

Unlocked: Level 59

Summon a wolf for 25 seconds instead of a raven. The wolf attacks for 72% of your weapon damage as Physical.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): HUNTING

MARKED FOR DEATH

Marks an enemy, who will take 12% additional damage for the next 30 seconds.

- Costs 6 Discipline.

Target the toughest enemy in the group and hit him with Marked for Death to gain a nice damage boost while attacking him. This is a particularly worthwhile skill to use against Rares and Champions, as well as boss enemies. Focus your subsequent attacks on the enemy you Marked for Death; otherwise, it will be wasted. Allies also benefit from the effects, so make sure your teammates know that you have this equipped so they don't unleash costly skills before you deploy Marked for Death. This skill has a very low Discipline cost and can be recast as soon as the 30 seconds duration expires.

Target the enemy ring leader with Marked for Death to make him that much easier to kill.

RUNES

Contagion is an excellent rune to slot as soon as it's unlocked as the ability to cast Marked for Death once and have it spread repeatedly to targets as you kill them (inside of the initial 30 seconds) is a remarkable return on your small investment of 6 Discipline. This is ideal while playing cooperatively, since you'll have even more of a chance to spread the effect to numerous enemies. Valley of Death shifts this single-target skill to one that impacts all enemies in a targeted area. The effect doesn't last as long, but it's effective against large groups of enemies. Target the area, then unleash an AOE attack to take advantage of the rune. Mortal Enemy helps to generate Hatred through all of the attacks you aim at the Marked target. Death Toll returns a small amount of damage dealt to the Marked target as Life. Maximize this bonus against boss enemies.

Contagion

Unlocked: Level 27

When the target is killed, the ability spreads to 2 other nearby targets. This effect can chain repeatedly.

Valley of Death

Unlocked: Level 31

Mark an area on the ground 12 yards wide for 15 seconds. Enemies in the area take 12% additional damage.

Grim Reaper

Unlocked: Level 39

An additional 12% of damage done to the target is also divided among all enemies within 20 yards.

Mortal Enemy

Unlocked: Level 48

Attacks you make against the marked target generate 3 Hatred.

Death Toll

Unlocked: Level 60

Heal attackers by 1% of the damage done to the marked target.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DEVICES

EVASIVE FIRE

Shoot for 125% weapon damage. If an enemy is in front of you at close range, you will also backflip away 15 yards.

- Generates 4 Hatred.

- Costs 4 Discipline if you backflip.

This is a very inexpensive and potentially life-saving skill that allows the Demon Hunter to not only inflict greater damage than normal (nearly as much as a critical hit), but also effortlessly flee from a nearby enemy. Evasive Fire responds very quickly and has no cooldown, making it possible to rapidly shoot for 125% weapon damage while generating a small amount of Hatred. The Demon Hunter will automatically backflip away from the enemy for a cost of 4 Discipline if the target is nearby.

The shadowy Demon Hunter flips to safety after hitting this skeleton with Evasive Fire.

RUNES

Parting Gift leaves behind a poison bomb that damages all within 12 yards whenever the backflip portion of this skill is triggered. This can add a new element to hit-and-run tactics. Covering Fire doesn't alter the skill's evasive maneuver, but allows the Demon Hunter to hit up to three targets with each attack, essentially tripling the initial damage of the skill. Displace makes it easier to forfeit Vault as your defensive skill of choice (unless playing Elective Mode) by doubling the backflip distance to 30 yards. Surge transforms Evasive Fire's attack to do Lightning damage while halving the Discipline cost of the backflip. This may not sound significant, but it makes it far easier to link this skill with other Discipline-based skills. Furthermore, by spending only 2 Discipline to backflip, you virtually assure yourself of always having enough to perform the skill when you need it most.

Shrapnel

Unlocked: Level 21

Shoot exploding bolts that also deal 30% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within 6 yards of the primary target.

Parting Gift

Unlocked: Level 26

Whenever a backflip is triggered, leave a poison bomb behind that explodes for 45% weapon damage as Poison in a 12-yard radius after 1.2 seconds. Turns Evasive Fire into Poison Damage.

Covering Fire

Unlocked: Level 34

Shoot a spread of bolts that hits up to 3 targets for 125% weapon damage each.

Displace

Unlocked: Level 42

Increase the distance of the backflip to 30 yards.

Surge

Unlocked: Level 53

Reduces the cost of the backflip to 2 Discipline. Turns Evasive Fire into Lightning damage.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DEVICES

FAN OF KNIVES

Throw knives out in a spiral around you, doing 320% weapon damage to all enemies within 10 yards of you. Your knives will also slow the movement of enemies by 60% for 2 seconds.

- Costs 20 Hatred.
- Cooldown of 10 seconds.

Fan of Knives is a valuable skill to have on hand for those unfortunate times when the enemies appear to have you surrounded. The attack strikes for considerable damage and also throws enemies off-balance, slows them down, and gives the Demon Hunter an opportunity to burst free. Fan of Knives is a valuable defensive skill that can often net a much-needed health globe in times of crisis.

Fan of Knives creates an opening in the enemy defenses that the Demon Hunter can slip through safely.

RUNES

Retaliate increases the damage dealt by the whirling blades, but only strikes the enemies if the Demon Hunter is attacked within 10 seconds after Fan of Knives is activated. Trigger this skill whenever an unavoidable mass of enemies is about to surround you. Hail of Knives doubles the radius of the base attack and shifts the skill from one that is purely defensive to a slightly more offensive nature. Fan of Daggers yields a high chance to stun enemies for two seconds. Considering how many enemies you can possibly Stun, this is a worthwhile rune to slot both when alone and when playing cooperatively. Assassin's Knives add long-range knives to the original Fan of Knives that attack more distant enemies for less damage.

Crippling Razors

Unlocked: Level 24
Increase the slow amount to 80% for 2 seconds.

Retaliate

Unlocked: Level 32
Surround yourself with whirling blades that deal 464% weapon damage to all enemies if you are struck in the next 10 seconds.

Hail of Knives

Unlocked: Level 41
Increase the radius to damage all enemies within 20 yards.

Fan of Daggers

Unlocked: Level 50
Imbue your knives with a 65% chance to stun enemies for 2 seconds.

Assassin's Knives

Unlocked: Level 59
Throw long-range knives that deal 70% weapon damage to 5 additional targets.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DEVICES

SPIKE TRAP

Lay a trap that arms after 1.2 seconds and triggers when an enemy approaches. The trap does 275% weapon damage to all enemies within 8 yards. You can have a maximum of 3 Spike Traps active at a time.

- Costs 30 Hatred.

Deploy a Spike Trap that works as a proximity mine, only detonating when an enemy gets close. This skill essentially combines the behavior of Caltrops and Grenades and gives the Demon Hunter an excellent way to guard the rear. Try leading enemies through doorways and place Spike Traps at the narrow opening. Similarly, place a series of Spike Traps more than 8 yards apart down the length of a narrow corridor, then lure enemies to chase after you to their doom.

Up to three Spike Traps can be set at once. They won't detonate until an enemy approaches.

RUNES

Bandolier makes it possible to deploy as many as six Spike Traps simultaneously. Take into account the architecture of your surroundings, along with the likely path of the enemies, then lead them right into your traps. Sticky Trap can be a lot of fun to use—and quite effective—when facing down a large group of enemies or a Rare and its minions. Try placing the Sticky Trap on the lesser foes that can be easily killed in order to guarantee detonation of the bomb. Just make sure you deliver the fatal blow while it's near the more resilient enemy. Long Fuse increases the arming time by nearly a full second, but also dramatically boosts the damage inflicted. Lightning Rod causes the trap to release a pulse of Lightning that deals considerable damage to as many as three targets.

Bandolier

Unlocked: Level 27
Increase the maximum number of traps that can be out simultaneously to 6.

Sticky Trap

Unlocked: Level 30
Plant a bomb on an enemy rather than on the ground. If the target dies within 30 seconds, the trap explodes, dealing 404% weapon damage to all enemies within 8 yards.

Long Fuse

Unlocked: Level 39
Increases the arming time to 2 seconds, but increases damage to 371% weapon damage.

Lightning Rod

Unlocked: Level 46
When the trap is triggered, it releases a pulse of lightning that will bounce to up to 3 enemies for 275% weapon damage as Lightning.

Scatter

Unlocked: Level 55
Simultaneously place all 3 traps.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DEVICES

SENTRY

Drop a turret on the ground. The turret begins firing at nearby enemies for 20% of weapon damage. Lasts for 20 seconds.

- Costs 10 Discipline.

The life of a Demon Hunter can be a lonely one, but that doesn't mean she can't call upon an automated Sentry to aid her in combat! The Sentry only hits for 20% weapon damage, but it fires at a fast rate and automatically targets nearby threats. Best of all, it costs only 10 Discipline—that's just 0.5 Discipline per second! Sentry is a useful skill that you can call upon whenever you need some extra firepower, and really comes into its own once the corresponding runes have been unlocked. It's particularly effective in narrow spaces and doorways where enemies are forced to line up against it.

The Sentry is an impressive piece of machinery, capable of operating independently of the Demon Hunter.

RUNES

Spitfire Turret mixes in homing rockets with its normal arrow attacks. This is a real bonus once the Ballistics passive skill is unlocked. Vigilant Watcher increases the duration of the Sentry by 50% and can really make a difference against large hordes, packs of Champions, and in conserving your Discipline. Chain of Torment is good against groups of enemies, provided the Demon Hunter can flank the enemies and drag the chain through them. This works well if you have an ally to draw some of the enemies' attention while you skirt them with the chain. Both Aid Station and Guardian Threat can really help allies as long as they remain in close proximity to the Sentry.

Spitfire Turret

Unlocked: Level 28

The turret will also fire homing rockets aimed at random nearby targets for 8% weapon damage as Fire.

Vigilant Watcher

Unlocked: Level 36

Increases duration of the turret to 30 seconds.

Chain of Torment

Unlocked: Level 45

Create a tether between you and the Sentry that does 48% weapon damage per second to every enemy it touches.

Aid Station

Unlocked: Level 52

Heals nearby allies for 1.0% of their maximum Life per second.

Guardian Turret

Unlocked: Level 60

The turret also creates a shield that reduces damage taken by allies by 15%.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): ARCHERY

STRAFE

Shoot at random nearby enemies for 120% weapon damage while moving at 65% of normal movement speed.

- Costs 15 Hatred per second.

Strafe is a potent attack to use against multiple enemies. It combines aspects of Rapid Fire with Smoke Screen. The Demon Hunter turns shadowy and appears to gain a twin as she moves in a straight line, firing her crossbows at three random targets per second. In its basic form, this particular skill has a certain amount of randomness to it, but this does little to diminish the overall effectiveness of the attack.

The Demon Hunter rotates along a straight path, firing random shots at nearby enemies.

RUNES

Equilibrium provides a significant increase to the Demon Hunter's rate of fire while Strafing, which certainly helps to increase the offensive capability of this skill. Drifting Shadow boosts the Demon Hunter's movement speed to that of her normal run speed. This helps to transform Strafe into both an attack and an evasive maneuver; it's a chance to attack while fleeing. Rocket Storm causes rockets to fire periodically during the Strafe. Consider equipping the Ballistics passive skill if selecting this rune. Demolition transforms the attack from arrows to bouncing grenades. This shift not only increases the damage output, but also makes the skill far more effective at delivering AOE damage.

Equilibrium

Unlocked: Level 24

Increases rate of fire while using Strafe by 20%.

Stinging Steel

Unlocked: Level 27

Throw out knives rather than arrows that do an extra 100% damage on successful critical hits.

Drifting Shadow

Unlocked: Level 29

Movement speed increases to 100% of normal running speed when strafing.

Rocket Storm

Unlocked: Level 50

In addition to regular firing, deploy homing rockets for 60% weapon damage as Fire.

Demolition

Unlocked: Level 56

Toss bouncing grenades that explode for 144% weapon damage to targets within 9 yards.

MULTISHOT

Fire a massive volley of arrows, dealing 115% weapon damage to all enemies in the area.

- Costs 15 Hatred.

Multishot allows the Demon Hunter to damage a large number of enemies with a single attack. The arrows spread out to hit just about everything in a surprisingly wide arc in front of the Demon Hunter. The fact that the attack strikes for 115% weapon damage is a huge bonus, even without a rune. This skill is sure to become a staple in the Demon Hunter's repertoire once it's unlocked.

Multishot is worth every bit of the 15 Hatred it costs to fire!

RUNES

Burst Fire causes a shock pulse to discharge whenever Multishot is used. The pulse damages those enemies near the Demon Hunter, regardless of the direction of her aim, thereby adding a defensive component to the attack. Suppression Fire transforms Multishot into a top-notch source of Discipline; fire at a crowd of enemies and watch the Discipline meter fill in seconds! Full Broadside doesn't alter the mechanics of the skill, but it does boost the attack damage by one-third! Arsenal adds rockets to the base Multishot attack, causing additional damage to nearby enemies with each use of the skill. Like other runes that fire rockets, it pays to equip the Ballistics passive skill to double their effectiveness.

Fire at Will

Unlocked: Level 26
Cost reduced to 10 Hatred.
Deals 115% weapon damage as Lightning.

Burst Fire

Unlocked: Level 31
Every time you fire, generate a shock pulse that damages nearby enemies for 45% weapon damage as Arcane.

Suppression Fire

Unlocked: Level 39
Every enemy hit grants 1 Discipline.

Full Broadside

Unlocked: Level 46
Increase the damage of Multishot to 150% weapon damage.

Arsenal

Unlocked: Level 55
Every use also fires 3 rockets at nearby enemies that deal 40% weapon damage as Fire each.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): ARCHERY

CLUSTER ARROW

Fire a Cluster arrow that explodes for 200% weapon damage as Fire into a series of additional miniature bombs that explode for 100% weapon damage as Fire each.

- Costs 50 Hatred.

Cluster Arrow is great against groups of enemies that are huddled together in a tight space. The initial attack deals 200% weapon damage to the targeted foe, then the five miniature bombs deploy and explode for additional damage across a small area. The blast radius isn't large, so save this attack for enemies in close proximity to one another or very large packs of enemies.

The initial explosion releases a series of mini-bombs that damage nearby enemies.

RUNES

Dazzling Arrow takes one of the Demon Hunter's premier offensive skills and adds a high chance to temporarily stun. This is a tremendous boost to the skill. Maelstrom replaces the miniature bombs with a cloud of shadow energy that returns a percentage of the damage it inflicts as Life. This rune lowers the overall DPS of the skill, but can make a big difference for Heroes with low Life Regen. Slot Cluster Bombs when exploring dungeons and other narrow interiors to maximize your chances of hitting enemies with the straight-line bombing pattern. Loaded for Bear maintains the base skill's behavior, but increases the damage of the initial explosion by 45%, making this an excellent DPS attack to use against a single target or a Rare and its nearby minions.

Dazzling Arrow

Unlocked: Level 33
Enemies hit by grenades have a 55% chance to be stunned for 2 seconds.

Shooting Stars

Unlocked: Level 36
Instead of releasing grenades, shoots up to 3 rockets at nearby enemies, dealing 175% weapon damage as Physical each.

Maelstrom

Unlocked: Level 41
Instead of releasing grenades, the cluster releases shadow energy that deals 145% weapon damage as Physical to nearby enemies. You will gain 4% of the damage done as Life.

Cluster Bombs

Unlocked: Level 49
Launch the cluster through the air, dropping several bombs in a straight line that explode for 230% weapon damage as Fire each.

Loaded for Bear

Unlocked: Level 58
Increases the damage of the explosion at the impact location to 290% weapon damage as Fire.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): ARCHERY

RAIN OF VENGEANCE

Fire a massive volley of arrows around you. Arrows fall from the sky, dealing 75% weapon damage for 5 seconds to all enemies in the area.

- Cooldown 30 seconds.

Rain of Vengeance is the single most devastating AOE attack in the Demon Hunter's repertoire. Simply draw the enemies in close, then trigger Rain of Vengeance to watch an astonishingly lengthy barrage of arrows fall from the sky and eviscerate the enemy forces. The arrows drop at random across a wide area around you and each enemy in that area is all but guaranteed to get hit multiple times for 91% weapon damage per second during the volley.

Cast the Rain of Vengeance skill and watch the corpses pile up!

RUNES

Beastly Bombs replaces the skill's arrows with 20 bombs that fall across the targeted area, dealing heavy damage each. This is a fantastic way to ramp up the damage inflicted by the skill. It also allows you to quickly damage enemies in the targeted area without concern that they may flee before the volley concludes. The Shadow Beasts summoned by Stampede charge across the targeted area, inflicting damage while also knocking enemies back. This is a smart tactic if the mass of enemies gets too close, as it helps to put some separation between the Demon Hunter and her foes. Anathema is a cross between Beastly Bombs and the base skill because it increases the damage dealt, but spreads it out over a period of time—use this in areas where there is a steady stream of enemies approaching, or where you have a relatively stationary boss enemy. Flying Strike gives the Demon Hunter an attack that can inflict both heavy damage and crowd control.

Dark Cloud

Unlocked: Level 35

Launch a massive volley of guided arrows that rains down on enemies for 34% weapon damage for 12 seconds.

Beastly Bombs

Unlocked: Level 40

Summon 20 Shadow Beasts to drop bombs on enemies, dealing 125% weapon damage each.

Stampede

Unlocked: Level 47

Summon a wave of 10 Shadow Beasts to tear across the ground, knocking back enemies and dealing 75% weapon damage each.

Anathema

Unlocked: Level 54

Summon a Shadow Beast that drops grenades from the sky for 10 seconds, dealing 115% weapon damage.

Flying Strike

Unlocked: Level 60

A group of 8 Shadow Beasts plummet from the sky at a targeted location, dealing 60% weapon damage each and stunning enemies for 2 seconds.

PASSIVE SKILL

THRILL OF THE HUNT

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

Every 10 seconds, your next bow attack will immobilize your target for 3 seconds.

We know the Demon Hunter benefits from slowing an enemy; now imagine how useful it is to immobilize that foe! Unlike many skills, Thrill of the Hunt doesn't just have a chance to take effect—it works without fail each and every 10 seconds. This helps during intense battles against several enemies, just to stop a single foe and allow you to focus on others that are approaching. It's also possible to wait for the effect to kick in between battles knowing that you can immobilize the first enemy you target during the next encounter—great for stopping a Rare in its tracks, thereby allowing you 3 seconds of uninterrupted time to focus on its Minions.

PASSIVE SKILL

TACTICAL ADVANTAGE

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

Whenever you use Vault, Smoke Screen, or backflip with Evasive Fire, you gain 60% movement speed for 2 seconds.

Speed and agility are instrumental to the Demon Hunter's arsenal and Tactical Advantage helps ensure she's consistently one step ahead of the opposition. This passive skill may not be necessary on Normal difficulty (particularly during Acts I and II), but it will quickly prove itself invaluable at higher levels where the enemies are both swifter, more numerous, and tend to feature more ranged attacks.

PASSIVE SKILL

VENGEANCE

UNLOCKED
lvl 13

Your maximum Hatred is increased by 25. In addition, gain 20 Hatred and 2 Discipline whenever you are healed by a health globe.

Unlike the Barbarian and Monk, the Demon Hunter's twin resources regenerate naturally over time. The Vengeance passive skill helps nudge them along, adding Hatred and Discipline whenever a health globe is collected. Very few of the Demon Hunters skills have a cooldown period, thus making this passive skill all the more attractive. Gather up the health globes to further fuel your skills use. Just avoid collecting too many health globes while you have full Life, as you may not find them when you're low on Life and really need them. The increase to the maximum Hatred pool makes this skill all the more attractive.

PASSIVE SKILL

STEADY AIM

As long as there are no enemies within 10 yards, all damage is increased by 20%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 16

Steady Aim is particularly useful out in the fields, where there is typically more space to maneuver and it's easier to maintain a safe distance than inside dungeons. Use Steady Aim in conjunction with Vault and Evasive Fire to maintain at least 10 yards between you and the enemy. Steady Aim's effects enhance all of the Demon Hunter's attack skills, along with those slotted with runes.

PASSIVE SKILL

CULL THE WEAK

Damage against slowed enemies increased by 15%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

The Demon Hunter has a number of skills that slow down enemy movement, thus making Cull the Weak an attractive passive skill. Consider slotting Cull the Weak when using Entangling Shot, Caltrops, or any of the skills in which the runestone serves to slow enemy movement.

PASSIVE SKILL

NIGHT STALKER

Critical hits have a chance to restore 2 Discipline.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

The Demon Hunter's Discipline resource regenerates naturally, but at a very slow rate. Those with a high Critical Hit Chance can give it a nudge with the Night Stalker passive skill. Though helpful, there are only three slots to fill. Night Stalker should be chosen only if you routinely land critical hits and have the need for added Discipline. This is a skill that will likely deserve closer consideration on higher difficulty settings.

PASSIVE SKILL

BROODING

As long as you have not taken damage in the last 3 seconds, you gain 1% of your maximum Life per second.

UNLOCKED
lvl 25

To play as the Demon Hunter is to seek distance from your target, stay safely out of the fray, and attack from the periphery. It's nonetheless impossible to avoid all damage, and that's where Brooding comes in. Brooding is perfect for Demon Hunters with little Life regenerating equipment or applicable runes. Make the most out of it by advancing slowly after an intense battle to allow time for Brooding to kick in (note the icon above the action bar). Brooding works even if you're not moving—hang out in a quiet corner of the dungeon for a few seconds to recover Life whenever necessary.

PASSIVE SKILL

HOT PURSUIT

Whenever you are at full Hatred, movement speed is increased by 15%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 27

Speed and agility are important tools in the Demon Hunter's quiver, but only you can decide if it's worth giving up one of the few available passive skill slots for an occasional speed boost. This skill suits players who rely primarily on Hatred-generating attacks and those skills that draw from Discipline instead of Hatred; otherwise, you're unlikely to maintain the full Hatred supply needed to gain the movement bonus. Those looking for an increase to movement speed should consider either Hot Pursuit or Tactical Advantage, but not both.

PASSIVE SKILL

ARCHERY

Gain a bonus based on the weapon type of your main hand weapon:
Bow: +15% increased damage. Crossbows: +50% Critical Hit Damage.
Hand Crossbows: +10% Critical Hit Chance.

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

It's important to understand that Archery's effects apply to all of your attacks. This means that even your skill attacks, such as the shots fired by your Sentry, will gain the bonus corresponding to the weapon held. Consider your current Critical Hit Chance and equipped weaponry when selecting the Archery skill. Those with an above-average Critical Hit Chance rating will benefit most from Archery if they are wielding a standard two-handed crossbow. Consider switching to the crossbow if you're not already using one to gain the most from this skill. Similarly, those with a lower Critical Hit Chance may opt to use hand crossbows to raise that rating.

PASSIVE SKILL

NUMBING TRAPS

Enemies hit by Fan of Knives, Spike Trap, and Caltrops have their damage reduced by 25% for 3 seconds.

Numbing Traps reduces the damage that enemies can inflict on the Hero for 3 seconds after being hit with the skills mentioned. This skill can really help the Demon Hunter defy the odds on higher difficulties, particularly when surrounded. It can really prove useful if, for example, you trigger Fan of Knives while surrounded by enemies. Fan of Knives and its various runes make for a valuable defense. Numbing Traps makes it (and Caltrops and Spike Trap) even better!

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

PASSIVE SKILL

PERFECTIONIST

Reduces the Discipline cost of all skills by 20%.

The Demon Hunter begins with only 30 Discipline points and most Discipline-based skills cost 10 to 20 Discipline each. Perfectionist reduces this cost by 20%, which is particularly helpful given Discipline's slower recharge rate. It's something to consider if you frequently use skills like Vault or Sentry. Together with Vengeance, you can almost guarantee that you won't run out of either Hatred or Discipline in all but the most dire of situations.

UNLOCKED
lvl 35

PASSIVE SKILL

CUSTOM ENGINEERING

The duration of your Caltrops, Marked for Death, Spike Trap, and Sentry is increased by 100%.

Doubling the duration of the selected skills offers a considerable bonus. It's worth considering this skill even if you only regularly use one or two of the skills affected. Your Caltrops and Spike Traps may tend to be sprung shortly after you set them down, but Custom Engineering is still effective for Sentry and Marked for Death. Pairing this skill with Marked for Death is particularly useful during boss battles or when facing a pack of Champion enemies.

PASSIVE SKILL

GRENADIER

Increases Hatred generated from Grenades by 2 and reduces the Hatred cost of Cluster Arrow by 10. Upon death, you drop a giant grenade that explodes for 540% weapon damage as Fire.

Let this skill's availability remind you to give those skills a try if you haven't used them yet. They're both particularly effective against groups of enemies. Furthermore, the giant grenade that explodes upon your death is useful in co-op play, thus providing extra support to your teammates even in death and helping to clear a path so they may revive you.

PASSIVE SKILL

SHARPSHOOTER

Gain 3% Critical Hit Chance every second. This bonus is reset 1 second after you successfully critical hit.

A 3% chance to hit for critical damage every second may not sound like a lot, but this skill allows greater flexibility in equipment and runes selection. By equipping Sharpshooter, you can afford to swap out runes or a piece of equipment that you were only using to gain a Critical Hit Chance bonus. On the other hand, Sharpshooter can expand upon an existing high Critical Hit Chance rating by increasing the frequency of critical hits. Those seeking maximum DPS on higher difficulty levels should give Sharpshooter a long look.

BALLISTICS

Damage from rockets is increased by 50%.

Consider this skill if you're using Multishot with Arsenal, Cluster Arrow with Shooting Stars, or Sentry with Spitfire Turret. Rockets are an important component unique to the Demon Hunter, and Ballistics effectively doubles their effect—a feature sure to come in handy on Nightmare difficulty and beyond.

MONK

The gods are in all things. And everywhere I see signs of change. The wind bears an unnatural chill. And my people grow uneasy.

Now fire burns the sky and scorches the vault of the heavens. I must carry out the will of the patriarchs. When they need to see, I am their eyes. Where they wish to strike, I am their fist. When they would ignite the light of truth, I am their torch.

They have sent me to where the heavenly fire has fallen. My mind is clear. I will rid Tristram of the shambling corpses that have risen in the fire's wake.

A holy warrior who attacks faster than the eye can follow, disabling enemies with precision blows.

- Holy and elemental magic infuse the Monk with the ability to heal and deliver crippling damage to adversaries.
- Fast and agile, Monks are masters of martial arts, employing their blinding speed to pummel their foes while dodging their enemies' attacks.
- The force of Spirit powers the Monk's abilities. Spirit is gained through the Monk's primary attacks.

HEROIC GROWTH

Hidden beneath the Monk's flowing robes stands a body built for close-quarters combat, but of a style wholly different than the brute-force approach taken by the Barbarian. The Monk blends high Dexterity with tremendous speed to inflict bone-shattering hit-and-run strikes. The Monk is, indeed, a melee combatant, and an adept one at that! But although the Monk's Strength rating is less than that of the Barbarian, Monks carry the same initial Vitality into battle. Fortunately, the Monk's reduced armor is more than offset by his devotion to a higher calling—his faith in Ytar enables him to heal the wounds his body cannot absorb.

EQUIPPED FOR BATTLE

WEAPONRY

Special: Fists, Daibo

Centuries of tradition have given rise to a class of Monks skilled in the art of combat. Spirit guides these warriors into battle not as hate-filled aggressors, but as defenders charged with protecting a way of life—and faith. Command of both martial and holy arts serves the Monk well, a mingling of skills that yields a potent fighter capable of healing himself and allies.

The Monk's extensive training regimen has given him a familiarity with all basic weaponry, including the ability to dual-wield many one-handed weapons. Nevertheless, the Monk is at his best when he's moving fast and hitting even faster. Focus your weapon choice on a weapon's attack speed, as well as its damage per second (DPS). The Monk's special glove-like weapons—fists—are extremely lightweight, retain the dual-wielding bonuses offered by some skills and runes, and pack all the damage of traditional melee weapons. Not only does this enable the Monk to best utilize his tremendous speed, but many of the skills you will come to rely upon to generate Spirit are punching attacks—it simply feels more appropriate performing these attacks when using fist weapons.

Of course, you are bound to occasionally find a Daibo that is simply too great to pass up. The Monk is also quite skilled with the fighting staff and looks completely natural using it to finish off an attack. Consider equipping the Monk with either the fists or the Daibo for best role-playing results.

ARMOR STYLES

Despite being a melee combatant, the Monk's style of dress reflects a vastly different approach than that of the Barbarian. Cloaked in flowing robes, his armor places an emphasis on freedom of movement and flexibility over heavy plating. Even the advanced forms of armor for the Monk are considerably lighter than that of the other classes. For this character class, the ability to dodge an attack is just as important as absorbing a heavy blow. The Monk's wardrobe reflects not only this, but also his religious background. The Monk does gain the same adornments as other classes, but on a subtler scale and without the overt focus on intimidation and bloodlust.

ABOUT ARMOR STYLES

The following armor appearances serve merely to illustrate what a prototypical Hero might look like at any given level. In reality, the Hero will likely possess multiple styles of armor simultaneously, thereby having a far more unique appearance that blends two or more of the styles displayed here. And upon considering the numerous colors of dyes that are available, it is unlikely that any two Heroes of the same class will look identical.

The Monk approaches New Tristram in wrapped feet and virtually naked. A simple dot adorns his forehead and tattered cloth provides minimal modesty.

Cloth robes provide slightly more coverage than the Hero's initial look, but the Monk is still exposed to enemies and the elements alike (levels 1-6).

Padded materials comprised of quilting and woven materials cover the Monk's arms and legs, but only provide minimal protection (levels 7-13).

Leather shoulder guards, gauntlets, and belt combine with a better helm to give the Monk a nobler look (levels 14-19).

Chainmail is added to the armor, providing additional protection while also covering the Monk's entire body (levels 20-24).

Splint and Brigandine armor adorns the Monk's outfits and provides far better protection while also lending an air of elegance (levels 25-28).

Elaborate shapes of plate metal are added to the ancient robes of the Monk to create an exquisite final armor look for Normal difficulty (levels 29-31).

SKILLS & RUNES

The Monk straddles the line between being a very strong melee combatant and a healer/protector. Solo players should focus primarily on the Monk's offensive capabilities. Those playing with a party should look more seriously at the Monk's many Mantras. Even though only one can be active at a given time, having the choice between Mantra of Healing and another more offensive-minded skill, such as Mantra of Conviction, can benefit the party. Keep in mind that the Monk lacks the Barbarian's Strength and needs to take special precautions to stay safe. Skills like Inner Sanctuary and Tempest Rush are integral for helping the Monk stay alive, particularly in narrow spaces.

RESOURCE: SPIRIT

The Monk's active skills are fueled by Spirit. The Monk can possess a maximum pool of 150 Spirit without equipping the Exalted Soul skill to increase it to 250. Spirit doesn't naturally generate and must be generated through basic attacks and a subset of skills that generate Spirit. Fortunately, unlike the Barbarian's Fury, the Monk's Spirit resource doesn't gradually drain over time. This allows the Monk to accumulate Spirit and save it for when he truly needs it.

PASSIVE SKILLS

The first passive skill slot unlocks at level 10. Subsequent slots unlock at levels 20 and 30. Once chosen, the following skills contribute to the Hero's strength and abilities in the background, requiring no further player input or resource. Consider your playing style and current assortment of active skills when choosing which passive skills to activate.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

FISTS OF THUNDER

Unleash several extremely fast punches that deal 110% weapon damage as Lightning. Every third hit deals damage to all enemies in front of you and knocks them back a short distance. Generates Spirit faster than other Spirit-generating skills due to the high attack speed.

- Generates 6 Spirit per attack.

Fists of Thunder is available from the onset of the Monk's journey and as a primary attack mapped to the left mouse button. Not only does this attack generate Spirit with each attack, but the fact that it deals 110% weapon damage means you aren't giving up anything when using it compared to a basic weapon attack. Quite the contrary! The third strike generates a powerful Lightning charge that damages all enemies directly in front of the Monk and knocks them back—punch away at the center enemy in a group and watch multiple foes get caught in the splash damage!

The third strike delivers a burst of pure Lightning to damage all enemies in front of you, along with a short distance Knockback.

RUNES

Bounding Light replaces the Knockback component of the base skill with chain lightning that spreads to nearby enemies, inflicting moderate damage as it does. It's a way to increase the damage to those enemies in front of the Monk instead of knocking them back. Lightning Flash increases the Monk's Dodge Chance while he attacks with Fists of Thunder. Dodging isn't a physical maneuver per se, but rather a statistical chance to evade an attack. Dodge is an important aspect of the Monk's battle strategy, as he's typically trading blows at close range. Select Static Charge, complete a three-hit combo on your primary target, then focus on nearby enemies with Fists of Thunder to further damage the initial target. Thunderclap shifts Fists of Thunder more to that of an AOE attack. The Monk teleports to the targeted enemy and damages all enemies within 6 yards with every punch.

Thunderclap

Unlocked: Level 6

Teleport to the target and release an electric shockwave with every punch that hits all enemies within 6 yards of your primary target for 35% weapon damage as Lightning.

Lightning Flash

Unlocked: Level 14

Increases your chance to Dodge by 16% for 2 seconds.

Static Charge

Unlocked: Level 30

Your primary target is charged with static electricity for 5 seconds and takes 37% weapon damage as Lightning when you attack other enemies with Fists of Thunder.

Quickening

Unlocked: Level 42

Critical Hits generate an additional 15 Spirit.

Bounding Light

Unlocked: Level 52

Every third punch releases chain lightning instead of knocking enemies back. Each lightning strike inflicts 73% weapon damage as Lightning.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

DEADLY REACH

Project lines of pure force over a short distance for 110% weapon damage. Every third hit extends 25 yards.

- Generates 6 Spirit per attack.

Deadly Reach is similar to Fists of Thunder in speed, Spirit Generation, and overall effectiveness. But where it really excels is range. True to its name, Deadly Reach gives the Monk a longer-ranged melee attack than he would otherwise have. This is particularly useful if one of the first two hits happens to deal a fatal blow—the third hit might reach out and strike a more distant enemy. This attack is also ideal when combined with Inner Sanctuary as it grants the ability to stay within the Inner Sanctuary space and strike enemies beyond it.

A punch, a shoulder charge, then a finishing kick that extends out 25 yards.

RUNES

Deadly Reach is a close-range attack that puts the Monk in harm's way. Keen Eye provides several seconds of increased Armor every time Deadly Reach hits for a third strike. Instead of piercing a line of enemies, Scattered Blows replaces the third strike with an AOE attack that hits all enemies within 15 yards with heavy Lightning damage—focus your attack on the primary target and enjoy the collateral damage inflicted upon the others. Strike from Beyond nearly doubles the amount of Spirit generated by this attack, thereby helping to ensure an adequate supply for the Monk's resource-intensive attacks. Foresight provides 30 seconds worth of increased damage for the Monk. When the Monk has plenty of Spirit, take advantage of this bonus damage with a barrage of heavy attacks.

Piercing Trident

Unlocked: Level 9

Increases the area of effect of the second and third strikes.

Keen Eye

Unlocked: Level 18

The third strike increases your Armor by 50% for 4 seconds.

Scattered Blows

Unlocked: Level 34

The third strike is replaced with an attack that will hit up to 6 nearby enemies within 15 yards for 170% weapon damage as Lightning.

Strike from Beyond

Unlocked: Level 47

Critical Hits generate an additional 10 Spirit.

Foresight

Unlocked: Level 54

The third strike increases the damage of all attacks by 18% for 30 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

CRIPPLING WAVE

Unleash large sweeping attacks that cause 110% weapon damage to all enemies in front of you. Every third hit damages all enemies around you and dazes them, slowing movement speed by 30% and attack speed by 20% for 3 seconds.

- Generates 6 Spirit per attack.

Crippling Wave is an excellent alternative to the primary melee attacks used to generate Spirit. Although not quite as fast as Fists of Thunder or Exploding Palm, Crippling Wave's ability to strike all enemies around the Monk (third hit only) make it well-suited to situations when the Monk is being surrounded. Crippling Wave's ability to slow enemy movement speed and attack speed make it a valuable method of crowd control on higher difficulties.

The vibrant third strike of Crippling Wave decreases enemy movement speed and attack speed of all around you!

RUNES

Concussion doesn't just slow enemies' movement and attack speed; it also reduces the damage they can inflict for 3 seconds. Those with very high Critical Hit Chance will want to slot Rising Tide to gain 5 Spirit each time the Monk lands a Critical Hit. This has the potential to generate a massive amount of Spirit in crowded encounters, given how many enemies Crippling Wave stands to hit with every third hit. Tsunami enhances the range of Crippling Wave's third hit to include all enemies within 17 yards, making the skill an effective AOE attack that also boasts considerable crowd controlling ability. Coordinate Breaking Wave attacks with your allies to take full advantage of the damage bonus this rune generates.

Mangle

Unlocked: Level 17
Increases damage to 143% weapon damage.

Concussion

Unlocked: Level 26
Enemies hit by Crippling Wave inflict 20% less damage for 3 seconds.

Rising Tide

Unlocked: Level 36
Critical Hits generate an additional 5 Spirit.

Tsunami

Unlocked: Level 51
The range of Crippling Wave's third strike is increased to 17 yards and the effect of the movement speed reduction is increased to 60%.

Breaking Wave

Unlocked: Level 57
Enemies hit by Crippling Wave take 10% additional damage from all attacks for 3 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

WAY OF THE HUNDRED FISTS

A rapid series of punches that strikes enemies for 140% weapon damage.

- Generates 6 Spirit per attack.

Way of the Hundred Fists is the most straightforward of the Spirit generating skills, but also among the most powerful. Despite lacking a third-strike special effect, the skill hits harder and faster than the other attacks. This allows the Monk to inflict even more damage-per-second than with other attacks, especially if you continue to click the enemy swiftly and don't allow time to pass between barrages. Each individual hit in this three-strike combo actually strikes for multiple hits—it's not called Way of the Hundred Fists for nothing!

The barrage of punches is almost too fast to see with the naked eye and ends with a powerful knockback blow!

RUNES

Blazing Fists is worth selecting for those with a high Critical Hit Chance. Every Critical Hit you land increases attack and movement speed for 5 seconds. Fists of Fury adds a short dash to the initial strike, but most importantly it causes targets to take additional damage per second for 5 seconds. Coordinate with your allies to focus their attacks on the enemies you hit with this attack to take full advantage of it. Spirited Salvo amplifies the Spirit-generating aspect of the skill with a 15% chance to generate 15 Spirit. Only slot this rune if you routinely run low on Spirit or only use this skill to build up Spirit for other skills as opposed to using Way of the Hundred Fists as a focal attack. Windforce Flurry causes the third strike in this attack to generate a dangerous blast of wind that strikes all enemies directly ahead of the Monk for very high damage.

Hands of Lightning

Unlocked: Level 24
Increases the number of hits in the second strike from 7 to 10.

Blazing Fists

Unlocked: Level 32
Critical Hits increase your attack speed and movement speed by 5% for 5 seconds. This effect can stack up to 3 times.

Fists of Fury

Unlocked: Level 40
Affected targets take an additional 10% more weapon damage per second as Holy for 5 seconds. Also adds a short dash to the first strike.

Spirited Salvo

Unlocked: Level 48
Every activation of the skill has a 15% chance to generate 15 additional Spirit.

Windforce Flurry

Unlocked: Level 60
The third strike generates a wave of wind that deals 250% weapon damage as Physical to enemies directly ahead of you.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

LASHING TAIL KICK

Unleash a deadly roundhouse kick that knocks enemies back and deals 200% weapon damage.

- Costs 30 Spirit.

Even melee fighters need a little breathing room now and then. Unleash Lashing Tail Kick to deliver a mighty kick to multiple enemies in front of the Monk. They'll be knocked back a considerable distance and suffer heavy damage. This attack is particularly useful when you're low on health, surrounded on all sides, or playing cooperatively and are coming to the aid of your Wizard or Demon Hunter allies. Its ability to knock back a number of enemies is also particularly useful against molten and frozen monsters.

Lashing Tail Kick can even send shielded foes flying backwards through the air.

RUNES

Sweeping Armada maintains the 200% weapon damage of the base attack, but more than doubles the Knockback distance and temporarily slows the movement of slowed enemies, making this an extremely useful rune to slot both for damage and crowd control. Spinning Flame Kick increases the damage inflicted to enemies and extends the attack to those beyond the front line. Scorpion Sting replaces the Knockback component with a 50% chance of a 1.5 stun effect; this is ideal against ranged enemies, who can still attack after being knocked back unless they are stunned. Hand of Ytar extends the range of Lashing Tail Kick, thereby allowing the Monk to perform the attack while staying outside of enemy's melee range or chasing a fleeing opponent. It also slows those impacted for 2 seconds.

Vulture Claw Kick

Unlocked: Level 7

Release a torrent of fire that burns nearby enemies for 220% weapon damage as Fire and causes Knockback.

Sweeping Armada

Unlocked: Level 15

Increases Knockback distance by 150% and slows the movement speed of struck enemies by 60% for 2 seconds.

Spinning Flame Kick

Unlocked: Level 28

Hurl a column of fire that burns through enemies, causing 240% weapon damage as Fire to each enemy it strikes.

Scorpion Sting

Unlocked: Level 38

Enemies have a 50% chance to be stunned for 1.5 seconds instead of being knocked back.

Hand of Ytar

Unlocked: Level 52

Attack enemies at long range, slowing the movement speed of affected targets by 80% for 2 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

TEMPEST RUSH

Charge directly through your enemies, knocking them back and hobbling them, slowing their movement by 60% for 2 seconds. Also deals 50% weapon damage while running.

- Costs 15 Spirit plus an additional 10 Spirit while channeling.

There's no situation worse for a Hero than being surrounded on all sides by hardened enemies with nowhere to flee. Fortunately, each class has a skill that allows them to break free. Tempest Rush is that skill for the Monk. Activate it (and continue to hold the right mouse button) to have the Monk twirl an ancient magical staff as she charges straight through the enemy line. Tempest Rush knocks enemies aside, delivers weapon damage, and even slows their movement. Lengthy runs with Tempest Rush don't come cheaply—10 Spirit per second—but this is one skill you can't afford to be without when low on Life and surrounded by Champion hellspawn!

Never get trapped in a corner again—Tempest Rush lets you break straight through enemy lines!

RUNES

Tailwind increases the movement speed of the base skill by 25%. Moving faster while using Tempest Rush allows the Monk to consume less Spirit through channeling while covering the same distance. Flurry increases the degree to which enemies are slowed, making it easier to escape to safety and avoid pursuers while you regroup. The Monk can still take damage while he's using Tempest Rush, particularly from ranged attackers outside his path. Slipstream reduces the amount of damage the Monk takes while using the skill. Bluster reduces the damage of enemies knocked back for the two-second duration of the skill, thereby making them less capable of delivering substantial damage to the Monk. The end result is similar to Slipstream, but the Monk needn't continue using Tempest Charge to enjoy the benefits of the reduced enemy damage.

Northern Breeze

Unlocked: Level 11

Reduces the channeling cost of Tempest Rush to 8 Spirit.

Tailwind

Unlocked: Level 20

Increases the movement speed of Tempest Rush by 25%.

Flurry

Unlocked: Level 33

Increases the potency of the hobbling effect, slowing enemy movement by 80%.

Slipstream

Unlocked: Level 45

Reduces damage taken while running by 25%.

Bluster

Unlocked: Level 56

Enemies knocked back have their damage reduced by 20% for the duration of the effect.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

WAVE OF LIGHT

Focuses a wave of light that crushes enemies for 150% weapon damage as Holy, followed by an additional 150% weapon damage as Holy to all enemies in a line.

- Costs 100 Spirit.

Face your enemies and call down a magical bell from the skies. The Monk then strikes the bell, sending a Wave of Light bursting from the far side, dealing Holy damage to all. The initial crash of the bell also deals Holy damage, making this a great attack to use when faced with numerous enemies lining up to attack you from close range. This is not a particularly fast attack to conclude, but the initial crushing damage from the falling bell should clear out any close-range threats.

The Monk strikes a holy bell like a gong, creating a Wave of Light out the other side and sending enemies flying.

RUNES

Wall of Light increases the damage inflicted by the initial strike from 150% to 240%, making it an ideal attack to use against a single-target foe or a Rare with his minions. Explosive Light transforms the skill to a single strike that inflicts heavy damage to all nearby enemies, not just those in a line. Heroes with a very high Critical Hit Chance can utilize Blinding Light to not only damage, but also stun enemies that are critically hit. Pillar of the Ancients dramatically increases both the initial damage and that of the second hit, but adds a two-second delay before the second strike. Pair Wave of Light with Pillar of the Ancients to gain access to the Monk's most dangerous attack!

Wall of Light

Unlocked: Level 18

Increases damage of the initial strike to 312% weapon damage as Holy.

Explosive Light

Unlocked: Level 25

Release bursts of energy that deal 285% weapon damage as Holy to nearby enemies.

Empowered Wave

Unlocked: Level 35

Reduces the cost of Wave of Light to 40 Spirit.

Blinding Light

Unlocked: Level 49

Critical Hits Stun enemies for 3 seconds.

Pillar of the Ancients

Unlocked: Level 57

Summon an ancient pillar that deals 210% weapon damage, followed by 210% more after 2 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

BLINDING FLASH

Create a flash of light that blinds all enemies within 20 yards for 3 seconds. Elite enemies recover faster, but suffer a 30% chance to miss with attacks.

- Costs 10 Spirit.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

Blinding Flash is an important skill to use early in the Monk's adventure, as well as much later when the number of enemies attacking simultaneously swells. It briefly blinds enemies for up to three seconds, halting their offensive abilities unless provoked. This allows the Monk to gain a considerable advantage against large groups. Follow this attack with Exploding Palm or an AOE skill that spreads from a single target to multiple enemies. This delays the others from attacking until the blinded duration is over.

Blinding Flash blinds all enemies in the area, causing an increased chance that they will miss with attacks and prevents them from attacking unless provoked.

RUNES

Blinded and Confused creates the chance for blinded enemies to attack one another. There is only a one-in-four chance of this occurring, but you can make the most of this by using Blinding Flash against larger groups. Blinding Echo causes a second brief flash to occur several seconds after the initial one. The second flash will stun all enemies within 20 yards for a half-second, creating just enough opportunity for the Monk to press the attack or quickly collect a nearby health globe. Searing Light increases the chance that elite enemies (Champion, Rare, unique, etc.) will miss their attack after recovering from being blinded. Faith in the Light adds 30% damage to each of the Monk's attacks for 3 seconds after using Blinding Flash. Have a powerful AOE attack at the ready and unleash it to devastating results immediately after using Blinding Flash.

Self Reflection

Unlocked: Level 12

Increases the duration enemies are blinded to 4 seconds.

Blinded and Confused

Unlocked: Level 19

Blinded enemies have a 25% chance to attack each other.

Blinding Echo

Unlocked: Level 28

A second flash of light will blind enemies within 20 yards for 0.5 seconds, 6 seconds after using Blinding Flash.

Searing Light

Unlocked: Level 41

Increases the chance elite enemies will miss attacks to 60%.

Faith in the Light

Unlocked: Level 55

For 3 seconds after using Blinding Flash, all of your attacks are empowered to deal 30% additional weapon damage as Holy.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

BREATH OF HEAVEN

A blast of divine energy heals you and all allies within 12 yards for 127-153 Life (amount of healing is based on player level; numbers shown reflect skill at player level 8).

- Costs 25 Spirit.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

The Monk is the only true healer among the five Hero classes, someone every large party should consider bringing along for the fight. The cooldown limits repeat usage, but the relatively low Spirit cost makes this skill more valuable than a stockpile of potions. Always let your allies know when you're about to use Breath of Heaven so that they can move within the 12-yard radius to benefit from the skill. Breath of Heaven is perfect for occasional usage during general combat, but you should be strategic about using it during boss battles, given its cooldown. Breath of Heaven is perfect when there aren't any health globes available, or while you're waiting for a potion cooldown to end. The lengthy cooldown for potions limits their usefulness, so make sure to maintain enough Spirit on hand to cast Breath of Heaven if you need an emergency refill before the potion cooldown ends.

RUNES

Circle of Scorn addresses the Monk's need for healing during combat. Use this skill-rune pairing to not only heal, but to inflict Holy damage upon all enemies within the area of effect. Blazing Wrath regains Life for you and your allies with a 15% damage bonus for 45 seconds. Infused with Light essentially doubles the amount of Spirit the Monk can gain from Spirit generating attacks for 5 seconds after using the skill—select this rune only if you are routinely running low on Spirit. Unleashing Breath of Heaven with Penitent Flame heals the Monk and his nearby allies while dealing fear to all enemies within the area. All feared targets will run away from the Monk for 1.5 seconds, leaving him to catch his breath and prepare for the next wave of attackers.

Circle of Scorn

Unlocked: Level 14
Breath of Heaven also sears enemies for 96% weapon damage as Holy.

Circle of Life

Unlocked: Level 21
Increases the power of Breath of Heaven to 165-198 Life (based on player level; numbers shown reflect skill at player level 8 for comparison purposes to base skill).

Blazing Wrath

Unlocked: Level 32
Breath of Heaven increases the damage of your attacks by 15% for 45 seconds.

Infused with Light

Unlocked: Level 44
Gain 6 additional Spirit from Spirit generator attacks for 5 seconds after using Breath of Heaven.

Penitent Flame

Unlocked: Level 59
Enemies exposed to Breath of Heaven run away in fear for 1.5 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SERENITY

You are enveloped in a protective shield that absorbs all incoming damage for 3 seconds and grants immunity to all control impairing effects.

- Costs 10 Spirit.
- Cooldown 45 seconds.

Three seconds may not sound like much, but it can make all the difference in the life of a Hero, particularly when waiting for a potion's cooldown to end, or when surrounded by a Rare and its minions. You may not want to always occupy a slot with Serenity, but it's certainly valuable against boss enemies and on the higher difficulty levels. Serenity intercepts all damage and sees to it that the Monk is not affected by any status effects such as Slow, Confusion, or Fear.

RUNES

Peaceful Repose is great for solo play, as it maintains the base skill's ability to absorb damage for 3 seconds and significantly heals. Unlike Breath of Heaven, this skill-rune pairing doesn't benefit nearby allies. Reap What is Sown is most effective if the Monk will be surrounded by several enemies. Activate the skill just as you approach the enemy wave, and watch as the shield explodes and damages foes within 20 yards. The more damage the skill absorbs, the more that's inflicted when the shield explodes. Tranquility extends the effects of Serenity to all allies within 45 yards and protects them from damage and control effects for 3 seconds. Watch your allies' movements on the battlefield and try to coordinate a concerted attack to make the most of this skill. Rather than simply absorb the incoming damage, Instant Karma reflects 50% of all attacks (both melee and ranged) back at the attackers.

Peaceful Repose

Unlocked: Level 23
Serenity heals you for 578-707 Life (based on player level; numbers shown reflect skill at player level 16 for comparison purposes to base skill).

Reap What is Sown

Unlocked: Level 29
When Serenity ends, the shield explodes, dealing 30% of the damage absorbed by Serenity as Holy damage to enemies within 20 yards. Damage cannot exceed 100% of your maximum Life.

Tranquility

Unlocked: Level 39
Extends the protective shield to allies within 45 yards for 2 seconds, and makes them immune to control impairing effects like Slow and Frozen.

Ascension

Unlocked: Level 47
Increases the duration of Serenity to 4 seconds.

Instant Karma

Unlocked: Level 54
While Serenity is active, 50% of all projectiles and melee attacks are reflected back at the attacker.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

INNER SANCTUARY

Create a runic circle of protection on the ground for 6 seconds that cannot be passed by enemies.

- Costs 30 Spirit.
- Cooldown 30 seconds.

Inner Sanctuary is one of the Monk's more important skills, as it creates a safe haven for the Hero, free of melee attacks for 8 seconds (provided the Monk stays in the center of the circle). Use Inner Sanctuary to instantly repel a pack of enemies, thereby allowing the Monk to attack just a few on one side of the circle. Inner Sanctuary can also be used to effectively block enemies from coming through a door or crossing a bridge. This is an excellent use of the skill during cooperative play as it allows your party's ranged attackers a risk-free attack. Inner Sanctuary is less useful in wide open spaces, so you may opt instead for one of the other defensive skills in this set.

Instantly repel a pack of enemies and create a circle of protection that they cannot pass.

RUNES

Safe Haven is great for solo and co-op players alike as it restores a significant amount of Life per second to all those standing within the circle. Use Sanctified Ground to block off a narrow passage, doorway, or other chokepoint to not only block enemy movement, but also slow their advancement for 6 seconds after the skill's base effect ends. Circle of Protection may not heal the players inside the circle, but it does reduce the amount of damage they receive while there. This is particularly useful in areas with many ranged enemies that can attack from beyond Inner Sanctuary's radius. Inner Sanctuary repels enemies from the runic circle that appears, but Forbidden Palace does so while inflicting significant Hold damage in the process. Draw a crowd toward you before activating this skill for best results.

Safe Haven

Unlocked: Level 26

You and your allies standing in the area of effect of Inner Sanctuary regenerate 126 Life per second (based on player level 22).

Sanctified Ground

Unlocked: Level 31

When Inner Sanctuary expires, it becomes sanctified ground for 6 seconds, slowing the movement of all enemies that pass through it by 60%.

Consecration

Unlocked: Level 37

Increases the duration of Inner Sanctuary to 7 seconds.

Circle of Protection

Unlocked: Level 43

You and your allies standing in the area of effect of Inner Sanctuary take 35% less damage.

Forbidden Palace

Unlocked: Level 58

You and your allies standing in the area of effect of Inner Sanctuary deal 10% additional damage.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TECHNIQUES

DASHING STRIKE

Quickly dash at the targeted enemy or location, striking for 100% weapon damage and rooting the target for 1 second.

- Costs 25 Spirit.

The Monk moves with the wind to dash toward—and through—the targeted enemy to deal a punishing strike from behind. The attack inflicts only 100% weapon damage, but it allows the Monk to swiftly close on an enemy and slip behind the foe. There is no cooldown, but the relatively low cost of 25 Spirit makes this a great skill to use when initiating a lengthy combo given the skill's ability to root the enemy for 1 second. This is particularly useful if you're trying to slip past an enemy that's blocking a doorway or narrow path. It's also possible to link multiple Dashing Strikes together to quickly cross an area by targeting different enemies. This has the effect of allowing the Monk to move unhindered by enemies directly blocking the path—and temporarily prohibit them from pursuing!

The Monk blows past the enemy like a gust of wind, then strikes from behind!

RUNES

Lacking the Strength of the Barbarian, the Monk must rely on evasiveness in order to survive the close-quarters battles he faces. Way of the Falling Star grants the Monk a temporary increase to his movement speed, making it possible to rush in with Dashing Strike, then quickly step away. Flying Side Kick yields a 50% chance to temporarily stun the enemy, but Soaring Skull effectively slows all enemies along the Monk's path for two seconds—the certainty of the crowd control effect is often preferred over the chance to stun. Blinding Speed yields a marked increase to the Monk's Dodge Chance for 3 seconds, significantly increasing the odds of him evading enemy attacks for that period.

Way of the Falling Star

Unlocked: Level 15

After striking an enemy, your movement speed is increased 25% for 3 seconds.

Flying Side Kick

Unlocked: Level 23

Perform a flying kick that has a 60% chance to stun your target for 1.5 seconds.

Quicksilver

Unlocked: Level 32

Reduces the cost of Dashing Strike to 10 Spirit.

Soaring Skull

Unlocked: Level 39

Launch yourself through the air and slow all enemies along your path by 60% for 2 seconds.

Blinding Speed

Unlocked: Level 49

Receive a 20% increased chance to Dodge for 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TECHNIQUES

EXPLODING PALM

Causes a target to Bleed for 220% weapon damage as Physical over 3 seconds. If the target dies while bleeding, it explodes and deals 30% of the target's maximum Life as Physical damage to all nearby enemies.

- Costs 40 Spirit.

Exploding Palm may seem costly at first glance, but it can deliver far-reaching damage to enemy forces. Rather than simply inflicting heavy damage with each strike, Exploding Palm causes three seconds of bleeding. Enemies that die while bleeding explode in place and deal additional damage to other nearby enemies. Consider using another attack to soften up a tough enemy first, then strike with Exploding Palm to deliver the bleeding damage. This skill also comes in handy against Rare and Minion enemies—strike each of the Minions with an Exploding Palm combination in hopes of hitting the Rare with multiple explosions from enemies who bleed out. Or, conversely, target the enemy with the largest maximum Life first and watch the resulting explosion take out the surrounding minions.

A ghostly palm icon appears over the head of the enemy currently bleeding from Exploding Palm.

RUNES

The Flesh is Weak is perfect for major single-target threats, as it increases the damage they take for three seconds following the attack. Hit them with Exploding Palm to trigger the effect, then blast the foe with Wave of Light or another powerful skill. Although you may typically try to target the enemy with the most HP, Strong Spirit may change your mind. Target weaker enemies that will explode during the bleeding phase to gain 5 Spirit for every enemy hit with the explosion. Creeping Demise causes two targets to begin bleeding after the third hit instead of just the one targeted enemy. Essence Burn is one of the most effective runes for dealing with large numbers of foes. The burning effect doesn't last long, but it spreads to all nearby monsters if the burning target perishes. The fact that this effect can chain repeatedly helps it to become a great AOE attack, especially if you also have an ally inflicting additional AOE damage while aflame.

The Flesh is Weak

Unlocked: Level 18
Also causes the target to take 12% additional damage for 3 seconds.

Strong Spirit

Unlocked: Level 25
If the target explodes after bleeding, gain 5 Spirit for each enemy caught in the blast.

Creeping Demise

Unlocked: Level 36
Also reduces your target's movement speed by 80%.

Impending Doom

Unlocked: Level 44
Increases the duration of the Bleed effect to deal 220% weapon damage as Physical over 6 seconds.

Essence Burn

Unlocked: Level 51
Target burns for 250% weapon damage as Fire over 3 secs. If target dies while burning, it explodes and burns all nearby foes for 60% weapon damage as Fire over 3 secs. This effect can chain.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TECHNIQUES

SWEEPING WIND

Surround yourself in a vortex that continuously deals 15% weapon damage to all enemies within 10 yards. The vortex lasts 6 seconds and is refreshed each time you strike an enemy with a melee attack. Landing a Critical Hit has a chance to increase the vortex effect up to 2 times for a total of 45% weapon damage to nearby enemies.

- Costs 75 Spirit.

Sweeping Wind is a powerful skill to use when surrounded by enemies on all sides. The skill can be triggered by striking any enemy of your choosing three times to create the vortex. Continue striking enemies three times to create additional vortex effects that stack up to three times. This skill is particularly useful when combined with Inner Sanctuary, as it allows the Monk to strike several enemies while only putting himself close enough to be retaliated by one or two.

The Monk's sweeping roundhouse kick creates a vortex of air that continues to deal damage for 5 seconds.

RUNES

Blade Storm helps to increase Sweeping Wind's effectiveness as an AOE attack centered on the Monk. Target the major threat in a crowd for multiple three-strike attacks with Sweeping Wind and watch the vortex grow to inflict 60% damage on all nearby enemies. Fire Storm extends the width of the vortex to impact all enemies within 14 yards of the Monk while dealing Fire damage. Master of Wind lengthens the duration of the vortex from 6 to 10 seconds, allowing the Monk more time to stack the effect and also more time to run through crowds of enemies with the vortex swirling around him. Continue to attack with melee attacks to maintain the maximum stack count with Cyclone selected to spawn lightning-infused tornadoes that last 3 seconds and can electrocute enemies.

Master of Wind

Unlocked: Level 27
Increases the duration of the vortex to 10 seconds.

Blade Storm

Unlocked: Level 33
Intensify the vortex, increasing the damage per stack to 20% weapon damage. This increases the damage with 3 stacks to 60% weapon damage.

Fire Storm

Unlocked: Level 38
Increases the radius of the vortex to 14 yards and changes the damage dealt to Fire.

Inner Storm

Unlocked: Level 46
As long as your vortex is at the maximum stack count, you gain 3 Spirit per second.

Cyclone

Unlocked: Level 56
While vortex is at the max stack count, Critical Hits have a chance to spawn a lightning tornado that periodically electrocutes nearby enemies for 20% weapon damage as Lightning. Each tornado lasts 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): FOCUS

CYCLONE STRIKE

Pull all enemies within 24 yards toward you, followed by a furious blast of energy that deals 100% weapon damage as Holy.

- Costs 50 Spirit.

Cyclone Strike is an excellent skill to have in crowded areas, particularly when exploring an area with a large number of lesser foes such as Fallen Peons, Tormented Stingers, or Burrowing Leapers. Unleash this attack to quickly draw up to eight targets into close range for an instantaneous Holy blast that inflicts tremendous damage. It's entirely possible to kill off 20 or more swarming pests with a single attack! Just be careful when using it around enemies that are Plagued or Molten, as you don't necessarily want to pull them into close range. Not all foes are susceptible to having their movement controlled by such an attack; Cyclone Strike is not likely to affect the movement of bosses and some unique enemies.

Yank 'em in and blow 'em up!

RUNES

Eye of the Storm provides a major reduction in the Spirit cost of the skill, so the Monk can perform Cyclone Strike three times with a full Spirit Meter instead of just twice. Implosion pulls enemies in from distances up to 34 yards away, allowing you to instantly deliver 150% weapon damage to a massive amount of enemies in crowded areas. Preface this attack by placing Spike Traps at your feet to further harm the enemies pulled into the attack. Sunburst maintains the damage of the base skill, but causes an explosion that fears enemies for 2 seconds. This frees up time for the Monk to collect loot and health globes between attacks, essentially performing hit-and-run tactics, but making the enemies do the running. Soothing Breeze is a late-game rune that heals the Monk and nearby allies with a tremendous amount of Life while simultaneously performing the basic Cyclone Strike attack.

Eye of the Storm

Unlocked: Level 21
Reduces the Spirit cost of Cyclone Strike to 30 Spirit.

Implosion

Unlocked: Level 25
Increases the distance enemies will be pulled toward you to 34 yards.

Sunburst

Unlocked: Level 34
Changes the blast into an explosion of fire that has a 30% chance to Fear enemies for 1.5 seconds.

Wall of Wind

Unlocked: Level 41
After using Cyclone Strike, gain a 20% chance to dodge attacks for 3 seconds.

Soothing Breeze

Unlocked: Level 55
Cyclone Strike heals you and all allies within 24 yards for 985 Life (based on player level; numbers reflect rune effect at player level 55).

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): FOCUS

SEVEN-SIDED STRIKE

Dash rapidly between nearby enemies, dealing 777% weapon damage over 7 hits.

- Costs 50 Spirit.
- Cooldown 30 seconds.

Seven-Sided Strike is an excellent offensive skill that delivers a hefty strike—seven to be exact—to numerous nearby enemies. Not only does the skill hit for more damage than a standard attack, but the Monk moves so swiftly that he can't be targeted by enemies. Deploy this skill whenever there are multiple enemies at close range (within a few steps of the Monk). It's especially useful after first softening the enemies up with an AOE attack, as the Seven-Sided Strike may then deliver several finishing blows.

One Monk appears to become many when Seven-Sided Strike is unleashed upon a group of enemies.

RUNES

Sudden Assault allows the Monk to teleport to a distant target to initiate the attack, while also increasing the damage inflicted by a moderate amount. This allows the Monk to bypass a wave of weaker enemies to focus the attack on a summoner or dangerous ranged enemy in the back. Pandemonium adds a 25% chance that the enemies hit by the attack will be stunned for 7 seconds. Stunned enemies will remain immobilized. Sustained Attack reduces the cooldown from 30 to 23 seconds, allowing the skill to be performed more often. Fulminating Onslaught maintains the base form of the skill, but adds a Holy explosion to each hit that damages all enemies within 7 yards.

Sudden Assault

Unlocked: Level 23
Teleport to the target, increasing damage nominally.

Several Sided Strike

Unlocked: Level 29
Increases the number of strikes to 9.

Pandemonium

Unlocked: Level 37
Enemies hit by Seven-Sided Strike have a 25% chance to be stunned for 7 seconds by each hit.

Sustained Attack

Unlocked: Level 43
Reduces the cooldown of Seven-Sided Strike by 7 seconds.

Fulminating Onslaught

Unlocked: Level 60
Each strike explodes, dealing 111% weapon damage as Holy in a 7-yard radius around the target.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): FOCUS

MYSTIC ALLY

Summon a mystic ally to fight alongside you until it is destroyed. The ally deals 40% of your weapon damage as Physical per swing.

- Costs 25 Spirit.

The Mystic Ally targets the nearest foe for moderate physical damage and moves about on its own as if it were a warm-blooded partner. Although this draws some attention from the enemies in the area, many will continue to target the Monk. The Mystic Ally will glow a different color to represent the elemental nature of the summoned ally when equipped with a rune; otherwise, it will continue to hit for Physical damage. This skill has no predetermined time limit; the Mystic Ally disappears once it runs out of Life.

The Mystic Ally glows blue and doesn't hesitate to join the fray, targeting the nearest foe.

RUNES

Water Ally grants the ally a powerful wave attack that deals triple the damage of the basic Mystic Ally skill and also slows enemy movement for 2 seconds.

Fire Ally performs a flaming kick for moderate damage, then sets fire to enemies in a straight line, making the Fire Ally ideal for crowded interiors. Watch your Spirit meter closely when using the Air Ally rune as each attack the ally makes has a 2% chance to generate 100 Spirit for the Monk. The miniature cyclone that surrounds the Air Ally inflicts minor damage per second to all nearby enemies. The Earth Ally rune is really useful against elite enemies as the ally's wave attack forces the targeted enemy to attack the Earth Ally for 3 seconds. Both the ally and Monk also gain increased maximum Life when Earth Ally is active.

Water Ally

Unlocked: Level 27

Imbued with the essence of water, the ally gains the ability to perform a wave attack that deals 120% of your weapon damage as Physical and slows the movement of affected targets by 30% for 2 seconds.

Fire Ally

Unlocked: Level 31

Imbued with the essence of fire, the ally unleashes a flaming kick for 80% weapon damage as Fire, plus an added 48% of your weapon damage per second as Fire for 2 seconds to all enemies in a straight line.

Air Ally

Unlocked: Level 39

Imbued with the essence of air, every attack made by the ally has a 2% chance to generate 100 Spirit. The ally is also surrounded by wind that deals 10% of your weapon damage per second as Physical to all nearby enemies.

Eternal Ally

Unlocked: Level 46

Imbued with the essence of life, the ally has a 50% chance to be reborn after 5 seconds. In addition, the physical damage of the ally's basic attack is increased to 44% of your weapon damage per swing.

Earth Ally

Unlocked: Level 53

Imbued with the essence of earth, maximum Life is increased by 10%. The ally can also create a wave of earth, dealing 60% of your weapon damage as Physical to a single enemy and forcing that foe to attack the ally for 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MANTRAS

MANTRA OF EVASION

Recite a Mantra that grants you and all allies within 40 yards a 15% chance to dodge attacks for 3 minutes. For 3 seconds after activation, a second effect grants an additional 15% chance to dodge attacks.

- Costs 50 Spirit.

Sturdy equipment and a high Strength rating helps to reduce the amount of damage the Hero incurs from attacks, but it's always better to avoid the hit altogether, especially on Hell and Inferno difficulties. Mantra of Evasion grants the Hero and all nearby allies a 15% chance to dodge incoming attacks (30% for the first several seconds). This effect applies to both melee and ranged attacks and requires no additional input from the player. The Hero automatically gains a one-in-seven chance of dodging each attack aimed his way on top of their base Dodge Chance rating.

The swirling energy underfoot indicates the enhanced chance to dodge incoming attacks.

RUNES

Hard Target provides a major increase to your Armor for the 3 minutes that the Mantra is active. This is great as the base skill only increases your Dodge Chance, but doesn't help to reduce the damage you take from attacks that hit their mark. Divine Protection creates a temporary shield that absorbs 80% of incoming damage for 3 seconds when a Hero under the effects of the Mantra of Evasion falls below 25% Life. This is useful on higher difficulties, if there are few enemies around to drop health globes, or if you're entering a battle while low on potions. Perseverance helps to address the many control-impairing traits from enemies on higher difficulty settings. Backlash causes a burst of flame to erupt from the Hero whenever he successfully dodges an attack. It's ideal in crowded areas against multiple melee attackers, and even more so if the Hero has a very high Dodge Chance.

Hard Target

Unlocked: Level 24

Mantra of Evasion also increases Armor by 20%.

Divine Protection

Unlocked: Level 33

When below 25% Life, a shield forms around that target, reducing damage taken by 80% for 3 seconds. Each target can be protected every 90 seconds.

Wind through the Reeds

Unlocked: Level 40

Mantra of Evasion also increases movement speed by 5%.

Perseverance

Unlocked: Level 50

Mantra of Evasion also reduces the duration of all control impairing effects like Slow or Frozen by 20%.

Backlash

Unlocked: Level 58

Successfully dodging an attack has a chance to create a burst of flame, dealing 42% weapon damage as Fire to all nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MANTRAS

MANTRA OF RETRIBUTION

Recite a Mantra that causes you and your allies within 40 yards to reflect melee damage back at enemies, dealing Holy damage equal to 40% of the damage sustained. This effect lasts for 3 minutes. For 3 seconds after activation the effect on you is increased to 80% of the damage sustained.

- Costs 50 Spirit.

What's better than dodging enemy attacks, you ask? Reflecting the damage back at the source! Mantra of Retribution is a welcomed upgrade to the Mantra of Evasion, causing the Hero and all nearby allies to reflect 40% of the damage they incur back at the enemy. Understand that the Hero will still receive damage, but every enemy that strikes you with a melee attack will receive 40% of the damage they inflict as Holy damage. Combining the reflected damage with the Hero's attacks makes for a very fast battle!

Mantra of Retribution turns the tables on enemies, reflecting melee attacks back as Holy damage!

RUNES

Retaliation increases the amount of damage reflected back at enemies by 50% and also protects the Hero and allies from ranged attacks, proving that the best offense can be a great defense! Indignation creates a one-in-five chance to temporarily stun enemies that suffer reflected damage. Naturally, the more enemies that attack you, the more likely you are to see some get stunned, but the rune can also be helpful against elite enemies and even some bosses. Nevertheless, you may want to choose a rune with a guaranteed success rate when facing fewer foes. Against All Odds yields a chance to restore 3 Spirit whenever Mantra of Retribution reflects damage. This can generate a wealth of Spirit over the mantra's duration and more than double the amount of Spirit you spend on the skill initially. Collateral Damage provides a 30% chance that enemies that receive reflected damage will suffer a feedback blast that damages them and nearby enemies.

Retaliation

Unlocked: Level 28

Increases the amount of damage reflected by the Mantra to 60%. The Mantra will now reflect ranged damage, as well as melee damage.

Transgression

Unlocked: Level 36

Increases attack speed for you and all allies by 8%.

Indignation

Unlocked: Level 41

When taking damage from the Mantra of Retribution, enemies have a 10% chance to be stunned for 2 seconds.

Against All Odds

Unlocked: Level 56

When reflecting damage done to you, Mantra of Retribution has a chance to restore 3 Spirit.

Collateral Damage

Unlocked: Level 59

An attacker damaged by Mantra of Retribution has a 30% chance to suffer a feedback blast, dealing 45% weapon damage as Holy to itself and nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MANTRAS

MANTRA OF HEALING

Recite a Mantra that causes you and all allies within 40 yards to gain increased Life regeneration by 37 Life per second. The Mantra lasts 3 minutes. For 3 seconds after activation, the effect is increased to 148.4 Life per second (amount of healing is based on player level; numbers shown reflect skill at player level 26).

- Costs 50 Spirit.

Mantra of Healing appears to be an upgrade to Breath of Heaven, but it's important to note the subtle differences and why you may want both skills slotted during boss battles. Mantra of Healing has a low Spirit cost and has more than 3 times the AOE as Breath of Heaven, thus making it great for co-op play. That said, Breath of Heaven provides an instantaneous influx of Life, potentially staving off certain death. Mantra of Healing on the other hand simply increases the rate of Life regeneration (if you have any) and though it lasts for 3 minutes, it's still a relatively slow trickle of Life being added. Fortunately, thanks to its lack of a cooldown and brief 3-second activation boost, it's possible to recast Mantra of Healing long before the buff wears off, effectively granting yourself and all allies a never-ending increase in Life regeneration.

The spreading energy grants all allies it touches increased Life regeneration for 3 minutes.

RUNES

Sustenance doubles the amount of Life restored per second for the Hero and allies under the effects of Mantra of Healing. Circular Breathing restores 3 Spirit per second while continuing to restore Life to the Hero and allies. Only the Monk who casts the skill receives the Spirit restoration. Boon of Protection is useful against major enemies and bosses with very specific, telegraphed attacks. Cast Mantra of Healing with Boon of Protection slotted right before the enemy performs an attack, as the rune's ability to absorb damage lasts only two seconds. Heavenly Body increases Vitality by 10%, thereby raising each Hero's maximum Life and creating a larger pool for Life restoration to flow into.

Sustenance

Unlocked: Level 31

Increases the Life regeneration granted by Mantra of Healing to 74 Life per second (based on player level; numbers shown reflect skill at player level 26).

Circular Breathing

Unlocked: Level 38

Mantra of Healing also regenerates 3 Spirit per second.

Boon of Protection

Unlocked: Level 42

Mantra of Healing shrouds you and your allies with a mystical shield for 2 seconds that absorbs up to 15% of each target's maximum Life in damage.

Heavenly Body

Unlocked: Level 48

Mantra of Healing also increases Vitality by 10%.

Time of Need

Unlocked: Level 53

Mantra of Healing also increases resistances to all damage types by 20%.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MANTRAS

MANTRA OF CONVICTION

Recite a Mantra that causes all enemies within 20 yards of you to take 12% additional damage. The Mantra lasts 3 minutes. For 3 seconds after activation, the effect is increased to 24% additional damage.

- Costs 50 Spirit.

Mantra of Conviction has a limited range of 20 yards, but it guarantees that all enemies in that area suffer a 12% increase in damage. This applies to melee and ranged attacks from the Monk, as well as those from his allies or even from traps. The skill doesn't just affect those enemies near the Monk when the Mantra is first cast, but rather all enemies within 20 yards of him throughout the entire duration of the buff. As with the other Mantras, it's possible to recast this skill long before it expires due to its lack of cooldown. Focus your attacks on the enemies nearest the Monk to take advantage of this Mantra and make sure your Demon Hunter, Wizard, and Witch Doctor allies do the same.

This powerful Mantra gives the Monk a decided advantage against nearby foes.

RUNES

Overawe doubles the damage bonus that befalls those enemies within 20 yards. The effect is doubled again for the first three seconds after casting. Coordinate your attacks with allies to take advantage of the bonus period during which time nearly every attack inflicts the equivalent of Critical Hit damage. Dishearten slows the movement of enemies within the affected area by 30%, thereby making them an easier target for large-scale AOE attacks. This rune is very useful when playing alongside a Demon Hunter (Rain of Vengeance) or Wizard (Blizzard or Meteor). Reclamation yields a 30% chance to be healed a significant amount of Life every time you or an ally strikes an affected enemy with a melee attack. Draw several enemies close to you, then activate Mantra of Conviction with the Submission rune equipped to cause them to suffer 14% weapon damage per second for the duration of the mantra (or until they die, which is far more likely).

Overawe

Unlocked: Level 35
Increases the strength of Mantra of Conviction so that enemies take 24% additional damage and 48% for the first 3 seconds.

Intimidation

Unlocked: Level 44
Enemies affected by Mantra of Conviction deal 10% less damage.

Dishearten

Unlocked: Level 47
Slows the movement of enemies within 20 yards by 30%.

Reclamation

Unlocked: Level 55
Grants a 30% chance to be healed for 44-54 Life when using melee attacks on an enemy under the effects of Mantra of Conviction (numbers based on player level).

Submission

Unlocked: Level 60
Enemies affected by Mantra of Conviction take 14% weapon damage per second as Holy.

PASSIVE SKILL

FLEET FOOTED

Increases movement speed by 10%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

Although the Monk is an effective tank due to his high Dodge Chance, he still relies on his speed of movement and agility to evade attackers. This makes up for his somewhat lower initial Strength rating. Slotting the Fleet Footed passive skill isn't something we recommend doing all the time, but it certainly comes in handy during boss battles, particularly at the end of each act.

PASSIVE SKILL

RESOLVE

Damage you deal reduces enemy damage by 25% for 2.5 seconds.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

Every time you attack an enemy, the amount of damage that enemy can deal is reduced by 25% for the next 2.5 seconds. This effect doesn't stack, but the clock is reset after each attack you inflict. Striking repeatedly with Fists of Thunder is a surefire way to ensure that the enemy inflicts 25% less damage right until death.

PASSIVE SKILL

EXALTED SOUL

Increases maximum Spirit by 100.

UNLOCKED
lvl 13

Exalted Soul greatly increases the maximum Spirit pool, raising it to 250. This is great if you're using Chant of Resonance or another skill that yields a steady inflow of Spirit, thereby creating more room in the meter for it to pool. Monitor your Spirit usage to see how often the base Spirit meter remains full. There's no reason to slot Exalted Soul if you seldom reach the standard limit of 150 Spirit.

PASSIVE SKILL

TRANSCENDENCE

Every point of Spirit spent heals you for 1.1 Life.

UNLOCKED
lvl 16

This is an excellent skill to equip for those who feel that they're constantly struggling to maintain Life. Continue to use Spirit generating attacks like Fists of Thunder or Deadly Reach and spend all that Spirit on high-cost skills to regain Life and devastate the enemy. Each time you perform an attack that costs 50 Spirit like Seven-Sided Strike, you'll heal 40 Life!

PASSIVE SKILL

CHANT OF RESONANCE

Duration of all Mantras is increased by 7 minutes. While one of your Mantras is active you gain 2 Spirit every second.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

Given that the Mantras have a Spirit cost of 50 and no cooldown, the primary reason to equip this skill on Normal difficulty is for the Spirit generation. Chant of Resonance extends the duration of a Mantra to a whopping 10 minutes! On higher difficulties, this extra time allows you to focus attention on the battle at hand—and dodging devastating attacks—and not on the action bar. This is an extremely helpful passive skill on Hell and Inferno difficulty, both for solo and co-op play.

PASSIVE SKILL

SEIZE THE INITIATIVE

Your Armor is increased by 100% of your Dexterity.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

Consider this skill if you have a Hero with a very high Dexterity rating. Perhaps some of the equipment you're wearing yielded Dexterity bonuses when you were hoping for a Strength boost? If so, equip Seize the Initiative to increase the Armor rating by 100% of the Dexterity rating's value. This can yield a substantial decrease in the damage you receive!

PASSIVE SKILL

THE GUARDIAN'S PATH

UNLOCKED
lvl 24

While dual-wielding, you gain a 15% chance to dodge incoming attacks. While using a two-handed weapon, all Spirit generation is increased by 25%.

The Monk and Barbarian are the only classes that can dual-wield melee weapons and the Monk's class-specific Fists weapons make for great action. That said, those with a high chance to dodge may find this passive skill is far more attractive if using a two-handed daibo. While a 15% chance to dodge can certainly help, a 25% increase in Spirit generation will enable the Monk to perform many more powerful skill attacks (and defenses), thereby defeating his foes—or healing himself and allies—with much greater ease.

PASSIVE SKILL

SIXTH SENSE

UNLOCKED
lvl 27

Your dodge chance is increased by an amount equal to 30% of your Critical Hit Chance.

Monks with a very high Critical Hit Chance will benefit most from Sixth Sense. Consider the Hero's current chance to dodge and Critical Hit before equipping this skill as the increase may be minimal. Those with a chance to Critical Hit above 15% should certainly consider this skill if they have a very low dodge chance. Those with a higher dodge chance should consider a different passive skill.

PASSIVE SKILL

PACIFISM

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

While you are under a Stun, Fear, or Charm effect, all damage is reduced by 75%.

Pacifism is particularly helpful in Acts 3 and 4 where enemies are more likely to inflict control effects on the Monk (and on higher difficulty settings). Heroes are highly vulnerable while Stunned, Feared, or Charmed. Although there are other skill and rune pairings that serve to minimize the damage received while under these effects, they're not very common. Consider slotting Pacifism if you suddenly feel overwhelmed by status effects.

PASSIVE SKILL

BEACON OF YTAR

UNLOCKED
lvl 35

Reduces all cooldowns by 15%.

There's nothing worse than needing to use one of your favorite skills, having plenty of Spirit to do so, and having to sit and wait on a cooldown. Beacon of Ytar reduces cooldowns by 15% meaning skills like Seven-Sided Strike and Inner Sanctuary will only take 25 seconds to cooldown instead of 30. Skills with lengthier cooldowns like Serenity see the effects even more. For example, Serenity's 45 second cooldown will be reduced to 38 seconds with this passive skill equipped.

PASSIVE SKILL

GUIDING LIGHT

UNLOCKED
lvl 40

Whenever you use a direct heal skill on another player you and the other player deal 16% more damage for 15 seconds.

Guiding Light goes hand in hand with Breath of Heaven, Mantra of Healing and Cyclone Strike: Soothing Breeze and is another passive skill that really benefits the party. Move close to your allies before casting a healing skill to ensure everyone gains the effects of Guiding Light, as many of the healing skills only affect those near the Monk when he casts it.

PASSIVE SKILL

ONE WITH EVERYTHING

UNLOCKED
lvl 45

Your resistance to all elements is equal to your highest elemental resistance.

This is a great skill to slot if you have unbalanced resistances. Oftentimes the Hero will have a piece of equipment that yields a single elemental resistance, but none for the other elements. For example, if the Hero has a 15 Fire resistance, but a 4 for the other four elements, equipping One With Everything will raise all resistances to 15.

PASSIVE SKILL

COMBINATION STRIKE

UNLOCKED
lvl 50

Each different Spirit Generator ability you use increases your damage by 8% for 3 seconds.

Combination Strike provides ample incentive to mix things up and use more than one or two Spirit Generator attacks. For each different attack you use, you will gain a short-term damage increase of 8%. Assign one to each mouse button and consider slotting a third on the action bar for an additional 8% boost. Mix all three attacks up then unleash a powerful skill with all of that Spirit you've generated. Other skills also take advantage of the temporary damage boost.

PASSIVE SKILL

NEAR DEATH EXPERIENCE

UNLOCKED
lvl 58

When receiving fatal damage, you are instead restored to 35% of maximum Life and 35% Spirit. This effect cannot occur more than once every 90 seconds.

Near Death Experience provides an escape route! Slot this skill in preparation of tougher battles, particularly when fighting in a party. We recommend this for co-op play as it's less likely that you'll have your Life reduced twice within 90 seconds (at least not on lower difficulties). Solo players are always the target of enemy aggression and can find themselves drained of Life very quickly after it is restored, thus rendering this skill slightly less effective for solo play unless you are using the Templar Follower as a tank in melee combat.

WITCH DØCTØR

I wander to places beyond imaginings. Far from the jungles of my youth. My knowledge has grown vast. The people, they think me banished, shunned to the end of my days.

They say I defy the spirits. But I say no, I follow them. The spirits show me alone that the sky fire is where the end begins. They say this must not be. I live to serve the spirits, so I go. There is none but me to answer the call.

A manipulator of the forces of life and death, this shrewd caster wields the power of the spirits in astounding ways.

- With a wide range of offensive spells to choose from, the Witch Doctor doesn't shirk from the fray.
- Wise and cunning, Witch Doctors draw upon the magic of the spirits to summon creatures from beyond the grave.
- The Witch Doctor utilizes the power of Mana to cast devastating spells.

HEROIC GROWTH

The wiry Witch Doctor is stronger than her sinewy frame might suggest. This knife-wielding summoner of spirits has very high natural Intelligence and Vitality ratings. Where the Witch Doctor comes up short, however, is in Strength and Dexterity. She will not have as high an inherent Armor or Dodge as the militant classes, but she will have higher resistances. Although her weaponry suggests an adeptness at melee combat, her body can't withstand the rigors of prolonged close-quarters fighting, nor can she dodge effectively. Fortunately, the Witch Doctor has the luxury of standing behind her army of summonable pets, biding his time until the opportunity to deliver the fatal blow presents itself.

THE WITCH DOCTOR GROWS STRONGER

EQUIPPED FOR BATTLE

WEAPONRY

Special: Ceremonial Knife, Mojo

The Witch Doctor finds strength in the restless spirits that haunt a realm unknown to Sanctuary's living. She maintains this connection to the world of the dead by rigorously tending to the ceremonies that caused her banishment from her people. Her weapons are the tools of her art, a ceremonial knife and mojo used to channel the spirits and impart strength on the Witch Doctor.

This Hero uses many of the same melee weapons as the Monk and Barbarian; however, she cannot dual-wield. The Witch Doctor's left hand is reserved exclusively for a mojo—a talisman-like device that aids this Hero in combat by boosting the damage her attacks cause or by increasing her Mana regeneration and other attributes (although the Witch Doctor can wield a two-handed bow or a shield in the left hand). The mojo comes in many forms, ranging from a voodoo doll to a snake. This Hero lacks the Barbarian's impressive physique, but proves that there is more than one way to intimidate your foes: shaking a sharpened knife and snake certainly leaves enemies quaking in their boots.

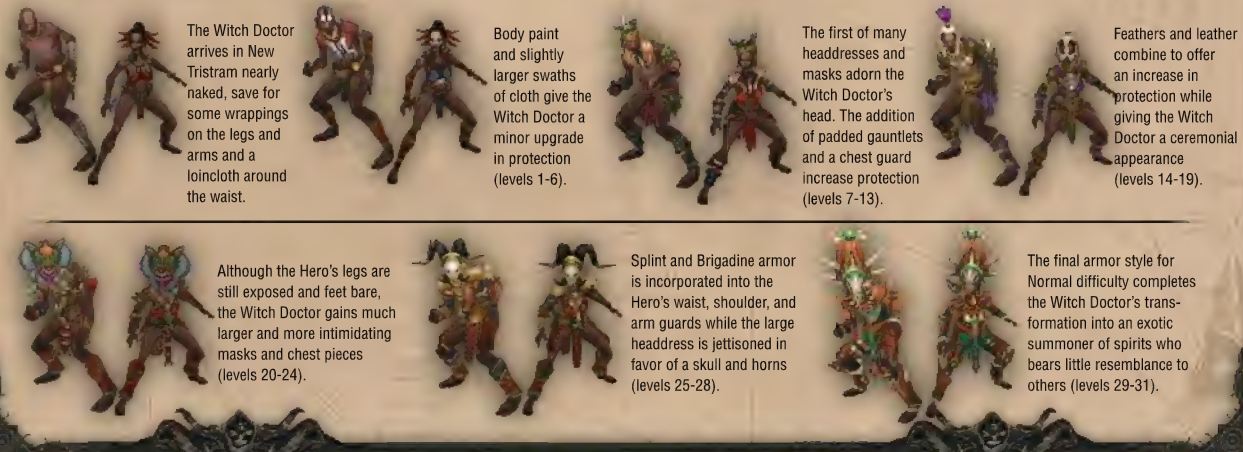

The lightweight ceremonial knife preferred by the Witch Doctor offers a swift attack speed and surprisingly high damage per second. She can use other melee weapons, but the ceremonial knife offers unique benefits to the Witch Doctor, including a damage bonus. Although you may be tempted to steer the Witch Doctor clear of direct combat, you may select runes or magical equipment that yield large increases in Critical Hit Chance, thus making her a highly dangerous melee combatant.

ARMOR STYLES

Raised in the jungles of a warmer clime, Witch Doctors are accustomed to wearing clothing for modesty's sake alone. Even as they grow in strength and venture far across Sanctuary, they continue to prize adornment over function. This Hero's ceremonial dress is designed more to intimidate than for frontline combat. Ornamental masks, shoulder guards, and chest pieces provide protection and increase the Witch Doctor's Armor rating, but continue to leave much of their legs, arms, and back bare.

ABOUT ARMOR STYLES

The following armor appearances serve merely to illustrate what a prototypical Hero might look like at any given level. In reality, the Hero will likely possess multiple varieties of armor simultaneously, thereby fashioning a unique appearance that blends two or more of the examples displayed here. And upon considering the numerous colors of dyes that are available, it's unlikely that any two Heroes of the same class will look identical.

SKILLS & RUNES

The Witch Doctor strides the boundary between the physical and spirit realms, all the while being able to call forth an army of summoned pets. With only so many skill slots to go around, it can be difficult to decide between the many types of skills available to the Witch Doctor. It's important to equip at least two or three physical skills such as Firebats, Acid Cloud, or Wall of Zombies to mitigate the Witch Doctor's aversion to melee combat. These skills make excellent use of his ever-growing Mana pool. Skills based in the spirit realm attack the enemy from within, stealing their life force and destroying their mind. Consider choosing skills such as Haunt, Soul Harvest, or Mass Confusion for an additional layer of attacks. Lastly, Witch Doctors have the unique ability to dabble in the necromantic arts—their ability to command a pack of Zombie Dogs or a Gargantuan should not go unused. Furthermore, the Witch Doctor's Grasp of the Dead skill is among the most useful for slowing numerous enemies, particularly when paired with nearly any of its runes.

RESOURCE: MANA

The Witch Doctor manipulates the entities of the physical and spirit realms through the power of Mana. This naturally-regenerating resource is the key to the Hero's survival and is every bit as vital as his Life. Managing Mana is the key to the Witch Doctor's success; always consider using those runes and abilities that further manage regeneration. The Witch Doctor begins with a maximum pool of 150 Mana. The maximum size of his Mana pool grows by 10 each time he gains a level.

The Witch Doctor is the only Hero class whose maximum resource grows with each new level. The Mana costs listed for the following skills represent their initial values for the level at which the skill is first unlocked and will rise as the Hero gains levels.

PASSIVE SKILLS

The first passive skill slot unlocks at level 10. Subsequent slots unlock at levels 20 and 30. Once chosen, the following skills contribute to the Hero's strength and abilities in the background, requiring no further player input or resource. Consider your playing style and current assortment of active skills when choosing which passive skills to activate.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

POISON DART

Shoot a deadly Poison Dart that deals 100% weapon damage as Poison and 40% additional damage as Poison.

- Costs 4 Mana at level 1.

The Witch Doctor draws a blowgun to his lips and fires a single Poison Dart at the enemy. This toxic projectile inflicts damage equal to the Witch Doctor's current weapon, but continues to Poison the target for two seconds. The Poison Dart can be fired from a considerable range, travels quickly, and is very accurate. Best of all, the relatively low Mana cost and lack of cooldown make it possible for the Witch Doctor to fire multiple Poison Darts in quick succession. The effects don't stack, so consider targeting multiple enemies with a single Poison Dart each before firing a second dart at the same foe.

Poison Dart gives the Witch Doctor an effective ranged attack with no cooldown.

RUNES

Splinters increases the total damage inflicted, and does so immediately, but spreads the damage across three darts. Fire the three darts at a group of enemies to ensure none of the darts misses its mark. Numbing Dart doesn't just poison the enemy, but temporarily slows their movement speed, as well. Although designed for single targets, you can quickly fire Numbing Darts at multiple enemies to maintain a safe distance. Flaming Dart sets the dart aflame and deals heavy damage instantly instead of over time like the base skill. Snake to the Face completely transforms the skill and yields a 30% chance to stun the enemy in addition to inflicting damage.

Splinters

Unlocked: Level 6

Shoot 3 Poison Darts that deal 60% weapon damage as Poison each.

Numbing Dart

Unlocked: Level 13

Toxins in the Poison Dart reduce the target's movement speed by 60% for 2 seconds.

Spined Dart

Unlocked: Level 25

Gain 11 Mana every time a Poison Dart hits an enemy.

Flaming Dart

Unlocked: Level 43

Ignite the dart so that it deals 160% weapon damage as Fire at once.

Snake to the Face

Unlocked: Level 52

Transform your Poison Dart into a snake that has a 30% chance to Stun the enemy for 1.5 seconds.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

CORPSE SPIDERS

Throw a jar with 4 spiders that attack nearby enemies for 16% weapon damage as Physical before dying.

- Costs 2 Mana.

The summoned Corpse Spiders are similar to the Zombie Dogs that can be summoned for support, but only last a few short seconds. Corpse Spiders crawl forth and attack nearby enemies for 16% weapon damage. They do not have their own Life meters like the Witch Doctor's pets do, nor do they completely distract the enemies they attack. Every bit of additional damage helps when fighting a mass of hellspawn. Consider summoning Corpse Spiders to fight alongside your Zombie Dogs or Gargantuan to effectively put the Witch Doctor in charge of an army of attackers!

The Witch Doctor throws a jar containing four spiders at the targeted location.

RUNES

Leaping Spiders can jump up to 25 yards and attack for minor damage. This attack isn't powerful, but it allows the Witch Doctor to keep his distance and strike early against approaching foes. Summon a Spider Queen that births spiderlings for 15 seconds, inflicting Poison damage to enemies throughout the area. They don't deal significant damage on any individual target, but they do a great job of weakening an entire wave of foes. Medusa Spiders have a 25% chance to paralyze enemies with each attack. Blazing Spiders inflict double damage to enemies they attack and present the pure offensive DPS upgrade to the Corpse Spiders skill.

Leaping Spiders

Unlocked: Level 9

Summon jumping spiders that leap up to 25 yards to reach their target and attack for 19% weapon damage as Physical.

Spider Queen

Unlocked: Level 18

Summon a spider queen that births spiderlings, dealing 16% weapon damage as Poison. Lasts 15 seconds. Only one spider queen can be summoned at a time.

Widowmakers

Unlocked: Level 33

Summon widowmaker spiders that return 2 Mana to you per hit.

Medusa Spiders

Unlocked: Level 45

Summon spiders that have a 25% chance to paralyze enemies with each attack.

Blazing Spiders

Unlocked: Level 55

Summon fire spiders that deal 21% weapon damage as Fire.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

PLAGUE OF TOADS

Release a handful of toads that deals 130% weapon damage as Poison to enemies they come in contact with.

- Costs 18 Mana.

Plague of Toads deals 30% more damage than your standard weapon when each toad collides with an enemy, but there is always the chance that the toads hop past the target. The three toads leap away from the Witch Doctor in the direction of the target, but there's no guarantee where they'll go. Plague of Toads is best used against groups of enemies to maximize the chance of them hitting their mark. This is an effective skill to use against enemies congregating in tight areas, and should not be used against distant foes on a wide open field.

Three poisonous toads leap toward nearby enemies and explode on contact.

RUNES

Explosive Toads inflicts slightly higher damage than the base skill, and does so as Fire. These toads explode as they come in contact with enemies, burning the target. Toad of Hugeness is but one of the Witch Doctor's comical-but-effective runes. It yields a giant toad that can swallow an enemy whole and inflict 24% weapon damage per second, up to 5 seconds (120% weapon over 5 seconds). This rune increases the skill's cooldown and is best used against fewer, stronger enemies; not multiple lesser foes. Addling Toads doesn't just inflict 130% weapon damage as Poison, but also has a chance to Confuse affected enemies, yielding enemies that can't tell friend from foe and may attack their own. Rain of Toads is just what the rune's name suggests. Toads fall from the sky and deal 130% weapon damage per second as Poison across an area for 2 seconds—more effective in this regard than Plague of Toads.

Explosive Toads

Unlocked: Level 17

Mutate to fire bullfrogs that explode for 169% weapon damage as Fire.

Toad of Hugeness

Unlocked: Level 24

Summon a giant toad that swallows enemies whole for up to 5 seconds, digesting for 24% of your weapon damage per second as Physical. Adds a 5-second cooldown.

Rain of Toads

Unlocked: Level 35

Rain toads down from the sky that deal 130% weapon damage as Poison to enemies in the area over 2 seconds.

Addling Toads

Unlocked: Level 51

Mutate to yellow frogs that deal 130% weapon damage as Poison and have a 15% chance to Confuse affected enemies for 4 seconds.

Toad Affinity

Unlocked: Level 54

Removes the Mana cost of Plague of Toads.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

FIREBOMB

Lob an explosive skull that deals 85% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within 8 yards.

- Costs 6 Mana.

The Firebomb is more than its name suggests. This fiery ranged attack spawns a fire spirit that burns all enemies within 8 yards of the targeted location. The fire spirit doesn't burn for long, but it's extremely hot and inflicts heavy damage to all nearby. Best of all, the Firebomb has no cooldown, making it possible to quickly lob multiple Firebombs for an instantaneous nuke at each point of explosion.

The Firebomb spawns an explosive fire spirit that deals heavy damage to everything within 8 yards.

RUNES

Fire Pit adds 8% weapon damage over 3 seconds. This is conducive for large groups of enemies, particularly stunned or slowed ones, and for fouling a choke-point that enemies must funnel through. Flash Fire causes the Firebomb to bounce up to 6 times, inflicting an ever-reducing amount of Fire damage to each enemy it targets. Pyrogeist adds a column of flame that targets the nearest enemy for 140% weapon damage as Fire over 3 seconds, helping to ensure an enemy that survives the base skill's explosion doesn't escape without suffering more damage. Ghost Bomb adds a larger blast that deals additional weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within an area 3.5x the size of the original explosion's AOE.

Flash Fire

Unlocked: Level 28

Rather than exploding for area damage, each Firebomb can bounce up to 6 additional targets. Damage is reduced by 15% per bounce.

Roll the Bones

Unlocked: Level 31

Allows the skull to bounce up to 2 times.

Fire Pit

Unlocked: Level 38

The explosion creates a pool of fire that deals 8% weapon damage per second as Fire for 3 seconds.

Pyrogeist

Unlocked: Level 47

Create a column of flame that spews fire at the closest enemy for 140% weapon damage as Fire over 3 seconds.

Ghost Bomb

Unlocked: Level 60

In addition to the base explosion, the skull creates a larger blast that deals an additional 20% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within 28 yards.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

GRASP OF THE DEAD

Ghoulish hands reach out from the ground, slowing enemy movement by 60% and dealing 20% weapon damage as Physical for 8 seconds.

- Costs 50 Mana.
- Cooldown 8 seconds.

Grasp of the Dead is a tremendously useful skill, particularly early in the Witch Doctor's journey. Not only does the affected ground slow enemy movement for 8 seconds, but it also deals 20% weapon damage per second. This means that an enemy stuck in the Grasp of the Dead for the entire 8 seconds will receive 60% more damage than if you had only struck the target with an ability like Poison Dart. The low Mana cost and short cooldown make this an exceptionally useful skill to have on hand whenever encountering large groups of enemies.

Hands of the dead reach out of the ground and slow all enemies caught in the area of effect.

RUNES

Unbreakable Grasp increases the Slow amount from 60% to 80%, effectively slowing the enemies in the area to a crawl. Follow this attack with a subsequent AOE attack such as Firebomb to create a devastating one-two combination! Rain of Corpses causes bodies to fall atop the enemies snared within Grasp of the Dead's reach. This is a good option against slower, more powerful enemies. Desperate Grasp reduces the cooldown by 2 seconds, allowing you to cast the spell 33% more frequently. Death is Life provides the Witch Doctor with a much-needed boost to health globe drop frequency. Use this against swarming enemies for an increased chance to gain a health globe from the deceased.

Unbreakable Grasp

Unlocked: Level 7
Increases the Slow amount to 80%.

Groping Eels

Unlocked: Level 15
Increases the damage done to 31% weapon damage as Physical.

Death is Life

Unlocked: Level 25
Enemies who die while in the area of Grasp of the Dead have a 5% chance to produce a health globe.

Desperate Grasp

Unlocked: Level 28
Reduces the cooldown of Grasp of the Dead to 6 seconds.

Rain of Corpses

Unlocked: Level 53
Corpses fall from the sky, dealing 80% weapon damage as Physical over 8 seconds to nearby enemies.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

FIREBATS

Call forth a swarm of fiery bats to burn enemies in front of you for 150% weapon damage as Fire.

- Costs 55 Mana.

Firebats is a costly but highly effective skill that's sure to be a favorite of many Witch Doctors. The attack can be maintained for as long as you wish, provided you haven't run out of Mana, and is equally useful against large groups of enemies or single slow-moving foes. Simply face your enemy and hold the right mouse button to channel an overwhelming swarm of fiery bats that burns for 150% weapon damage per second.

The Witch Doctor channels a swarm of Firebats capable of burning through even the toughest enemies!

RUNES

Dire Bats goes for quality over quantity. These larger bats can travel much further and burn for 220% weapon damage—Dire Bats are preferred in open spaces and against boss enemies. Vampire Bats return a small percentage of damage done as Life to the Witch Doctor, an excellent option for those with low Armor or Vitality. Plague Bats infects enemies with disease that deals damage over time as Poison, gradually increasing to a maximum of 225% weapon damage. This is a fine rune to use against slowed or stunned enemies. Cloud of Bats damages nearby enemies for a slowly increasing amount of damage as Fire. Continue to channel the skill to transform the Cloud of Bats into a fiery death colony!

Dire Bats

Unlocked: Level 11
Summon fewer but larger bats that travel up to 40 yards and hit for 220% weapon damage as Fire.

Vampire Bats

Unlocked: Level 19
Gain 2.5% of damage done by the bats as Life.

Plague Bats

Unlocked: Level 29
Diseased bats fly toward the enemy and infect them. Damage is slow at first, but can increase over time to a maximum of 225% weapon damage as Poison.

Hungry Bats

Unlocked: Level 45
Rapidly summon bats that seek out nearby enemies for 280% weapon damage as Fire.

Cloud of Bats

Unlocked: Level 56
Call forth a swirl of bats to damage nearby enemies for 195% weapon damage as Fire. Damage increases by 10% every second, up to a maximum of 50%.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

HAUNT

Haunt an enemy with a spirit, dealing 575% weapon damage as Arcane over 12 seconds. If the target dies, the spirit will automatically haunt another nearby enemy.

• Costs 50 Mana.

Cast a spirit at a distant enemy to deal heavy Arcane damage over 12 seconds. This wispy spirit encircles the enemy during the Haunt, then moves on to target another nearby enemy if the target dies. The lack of cooldown makes it possible to cast Haunt in quick order, without a limit to how many Haunts you can have active at once. This is an excellent skill to use immediately after hitting a group of enemies with an AOE attack like Locust Swarm. It enhances the odds that the target will die during the initial 12 seconds, and maybe several others.

The spirit flies straight at the targeted enemy and flies haunting circles around it for 12 seconds.

RUNES

Consuming Spirit returns a small amount of Life per second for as long as the spirit has an enemy to Haunt. Resentful Spirit decreases the total damage dealt, but inflicts its damage in a shorter amount of time. Grasping Spirit's ability to slow the targeted enemy's movement by 30% makes this a valuable attack to use against fast-moving foes that warrant a high DPS attack. Draining Spirit is like Consuming Spirit, but returns 5.2 Mana per second over the duration of the Haunt. It's possible to have four times the skill's Mana cost returned with Draining Spirit.

Consuming Spirit

Unlocked: Level 18

The spirit returns 4 Life per second (amount of Life gained increases along with player level).

Resentful Spirit

Unlocked: Level 23

Summons a vengeful spirit that does 288% weapon damage as Arcane over 2 seconds.

Lingering Spirit

Unlocked: Level 35

If there are no targets left, the spirit will linger for up to 10 seconds looking for new enemies.

Grasping Spirit

Unlocked: Level 48

Slows the movement of haunted targets by 30%.

Draining Spirit

Unlocked: Level 57

The spirit returns 5.2 Mana per second.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

LOCUST SWARM

Unleash a plague of locusts that swarms an enemy, dealing 360% weapon damage as Poison for 8 seconds. The locusts will jump to additional nearby enemies.

• Costs 120 Mana.

The Locust Swarm skill is similar to Firebats in initial appearance, but the damage is dealt as Poison over time and the swarm of Locusts can jump from enemy to enemy. This allows the attack to continue to inflict damage on foes even after you've cast the skill. It's possible to summon multiple swarms, one after the other, but the high Mana cost and the Locust Swarm's ability to target multiple targets makes this unnecessary. Summon a single Locust Swarm to engulf the enemy in the plague of locusts, then switch to other attacks while your foe is distracted by the insects.

The swarm of locusts overwhelms the target, dealing Poison damage over time.

RUNES

Devouring Swarm is an excellent option for crowded areas, as it can transform the skill from being very resource-intensive to one that actually generates Mana for you. Diseased Swarm causes those enemies killed by the locusts to leave behind a temporary cloud of locusts that deals damage as Poison to nearby enemies. Consider this rune in areas that are both crowded and confined, as it will force enemy reinforcements to travel through the remnant cloud of locusts as they make their way past the dead. Searing Locusts increases the damage inflicted to 468% weapon damage as Fire over 8 seconds. Reserve this rune for Rare enemies and other individual threats that not only require special attention.

Pestilence

Unlocked: Level 27

Locust Swarm has a 100% chance to jump to additional targets instead of one.

Devouring Swarm

Unlocked: Level 33

Gain 22 Mana for every enemy affected by the swarm.

Cloud of Insects

Unlocked: Level 37

Increases the duration of the swarm to 10 seconds.

Diseased Swarm

Unlocked: Level 42

Enemies killed by Locust Swarm leave behind a cloud of locusts that deals 25% weapon damage as Poison. This cloud of locusts lingers for 3 seconds.

Searing Locusts

Unlocked: Level 59

Engulf the target with burning locusts that deal 468% weapon damage as Fire over 8 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SUMMON ZOMBIE DOGS

Summon 3 Zombie Dogs from the depths to fight by your side. Each dog deals 9% of your weapon damage as Physical per hit.

- Costs 21 Mana.
- Cooldown 60 seconds.

The Summon Zombie Dogs skill is a trademark skill of the Witch Doctor and one that nearly every player is bound to rely upon throughout much of the early portion of the game, if not always. The Zombie Dogs spread out to attack any and all enemies, but never stray too far. They excel at finishing off weakened foes and distracting the others. An icon in the upper-left corner of the screen indicates both the number of Zombie Dogs still alive and the amount of health they have. Collecting health globes heals your Zombie Dogs, but you can always summon a fresh pack before the current ones are destroyed.

The ravenous Zombie Dogs emerge from the ground and stop at nothing to protect their master.

RUNES

Final Gift yields a 15% chance that the Zombie Dogs will leave behind a health globe upon death. This is an excellent rune to slot until Life Link is unlocked. Life Link causes your collective Zombie Dogs to absorb 10% of the damage inflicted upon the Witch Doctor. Pair this rune with the Zombie Handler passive skill to spread that 10% out across more Zombie Dogs, thereby helping to keep your pets alive longer. Burning Dogs scorches nearby enemies for minor weapon damage as Fire in addition to a standard bite attack. Leeching Beasts is the ultimate rune for the Summon Zombie Dogs skill, returning 50% of all damage the Zombie Dogs do as Life, split evenly between you and the pets. The Witch Doctor receives 25% of all damage done by the Zombie Dogs as Life!

Rabid Dogs

Unlocked: Level 12
Your Zombie Dogs gain an infectious bite that deals 9% of your weapon damage as Poison over 3 seconds.

Final Gift

Unlocked: Level 19
Zombie Dogs have a 15% chance of leaving behind a health globe when they die.

Life Link

Unlocked: Level 28
Your Zombie Dogs absorb 10% of all damage done to you.

Burning Dogs

Unlocked: Level 40
Your Zombie Dogs burst into flames, burning nearby enemies for 2% of your weapon damage as Fire.

Leeching Beasts

Unlocked: Level 54
Your Zombie Dogs gain 50% of damage they deal as Life, half of which heals you.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

HORRIFY

Don a spectral mask that horrifies all enemies within 12 yards, causing them to run in fear for 4 seconds.

- Costs 17 Mana.
- Cooldown 20 seconds.

A few seconds of uninterrupted peace can make a huge difference during an intense battle and Horrify offers the Witch Doctor exactly that! The faint image of a spectral mask appears above the Witch Doctor and puts such a fright into all nearby enemies that they run in fear for 4 seconds. Use this time to allow a potion to cooldown, collect some health globes, or gather with your party and prepare for the next major skirmish. Horrify is particularly useful immediately after being slowed or hit with another control attack to buy yourself some time for the effects to wear off.

A Shaman headdress appears over the head of enemies frightened by the Horrify mask.

RUNES

Stalker increases the Witch Doctor's movement speed for 4 seconds after casting Horrify, providing the speed needed to chase down those enemies fleeing in fright—or run the other way in search of a health globe or Waypoint! Face of Death buys the Witch Doctor a significant reprieve by doubling the radius of Horrify. Frightening Aspect doubles the Witch Doctor's Armor for 8 seconds after casting Horrify. Use this time to fight your way through unaffected enemies or fend off any remaining attackers while waiting for a potion cooldown to end or health globe to drop. Ruthless Terror can quickly replenish the Mana pool by returning 13 Mana for every horrified enemy. Horrify will clear out the immediate threats as Ruthless Terror supplies an influx of Mana.

Phobia

Unlocked: Level 14
Increases the duration horrified enemies run in Fear to 6 seconds.

Stalker

Unlocked: Level 21
Increases movement speed 20% for 4 seconds after cast.

Face of Death

Unlocked: Level 34
Increases the radius of Horrify to 24 yards.

Frightening Aspect

Unlocked: Level 44
Gain 100% additional Armor for 8 seconds after casting Horrify.

Ruthless Terror

Unlocked: Level 56
Gain 13 Mana for every horrified enemy.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SPIRIT WALK

Leave your physical body and enter the spirit realm for 2 seconds. While in the spirit realm, your movement is unhindered. Your link to the spirit realm will end if you cast any spell or your physical body sustains 50% of your maximum Life in damage.

- Costs 27 Mana.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

The worst thing that can happen to the Witch Doctor is to get surrounded by enemies with no viable escape. Fortunately, those worries are a thing of the past once Spirit Walk is unlocked. Cast this skill to leave the physical realm behind for 2 seconds, enabling the Witch Doctor to pass straight through the enemies that surrounded him. Foes will continue to attack the Hero's physical body, which is left in place. The Spirit Walk will be instantly terminated if the Witch Doctor's body takes too much damage or if any skills are cast. Use Spirit Walk to retrieve a health globe or cut through enemy forces to revive a fallen ally.

Use Spirit Walk to escape a group of marauding enemies—just don't cast any spells while you slip past.

RUNES

Honored Guest allows you to gain 15% of your maximum Mana every second Spirit Walk is active (max of 2 seconds). Umbral Shock creates a safe return for the spirit by causing the physical body to erupt and deal Fire damage to all enemies within 10 yards of it. Severance allows the spirit to inflict 100% weapon damage simply by walking through enemies. Use this to damage the enemies that have you penned in, as well as those yet to attack. Healing Journey behaves just like Honored Guest, only it returns 10% of maximum Life every second.

Jaunt

Unlocked: Level 23

Increases the duration of Spirit Walk to 3 seconds.

Honored Guest

Unlocked: Level 29

Gain 15% of your maximum Mana every second while Spirit Walk is active.

Umbral Shock

Unlocked: Level 38

When Spirit Walk ends, your physical body erupts for 102% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within 10 yards.

Severance

Unlocked: Level 47

Damage enemies you walk through in spirit form for 100% weapon damage as Physical.

Healing Journey

Unlocked: Level 53

Gain 7% of your maximum Life every second.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

HEX

Summon a Fetish Shaman for 12 seconds that will hex enemies into chickens. Hexed enemies are unable to perform offensive actions and take 10% additional damage.

- Costs 30 Mana.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

Hex is one of the Witch Doctor's most unusual skills. Stand back and watch as the Fetish Shaman magically transform enemies into chickens. Not every enemy in the area will become poultry, but it's not uncommon for the Fetish Shaman to mutate several enemies during the skill's 12-second duration. This isn't just good for laughs; hexed enemies can't attack the Witch Doctor and take 10% additional damage when struck. Nevertheless, the Witch Doctor has little control over this skill since the hex is applied to enemies at random.

Twelve seconds is long enough to hex several enemies into a chicken, no matter how big and scary they might be (bosses excluded).

RUNES

Jinx doubles the amount of damage that hexed enemies incur when attacked. Look for the chicken and attack it right away! Angry Chicken allows the Witch Doctor to transform into an angry chicken that can explode for heavy damage to all enemies within 12 yards. Press the corresponding key to detonate the angry chicken or else it will explode automatically after 5 seconds. Painful Transformation causes the hexed enemy to Bleed for 12% weapon damage, thus freeing you to focus your attacks on those enemies that haven't been turned into chickens. Unstable Form causes hexed enemies to explode upon death, inflicting damage as Poison to all nearby foes. Try to corral the chicken to keep it near other enemies and focus your attacks on it to take advantage of this rune.

Hedge Magic

The Fetish Shaman will periodically heal allies for 151 Life at level 26 (amount of Life gained increases along with player level).

Jinx

Unlocked: Level 31

Hexed targets take 20% additional damage.

Angry Chicken

Unlocked: Level 36

Transform into an angry chicken for up to 5 seconds that can explode for 215% weapon damage as Physical to all enemies within 12 yards.

Painful Transformation

Unlocked: Level 43

Hex causes the target to Bleed for 12% weapon damage as Physical.

Unstable Form

Hexed targets explode when killed, dealing 135% weapon damage as Poison to all enemies within 8 yards.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TERROR

SOUL HARVEST

Feed on the life force of up to 5 enemies within 16 yards. Gain 28 Intelligence for each affected enemy. This effect lasts 30 seconds.

- Costs 29 Mana.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

It would be a mistake to overlook this skill just because it doesn't actually damage the enemies it affects. Understand that Soul Harvest is one of the Witch Doctor's most potent skills. It gives you 30 seconds with an incredible increase in damage bonus and resistance for a very low Mana cost. Depending on the Witch Doctor's Intelligence rating before the skill is cast, this could more than double it! Soul Harvest can be recast every 15 seconds to ensure an endless damage bonus capable of transforming the Witch Doctor into one of Sanctuary's most deadly combatants!

Never cower in the face of the enemy horde again—Soul Harvest can temporarily add a massive damage and resistance bonus.

RUNES

Swallow Your Soul and Siphon allow you to gain considerable Mana and Life per enemy affected by Soul Harvest, respectively. Pair this skill with the rune that fills your most pressing need. Soul to Waste doubles the duration you get to enjoy Soul Harvest's effects. Vengeful Spirit inflicts 70% weapon damage to affected enemies while retaining the benefits of the base skill. Use the damage bonus gained by your increased Intelligence to quickly finish off these weakened foes.

Swallow Your Soul

Unlocked: Level 15

Gain 19 Mana for every enemy harvested.

Siphon

Unlocked: Level 21

Gain 48 Life for every enemy harvested (amount of Life gained increases along with player level).

Languish

Unlocked: Level 32

Reduces the movement speed of harvested enemies by 60% for 3 seconds.

Soul to Waste

Unlocked: Level 39

Increases the duration of Soul Harvest's effect to 60 seconds.

Vengeful Spirit

Unlocked: Level 49

Harvested enemies also take 70% weapon damage as Physical.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TERROR

SACRIFICE

Banish your Zombie Dogs, causing them to explode, each dealing 275% of your weapon damage as Physical to all enemies within 12 yards.

It should go without saying that you'll only want to slot this skill if you're already using Summon Zombie Dogs (although Mass Confusion with the appropriate rune can also yield the occasional Zombie Dog). Watch closely as your Zombie Dogs run amongst the enemies and wait for them to be in position near a large group of foes before activating the Sacrifice skill. It's also a good idea to wait until the Zombie Dogs have been sufficiently weakened—no sense in wasting a healthy pet! The explosion is quite violent and deals heavy damage to all enemies within 12 yards.

Don't get too attached to your pets—all of those Zombie Dogs get blown to hell with Sacrifice!

RUNES

Black Blood not only detonates your Zombie Dogs and inflicts damage to nearby enemies, but also Slows the enemies considerably for 8 seconds. Area of effect skills like this that combine heavy damage and crowd-control effects are almost always desirable. Next of Kin yields a 35% chance for each Zombie Dog you sacrifice to be resurrected. Watch to see if any Zombie Dogs are reborn, then Sacrifice them to force the attack! For the Master returns a wealth of Life to the Witch Doctor for each Zombie Dog sacrificed. This rune is unlocked at level 41, so the amount of Life gained numbers in the thousands. Provoke the Pack increases the Witch Doctor's attack damage by 5% per Zombie Dog sacrificed. Use this with the Zombie Handler passive skill for maximum results!

Black Blood

Unlocked: Level 18

Ichor erupts from the corpses of the Zombie Dogs, Slowing affected enemies by 60% for 8 seconds.

Next of Kin

Unlocked: Level 24

Each Zombie Dog you sacrifice has a 35% chance to resurrect as a new Zombie Dog.

Pride

Unlocked: Level 36

Regain 156 Mana for each Zombie Dog you sacrifice.

For the Master

Unlocked: Level 41

Gain 186 Life at level 41 for each Zombie Dog you sacrifice (amount of Life gained increases along with player level).

Provoke the Pack

Unlocked: Level 51

Each sacrificed Zombie Dog increases your damage by 5% for 30 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): TERROR

MASS CONFUSION

Incite paranoia in enemies, confusing them and causing some to fight for you for 12 seconds.

- Costs 45 Mana.
- Cooldown 60 seconds.

Mass Confusion summons an enormous Spectre to appear above the Witch Doctor. This frightening apparition confuses many of the nearby enemies, causing them to fight on the Witch Doctor's behalf for 12 seconds. Cast Mass Confusion in areas with many foes for maximum results! You may want to avoid attacking confused enemies to prolong the time they fight for you.

Draw the enemies in, then unleash Mass Confusion. The spiral icons indicate which enemies have been confused.

RUNES

Devolution yields a 50% chance that an enemy killed while confused, whether by you or another confused enemy, may spawn a Zombie Dog. Don't settle for an enemy that might fight for you for 12 seconds, when you can have a Zombie Dog fight for you to the death! Mass Hysteria not only maintains the chance of confusing nearby enemies, but up to six of those enemies not confused will be stunned! This provides a nice stationary target for you and the confused enemies to attack. Paranoia causes all enemies in the affected area to take 20% additional damage for 12 seconds. Follow it up with a potent AOE attack to make quick work of them. Mass Hallucination calls upon a spirit to rampage across the affected area, dealing damage per second to the enemies it passes through.

Unstable Realm

Unlocked: Level 26

Reduces the cooldown of Mass Confusion to 45 seconds.

Devolution

Unlocked: Level 34

Enemies killed while confused have a 50% chance of spawning a Zombie Dog.

Mass Hysteria

Unlocked: Level 43

Up to 6 enemies that aren't confused are stunned for 3 seconds.

Paranoia

Unlocked: Level 46

All enemies in the area of Mass Confusion take 20% additional damage for 12 seconds.

Mass Hallucination

Unlocked: Level 54

Amid the confusion, a giant spirit rampages through enemies, dealing 26% weapon damage per second as Physical to enemies it contacts.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DECAY

ZOMBIE CHARGER

Call forth a reckless, suicidal Zombie that deals 205% weapon damage as Poison to all enemies in its path before decomposing.

- Costs 74 Mana.

The Witch Doctor bends to the ground and calls forth a bloated Zombie Charger to surge straight ahead, dealing Poison damage to all enemies in its path. The Zombie Charger does not run very far, however. It actually starts to disintegrate after just two strides. First its head and arms dissolve, then its torso, and finally its legs. This is an effective attack against multiple enemies that aren't more than a few paces away. It's best to deploy the Zombie Charger near chokepoints and in narrow corridors.

The Zombie Charger emerges from the ground and rushes straight ahead while gradually dissipating into a cloud of poisonous gas.

RUNES

Undeath allows the Zombie Charger to reanimate up to 2 times if it kills enemies during its charge. Soften up the targeted enemy prior to casting the Zombie Charger skill to increase the chance of reanimation. Wave of Zombies inflicts slightly greater damage than the base skill, but spreads it across three Zombie Chargers, making it better suited for battling packs of enemies. Explosive Beast replaces the original Zombie with a Zombie Dog that explodes near your target, dealing heavy damage as Fire to all nearby enemies—this powerful skill is great against a Rare and its minions. Zombie Bears causes several Zombie Bears to charge the target area and deal 236% weapon damage as Poison to enemies in the area, greatly expanding the original skill's area of effect.

Leperous Zombie

Unlocked: Level 21

The Zombie Charger leaves behind a cloud of noxious vapors that deals 25% weapon damage as Poison to enemies caught in it.

Undeath

Unlocked: Level 27

If the Zombie Charger kills any enemies, it will reanimate and charge nearby enemies for 205% weapon damage as Poison. This effect can repeat up to 2 times.

Wave of Zombies

Unlocked: Level 33

Summon 3 Zombie Chargers that each deal 72% weapon damage as Poison.

Explosive Beast

Unlocked: Level 42

Summon an explosive Zombie Dog that streaks toward your target before exploding, dealing 236% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies within 9 yards.

Zombie Bears

Unlocked: Level 54

Summon Zombie Bears that stampede your target. Each creature deals 236% weapon damage as Poison to enemies in the area.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DECAY

SPIRIT BARRAGE

Bombard a target with a spirit blast that deals 190% weapon damage as Physical.

- Costs 62 Mana.

Spirit Barrage is a potent ranged attack that costs a moderate amount of Mana, but strikes for 190% of current weapon damage. Consider using Spirit Barrage against Molten or Plagued enemies that you want to avoid. This skill has no cooldown, which makes it ideal for those times when you need to wait for other skills to become active.

Lob multiple Spirit Barrage attacks to overwhelm the enemy.

RUNES

Well of Souls adds 3 secondary spirits that seek out other nearby targets and deal minor damage as Physical to them. This allows you to continue to focus on the main target while simultaneously weakening other nearby foes. Phantasm shifts the single-target nature of the skill to a small-radius AOE attack, albeit one that inflicts relatively low damage. Phlebotomize returns 3% of damage done as Life to the Witch Doctor. It's a good idea to have at least one skill-rune pairing active with this ability. Manitou summons a Spectre that hovers over the Witch Doctor's head and randomly fires spirit bolts at nearby enemies for minor damage. Consider using Manitou and Spirit Barrage alongside Soul Harvest once in possession of a truly powerful weapon—cast Soul Harvest to boost your damage, then move in for the attack while the Spectre helps to finish off the enemies you're fighting.

The Spirit is Willing

Unlocked: Level 23

Gain 25 Mana every time Spirit Barrage hits.

Well of Souls

Unlocked: Level 32

An additional 3 spirits seek out other targets and deal 30% weapon damage as Physical.

Phantasm

Unlocked: Level 37

Summon a Spectre for 5 seconds that deals 45% weapon damage as Physical to all enemies within 10 yards.

Phlebotomize

Unlocked: Level 44

Regain 3% of damage dealt with Spirit Barrage as Life.

Manitou

Unlocked: Level 59

Summon a Spectre for 20 seconds that hovers over you, unleashing spirit bolts at nearby enemies for 28% weapon damage as Physical.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DECAY

ACID CLOUD

Cause acid to rain down, dealing an initial 100% weapon damage as Poison, followed by 75% as Poison to enemies who remain in the area.

- Costs 105 Mana.

Acid Cloud is one of the Witch Doctor's most potent skills. It comes at a steep Mana price, but the ability for this skill to quickly kill multiple enemies is worth it. Summon a mystical spirit that pours buckets of acid rain down atop the targeted area, washing all enemies below in Poison. The pool of acid remains on the ground for several seconds and continues to inflict Poison damage to foes that wander into the affected area. This is particularly useful against a Rare and its Minions and can be used to foul a chokepoint. Consider using it in conjunction with Grasp of the Dead to first slow enemies in a given spot, then douse them with the Acid Cloud!

Douse an enemy in a Poisonous shower of acid, contaminating the ground for any enemies that wander into the area.

RUNES

Acid Rain essentially doubles the range of the base skill to 24 yards, improving an already potent AOE attack! Lob Blob Bomb transforms the acid on the ground into a slime that damages enemies standing directly on it and irradiates those nearby, as well. This effect lasts for 5 seconds, which is longer than the base skill. Kiss of Death transforms the base skill into a cloud that is spit from the Witch Doctor at the targeted enemies. It does greater initial damage and continues to Poison those in the area, but the puddle is dropped at the caster's feet, limiting the range at which the spell can be used from. Corpse Bomb shifts the attack to one that originates from the ground, as a corpse rises and explodes for heavy damage to all foes in the area. This is a great way to inflict heavy Poison damage on several targets instantly.

Acid Rain

Unlocked: Level 26

Increases the initial AOE of Acid Cloud to 24 yards.

Lob Blob Bomb

Unlocked: Level 30

The acid on the ground forms into a slime that irradiates nearby enemies for 25% weapon damage as Poison. The slime dissipates after 5 seconds.

Slow Burn

Unlocked: Level 39

Increases the duration of the acid pools left behind to 6 seconds.

Kiss of Death

Unlocked: Level 46

Spit a cloud of acid that inflicts 110% weapon damage as Poison, followed by 83% weapon damage as Poison to enemies that remain in the area.

Corpse Bomb

Unlocked: Level 55

Raise a corpse from the ground that explodes for 200% weapon damage as Poison to enemies in the area.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): DECAY

WALL OF ZOMBIES

Raise a line of zombies from the ground that attacks nearby enemies for 80% weapon damage as Physical for 5 seconds.

- Costs 69 Mana.
- Cooldown 25 seconds.

Wall of Zombies is a vital skill to have assigned to the action bar whenever the Witch Doctor is facing a large number of swiftly moving enemies, such as the Tormented Stingers or Spiderlings. Target an area between the Hero and the approaching horde, then watch as a line of 7 Zombies partially emerges from the ground and beats back the advancing attackers. The Zombies claw and swat at the enemies for 5 seconds, giving the Witch Doctor time to lob attacks from behind his defenses.

Summon a Wall of Zombies to keep large groups of enemies at bay.

RUNES

Barricade extends the width of the Wall of Zombies, effectively allowing you to halt the advancement of enemies across a wide front. This is particularly effective when dealing with dozens of fast-moving enemies. Unrelenting Grip slows the movement of enemies by 60% for several seconds, essentially providing a similar effect of Grasp of the Dead, but in linear fashion. Pile On is that rare skill effect that isn't just tremendously powerful, but also incredibly entertaining! The Zombies climb on top of one another and then fall forward, dealing 765% weapon damage to enemies hit in the collapse. Save the Dead Rush rune for wide open spaces filled with enemies. This rune causes Zombies to emerge from the ground and run in all directions, hitting for heavy damage to nearby enemies.

Barricade

Unlocked: Level 32

Increases the width of the Wall of Zombies. They attack for 80% weapon damage as Physical.

Unrelenting Grip

Unlocked: Level 35

Your Wall of Zombies will slow the movement of enemies by 60% for 5 seconds.

Creepers

Unlocked: Level 41

Up to 3 Zombies will emerge from the ground and attack nearby enemies for 25% of your weapon damage as Physical per attack.

Pile On

Unlocked: Level 49

Summon a tower of Zombies that falls over, dealing 765% weapon damage as Physical to any enemies it hits and knocking them back.

Dead Rush

Unlocked: Level 60

Zombies crawl out of the ground and run in all directions, dealing 445% weapon damage as Physical to nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): VOOODOO

GARGANTUAN

Summon a Gargantuan zombie to fight for you. It attacks for 25% of your weapon damage as Physical.

- Costs 87 Mana.
- Cooldown 60 seconds.

What's better than having a pack of Zombie Dogs escorting you into battle? The Gargantuan! This massive creature stomps around the battlefield, inflicting 25% weapon damage with every strike. The Gargantuan has a huge pool of Life and heals every time you collect a health globe. It has a moderately long cooldown, but you probably won't need to cast the spell again inside of a minute. The Gargantuan is helpful against most enemies, even during boss battles!

Say hello to my little friend...

RUNES

Humongoid grants the Gargantuan access to the Barbarian's Cleave ability, allowing it to hit multiple enemies with each swing. Use Restless Giant against Champion and Rare enemies, or against multiple enemies. The Gargantuan enrages for 15 seconds (once every 120 seconds) and gains large boosts to movement and attack, along with an increase to the damage it inflicts. Wrathful Protector is often a good choice against boss enemies or for use in situations when you're having trouble staying alive. The Gargantuan will last for only 15 seconds, but it is much more powerful and deals Knockback to enemies, as well as increased damage as Fire. Bruiser allows the Gargantuan to occasionally slam enemies to the ground for greater damage and stunning them for 3 seconds.

Humongoid

Unlocked: Level 22

The Gargantuan gains the Cleave ability, allowing its attacks to hit multiple targets for 32% of your weapon damage as Physical.

Restless Giant

Unlocked: Level 29

Facing an Elite or 5 foes, the Gargantuan enrages for 15 seconds, gaining: +20% movement speed, +35% attack speed, and +200% Physical damage.

Wrathful Protector

Unlocked: Level 39

Summon a more powerful Gargantuan that lasts for only 15 seconds. Its fists burn with fire, dealing 55% of your weapon damage as Fire and knocking enemies back.

Big Stinker

Unlocked: Level 48

The Gargantuan is surrounded by a poison cloud that deals 15% of your weapon damage per second as Poison to nearby enemies.

Bruiser

Unlocked: Level 56

The Gargantuan gains the ability to periodically slam enemies, dealing 100% of your weapon damage as Physical and stunning them for 3 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): VODOO

BIG BAD VODOO

Conjure a Fetish that begins a ritual dance that increases the attack and movement speeds of all allies in the area by 20% for 20 seconds.

- Cooldown 120 seconds.

Big Bad Voodoo is essential for the Witch Doctor during co-op sessions by virtue of its 20-second speed boost. Always tell your party to gather up before you cast it to reap the benefits for all. It's up to you whether or not to allocate a slot on your action bar to Big Bad Voodoo while playing solo. Try performing the skill immediately before casting Soul Harvest to gain the most from the increased damage bonus the latter skill earns you.

The Fetish's effects spread across a small area, giving all allies in the immediate area a huge speed offensive boost.

RUNES

Jungle Drums increases the duration of the ritual by 50% from 20 seconds to 30. This rune is great for solo and co-op play, particularly on the higher difficulty levels. Better attack speed can be critical to surviving a battle on Inferno mode. Slam Dance doesn't just boost movement and attack speed, but also increases the damage of all nearby allies; an upgrade over Jungle Drums. Ghost Trance heals nearby allies for 5% of their maximum Life per second during the 20 seconds of the ritual. Gather your allies and cast Big Bad Voodoo with Ghost Trance to help keep everyone alive. Boogie Man yields a 50% chance for enemies slain during the ritual area to be resurrected as a Zombie Dog. Consider saving this rune for solo use only—allies will benefit more from Jungle Drums, Slam Dance, or Ghost Trance.

Jungle Drums

Unlocked: Level 31
Increases the duration of the ritual to 30 seconds.

Rain Dance

Unlocked: Level 37
The ritual restores 80 Mana per second while standing in the ritual area.

Slam Dance

Unlocked: Level 44
The Fetish increases the damage of all nearby allies by 30%.

Ghost Trance

Unlocked: Level 50
The ritual heals all nearby allies for 5% of their maximum Life per second.

Boogie Man

Unlocked: Level 58
Enemies slain during the ritual area have a 50% chance to resurrect as a Zombie Dog.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): VODOO

FETISH ARMY

Summon an army of dagger-wielding Fetishes to fight by your side for 20 seconds. They attack for 20% of your weapon damage as Physical.

- Cooldown 120 seconds.

Don't let the size of the Fetishes trick you into thinking this isn't a potent skill. These creatures have boundless aggression and will hack and slash through as many enemies as they can for 20 seconds. The Witch Doctor is most effective when he hangs back and allows his summoned minions to do the dirty work. Consider summoning a Gargantuan to fight alongside your Fetish Army while simultaneously deploying Zombie Dogs. This is just one of many possible combinations!

Who couldn't benefit from five dagger-wielding Fetishes fighting alongside them?

RUNES

Fetish Ambush deals major damage to all enemies near the Fetish Army as it is summoned. They will continue to attack for 20% weapon damage as the base skill describes, but their initial appearance deals 250% weapon damage—cast this skill in a crowd for best results! Legion of Daggers increases the number of Fetishes from 5 to 8, nearly doubling the amount of damage they can inflict! Tiki Torchers summons two additional Fetish casters that spew fire at enemies. The fire does minor damage, but is still effective in conjunction with the other dagger-wielding Fetishes. Head Hunters summons two additional Fetishes that shoot blowdarts at enemies, inflicting minor weapon damage as Poison. As with the Tiki Torchers rune, it doesn't take much extra damage to kill off enemies already being stabbed by the standard dagger-wielding Fetishes.

Fetish Ambush

Unlocked: Level 34
Each Fetish deals 250% weapon damage as Physical to any nearby enemy as it is summoned.

Devoted Following

Unlocked: Level 40
Decreases the cooldown of Fetish Army to 90 seconds.

Legion of Daggers

Unlocked: Level 46
Increases the number of dagger-wielding Fetishes summoned by 3.

Tiki Torchers

Unlocked: Level 52
Summon an additional 2 Fetish casters who breathe fire in a cone in front of them that deals 15% of your weapon damage as Fire.

Head Hunters

Unlocked: Level 60
Summon an additional 2 Hunter Fetishes that shoot blowdarts at enemies, dealing 20% of your weapon damage as Poison.

PASSIVE SKILL

JUNGLE FORTITUDE

Reduces all damage taken by you and your pets by 20%.

Jungle Fortitude makes up for the Witch Doctor's lower Strength rating by reducing all the damage he and his pets suffer. Those who consistently summon pets and have yet to equip a set of armor that provides ample protection should slot this skill. Jungle Fortitude can prove as helpful at level 60 as when it's first unlocked at level 10.

PASSIVE SKILL

CIRCLE OF LIFE

Whenever an enemy dies within 12 yards, there is a 5% chance that a Zombie Dog will automatically emerge. The range of this effect is increased by items that boost your gold pick-up radius.

Adds a small chance that any enemy dying within close proximity to the Witch Doctor can yield a Zombie Dog. Though the odds start out low—just 1 in 20—it's enough to consider not assigning the Summon Zombie Dogs skill to your action bar. You're unlikely to suddenly amass a pack of Zombie Dogs in this manner, but there are ways to boost your chances. Monitor how much damage you inflict on enemies and try to rush close to them when delivering the finishing blow, especially if you're wearing items that increase your gold pick-up radius.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

PASSIVE SKILL

SPIRITUAL ATTUNEMENT

Maximum Mana is increased by 20%. Regenerate 1% of your maximum Mana per second. Mana is the fuel you use to cast offensive and defensive skills.

Those who rely heavily on the Mana-intensive skills may need the benefits of Spiritual Attunement, particularly for the faster Mana regeneration. While this may not be on par with the Barbarian and Monk's need for greater Fury or Spirit regeneration on Normal difficulty, the Witch Doctor is more likely to run out of Mana on higher difficulty settings. Only slot this skill if you're routinely running out of Mana at lower levels, but strongly consider using it on repeat plays.

UNLOCKED
lvl 13

PASSIVE SKILL

GRUESOME FEAST

Whenever you're healed by a health globe, you gain 10% of your maximum Mana and 10% Intelligence for 10 seconds. The Intelligence bonus can stack up to 5 times.

Gruesome Feast can be used to free up the active skill slot you may have allocated to Soul Harvest, albeit with reduced effects. You don't have to go far to find a health globe during big battles and the potential for a temporary 10%-50% increase in damage bonus is certainly attractive, not to mention the boosts to Mana regeneration and resistances.

UNLOCKED
lvl 16

PASSIVE SKILL

BLOOD RITUAL

15% of Mana costs are paid with Life. You also regenerate 1% of your maximum Life per second.

This is a dangerous skill to equip if you use a lot of skills that require Mana. Fortunately, there are a number of useful active skills that have little or no Mana cost. Study the skills you use most often before slotting Blood Ritual. The 1% Life regeneration can make it worthwhile, but only if you refrain from frequently using expensive skills—especially if you have a low Vitality rating.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

PASSIVE SKILL

BAD MEDICINE

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

Whenever you deal Poison damage to an enemy, their damage is reduced by 20% for 3 seconds.

Several of the Witch Doctor's skills inflict Poison damage. Acid Cloud, Poison Dart, and Zombie Charger are just a few. Many others can be transformed by runes to inflict damage as Poison. Consider slotting Bad Medicine if even one of your primary skills inflicts Poison damage, especially if you have low Vitality or Strength ratings.

PASSIVE SKILL

ZOMBIE HANDLER

UNLOCKED
lvl 24

You can have 4 Zombie Dogs out at once. The health of your Zombie Dogs and Gargantuan is increased by 20%.

This is an important skill if you use Summon Zombie Dogs or Gargantuan. Gaining a fourth Zombie Dog is helpful, but the 20% Life increase is even more valuable. The only reason you might want to refrain from slotting this skill is if you plan to use Sacrifice to detonate your Zombie Dogs. Gaining the extra pet will still help, but perhaps not enough to warrant using one of your three passive skill slots.

PASSIVE SKILL

PIERCE THE VEIL

UNLOCKED
lvl 27

All of your damage is increased by 20%, but your Mana costs are increased by 30%.

Pierce the Veil pairs well with Spiritual Attunement, as it effectively invests the additional Mana you'll have gained from the latter skill to boost your damage by 20%. That said, Pierce the Veil is also worth slotting even if you don't spend Mana that often since it provides an increase to all damage—even less Mana-intensive attacks. Imagine the boost you'd get from combining this effect with Soul Harvest!

PASSIVE SKILL

SPIRIT VESSEL

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

Reduces the cooldown of your Horrify, Spirit Walk, and Soul Harvest spells by 2 seconds. In addition, the next time you receive fatal damage, you automatically enter the spirit realm for 3 seconds and heal to 10% of your maximum Life. This effect cannot occur but once every 90 seconds.

Spirit Vessel reduces the cooldown of Horrify, Spirit Walk, and Soul Harvest to 2 seconds. This is quite valuable since every second is precious when waiting on a cooldown. Nevertheless, the primary benefit of Spirit Vessel lies in its ability to resurrect you with 10% of your maximum Life. This is a major safety net for players attempting to solo higher difficulty modes and for those playing Hardcore mode.

PASSIVE SKILL

FETISH SYCOPHANTS

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

Whenever you cast a physical realm spell, you have a 3% chance to summon a dagger-wielding Fetish to fight by your side for 60 seconds.

Don't let the low chance of summoning a Fetish scare you from slotting this skill! Physical realm spells include many of the Witch Doctor's most common attacks—Poison Dart, Firebats, and Wall of Zombies just to name a few. Many of these skills not only inflict significant damage, but bear little to no cooldown. This means you're more likely to cast them in quick succession, thereby increasing your chances to summon a dagger-wielding Fetish that can inflict decent damage during the minute it lasts.

PASSIVE SKILL

RUSH OF ESSENCE

UNLOCKED
lvl 36

Spirit spells return 30% of their Mana cost over 10 seconds. Spirit spells are: Haunt, Horrify, Mass Confusion, Soul Harvest, Spirit Barrage, and Spirit Walk.

This is another skill to consider if you need extra Mana, particularly at higher levels or on harder difficulty settings. Consider using Rush of Essence if you utilize Spirit Walk and Spirit Barrage frequently as this passive skill can help fuel your skill casting. It's a valuable alternative to Blood Ritual, especially for those with a lower Vitality or Strength rating.

PASSIVE SKILL

VISION QUEST

Anytime you have 4 or more skills on cooldown, your Mana regeneration is increased by 300%.

Many of the Witch Doctor's skills have an extensive cooldown period, thus making it possible to have 4 or more on cooldown at once. Study your own performance and monitor the action bar to see how often this situation occurs before slotting Vision Quest. Players who rely more heavily on skills with short cooldowns are less likely to meet the requirement for Vision Quest to become active.

PASSIVE SKILL

FIERCE LOYALTY

All your pets get 100% of the benefit of your Thorns and Life regeneration items.

The Witch Doctor will come to possess various pieces of equipment that have a property known as "Thorns." Thorns damages those performing melee attacks against the Witch Doctor, as if they were punching a cactus with their bare hands. Fierce Loyalty shares the effects of this equipment with your summoned Zombie Dogs and Gargantuan, as well as your Fetishes.

GRAVE INJUSTICE

Whenever an enemy dies within 8 yards, regain 1% of your maximum Life and Mana. The cooldown on all of your abilities is also reduced by 1 second. This range is extended by items that increase your gold pick-up radius.

You really must equip this passive skill on higher difficulties, and whenever dealing with large groups of enemies. The Witch Doctor can maintain a safe distance from enemies while in dungeons, but that's not as easy out in the fields. Those with equipment that yields a high gold pick-up radius should definitely equip this slot, as every enemy that dies within a moderate distance of the Witch Doctor will help to restore the Hero's Life and Mana.

TRIBAL RITES

The cooldowns of your Fetish Army, Big Bad Voodoo, and Hex abilities are reduced by 25%.

Tribal Rites deserves consideration for a long-term home in one of your passive skill slots once unlocked, even if you only use the Fetish Army skill of the three listed. Being able to cast Fetish Army after 90 seconds instead of 120 gives the Witch Doctor a major advantage in solo combat. Similarly, the 25% cooldown reduction for Big Bad Voodoo will help your co-op partners on Hell or Inferno difficulties.

WIZARD

Since my youth I have been told that I was special, a prodigy of vast potential. I came to the Ishari Sanctum seeking what knowledge I could glean from the masters. But I found them fearful of the truth. I would learn nothing from them.

But the old books, the prophecies they contained, showed me all that might come to pass and all that I might become. Then a star fell from the heavens. The sign that my moment had come.

I will go west to Tristram to stop the darkness that the star portends—and fulfill the destiny that beckons me.

A master of the temporal and elemental energies powering creation itself.

- The Wizard can inflict, withstand, and avoid damage with a vast and formidable array of directed and area spells.
- Powerful and elusive, Wizards wield magic by creating protective shields and unleashing spells that rain destruction upon their enemies.
- The Wizard draws on Arcane Power, a quickly regenerating resource, to cast spells.

HEROIC GROWTH

The Wizard's strength lies in her knowledge, but that isn't to say her body is weak. The Wizard's growth in Strength and Dexterity ultimately puts her on par with the Witch Doctor. The Wizard's Intelligence ratings rank among the highest of all classes, ensuring that she is capable of inflicting just as much damage as a Barbarian while boasting superior resistances to the many elemental attacks the minions of hell will be wielding against her. The Wizard has traditionally been a ranged spell caster—and still is—but her satisfactory attributes and melee-specific skills provide a means of slugging it out at close range if that's how you want to play.

EQUIPPED FOR BATTLE

WEAPONRY

Special: Wands, Orbs

The Wizard channels her knowledge of temporal and elemental energies into a variety of magical spells that don't require the use of any specific weapon, so long as her supply of Arcane Power hasn't been depleted. She can augment these spells by carrying a spellbook or an orb in her left hand. Like the Witch Doctor's mojo, the spellbook/orb serves to enhance the power of the Wizard's spells and causes many of her attacks to inflict greater damage. Some orbs grant other improvements, such as increased Arcane Power and Arcane Power on Critical Hits.

Wizards can equip a bow or crossbow if you so desire, but their mastery of wands ensures this class is never without a standard ranged attack. Equip the Wizard's right hand with a wand to launch magical projectiles at enemies, even when not casting a skill. Many wands, particularly those of a rare nature, provide ample benefits to the Wizard and can inflict significant damage on enemies. That said, The Wizard's signature skills cost no Arcane Power to cast and quickly replace the Wizard's basic attack in the skill action bar.

Those who like to experiment with unique builds of Heroes can do so by equipping the Wizard with a two-handed staff or other basic melee weapon. She'll still have access to all of her signature skills and, best of all, some of her passive skills are geared specifically to boosting her resistance to melee attacks. Keep your eyes peeled for the rare staff designed to boost the Wizard's attacking prowess! Of course, it's worth keeping in mind that the Wizard lacks the Strength ratings of the Barbarian.

ARMOR STYLES

Perhaps as evidence of the time spent in the halls of learning, poring over the old books of magic and knowledge, the Wizard's dress tends to be less rugged than rebellious. The male Wizard is at home in trousers, knee-high boots and a vest while his female counterpart tends to opt for something more revealing. This casual style of dress permeates many of the Wizard's early levels, slowly gaining garments designed to add both protection and flare. Dispensing with the traditional dress of their profession, the male and female Wizards favor jackets with tails and cloaks with elaborate shoulders.

ABOUT ARMOR STYLES

The following armor appearances serve merely to illustrate what a prototypical Hero might look like at any given level. In reality, the Hero will likely possess multiple styles of armor simultaneously, therefore having a far more unique appearance that blends two or more of the styles displayed here. And upon considering the numerous colors of dyes that are available, it is unlikely that any two Heroes of the same class will look identical.

Simple cloth articles and boots cover the male from collar to toe while the female Wizard wears decidedly less clothing.

The flowing coattails hanging from the Wizard's waist combine with gauntlets and a belt for slightly better protection (levels 1-6).

The flared shoulder guards that become a defining characteristic of the Wizard are added, as is a simple crown (levels 7-13).

Thick coatings of leather provide increased protection while fingerless gloves add additional coverage (levels 14-19).

The Wizard begins to cultivate a most impressive demeanor with the addition of chain metal and studded leather (levels 20-24).

Brigadine and plate armor accents are added throughout the Wizard's outfit, serving to protect organs and extremities alike (levels 25-28).

The Wizard's final armor style in Normal difficulty conveys the otherworldly knowledge the Hero possesses while hinting at the grand displays of armor he will ultimately wear (levels 29-31).

SKILLS & RUNES

The Wizard has several very distinct groups of skills that combine to provide the tools needed for any situation and style of play. Wizards have a Signature spell assigned to the left mouse button if the player has not selected Elective mode from the Gameplay Options menu. These skills have neither cooldown nor Arcane Power cost. In fact, they can provide a steady source of Arcane Power when paired with the right runes or passive skill. No Wizard is complete without several potent offensive skills. Skills like Disintegrate, Blizzard, and Meteor may have higher Arcane Power costs, but they're critical for fending off Champion hellspawn (especially on higher difficulty levels). Lastly, it's important to have access to an armor spell. Only one armor spell can ever be active at a time, but they last for 120 seconds and have very low Arcane Power costs. Experiment to find a mix of skill types that best suits your style of play and affords you the ability to dish out effective AOE damage, as well as focused high DPS strikes.

RESOURCE: ARCANE POWER

Knowledge is power, but not even a Wizard can perform magic strong enough to rid the land of hellspawn through rote memorization alone. The Wizard's skills are powered by a mystical resource called Arcane Power. Wizards have an initial pool of 100 Arcane Power. This may not sound like a lot, but Arcane Power is the fastest regenerating resource of all the classes—use it wisely and you'll seldom be without it when you need it most!

PASSIVE SKILLS

The first passive skill slot unlocks at level 10. Subsequent slots unlock at levels 20 and 30. Once chosen, the following skills contribute to the Hero's strength and abilities in the background, requiring no further player input or resource. Consider your playing style and current assortment of active skills when choosing which passive skills to activate.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

MAGIC MISSILE

Launch a missile of magic energy, causing 110% weapon damage as Arcane.

- Signature spells are free to cast.

The Wizard's initial Signature spell grants her the power to fire a Magic Missile at any distant target, provided she has a clear line of sight. Magic Missile is a quick-casting spell that inflicts slightly more damage than her equipped weapon. The projectile's trajectory is as straight as an arrow and its rapid velocity all but guarantees a direct hit.

Launch a Magic Missile of Arcane energy at an individual target from considerable distance.

RUNES

Split increases the total damage output of Magic Missile, but splits it across three projectiles instead of one. The shots may not all hit the same target if it is fast and agile. Penetrating Blast adds a 70% chance for the projectile to pierce the target and hit additional enemies while maintaining the base skill's original damage rating. Attunement turns this free-to-use Signature spell into an Arcane-generating attack that returns 4 Arcane Power with each hit. Seeker increases the attack's damage rating while adding the ability to track targeted enemies as they move—ideal when you're low on Arcane Power and trying to chip away at the Life of an elite enemy.

Charged Blast

Unlocked: Level 6

Increases the damage of Magic Missile to 143% weapon damage as Arcane.

Split

Unlocked: Level 13

Fire 3 missiles that each deal 50% weapon damage as Arcane.

Penetrating Blast

Unlocked: Level 31

Missiles have a 70% chance to pierce through their target and hit additional enemies.

Attunement

Unlocked: Level 42

Whenever a Magic Missile hits a target, you gain 4 Arcane Power.

Seeker

Unlocked: Level 52

Missiles track the nearest enemy and their damage is increased to 121% weapon damage as Arcane.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

SHOCK PULSE

Release a medium range pulse of 3 unpredictable charges of electricity that deal 105% weapon damage as Lightning.

- Signature spells are free to cast.

It's important to note the word unpredictable in the skill description. The three pulses of electricity crackle and creep across the ground at random in the general direction the Wizard is facing. This is not a skill to be used against a single enemy unless it happens to be very large and close by. Shock Pulse is, however, well-suited for large groups of monsters. Cast it multiple times in quick succession while slightly turning to spread the pulses out whenever surrounded.

There's no telling where the three charges will go, so get a little closer before casting.

RUNES

Explosive Bolts is a fine early upgrade for Shock Pulse, as it causes slain enemies to explode and inflict moderate Lightning damage to all foes within 10 yards—a great AOE attack that requires no Arcane Power to perform. Piercing Orb creates a large orb of Lightning that oscillates forward and passes through all enemies in its path, making it a suitable skill for interiors and confined paths where foes must line up to attack. Lightning Affinity returns 2 Arcane Power for every enemy hit by Shock Pulse, netting you a possible 6 Arcane Power each time the ability is performed. Living Lightning is a sight to behold. This rune forges the Shock Pulse into a being of pure energy that drifts forward across the battlefield and shocks all enemies it encounters. Living Lightning doesn't strike for heavy damage, but has the potential to weaken several enemies in crowded spaces.

Explosive Bolts

Unlocked: Level 9

Slain enemies explode, dealing 70% weapon damage as Lightning to every enemy within 10 yards.

Fire Bolts

Unlocked: Level 18

Cast bolts of fire that each deal 136% weapon damage as Fire.

Piercing Orb

Unlocked: Level 33

Merge the bolts in a single giant orb that oscillates forward, dealing 105% weapon damage as Lightning to everything it hits.

Lightning Affinity

Unlocked: Level 47

Every target hit by a pulse restores 2 Arcane Power.

Living Lightning

Unlocked: Level 54

Conjure a being of lightning that drifts forward, electrocuting nearby enemies for 37% weapon damage as Lightning.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

SPECTRAL BLADE

Summon a spectral blade that strikes all enemies in your path for 135% weapon damage.

- Signature spells are free to cast.

The Wizard need not wield a melee weapon to gain the ability to hack and slash! Spectral Blade quickly slashes enemies directly in front of the Wizard for a total of 135% weapon damage. Spectral Blade is worth slotting when you're trying to fight your way through multiple enemies, perhaps to claim a health globe or reach a key vantage point. It's also effective in conjunction with Diamond Skin if you need to stand and fight at close range.

The crisscrossing slashes of Spectral Blade slice all enemies directly in front of the Wizard for satisfactory weapon damage.

RUNES

Deep Cuts adds a Bleed effect to enemies hit by Spectral Blade that inflicts additional damage over time, making it that much easier to fend off close-range adversaries. Impactful Blades helps to enhance Spectral Blade's use as a defensive Signature spell by inflicting Knockback and Slow on enemies hit by the attack—use this brief window of opportunity to put some distance between the Wizard and some angry hellspawn! Those with a high Critical Hit Chance should slot in Healing Blades; it returns a hearty 8% of Critical Hit damage as Life. Thrown Blade significantly extends the range of Spectral Blade, making it possible to strike enemies up to 20 yards in front of the Wizard. This rune provides a powerful melee attack while simultaneously allowing the Hero to maintain a safe distance.

Deep Cuts

Unlocked: Level 19

Enemies hit by the blade will Bleed for an additional 35% weapon damage over 3 seconds.

Impactful Blades

Unlocked: Level 24

Hits have a 5% chance to cause Knockback and slow the movement of enemies by 60% for 1 second.

Siphoning Blade

Unlocked: Level 35

Every enemy hit grants 1 Arcane Power.

Healing Blades

Unlocked: Level 51

Whenever the blades do critical damage, you are healed 8% of the damage done.

Thrown Blade

Unlocked: Level 67

Extends the reach of Spectral Blade to 20 yards.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: PRIMARY

ELECTROCUTE

Lightning arcs from your fingertips, dealing 80% weapon damage as Lightning. The electricity can jump, hitting up to 2 additional enemies.

- Signature spells are free to cast.

This is a great lower-level skill to equip. It requires no Arcane Power and inflicts relatively high damage to up to 3 enemies. Target the toughest enemy in the immediate area so that the primary threat is sure to be damaged; the lightning then jumps to other nearby foes. You can't dictate which monsters get shocked if there are several in the area, but it's usually the two nearest the target. Electrocute can be cast repeatedly to keep a near-constant stream of lightning on the enemy. A great tactic is to target a Rare and inflict collateral damage to the accompanying minions.

Electrocute is the perfect Signature spell to employ against small groups of enemies.

RUNES

It's hard to choose against Chain Lightning once it's unlocked. Continue to channel Electrocute in a crowded area and watch the lightning jump to up to 6 enemies simultaneously—an extremely effective spell with no Arcane Power cost! Lightning Blast allows the lightning to pierce through the targeted enemies and hit all those directly behind it. This is a fine substitute to Chain Lightning when navigating narrow corridors and areas where you can lead the enemies through chokepoints. Surge of Power provides the Wizard with arguably the fastest method of generating Arcane Power, as it returns 1 Arcane Power for every enemy hit. Channeling Electrocute hits up to 3 enemies roughly every second. Arc Lightning directs the power of Electrocute into a cone that blasts forward, dealing moderate damage to all enemies in front of the Wizard.

Chain Lightning

Unlocked: Level 22

Increases the maximum number of enemies that can be electrocuted to 6.

Forked Lightning

Unlocked: Level 29

Critical Hits release 4 charged bolts in random directions, dealing 46% weapon damage as Lightning to any targets hit.

Lightning Blast

Unlocked: Level 36

Create streaks of lightning that pierce through targets, hitting all enemies for 80% weapon damage as Lightning.

Surge of Power

Unlocked: Level 44

Gain 1 Arcane Power for every enemy hit by Electrocute.

Arc Lightning

Unlocked: Level 59

Blast a cone of lightning that causes 80% weapon damage as Lightning to all affected targets.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

ARCAINE TORRENT

Hurl a barrage of Arcane projectiles that deals 175% weapon damage as Arcane to all enemies near the impact location.

- Costs 20 Arcane Power.

Arcane Torrent fires a barrage of missile-like projectiles imbued with Arcane energy. This skill doesn't strike a specific enemy with pinpoint accuracy, but rather bombards the targeted area with a sustained attack. Continue the assault to inflict heavy DPS to all enemies near the initial point of impact. This skill is preferable to the beam-like attacks like Ray of Frost and Disintegrate whenever you can't get a clean line of fire on the enemy or need to arc shots up and over weaker enemies to strike a tougher foe in the background.

Target an area near a group of enemies and continue casting Arcane Torrent to keep the projectiles firing!

RUNES

Pair Disruption with skills that inflict Arcane damage for the best results. Disruption deals 15% additional damage from Arcane attacks for 6 seconds.

Death Blossom practically quadruples the damage the projectiles inflict, but you lose the control over their aim. The Arcane Torrent will fire in random directions so it's best to use it in crowded areas to guarantee there are targets standing where the projectiles land. Arcane Mines turns Arcane Torrent into a skill like the Demon Hunter's Spike Trap skill. The mines arm shortly after being placed and detonate when an enemy nears, dealing 200% weapon damage and temporarily slowing enemy movement and attack speed—great for escaping a gang of enemies! Power Stone causes a unique item to occasionally be left behind when an enemy is slain by the attack. Collect these Power Stones to gain an influx of Arcane Power.

Disruption

Unlocked: Level 18

Targets hit by Arcane Torrent become Disrupted for 6 seconds, causing them to take 15% additional damage from any attacks that deal Arcane damage.

Death Blossom

Unlocked: Level 25

Unleash a torrent of power beyond your control. You no longer direct where the projectiles go, but their damage increases to 670% weapon damage as Arcane.

Arcane Mines

Unlocked: Level 34

Place Arcane mines that arm after 2 seconds and explode when enemies approach, dealing 150% weapon damage. Targets' movement and attack speeds reduced by 30% for 3 seconds.

Power Stone

Unlocked: Level 49

Every missile hit has a 2% chance to leave behind a Power Stone that grants Arcane Power when picked up.

Cascade

Unlocked: Level 57

Enemies killed by Arcane Torrent have a 100% chance to fire a new missile at a nearby enemy, dealing 175% weapon damage as Arcane.

ACTIVE SKILLS: MOUSE SKILLS: SECONDARY

DISINTEGRATE

Thrust a beam of pure energy forward, dealing 155% weapon damage as Arcane and disintegrating enemies it kills.

- Costs 20 Arcane Power.

Disintegrate is one of the Wizard's most powerful offensive skills for dealing piercing damage to a group of approaching enemies. The blazing red beam of energy burns right through everything it contacts, making it ideal for use against a column of enemies lined up in a narrow corridor. Pay close attention to the Wizard's supply of Arcane Power when using this skill, as it's easy to drain the entire pool while trying to take down a pack of Champions or a Rare enemy.

Burn a hole straight through the most stubborn foes with Disintegrate!

RUNES

Convergence widens the beam without reducing the DPS that the skill inflicts. This increases its effectiveness in open terrain without degrading its ability in narrow corridors. Chaos Nexus allows you to shoot blasts of energy at nearby enemies while Disintegrate is being channeled. This protects the Wizard from stray attackers without having to stop your assault on the central threat. Volatility adds a powerful AOE component to the piercing high-DPS attack of Disintegrate. With Volatility slotted, enemies killed by Disintegrate have a 1-in-3 chance of exploding, dealing 395% weapon damage to all enemies within 8 yards. Intensify gradually increases the power of the beam until it inflicts a max of 201% weapon damage as Arcane, roughly a 30% increase over the base skill!

Convergence

Unlocked: Level 26

Increases the width of the beam, allowing it to hit more enemies.

Chaos Nexus

Unlocked: Level 30

When casting the beam, you become charged with energy that spits out at nearby enemies doing 40% weapon damage as Arcane.

Volatility

Unlocked: Level 39

Enemies killed by the beam have a 35% chance to explode, causing 395% weapon damage as Arcane to all enemies within 8 yards.

Entropy

Unlocked: Level 48

The beam fractures into a short-ranged cone, causing 178% weapon damage per second as Arcane.

Intensify

Unlocked: Level 59

Damage increases slowly over time to inflict a maximum of 201% weapon damage as Arcane.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

FROST NOVA

Blast nearby enemies with an explosion of ice and freeze them for 3 seconds.
 • Cooldown 12 seconds.

Frost Nova bears some resemblance to the Demon Hunter's Fan of Knives skill as the explosion radiates outward from the Hero in all directions. That's where the similarities end, however! Frost Nova freezes enemies solid for 3 seconds, temporarily prohibiting their ability to move, attack, or cast skills. That's a long time considering the skill has no Arcane Power cost and a relatively short cooldown. This is an excellent low-level defensive skill that, with the right rune, can have a long-term home in your action bar.

Freeze enemies in their tracks for 3 seconds with Frost Nova!

RUNES

Shatter rewards you for quickly killing enemies frozen by the Frost Nova burst. Foes slain while frozen have a 50% chance to release a Frost Nova, thereby freezing nearby enemies long before the cooldown has ended! Frozen Mist replaces the skill's ability to freeze targets with a mist that deals heavy damage as Cold over 8 seconds to enemies in the area. Put Deep Freeze to use in crowded areas for a 15% boost to your Critical Hit Chance whenever Frost Nova hits at least 5 enemies. The bonus wears off after 12 seconds, just in time for you to cast Frost Nova again! Bone Chill causes enemies frozen by Frost Nova to take 15% more damage while frozen or chilled by the spell. Alert allies when you have this rune selected so they know to focus their attacks on the frozen enemies and kill them before they thaw.

Shatter

Unlocked: Level 12
Each slain frozen enemy has a 50% chance of releasing another Frost Nova.

Cold Snap

Unlocked: Level 18
Reduces the cooldown of Frost Nova to 9 seconds.

Frozen Mist

Unlocked: Level 28
Frost Nova no longer freezes enemies, but instead leaves behind a mist of frost that deals 160% weapon damage as Cold over 8 seconds.

Deep Freeze

Unlocked: Level 41
If Frost Nova hits at least 5 targets, you gain a 15% bonus to Critical Hit Chance for 12 seconds.

Bone Chill

Unlocked: Level 51
Enemies take 15% more damage while frozen or chilled by Frost Nova.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

DIAMOND SKIN

Transform your skin to diamond for 3 seconds, absorbing up to 48 damage from incoming attacks (damage based on player level; amount shown corresponds to unlocking level).
 • Cooldown 15 seconds.

Unlike the Wizard's armor spells, Diamond Skin provides complete protection against all incoming attacks for a set duration or damage amount. Diamond Skin can absorb only a certain amount of damage, based on Hero level. Attacks that inflict damage above this threshold cancel the Diamond Skin effect even if the 3-second duration has not yet been reached. To this extent, Diamond Skin should be used either strategically to absorb one major attack or to buy a few seconds to slip away to safety. Resist the temptation to use it at every opportunity or else its cooldown may render it unavailable when you need it most.

Diamond Skin completely nullifies attacks up to a set amount of damage for 3 seconds.

RUNES

Crystal Shell effectively doubles the maximum amount of damage that Diamond Skin can absorb during its 3-second duration, increasing your chances of surviving a life-threatening attack or volley of assaults from numerous foes. Prism dramatically reduces the Arcane Power cost of all spells during the 3 seconds that Diamond Skin is active. Make sure your most desired skills aren't on cooldown when you activate it or the short-term benefits can be wasted. Mirror Skin reflects 50% of the incoming damage back at the attacker. It can be tough to decide between Mirror Skin and Enduring Skin, but the latter's ability to extend the duration of Diamond Skin to 5 seconds ensures more protection as long as the maximum damage absorbed isn't met quickly. Diamond Shards causes the Diamond Skin to erupt after 3 seconds, dealing 156% weapon damage to nearby enemies—this can be the life-saving blow needed to survive a dangerous situation.

Crystal Shell

Unlocked: Level 14
Increases the maximum amount of damage absorbed to 720 damage at level 14 (damage absorbed is based on player level; amount shown at unlocking level).

Prism

Unlocked: Level 20
Reduces Arcane Power cost of all spells by 7 while Diamond Skin is active.

Mirror Skin

Unlocked: Level 32
Reflect 50% of damage absorbed back at the attacker.

Enduring Skin

Unlocked: Level 44
Increases the duration of Diamond Skin to 5 seconds.

Diamond Shards

Unlocked: Level 56
When Diamond Skin wears off, diamond shards explode in all directions, dealing 156% weapon damage as Physical to nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

SLOW TIME

Create a bubble of warped time and space for 8 seconds, reducing enemy attack speed by 20% and movement speed by 30%. This bubble also slows the movement of enemy projectiles by 90%.

- Cooldown 20 seconds.

Slow Time creates a massive bubble that slows down enemy movement and attack speed within the bubble, as well as that of enemy projectiles entering it. What makes Slow Time so effective is that neither the Wizard nor his allies need to stay in the bubble to benefit from it. In fact, it can be advantageous to cast the bubble between the Heroes and the enemy forces, then back away, especially when in a tight area. This not only creates some space between you and the monsters in the bubble, but gives the party plenty of time to react to projectile attacks coming from afar. Slow Time lasts for 8 seconds and has no Arcane Power cost, but doesn't actually damage enemies without the help of a rune.

Everything within the bubble is slowed down—especially enemy projectiles passing into the bubble from beyond.

RUNES

Miasma is a great rune to select for use against fast enemies and large groups. It causes the Slow Time effects to cling to enemies for 3 seconds, even after they exit the bubble. Time Warp deals 20% increased damage to foes inside the bubble when attacked. Cast the Slow Time bubble near a group of monsters, quickly exit the area, then unleash a powerful AOE attack centered on the toughest foe inside the bubble! Time Shell shrinks the diameter of the Slow Time bubble, but increases the movement speed reduction to 80%. Use this against Elite enemies and bosses that are susceptible to being slowed, as it practically renders them immobile for up to 8 seconds. Stretch Time is great for co-op play with other ranged attackers; it increases the attack speed of all allies within the bubble. It also helps melee-based allies who venture into the bubble to attack affected enemies. Enemies are slowed, while your allies' attacks are sped up.

Miasma

Unlocked: Level 23

Slow Time effects cling to enemies for 3 seconds after they have left the bubble.

Time Warp

Unlocked: Level 29

Enemies caught in the bubble of warped time take 20% more damage.

Time Shell

Unlocked: Level 39

Reduces the area Slow Time affects to 10 yards, but increases the potency of the movement speed reduction to 80%.

Perpetuity

Unlocked: Level 47

Reduces the cooldown of Slow Time to 16 seconds.

Stretch Time

Unlocked: Level 53

Time is sped up for any allies standing in the area, increasing their attack speed by 10%.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#1): DEFENSIVE

TELEPORT

Teleport through the ether to the selected location up to 35 yards away.

- Costs 15 Arcane Power.
- Cooldown 16 seconds.

Like the Demon Hunter's Vault or the Monk's Tempest Rush, Teleport gives the Wizard a means of escape. Teleport allows you to instantly relocate up to 35 yards away. Simply use the mouse to target an area where you'd like to Teleport and activate the skill. There's a moderate cooldown period, but a low enough resource cost that should leave it available at all times. Use this skill to revive a fallen ally or quickly escape to a nearby Healing Well.

The Wizard emerges from the ether in a purple burst of Arcane energy wherever you target with the mouse.

RUNES

Safe Passage makes a quick getaway even better by reducing the amount of damage the Wizard incurs for several seconds after teleporting. It's a good chance to collect a health globe or use a potion before it's too late. Wormhole is perfect for those wishing to cover a large distance quickly. Cast Teleport a second time within 1 second of the initial cast to Teleport a second time. This requires some fast mouse and key action, but a little practice is worth the effort. Fracture summons two decoys into battle alongside the Wizard after using Teleport. They won't inflict damage on the enemy, but help to draw attention away from the Wizard. Calamity is the ultimate upgrade to Teleport, unleashing a low-power Wave of Force immediately after Teleporting. It knocks enemies away from the Wizard, hits for moderate weapon damage, and slows targets!

Safe Passage

Unlocked: Level 26

Incur 30% less damage for 4 seconds after Teleporting.

Wormhole

Unlocked: Level 31

After casting Teleport, there's a 1-second delay before the cooldown begins, allowing you to Teleport again.

Reversal

Unlocked: Level 37

Casting Teleport again within 8 seconds will instantly return the Wizard to your original location.

Fracture

Unlocked: Level 43

Summon 2 decoys for 8 seconds after teleporting.

Calamity

Unlocked: Level 59

Cast a low power Wave of Force upon arrival, dealing 75% weapon damage as Physical to all nearby enemies.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): FORCE

WAVE OF FORCE

Discharge a wave of pure energy that repels projectiles and knocks back nearby enemies. This also slows the movement of enemies by 60% and deals 200% weapon damage as Physical.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.
- Cooldown 15 seconds.

Nothing creates a little breathing room better than Wave of Force. This skill can be used to instantly repel enemies—or deflect incoming projectiles—on all sides, regardless of the direction the Wizard is facing. Previously weakened enemies will likely be killed by the Wave of Force and survivors will have their movement slowed by 60%. This buys the Wizard enough time to either make an escape or perform a follow-up attack. The one thing she can't do is cast another Wave of Force, at least not until the cooldown expires. This skill is also valuable during co-op play with a Demon Hunter—stick close so this Hero can also benefit from the sudden clearing of foes.

Wave of Force doesn't care how many enemies are surrounding you—they're all going for a ride!

RUNES

Impactful Wave knocks enemies back even further than the base skill and stuns them for 3 seconds. Forceful Wave doesn't knock the enemies as far from the Wizard as the standard skill, but hits for 260% weapon damage. Given that targets are still slowed by the base skill effects, the smaller Knockback distance may not be that critical. Teleporting Wave is for those who care most about Wave of Force's ability to clear away swarming enemies. This rune teleports affected enemies to random locations beyond the initial Knockback distance. Exploding Wave creates a chance for smaller Waves of Force to be generated off enemies caught in the initial wave, increasing the number of foes injured and knocked back by the attack. Exploding Wave is best used in crowded areas, after allowing a large number of monsters to draw close.

Impactful Wave

Unlocked: Level 15

Increases the distance enemies are knocked back and stuns all affected enemies for 2 seconds.

Force Affinity

Unlocked: Level 22

Reduces casting cost to 15 Arcane Power and cooldown duration to 12 seconds.

Forceful Wave

Unlocked: Level 32

Increases damage to 260% weapon damage as Physical, but reduces Knockback.

Teleporting Wave

Unlocked: Level 39

Enemies caught in the Wave of Force have a 100% chance to be randomly teleported.

Exploding Wave

Unlocked: Level 49

Enemies hit have a 40% chance to cause a smaller Wave of Force that deals 100% weapon damage as Physical and knocks back enemies caught in its wake.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): FORCE

ENERGY TWISTER

Unleash a twister of pure energy that deals 360% weapon damage as Arcane over 6 seconds to everything in its path.

- Costs 35 Arcane Power.

The power of a tornado is at your fingertips! Release multiple Energy Twisters in quick succession that meander across the battlefield, dealing intense damage over time to enemies caught within the funnels. Each cast of Energy Twister summons a single tornado that lasts 6 seconds. The spell can be cast repeatedly, but it's not cheap! Use it against enemies in a narrow corridor, small room, or against a large number of weaker enemies. The actual path of the Energy Twister is impossible to predict and some faster enemies may even avoid it altogether. Nevertheless, a pair of Energy Twisters can certainly soften up a pack of foes.

Send an outbreak of twisters into a pack of enemies for best results.

RUNES

Gale Force boosts the weapon damage caused by Energy Twister from 360% to 468% as Arcane, making it one of the Wizard's most powerful spells. The Energy Twisters will still cut a random path across the area, but this makes sure the targets are dealt a heavier blow. Raging Storm causes 2 colliding Energy Twisters to merge into a much larger one that impacts a wider area. There's no guarantee that two Energy Twisters will collide, but casting the spell multiple times in quick succession will likely result in a larger AOE. Use Wicked Wind while exploring narrow corridors and chokepoints to force enemies to contend with this powerful stationary twister. Storm Charge generates a "Wind Charge" (icon will appear above action bar) whenever you cast Energy Twister. Casting a Signature spell releases the Wind Charges in the form of a giant Energy Twister. The more charges you store (max of 3), the more powerful the Energy Twister!

Mistral Breeze

Unlocked: Level 19

Reduces casting cost of Energy Twister to 20 Arcane Power.

Gale Force

Unlocked: Level 24

Increases the damage of Energy Twister to 468% weapon damage as Arcane.

Raging Storm

Unlocked: Level 36

When two Energy Twisters collide, they merge into a tornado with increased AOE that causes 360% weapon damage as Arcane over 6 seconds.

Wicked Wind

Unlocked: Level 41

Twisters no longer travel but spin in place, dealing 252% weapon damage as Arcane over 6 seconds to everything caught in them.

Storm Chaser

Unlocked: Level 52

Casting Energy Twister grants you a Wind Charge. Store up to 3. Casting a Signature spell releases all charges as a giant Energy Twister that deals 75% weapon damage as Arcane per charge.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): FORCE

HYDRA

Summon a multi-headed Hydra for 15 seconds that attacks enemies with bolts of fire, dealing 28% weapon damage as Fire. You may have only one Hydra active at a time.

- Costs 15 Arcane Power.

The multi-headed Hydra rises from the ground in a tower of flame. Its three heads immediately begin spewing molten balls of fire at nearby foes. You can't dictate which enemies they target, but you can be sure they'll make quick work of those nearby. The Hydra lasts for 15 seconds and hits for 28% weapon damage with each fiery bolt. Hydra isn't cheap, so use your Signature spells while it's active to ensure you have at least 40 Arcane Power available to summon another one as soon as the first disappears. You can recast a Hydra if you wish to reposition it.

The Hydra is summoned where you target and will automatically begin spewing molten fireballs at enemies.

RUNES

Arcane Hydra replaces the fire-breathing standard Hydra with one that shoots Arcane Orbs. The orbs deal the same amount of damage, but explode on contact and injure all enemies in the area, making it a better option for use against groups of enemies. Lightning Hydra electrocutes enemies for slightly more damage than the standard Hydra. Venom Hydra creates a pool of acid that deals 13% weapon damage per second to enemies that remain in the pool. Use this rune to foul an area that enemies must cross, forcing them to suffer AOE damage over time. Frost Hydra provides a slight increase in damage and expands the size of the attack to affect multiple enemies within a cone. Mammoth Hydra sets the ground aflame with a river of fire that deals damage over time to all those caught on the burning ground. This rune is ideal for battles against large numbers of enemies in open space, as well as all situations in narrow areas.

Arcane Hydra

Unlocked: Level 26

Summon an Arcane Hydra that spits Arcane Orbs that explode on impact, causing 28% weapon damage as Arcane to enemies near the explosion.

Lightning Hydra

Unlocked: Level 33

Summon a Lightning Hydra that electrocutes enemies for 34% weapon damage as Lightning.

Venom Hydra

Unlocked: Level 38

Summon a Poison Breathing Hydra that leaves a pool of acid, causing 18% weapon damage per second as Poison to enemies who remain in the pool.

Frost Hydra

Unlocked: Level 46

Summon a Frost Hydra that breathes a short-range cone of frost, causing 31% weapon damage as Cold to all enemies in the cone.

Mammoth Hydra

Unlocked: Level 55

Summon a Mammoth Hydra that breathes fire at nearby enemies, dealing 22% weapon damage per second as Fire to enemies trapped on the burning ground.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): FORCE

METEOR

Summon an immense meteor that plummets from the sky, causing 200% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies it crashes into. The ground it hits is scorched with molten fire that deals 60% weapon damage as Fire over 3 seconds.

- Costs 60 Arcane Power.

Whether you're staring down a particularly large enemy or a massive group of smaller ones, you'll be hard-pressed to top Meteor for sheer offensive power! Target an area or individual enemy and watch as a massive meteor crashes down from the sky, dealing 180% weapon damage as Fire to all enemies near the impact crater. Scorch the area in front of an advancing column to deal additional damage to all daring to tread across the molten ground. Meteor doesn't have a cooldown, but this spell shouldn't be used too frequently unless precautions are taken to reduce its Arcane Power cost or to regenerate this resource at a faster rate.

Meteor doesn't have an extremely wide area of effect, but it deals extreme damage to those in the impact zone.

RUNES

Molten Impact boosts both the damage inflicted by the initial impact and the molten fire that scorches the ground for several seconds afterwards. Equip this rune as soon as it is unlocked. Star Pact significantly reduces the casting cost, making it an even more attractive option than Molten Impact if you are running low on Arcane Power. Meteor Shower increases the damage output, but spreads it out over a greater area by pelting the ground with 7 smaller Meteors. It's most effective against a large crowd of enemies, whereas Molten Impact is better when fighting a Rare or boss type enemy. Comet transforms the skill to one that is Cold-based, inflicting heavy DPS on impact and dealing extra damage as Cold to slow enemy movement. Reap the benefits of the Cold Blooded passive skill while casting Meteor (for those who prefer this skill over Blizzard).

Molten Impact

Unlocked: Level 29

Increases the damage of the Meteor impact to 260% weapon damage as Fire and the molten fire to 78% weapon damage as Fire over 3 seconds.

Star Pact

Unlocked: Level 34

Reduces the casting cost of Meteor to 35 Arcane Power.

Meteor Shower

Unlocked: Level 43

Unleash a volley of 7 smaller Meteors that each strike for 80% weapon damage as Fire.

Comet

Unlocked: Level 48

An icy meteor deals 240% weapon damage as Cold. The impact site has a freezing mist that deals 72% weapon damage as Cold, slowing enemies by 60% over 3 seconds.

Liquify

Unlocked: Level 58

If the initial impact of the Meteor causes Critical Hits, the molten fire duration is increased to 8 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#2): FORCE

BLIZZARD

Call down shards of ice to pelt an area, dealing 210% weapon damage as Cold to all enemies in the area over 6 seconds. Multiple casts in the same area do not stack.

- Costs 45 Arcane Power.

Blizzard is an excellent skill to use when facing a number of tightly packed enemies. It doesn't require any specific aiming and the falling shards are spread across a large enough area to ensure that even the faster foes get hit. Enemies trapped within the storm for the full duration will all suffer 210% weapon damage as Cold. Blizzard's lower Arcane Power cost makes it a fine alternative to Meteor when looking to strike at multiple enemies simultaneously.

Blizzard inflicts Cold damage to those caught in the storm for 6 seconds per cast.

RUNES

Frozen Solid yields a 20% chance to freeze enemies for 3 seconds, thereby preventing them from taking any action until thawed. Grasping Chill further enhances the zoning ability of Blizzard and slows enemy movement so drastically that it's almost like freezing an enemy in place (although it can still attack). Stark Winter nearly doubles the size of the Blizzard, making it a premier AOE attack to use against large swarms of enemies, especially if the Cold Blooded passive skill is equipped. Unrelenting Storm extends the duration of the Blizzard and also the damage it delivers, but leaves the size and behavior alone. This is often the most desirable modification one can hope for.

Grasping Chill

Unlocked: Level 35

After the Blizzard ends, the ground is covered in a low lying mist for 3 seconds that slows the movement speed of enemies by 60%.

Frozen Solid

Unlocked: Level 42

Enemies caught in the Blizzard have a 20% chance to be frozen for 3 seconds.

Snowbound

Unlocked: Level 47

Reduces the casting cost of Blizzard to 20 Arcane Power.

Stark Winter

Unlocked: Level 54

Increases the size of the Blizzard to cover 22 yards, dealing 210% weapon damage over 6 seconds.

Unrelenting Storm

Unlocked: Level 60

Increases the duration of Blizzard to deal 280% weapon damage over 8 seconds.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): CONJURATION

ICE ARMOR

Surround yourself in a barrier of ice. Melee attackers are either Chilled or Frozen for 2 seconds. Lasts 120 seconds.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.

Ice Armor is the first of the Wizard's various armor spells to become available. This skill is important for experienced players, as well as those getting their first taste of combat with a mage. Ice Armor inflicts Cold damage to melee attackers, chilling or freezing them for 2 seconds. The chill effect doesn't freeze an enemy solid, but it does cause their movement and attack speeds to slow substantially. Ice Armor lasts for two full minutes, providing more than enough time for the Arcane Power it costs to regenerate. You should always be protected by the armor spell of your choice.

The ice barrier gives way to a chilling fog that slows attackers.

RUNES

Crystallize actually rewards the Wizard with increased Armor each time she is struck by a melee attacker (max stack of 3). Getting hit repeatedly while Ice Armor is active generates a maximum 45% increase to the Wizard's Armor rating for 10 seconds. Jagged Ice increases both the amount of damage Ice Armor inflicts upon melee attackers and the duration of the chill effect. Ice Reflect yields a 25% chance that a Frost Nova will erupt, centered on the attacker whenever the Wizard is hit by a melee attack. This Frost Nova deals 75% weapon damage as Cold to the attacker and nearby enemies. Frozen Storm generates a storm of ice that surrounds the Wizard and deals minor damage as Cold to all enemies in the area, not just those who assault the Hero with melee attacks.

Chilling Aura

Unlocked: Level 21

Lower the temperature of the air around you. Nearby enemies are chilled, slowing their movement speed by 30%.

Crystallize

Unlocked: Level 31

Whenever you are struck by a melee attack, your Armor is increased by 15% for 30 seconds. This effect can stack up to 3 times.

Jagged Ice

Unlocked: Level 42

Melee attackers also take 100% weapon damage as Cold.

Ice Reflect

Unlocked: Level 49

Melee attacks have a 25% chance to create a Frost Nova centered on the attacker, dealing 75% weapon damage as Cold.

Frozen Storm

Unlocked: Level 53

A whirling storm of ice builds around you that deals 30% weapon damage as Cold over 3 seconds after casting Ice Armor.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): CONJURATION

STORM ARMOR

Bathe yourself in electrical energy, shocking ranged and melee attackers for 70% weapon damage as Lightning. Lasts 120 seconds.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.

Storm Armor doesn't absorb or reflect any damage, nor does it boost the Hero's vital statistics. What it does, however, is make enemies pay the price for attacking the Wizard. Lightning leaps and crackles from the Wizard, striking anything that attacks him for 70% weapon damage as Lightning. This pairs well with Diamond Skin, as they can both be active at the same time. Use Storm Armor to serve as a countermeasure against the less dangerous foes, then activate Diamond Skin when dealing with Champions or Rare enemies. Of course, Storm Armor is also well-suited for use in co-op play, particularly if your ally can deal AOE damage to your weakened attackers.

The electrical energy coursing through the Wizard's armor leaps out and jolts anything foolish enough to attack.

RUNES

Reactive Armor shocks attackers and yields a chance that the Hero will be enveloped for 6 seconds in a shield that shocks all nearby enemies. This damages even those enemies attacking your allies, as it only takes one enemy's attack to generate the lightning shield that harms all nearby. Power of the Storm reduces the casting cost of all skills by 3 Arcane Power. Over the full 120-second duration of Storm Armor, the savings could be substantial. Scramble enhances the defensive nature of Storm Armor by providing a short-term boost to movement speed whenever you're hit by a melee or ranged attack. Those with a very high Critical Hit Chance will benefit the most from Shocking Aspect. This rune has a chance to electrocute a nearby enemy for minor damage each time you score a Critical Hit while Storm Armor is active.

Reactive Armor

Unlocked: Level 23

Whenever you are hit, you have a chance to be enveloped with a lightning shield for 6 seconds that shocks nearby enemies for 50% weapon damage as Lightning.

Power of the Storm

Unlocked: Level 33

Reduces the Arcane Power cost of all skills by 3 while Storm Armor is active.

Strike Back

Unlocked: Level 37

Increase the damage of the shock to 91% weapon damage as Lightning.

Scramble

Unlocked: Level 43

Increases your movement speed by 25% for 3 seconds whenever you are hit by melee or ranged attacks.

Shocking Aspect

Unlocked: Level 58

Critical Hits have a chance to electrocute a nearby enemy for 35% weapon damage as Lightning.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): CONJURATION

MAGIC WEAPON

Imbue your weapon with magical energy, granting it 10% increased damage. Lasts 5 minutes.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.

Magic Weapon increases the Hero's total damage per second by 10% regardless of the weapon equipped. Magic Weapon increases the damage dealt by whichever weapon the Wizard is carrying by 10% and lasts a full 2 minutes, all for the low cost of 25 Arcane Power. It also increases the damage of all the skills that are cast while Magic Weapon is active. The skill has no cooldown and should be recast as soon as the effect begins to wear off, as evidenced by the buff icon above the action bar. Take into account your battle performance when deciding to select Magic Weapon over one of the armor spells in this category (assuming Elective mode is not selected).

RUNES

Electrify combines the use of your equipped weapon with the Electrocute skill, generating a chance to cause lightning to spread to 3 nearby enemies for minor damage while the skill is active. Force Weapon increases damage by 50% for the entire duration and also generates a slight chance to Knockback enemies hit by weapon attacks. Venom causes attacks to poison enemies and deal minor weapon damage as Poison over 3 seconds. Blood Magic returns 1.5% of the damage caused by Magic Weapon as Life. This may seem like a small amount, but it can generate a lot of Life over the 120-second skill duration.

Electrify

Unlocked: Level 27

Attacks have a chance to cause lightning to arc to 3 nearby enemies, dealing 10% of weapon damage as Lightning.

Force Weapon

Unlocked: Level 35

Increases damage bonus of Magic Weapon to 15% damage, and gives up to a 2% chance to Knockback any enemies hit.

Conduit

Unlocked: Level 38

Attacks have a chance to restore 1 Arcane Power.

Venom

Unlocked: Level 46

Attacks poison enemies, dealing 15% of weapon damage as Poison over 3 seconds.

Blood Magic

Unlocked: Level 55

Attacks recover 1.5% of damage caused as Life.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): CONJURATION

FAMILIAR

Summon a companion that will attack your targets for 20% weapon damage as Arcane. This companion cannot be targeted or damaged by enemies and lasts for 5 minutes.

- Costs 20 Arcane Power

The summoned Familiar floats alongside the Wizard and fires Arcane projectiles that inflict 20% weapon damage. The Familiar doesn't distract enemy attention, nor does it absorb any damage dealt to the Wizard. But it does help to defeat your targeted enemy that much faster, as even 20% weapon damage can really add up after a few projectiles. Consider invoking Familiar only when you have a desired rune to use with it, as that skill slot may be better allocated to an armor spell in the meantime (unless the player turns on Elective mode).

The Wizard's pet is none other than pure Arcane energy that fires projectiles at any enemy you target.

RUNES

Sparkflint doesn't just attack enemies for minor damage, but also increases all of the Wizard's attacks by 12% for the duration that the Familiar is active.

Dartling adds a 100% chance to pierce to each of the Familiar's projectiles. The projectile's damage is still rather slight, but the piercing ability allows it to chip away at the health of numerous enemies with each shot. Ancient Guardian is beneficial to those having a hard time staying above 35% Life. When below this threshold, the Familiar will fully absorb all of the damage aimed at the Wizard for 1 attack every 6 seconds—whether it absorbs a minor attack or a major one is up to chance. Cannoneer provides a significant upgrade to the Familiar's offensive power. Its projectiles explode on impact and dish out 20% weapon damage as Arcane to all enemies within 6 yards—a major increase from 20% weapon damage to just a single target.

Sparkflint

Unlocked: Level 30

Summon a fiery Familiar that increases damage of all attacks by 12% while Familiar is active.

Dartling

Unlocked: Level 40

Summon a lightning Familiar whose projectiles have a 100% chance to pierce through enemies.

Ancient Guardian

Unlocked: Level 44

Summon a protective Familiar. When you are below 35% Life, the Familiar will fully absorb damage from 1 attack every 6 seconds.

Arcanot

Unlocked: Level 50

While the Familiar is active, you regenerate 2 Arcane Power per second.

Cannoneer

Unlocked: Level 57

The Familiar's projectiles explode on impact, dealing 20% weapon damage as Arcane to all enemies within 6 yards.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#3): CONJURATION

ENERGY ARMOR

Focus your energies, increasing your Armor by 65% but decreasing your maximum Arcane Power by 20. Lasts 120 seconds.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.

Energy Armor provides a significant boost to the Wizard's Armor rating while reducing the Hero's Arcane Power by 20. This reduction in Arcane Power is not as bad as it seems if you make certain preparations. Wizards who rely heavily on Signature spells aren't likely to feel the reduced Arcane Power as drastically. If you're accustomed to casting multiple Arcane-powered skills, try shifting more to Signature skills and seek to slot them with a rune that actually generates Arcane Power each time you cast them. Arcane Power will continue to regenerate naturally, but the reduced maximum Arcane Power may limit your ability to cast multiple resource-intensive skills.

Enveloped in a transparent bubble of energy, the Wizard becomes less susceptible to enemy attacks.

RUNES

Absorption helps to offset the reduction in maximum Arcane Power by providing the chance to gain 4 Arcane Power whenever the Wizard is hit by a melee or ranged attack. Pinpoint Barrier provides a 5% increase to your chance to critically hit while Energy Armor is active. Energy Tap reverses the skill's effect on the Wizard's resource and actually increases the Arcane Power maximum by 20 instead of reducing it, leaving no side effects to the tremendous boost in Armor the skill offers. Prismatic Armor boosts your resistances by 40% while Energy Armor is active. Unlike Pinpoint Barrier, the greater your existing ratings, the more you'll gain from this boost. Wizards with very low resistances will see less benefit from this skill than those with higher existing resistances.

Absorption

Unlocked: Level 32

You have a chance to gain 4 Arcane Power whenever you are hit by a ranged or melee attack.

Pinpoint Barrier

Unlocked: Level 41

Increases your chance to Critical Hit by 5% while Energy Armor is active.

Energy Tap

Unlocked: Level 48

Rather than decreasing your maximum Arcane Power, Energy Armor increases it by 20 while it is active.

Force Armor

Unlocked: Level 54

While Energy Armor is active, incoming attacks that would deal more than 35% of your maximum Life are reduced to deal 35% of your maximum Life instead.

Prismatic Armor

Unlocked: Level 54

Increases all of your resistances by 40% while Energy Armor is active.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MASTERY

EXPLOSIVE BLAST

Gather an infusion of energy around you that explodes after 1.5 seconds, causing 225% weapon damage as Physical to all enemies within 12 yards.

- Costs 20 Arcane Power.
- Cooldown 6 seconds.

Explosive Blast is perfectly suited for players who like to draw the enemy in close, especially when attempting to play as a melee-based Wizard or when sticking close by your Barbarian or Monk companion. Unlike most attack skills, Explosive Blast requires a bit of anticipation and short-term planning as it takes 1.5 seconds for the blast to gather the necessary energy. Trigger this skill, then begin your sprint toward the nearest enemies to get as close as possible when the Explosive Blast detonates.

Ready the Explosive Blast and sprint headlong into a crowd of enemies in time for the explosion of energy.

RUNES

Time Bomb extends the delay by a full second, but increases the damage dealt by the blast to 293% weapon damage. This longer fuse allows the Wizard to set it in anticipation of approaching enemies, thus allowing the Wizard more time to vacate the area before the enemies get within striking range. Short Fuse is exactly the opposite of Time Bomb and provides an instantaneous explosion while maintaining the base skill's damage level. This is desirable for those who wish to use the skill defensively, as a means of blasting their way out of a corner. Obliterate boosts the explosion radius, making it effective against large crowds of minor enemies. Chain Reaction triggers 3 consecutive explosions to detonate off the Wizard, each causing 97% weapon damage. Run through the heart of the enemy's position while using Chain Reaction to injure multiple foes along the way.

Unleashed

Unlocked: Level 24
Reduces the casting cost of Explosive Blast to 10 Arcane Power.

Time Bomb

Unlocked: Level 29
Explosive Blast detonates from the point it was originally cast after 2.5 seconds for 293% weapon damage as Physical.

Short Fuse

Unlocked: Level 39
Immediately release the energy of Explosive Blast for 225% weapon damage as Physical.

Obliterate

Unlocked: Level 50
Increases the explosion radius to 18 yards for 225% weapon damage as Physical.

Chain Reaction

Unlocked: Level 55
A chain of 3 consecutive explosions cascade off you, each causing 97% weapon damage as Physical.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MASTERY

MIRROR IMAGE

Summon 2 illusory duplicates of yourself that last for 7 seconds and have 25% of your Life. The images may cast some of the same spells as you, but those spells deal no damage.

- Cooldown 15 seconds.

Mirror Image is a powerful skill that confuses and distracts enemies for 7 seconds, but carries no offensive abilities in its basic form. The Wizard is cloaked in a pink reflective glow, just like the twin duplicates that mimic the Wizard's attacks. The duplicates will perform many of the attack spells that the Wizard casts, but they are just for show. Only the Wizard's spells can damage attackers. The duplicates each possess 25% of the Wizard's max Life (they can be defeated before the 7-second duration expires) and exist purely to draw attention from the Wizard and distract enemies.

The two duplicates, each with a telltale ring on the ground beneath them, will copy your every move.

RUNES

Simulacrum grants the Mirror Images the same amount of Life as the Wizard and should all but ensure they last the full 7 seconds. Duplicates increases the number of Mirror Images from 2 to 5, thereby creating even more chance for the enemy to be confused and attack a target other than the Wizard. Mocking Demise causes the Mirror Images to explode upon death (or when time runs out). The explosion deals 45% weapon damage and has a 50% chance to Stun enemies it hits for 2 seconds. This is a useful skill in high traffic areas, particularly when battling numerous melee-centric enemies. Mirror Mimics allows the spells cast by your Mirror Images to actually inflict 10% of the damage of the Wizard's own spells. For example, if the Wizard casts Energy Twister for 360% weapon damage as Arcane, the Mirror Mimic would cast it for 36% weapon damage (Mirror Images cannot cast all of the Wizard's spells).

Simulacrum

Unlocked: Level 31
Increase the Life of your Mirror Images to 100% of your own.

Duplicates

Unlocked: Level 37
Summon 5 Mirror Images that have 25% of your Life each.

Mocking Demise

Unlocked: Level 45
When a Mirror Image is destroyed, it explodes, doing 45% weapon damage as Physical and has a 50% chance to Stun for 2 seconds.

Extension of Will

Unlocked: Level 51
The duration of your Mirror Images is increased to 10 seconds and their Life is increased to 29% of your Life.

Mirror Mimics

Unlocked: Level 58
Spells cast by your Mirror Images will do 10% of the damage of your own spells.

ACTION BAR SKILLS (#4): MASTERY

ARCHON

Transform into a being of pure Arcane energy for 15 seconds. While in Archon form, your normal abilities are replaced by powerful Archon abilities, and your Armor and resistances are increased by 40%. Every enemy killed while in Archon form adds 1 second to the duration of Archon.

- Costs 25 Arcane Power.
- Cooldown 120 seconds.

The transformation from human to Archon form represents the pinnacle achievement in the Wizard's learning. For 15 seconds, the Wizard floats above the ground in Archon form, dishing out powerful Archon versions of skills like Disintegrate. The Wizard can still take damage while in Archon form, but her Armor and resistances are increased by 40%. Save Archon form for areas containing numerous enemies. Soften them up before activating Archon, then kill as many as you can to extend the duration of the skill.

The Archon's soft glow belies the tremendous power lurking within.

RUNES

Arcane Destruction generates a massive explosion that deals heavy weapon damage to all enemies within 15 yards when you transform into Archon form. This helps to kill numerous enemies and increases the duration of the Archon ability. Teleport enables the Wizard to cast the Teleport skill while in Archon form. It's important to remember that the Wizard is still susceptible to attack while in Archon form; Armor and resistances are increased, but the Wizard is far from invincible! Slow Time grants the Wizard use of the Slow Time spell while in Archon form. Use this to slow enemies in the bubble and make them easier to hit with the Archon's powerful attacks. Improved Archon increases the damage of all Archon attacks by 25%, thus making it that much easier to kill enemies and extend the duration of Archon. Unlocking the Improved Archon rune is the pinnacle of Wizardry!

Arcane Destruction

Unlocked: Level 36

An explosion erupts around you when you transform, causing 450% weapon damage as Arcane to all enemies within 15 yards.

Teleport

Unlocked: Level 40

Archon form can now cast Teleport with a cooldown of 10 seconds.

Pure Power

Unlocked: Level 46

Decreases the cooldown of Archon to 100 seconds.

Slow Time

Unlocked: Level 52

Archon form can cast Slow Time that lasts 8 seconds.

Improved Archon

Unlocked: Level 60

Increases the damage of all Archon abilities by 25%.

PASSIVE SKILL

BLUR

Decreases melee damage taken by 20%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

No matter how hard you try to avoid melee attackers, the Wizard will get hit. And when you do, it pays to have Blur equipped. This skill reduces the damage incurred from melee attacks by 20%. It's particularly useful for those attempting to play as a melee-based Wizard, as they'll be in harm's way far more often than a standard ranged spellcaster. All Wizards should consider this skill when playing on higher difficulties, especially in areas loaded with melee monsters.

PASSIVE SKILL

POWER HUNGRY

Gain 30 Arcane Power whenever you are healed by a health globe.

UNLOCKED
lvl 10

It can be argued that no Hero relies on their resource more than the Wizard. The Power Hungry skill ensures that all health globes also replenish 30 Arcane Power, significantly reducing the chance of running out. Players who make frequent use of Signature spells are less likely to need this skill. Consider slotting it only if you frequently find yourself without Arcane Power.

PASSIVE SKILL

EVOCATION

Reduces all cooldowns by 15%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 13

The Wizard doesn't have many skills with prohibitively long cooldown periods, but Evocation is worth slotting just for its effects on the Archon spell alone. Evocation reduces Archon's cooldown from 120 seconds to 102 seconds. It's particularly useful during the end-game boss battle and on higher difficulty settings, when you're more likely to use Archon. Evocation is also worth slotting if you make frequent use of Teleport and Frost Nova.

PASSIVE SKILL

GLASS CANNON

Increases all damage done by 15%, but decreases Armor and resistances by 10%.

UNLOCKED
lvl 16

This skill is recommended for advanced players only as the Wizard can be quite fragile. Only those who find themselves seldom in need of health globes or potions should volunteer for a 10% reduction in Armor and resistances. Consider saving Glass Cannon for co-op play, particularly when you have someone in front to tank for you (like a Barbarian or Monk).

PASSIVE SKILL

PRODIGY

When you deal damage with a Signature spell, you gain 4 Arcane Power. The following skills are Signature spells: Magic Missile, Shock Pulse, Spectral Blade, and Electrocute.

UNLOCKED
lvl 20

Prodigy not only makes it unnecessary to slot an Arcane Power-generating rune with any of your Signature spells, but also limits the drawbacks of using Energy Armor. Having Prodigy slotted to one of your passive skill slots will certainly help to power your more potent skills. And unlike Power Hungry, you won't need to clamor for a health globe in order to gain the extra boost of Arcane Power you need!

PASSIVE SKILL

ASTRAL PRESENCE

Increases your maximum Arcane Power by 20 and Arcane Power regeneration by 2 per second.

UNLOCKED
lvl 24

Astral Presence is a fine alternative to Power Hungry and Prodigy, as it lessens the need to cast Signature spells or scour for health globes in order to gain the extra Arcane Power you might need. Faster Arcane Power regeneration is important and can free up some of the runes that you may have equipped.

PASSIVE SKILL

ILLUSIONIST

UNLOCKED
lvl 27

Whenever you suffer more than 15% of your Life in a single hit, the cooldowns on Mirror Image and Teleport are automatically reset.

Illusionist is a very specific skill that should only be used by those who rely on Mirror Image or Teleport frequently. There are many enemies, particularly when playing on the higher difficulty levels, that can hit for damage exceeding 15% of the Wizard's Life (especially if you have low Armor and Vitality ratings). This skill won't mitigate the damage, but it will instantly end the cooldown for the two aforementioned skills, granting the Wizard a means of escape.

PASSIVE SKILL

COLD BLOODED

UNLOCKED
lvl 30

Cold damage dealt to chilled and frozen targets is increased by 20%.

Cold Blooded can be devastating if you choose at least two skill-rune pairings that chill or freeze your targets. Use it in conjunction with Blizzard, Ray of Frost, and Frost Nova for maximum results. It's ideal to use during co-op play on the higher difficulties and for solo play in areas with large numbers of enemies. Focus on freezing and chilling as many enemies as you can while your allies deliver Cold AOE damage to take advantage of the 20% extra damage the affected enemies will receive.

PASSIVE SKILL

CONFLAGRATION

UNLOCKED
lvl 34

Fire damage dealt to enemies applies a burning effect, increasing all damage done to them by 10% for 3 seconds.

Few of the Wizard's skills inflict Fire damage without a rune that shifts their basic behavior in that direction. Conflagration can prove effective when using Shock Pulse (with Fire Bolts rune), Meteor, or Hydra, but pay close attention to how many of these spells you're using before slotting this passive skill instead of, say, Cold Blooded. Conflagration's additional burning effect is helpful only if you use numerous attacks that inflict Fire damage.

PASSIVE SKILL

PARALYSIS

UNLOCKED
lvl 37

Lightning damage dealt to enemies has up to 5% chance to Stun the target for 3 seconds.

Many of the skills available to the Wizard either inflict Lightning damage in their base form, or can be shifted to do so with the help of a rune. Frequent users of Electrocut should definitely consider using this skill, even if the chance to stun is only 5%. Using Paralysis in conjunction with Lightning Hydra and Storm Armor is another worthwhile combination that could help to stave off even the most suffocating assaults.

PASSIVE SKILL

GALVANIZING WARD

UNLOCKED
lvl 40

Increases the duration of your Armor spells by 120 seconds. As long as an Armor spell is active, you gain 96 Life per second. The following skills are improved: Energy Armor, Ice Armor, and Storm Armor.

Arcane spells already last for 120 seconds and don't have a very high Arcane Power cost, but Galvanizing Ward is still useful. You don't need to slot this skill for the added duration on lower difficulties, but for the 41 Life per second regeneration it grants! You should always have at least one Armor spell on hand and Galvanizing Ward should go along with it. Extending the duration of your Armor spell on Hell and Inferno modes frees your mind to focus on the battlefield instead of watching for the skill effect icon to disappear.

PASSIVE SKILL

TEMPORAL FLUX

UNLOCKED
lvl 45

Whenever you deal Arcane damage, enemies are slowed by 30% for 2 seconds.

It's important to note the difference between Arcane Power and Arcane damage. Arcane Power fuels many of the Wizard's skills, but not all skills inflict Arcane damage. Arcane magic basks the projectiles in a purple glow and Temporal Flux will see to it that any enemy hit with Arcane damage—even if by an Arcane-infused basic attack—will be slowed for 2 seconds.

PASSIVE SKILL

CRITICAL MASS

UNLOCKED
lvl 50

Critical hits have a chance to reduce the cooldown duration of your spells by 1 second.

Critical Mass should only be slotted if you have a very high Critical Hit Chance and routinely see yellow numbers emanating from your targets. Depending on the equipment you find or craft, it may take a long while before acquiring a Critical Hit Chance greater than 25%, and this skill delivers minimal returns if you're not scoring Critical Hits at least once out of every four attacks.

PASSIVE SKILL

ARCANE DYNAMO

UNLOCKED
lvl 55

When dealing damage with a Signature spell, you may gain a Flash of Insight. After 5 Flashes of Insight, your next non-Signature spell deals 75% additional damage. The following skills are Signature spells: Magic Missile, Shock Pulse, Spectral Blade, and Electrocute.

Arcane Dynamo allows you to cast the same Signature spells you typically do and watch the icon above the action bar tally the number of Flashes of Insight you earn. Continue casting Signature spells until you have 5 Flashes of Insight built up. At this point, the next non-Signature spell you cast will inflict 75% additional damage. Finish off any stragglers with your Signature spell and save the effects of Arcane Dynamo for the next big group of enemies you encounter.

PASSIVE SKILL

UNSTABLE ANOMALY

UNLOCKED
lvl 60

When reduced below 20% Life, release a shockwave that knocks all enemies back. This effect cannot occur more than once every 60 seconds.

Unstable Anomaly serves to buy the Wizard some breathing room just when it's needed most. With this passive skill equipped, a massive shockwave similar to the Wave of Force skill (minus the damage) will knock back all nearby enemies when the Wizard is reduced to less than 20% of maximum Life. Use this opportunity to consume a potion, scour for health globes, or to flee to safety. The effect can occur only once every 60 seconds, so take full advantage of it.

TRISTRAM

Few locations in Sanctuary have borne the weight of history like that named Tristram. The famed location of the original Horadric monastery soon became known for something far less holy, for it is in Tristram where the Lord of Terror left his mark on the land. Today, the town of New Tristram sits in the shadow of the Old Ruins, not far from the Cathedral.

The dead have plagued New Tristram since the star fell on the old Cathedral. Heroes, each from a faraway land, have been drawn to this unfortunate town. Some have come out of duty, others out of prophecy, and yet another for little more than a thirst for combat. None can foretell the true extent of the darkness that awaits their arrival.

OVERLOOK ROAD

The Hero's journey toward the fallen star has led to Overlook Road on the outskirts of New Tristram. The rotting dead have come to life in the form of Risen. Kill the living dead located steps ahead by using the Hero's equipped weapon to attack (left-click on the Risen). It should only take one or two blows to kill each of them.

The gates to New Tristram are not far ahead, but Captain Rumford will not open them until all of the rising dead have been slain. Assist the guards in beating back the horde of Risen [1]. The militia will assist with flaming arrows. Consider your Hero's attacking style (ranged or melee) and either fall back behind Captain Rumford and attack from a safe distance or ambush the enemies and attack at close range. Either way, you aren't likely to suffer much damage here.

NEW TRISTRAM

Captain Rumford reveals that the fallen star crashed upon the Cathedral and a woman named Leah was the only survivor. She can be found inside the Slaughtered Calf Inn, within the town gates. Take a look around New Tristram—speak to the priest, the mayor, and the others if you so desire—then enter the inn to speak with Leah [2].

Leah tells of her uncle, Deckard Cain, and his being knocked into the depths of the Cathedral by the crashing star. Her story is interrupted when several wounded villagers transform into Risen [3]. Kill them quickly and speak to her again [4]. She's impressed by your willingness to help and instructs you to head back outside the gate to speak with Captain Rumford [5].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 60 XP: 60

Experience Learned

Locate the book in Leah's Room within the Slaughtered Calf Inn, as well as the one inside the neighboring house belonging to her uncle. Not only will each book (and many, many more) shed light on the world events and characters you meet, but they'll also yield a tidy sum of XP based on your current level.

YOUR STASH AWAITS

The large wooden chest outside the Slaughtered Calf Inn is your Stash. This special chest not only travels with you from act to act via caravan, but the items you place within it are available across all of the Heroes linked to your Battle.net account. The Stash initially contains 14 inventory slots, but as many as 56 additional slots can be added over time per each of the three pages, yielding a total of 210 available slots. Every new Hero's Stash comes with two Minor Health Potions. Be sure to move them to the Hero's inventory before embarking on your journey to the Old Ruins.

Exit through the gate in time to assist Captain Rumford in defending the town from the Risen smashing through the barricade. Risen continue to appear so long as the nearby Wretched Mother is alive—focus your attacks and kill her before she vomits additional reinforcements [6]. Wretched Mothers are also capable of spitting at the Hero—sidestep this attack to avoid damage.

OLD TRISTRAM ROAD

DANK AND MUSTY CELLARS

Investigate each of the houses scattered amongst the fields near Old Tristram Road to see which, if any, have a cellar that can be explored. Accessible cellars often contain a handful of enemies—sometimes even a champion or rare variety—along with a chest or two. Although the cellars are quite small and take only a short time to clear, they may yield some valuable XP and loot.

DOWN THE WISHING WELL

Wells may also be available for exploration and often contain a number of individual enemies, as well as an abundance of gold—the people of Tristram have had much reason to risk a coin or two upon a wish over the years. Wells are larger than cellars, but are still quite compact. Take a moment to splash around the entirety of each one to collect all the gold it contains. That is, if you are fortunate enough to find one.

Bonus

KILL 3 WRETCHED MOTHERS

This extra objective yields 450 XP and 50 gold as a reward, completing it helps to level up the Hero faster in the early goings of the adventure. There are more than three Wretched Mothers in the area of Old Tristram Road (they appear as red dots on the mini-map when you get close to them). The Wretched Mothers all disappear from the vicinity upon the death of the Wretched Queen, so eradicate them before making your way to the Old Ruins in the northeast corner of this area.

The Hero must now journey north along Old Tristram Road toward the Old Ruins to the northeast and slay the Wretched Queen. Only then will the Wretched Mothers and their Risen children cease to threaten the town. The area is crawling—literally, at times—with Risen, their bloated cousins, the Walking Corpses, and some pint-sized monsters called Quill Fiends. These latter enemies hurl their dart-like quills at the Hero from several steps away, but easily succumb to any attack. Their numbers are not so great as to be a major concern for you yet.

The path to the Old Ruins winds its way past several small houses, some pumpkin patches, and even a cemetery. This is a prime time to get in the habit of exploring beyond the periphery of the main path to fully “paint in” the mini-map. One of the fundamental aspects of maximizing your experience in Diablo III is to fully explore the land and battle every enemy you can find. This not only increases your chances of finding valuable loot, but also helps your Hero level up faster. Additionally, inspect each of the clickable items you encounter along the way such as stumps, corpses, and barrels to further maximize your take. Eagle-eyed Heroes may even find the randomly located Old Keepsake Box containing a piece of lore. Finding lore such as this yields a small XP bonus.

THE OLD RUINS

The road curves to the southeast and heads up a small rise toward the Old Ruins. The ruins occupy the center of this roughly rectangular area. Delay your approach to the Wretched Queen by first completing a counter-clockwise lap through this cursed land. Numerous Walking Corpses stroll amongst Wretched Mothers and Risen in this area and offer plenty of opportunity to gain another level before battling the Wretched Queen. Be sure to inspect the weapon rack within the old armory for a chance at a sharper blade. Continue the loop toward the waypoint in the east, where the Wretched Queen is sure to be found. Follow the strategy we’ve outlined in the sidebar on the next page to free New Tristram from her onslaught [7].

Step out of the desecrated land and focus your offense on the Wretched Queen before dealing with the summoned Risen.

are truly cursed.”*

Return to the center of New Tristram and speak with Captain Rumford to collect your reward.

With the Wretched Queen slain and the last of her ilk laid to rest, it's time to report back to Captain Rumford. Use the waypoint located near the gate. The waypoint will become active as you step across its surface [8]. Captain Rumford is located outside the Slaughtered Calf Inn and will be eager to hear your tale of success [9] Quest Complete.

WRETCHED QUEEN

FIRST HANDMAIDEN OF THE QUEEN

The Wretched Queen is the leader of the Wretched Mothers and fights with all the protective instincts that her name implies. Although she can spit injurious projectiles of vomit at the Hero, her main attack is to summon numerous Risen from pools of her bile. The Wretched Queen can summon as many as 10 Risen in total, but will typically invoke just five unless the Hero lures her out of range of her spawned Risen or kills off her early spawns. As with her matronly followers encountered elsewhere, the Wretched Queen can be killed rather easily. Focus attacks directly on her to limit the number of Risen that are summoned, then kill them off only after she has been dealt a fatal blow.

*Based on Normal difficulty.

The fallen star burns from within the corrupted Cathedral like a holy flame. Leah believes her uncle is still alive, trapped within the Cathedral. Accept her assistance in gaining entry to the locked Cathedral and begin the search for her uncle.

THE OLD RUINS

Use the waypoint in New Tristram to return to the Old Ruins [1]. Once there, Leah uses her key to unlock nearby Old Tristram Gate [2]. The segment of Old Tristram Road to the northeast contains few, if any, enemies, thereby providing time for the Hero and Leah to talk. The owner of the hut up ahead, Adria, was Leah's mother, though she never truly got to know her. Continue across the bridge to the southeast to reach Adria's Hut [3].

ADRIA'S HUT

The vestiges of war are evident in and around Adria's Hut. This is where Captain Daltyn led his militia in their final stand against the living dead. Corpses litter the inside of the hut, but the body of Captain Daltyn is nowhere to be found [4]. Leah soon discovers a hidden ladder inside the hut [5].

Descend the ladder to the secret cellar where Leah realizes that the rumors about her mother were true [6]. There's no time for researching Leah's family history, however, as several Risen emerge from the soil alongside the remains of Captain Daltyn! Quickly wipe out the Risen so you can focus on the captain without being attacked [7].

Leah lends a hand with ranged support against Captain Daltyn.

Unlike dealing with the Wretched Queen, Captain Daltyn can't summon replacement Risen so it pays to kill them first. Note that Captain Daltyn may appear before his minions rise, in which case it is possible to kill him before the Risen appear.

Take a moment after killing the zombies to inspect the cauldron in the center of the cave for an item, then talk to Leah [8], who returns to New Tristram while you continue on with the key to the Cathedral.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

CAPTAIN DALTYN

FORMER CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD

Captain Daltyn may be the former captain of the guard, but he is little more than an enhanced Risen at this point in his end-of-life cycle. He rises from the ground and summons three Risen to assist him.

Even without Leah's assistance, Captain Daltyn poses little threat. He has no ranged attacks and is quite slow. Melee fighters can slash away at him without much worry while ranged attackers can stand back and fire away until he's dead—may his soul finally find peace.

The Hero exits the cellar just as a Risen bursts through the hut's northern wall. Slay it and continue north, fighting past many more Risen and Walking Corpses en route to the Cathedral. The ground is strewn with the corpses of slain militia and villagers—you might as well turn out their pockets for them and see what you find. The Cathedral is not far ahead and the key in your possession will unlock the front doors upon approach [9]. Slay the enemies within and enter the crater marking the fallen star's point of impact [10].

MASS GRAVE

The bodies were piling up faster than the villagers could dig. Who can blame them for tossing the carcasses into the ravine? Inspect the crevice beneath the snarled tree on the side of the road to see if it was used as a mass grave (it will glow brightly if searchable). If so, descend the hangman's noose and have a go at the Risen and Walking Corpses that lie in wait. There just might be a chest or pile of bones waiting to be plundered.

CATHEDRAL

The Cathedral dungeon has two levels that can be explored at this time. The upper level is a medium-sized dungeon floor that is relatively straightforward to navigate, with a single way in and a single exit leading deeper underground. The lower level, Leoric's Passage, is abridged due to the collapsing structure, but more about that later.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

The narrow corridor I traversed soon opened to a semi-circular room, ringed by a waist-high railing overlooking what appeared to be a dead-end. In the rush of defending myself from the Carrion Bats and Ravenous Dead, I nearly ran right past the curving stairs. Curiosity got the better of me and though I knew it to be a dead-end, I sensed there might be treasure down below. I took care to kill off all the enemies before descending the steps, just in case more hellspawn lurked on the lower level.

The grandeur of the Cathedral's halls and staircases never ceases to amaze me, though the architecture does puzzle me from time to time. It's almost as if it's trying to trap me! I once encountered a pair of incredibly steep staircases leading up to a single, larger area above. Little did I know the area above and below was crawling with monsters! I fled up the stairs, across the top, and down the other side only to find myself penned in between groups of hungry Grotesques! The enemies I was trying to flee chased after me—I should have killed them before ascending the stairs.

Though I freely admit that my lack of patience can get the better of me, I have learned to use my intellect to outsmart the Ravenous Dead, even if it means postponing my treasure hunt. For instance, there's a room near the Cathedral's library that contains three wrought-iron gates. Rather than opening all three gates in quick succession as I may have in my youth, I opened just one and let all of the monsters gather around. I then sprinted to the gate at the other end, opened it up, and waited for the stumbling mass to funnel through. Those wretched demons didn't know what hit them!

I continue to be wary of large rooms, especially those with a curiously placed dais in the center—I shall not be that moth drawn to the torches! I have learned through experience to always stick to the perimeter of these rooms. I often find treasure along the walls, but this also helps me to gradually rid the area of the foul beasts near the steps leading to the center. Like a noose tightening on the neck of a Ravenous Dead, I gradually tighten my perimeter path until finally, safely, I inspect the center.

CATHEDRAL, LEVEL 1

Descend the stairs to where the star, an omen perhaps, smashed through the chapel and left a mysterious blue-ringed crater. Break open the wooden door around the corner to the south to enter the dungeon proper. Leah believes her uncle Deckard is still alive deep within the Cathedral and it's up to you to search for him.

The Cathedral dungeon contains several monsters not yet encountered on the surface of Sanctuary. The distended Grotesques bear some resemblance to Walking Corpses, but rather than being severed in two upon death, the Grotesque leaves this world via a violent suicide explosion that causes area-of-effect (AOE) damage to those nearby. Furthermore, a nest of Corpse Worms emerges from the Grotesque's remains and eagerly crawls after the Hero. Grotesques chase after the Hero and attack with spikes. Pay close attention to the Grotesque's health as you attack it, and back away before it explodes.

Pulverized!

Look for all manner of booby traps throughout this and every other dungeon you enter. Traps come in all shapes and sizes, ranging from propped-up walls to falling chandeliers. The latter can be used in the immediate area. Pull the lever holding the chandelier chain in place to drop the heavy wrought-iron candelabra onto the monsters up ahead. Not only does this net you some easy kills, but you'll earn a combat bonus, too!

Grotesques explode upon death, releasing area-of-effect damage and unleashing a number of Corpse Worms.

"The return of the cursed King bodes ill for this land."

- Hero

The drumming of the Carrion Bat's wings echo throughout the Cathedral, but it is the chance encounter with a Molten Carrion Bat for which you must truly prepare. It's likely you'll face a rare Carrion Bat armed with the Molten trait. The enemy leaves a hazardous trail of fire behind it wherever it flies and its accompanying minions also carry this ability. Molten creatures attack and are resistant to the fire Element. Furthermore, the rare or champion caliber Molten Carrion Bat (not its minions) explodes in a fireball after being dealt a fatal blow. Back away quickly to escape the explosion's blast radius.

POTIONS AND COOLDOWN

A rare Carrion Bat will likely be the first encounter that forces you to use a potion. Keep in mind that multiple potions cannot be used in quick succession. As with many special skills, potions have a corresponding cooldown period. You must rely on Health Globes or healing skills until the cooldown has ended.

Explore this level of the Cathedral from corner to corner in search of the golden glow of the doorway leading to Leoric's Passage [11]. It's quite common to find the path blocked by barricades of wreckage and bolted doors—smash them to splinters and carry on, using the mini-map as your guide. Seek out the Scribe's Lecterns for a chance at uncovering parts of Lachdanan's Scroll and a small amount of bonus XP.

LEORIC'S PASSAGE

Deckard Cain is just beyond the entrance to Leoric's Passage, and he's in a heap of trouble. A collapsing floor staves off his pursuers, but the cursed soul of King Leoric rises to threaten him. A number of Royal Henchman materialize near Cain—he needs your help!

Rush down the stairs and lay waste to the Royal Henchman [12]. The initial wave of assailants numbers seven, but more will follow. This second rush will be led by the Headcleaver, a skeleton similar to the Royal Henchman, but with additional health and a spine-tingling laugh.

HEADCLEAVER

ROYAL EXECUTIONER

The Headcleaver, a Royal Executioner by trade, is slightly larger than the Royal Henchman, but bears all the same physical characteristics. This doesn't keep the Unique beast from periodically unleashing an intimidating laugh. The living dead are so foolish in this manner: Headcleaver's laugh deals no damage to the Hero, and ultimately creates an opening for the Hero to attack! The Headcleaver cannot attack and laugh at the same time—a perfect opportunity to shatter his bones!

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	4	90-105	550	Attack, Laugh	Extra Health	-

Inferno	61	1,886,000-2,200,000	3400	Attack, Laugh	Extra Health	-

Deckard Cain is ever grateful for saving him. Inspect the area for a stray chest or ashes, then speak with him to accept his humble thanks [13]. Cain uncovers a secret exit to the Cathedral garden, an area beyond the locked gate on the side of the church [14]. Follow him through the exit and use the waypoint to return to New Tristram, where Leah is anxiously waiting to hear your report [15]

*Based on Normal difficulty.

The Skeleton King was once Tristram's beloved ruler, Leoric, before he was driven mad by Diablo's evil. It appears he has risen again to plague this land. The key to defeating him lies in his old crown. Seek out the blacksmith, Haedrig, as he should know of its whereabouts.

NEW TRISTRAM

Talk to Deckard Cain to learn of the prophecy surrounding the fallen star and the return of the Skeleton King. Deckard believes that the blacksmith, Haedrig, knows the whereabouts of King Leoric's crown, the only thing that could defeat the Skeleton King. Haedrig can be found on the north side of town, standing near the signpost at the base of the slope [1].

The blacksmith is preoccupied with thoughts about his dear wife, Mira. She's been bitten by the living dead and is currently locked in the cellar, along with the rest of the infected. It's up to Haedrig to end their suffering, but he can't stomach the thought of killing his own wife. He needs your help.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS!

The defeat of the Wretched Queen has brought temporary relief to the citizens of New Tristram, allowing them to return to a modicum of normality. The barricade blocking off the lower portion of town has been removed and several shops have reopened, including Arghus the Collector and Radek the Fence. Visit any of these merchants to peruse their stock of enhanced weapons and armor, or to repair your equipment.

Follow Haedrig into the Cellar of the Damned and smash through the door where the infected have been quarantined. The Ravenous Dead aren't powerful, as you know from earlier encounters with the Risen [2]. Slash through the lot of them so Haedrig can have a moment with his wife before she transforms into a type of Wretched Mother [3].

MIRA EAMON

WIFE OF HAEDRIG

Mira Eamon's selflessness in caring for the infected led to her transformation into a poison-spitting zombie, not unlike the Wretched Mothers encountered outside the New Tristram gates. Her slow attack rate and lack of minions make this a manageable fight—you can almost sense her inner desire to be killed overriding the zombie disease that has taken hold of her.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 70 XP: 900

The grief-stricken Haedrig is in your debt. He reports that the crown you seek is buried with the Chancellor, his grandfather, in a tomb in the Cemetery beyond the Weeping Hollow [4]. Exit town through the northwest gate. A small pack of Scavengers attacks on the bridge. Defeat them with the help of the nearby guards and continue into the Cemetery [5].

THE CEMETERY

There's nobody around to recall whether the corpses buried in the Weeping Hollow were placed there simply due to a lack of space in the Cemetery of the Forsaken, or because they weren't deemed worthy. Nowadays, everyone in New Tristram refers to the sprawling graveyards to the north of town simply as 'the cemetery' and is quick to advise against travel there. Nevertheless, the old path traces a winding route through the hollow to the gates of this area. There, a number of Defiled Crypts stand in perpetuity. One such crypt contains the crown of former King Leoric.

THE WEEPING HOLLOW

The Weeping Hollow spreads out across a vast acreage of rotting logs and crumbling graves. The Cemetery of the Forsaken lies to the northeast, yet there is much to gain by traversing the Weeping Hollow [6]. A Hero seeking strength will do well to cleanse this land of all enemies found here.

The monsters in the Weeping Hollow range in numbers from just a small pack of three or four Scavengers to gangs of Ravenous Dead totaling dozens of enemies. The quick-moving Scavengers and Hungry Torsoes can close on you in a hurry, making it advantageous to have an attack capable of branching out to slay multiple foes, or one that slows. The Wizard's Frost Nova and Witch Doctor's Grasp of the Dead are perfect for halting Scavengers mid-stride! Though Scavengers strike primarily with teeth and claw, they also possess a lunging attack that can cover several strides in a flash.

With the exception of the Scavenger, many of the enemies infecting the Weeping Hollow are stronger versions of those in the Old Ruins.

Grave Robbers

Beware of the occasional grave opening that sprouts a Skeleton. These monsters are also known to emerge from Rotting Coffins. Disturbing such tombs may yield more than a pile of gold.

Bonus

FIND HAEDRIG'S APPRENTICE

The corpse of Haedrig's Apprentice can be found lying somewhere in the Weeping Hollow near a dilapidated dwelling. He had clearly fallen victim to the hordes of Ravenous Dead and Retching Cadavers that infect this fouled land. Strip his corpse for gold and clothing if the loot and XP you gain for the quest is not to your satisfaction.

Area of effect skills that slow and cause damage will make quick work of even the largest of hordes!

The Weeping Hollow is an excellent locale for testing out any new AOE skills that your Hero has learned, particularly against the really large groups of monsters near the headstones. The Witch Doctor's Grasp of the Dead skill is extremely effective in this area, especially when combined with a pack of Summoned Zombie Dogs. Similarly, using the Wizard's Wave of Force skill to deploy a surge of arcane energy in all directions lays waste to your foes.

Regardless of your Hero or selection of skills, always allow your Hero's resource to replenish before engaging the truly large mobs prevalent in this area. Combine attacks that deal large damage across an area with those that slow the enemy's pursuit, then back away and use additional attacks to pick them off. Melee fighters should use the environment to their advantage—keep your back against solid terrain to avoid being surrounded.

CEMETERY OF THE FORSAKEN

The Cemetery isn't far from the New Tristram gate and can be found by following the winding road as it leads to the northeast. Any three of the crypts here will be available for exploration. The crown Deckard Cain spoke of is hidden away inside one of these crypts, but there's no telling which one. Pay attention to the crypts you search along the way to avoid re-entering one you've already investigated.

The crown is entombed within one of the three accessible Defiled Crypts, but there's no telling which one.

DUNGEON DEFILED CRYPT

Of the three Defiled Crypts you must search, two consist of just one small-to-medium sized floor, whereas the crypt containing the crown has three floors. A Dungeon Stone, often located near a resplendent chest, can be found deep inside each of the crypts, granting a speedy exit. The Hero will remark on the likelihood of the crown being in another crypt once a crown-less crypt has been exhausted. This is your cue to find the Resplendent Chest and exit.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

An Imp, alone in the distance, seemed to taunt me into following him. Fortunately, through the dim glow of the Defiled Crypt, I noticed the raised balconies flanking that central path where the Imp stood. Another trap! I stepped to the right and encountered numerous enemies lying in wait atop that raised walk. More appeared in the center.

I would have been caught in a crossfire for sure had I continued mindlessly through the center of the room. Instead, it was I who had the upper hand!

I continue to encounter lengthy stairways that lead up to square rooms of little note. I take my time slaying all of the Imps and Harvesters on the lower level before climbing the stairs to avoid being surrounded. The hellspawn on the upper balcony are easy to bait. Oh how the living dead are so willing to line up for me on the stairs as I back away and smite them one by one! I don't always find treasure atop those stairs, but what I might not find in gold, I most certainly gain in experience!

DEFILED CRYPTS

Scour the three Defiled Crypts until you uncover the one that has a second, lower level. It's not a bad idea to back out at that point and search the other crypts if you haven't already (although you can do this after retrieving the crown, if you so choose). Always look for a Resplendent Chest tucked away near the exit of the crypt. There won't always be one, but the additional XP gleaned from the monsters you'll encounter during the search helps strengthen the Hero.

Rather than a Dungeon Stone, the Defiled Crypt containing the crown you seek has a staircase to a second, lower level. This leads to a battle with a unique monster known as Manglemau, a diabolical creature tasked with guarding the entrance to the Chancellor's Tomb, the lowest of the three levels of the proper Defiled Crypt [7].

MANGLEMAU

HORROR OF THE CRYPT

The amalgamation of decomposing corpses known as Manglemau bursts through the door atop the stairs leading down to the Chancellor's Tomb. Manglemau lacks any special traits and has no resistances, making it susceptible to all manner of attack. Lead Manglemau away toward another door or chokepoint. This limits his lateral range and forces this large target to become easier to hit. Manglemau looks a lot tougher than it is. Top off your health before approaching the stairs to the Chancellor's Tomb and you should be just fine. Manglemau swings its massive arms for moderate melee damage, with a chance of knockback.

JAR OF SOULS

You may stumble into a Defiled Crypt with a small blue jar floating above a raised pedestal. This is the "Jar of Souls" event. Disturbing this urn-like receptacle unleashes dozens of restless souls. Survive the assault for 60 seconds to complete this bonus event and claim a prize in gold and XP. This battle against a host of Skeletons is made easier with the help of attacks that can damage and/or slow numerous enemies at once. Skeletons can cause harm only from extremely close range. Have your potions ready and stick to the perimeter of the room to avoid being surrounded.

THE MATRIARCH'S BONES

Some Heroes may encounter a ghostly woman named Lady Dunhyld, who haunts the halls, signaling "The Matriarch's Bones" event. Seek out the three funerary urns to collect her missing remains, then return them to the sarcophagus where she was entombed. The spirit of her distressed husband, Lord Dunhyld, tries to stop you with a combination of the Fast and Soul Leech traits. The latter slows you down, increasing your susceptibility to the attacks of the rising Skeletons. Defeating Lord Dunhyld, a unique monster, is entirely optional. Collect the three sets of body parts (marked on the mini-map), then deposit the completed body in the Sarcophagi of Lord and Lady Dunhyld to claim 360 gold and 1370 XP.

CHANCELLOR'S TOMB

The Chancellor's Tomb is guarded by one or two Tomb Guardians. This foe fires a slow-moving arcane orb and has the ability to summon up to four Skeletons. Back away from the Tomb Guardian to lure it into casting its arcane attack. Sidestep the projectile, then go on the offensive. Eliminate any remaining Skeletons and take a moment to top off your health. The ghost of Chancellor Eamon will attack as you interact with the Altar—you must defeat it to claim the crown [8].

Claim the broken crown from the altar and gain the Town Portal. Have a look around to see if there is a chest or other loot down the hall to the right [9]. Use the nearby Dungeon Stone to return to the Cemetery of the Forsaken, if you wish to explore the other crypts in the cemetery; otherwise, use the newly gained Town Portal to return to New Tristram [10]. Once there, talk to Haedrig in the center of New Tristram [11] Quest Complete.

Blacksmith's Belongings

Look around Haedrig's shop for a box containing his personal belongings. The letter (a piece of lore) he keeps within that box yields a small XP bonus if you find it—and don't mind snooping.

CHANCELLOR EAMON

ASTRAL GUARDIAN

The ghost of Chancellor Eamon teleports around the tomb, never straying far from the altar, but doing its best to stay out of range of melee fighters (except to strike with its own Knockback ability). Ranged attackers have the advantage of naturally seeking to avoid Chancellor Eamon's knockback range. The ghost's Soul Siphon ability works to chill you to the core and slow your movement speed. A Hero of equal or greater level should have little trouble besting this ghoulish defender of the crown. Those at a lower level can find victory with a well-timed potion, if necessary.

BLACKSMITH SERVICES NOW AVAILABLE!

With no wife to care for, Haedrig has decided to reopen his Blacksmithing shop in the center of New Tristram, near the waypoint. Haedrig can salvage crafting materials from your magic and rare equipment, and also craft new armor and weapons. Choose from the list of plans (aka recipes) for items you wish to procure and consult the requirements shown. Every item that Haedrig can craft has a crafting fee (gold), along with a number of required crafting materials.

For this initial visit to the Blacksmith, consider salvaging all of your unwanted magic equipment (and selling all of your unwanted common equipment to nearby Tashun the Miner) then use crafting materials you receive in return to craft better equipment. Use some of your gold to train the Blacksmith to gain access to new plans. Craft armor that fills your Hero's current needs. For example, craft a helm if you haven't found one yet. Or craft a set of gloves if you are still using common gloves.

The Blacksmith is just one of two Artisans the Hero will come to rely upon. Turn to the "Artisans & Crafting" chapter of this guide for more information, including a complete list of the Blacksmithing plans.

The refurbished crown of King Leoric grants its owner entry to the Royal Crypts beneath the Cathedral. Take the crown, as Cain instructs, to the mausoleum in the Cathedral Garden and descend to where the star had fallen, into the lair of the Skeleton King.

CATHEDRAL GARDEN

Speak to Deckard Cain in New Tristram to receive his guidance on where to bring the crown. Use the Waypoint to travel to the Cathedral Garden [1]. Take a moment to look around for a chest or pile of bones, then descend into the mausoleum where you first encountered Deckard Cain [2]. Once inside, go down the small set of stairs inside Leoric's Passage to the ornate door; it opens under the command of the crown-bearer [3].

DUNGEON THE CATHEDRAL

The Hero's earlier visit to the Cathedral offered a mere sampling of the catacombs lurking beneath this structure. Leoric's Passage filters access to levels 2-4 of the Cathedral, where several new and dangerous denizens lurk. Beyond the sprawling fourth level lies the Royal Crypts and, ultimately, the Crypt of the Skeleton King. These deeper levels are not unlike those explored earlier, though they do contain many more traps and several unique architectural constructs that can be put to tactical advantage.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

I continued south onto a narrow walkway overlooking one of the most ornate rooms in the Cathedral. Twin curving stairs led down from either end of the room to a grand hall containing a chest—or was it a shrine? The beauty of the room nearly distracted me from the Tomb Guardian, who burst from the fresco on the upper wall. I killed him immediately, then advanced partially down one of the stairs, until I was in range to attack the Carrion Bats fluttering about down below.

With the Returned nipping at my heels, I ducked through an arch and found a narrow balcony stretched out before me. Just as my pulse began to settle, a burst of Arcane energy shattered the fresco to my left. It was another Tomb Guardian! There was little room to dodge his orb-like projectiles, so I had no choice but to stand and fight at close range. Fortunately, I always keep one or two skills on hand for just such a situation.

CATHEDRAL LEVEL 2

This medium-sized floor is the frequent home to numerous Unburied, Tomb Guardians, Skeletons, and Carrion Bats. Watch out for loose piles of corpses that begin to shift, as that is a sign of an impending Unburied emergence. The Manglemaul you fought in the Defiled Crypts was a unique Unburied, possessing greater health than the base enemy. Stay clear of its slam attack and focus your offense on a single Unburied before focusing on another (or other enemies).

Tomb Guardians have a tendency to spring from the recessed panels along the walls of narrow corridors. Watch for the telltale purple glow of their arcane energy, and back away. The Tomb Guardian often makes itself known by first summoning several Skeletons into the area, but a disturbance in the air signals the spot where they'll be teleporting. Ignore the lesser Skeletons until the Tomb Guardian has been killed.

Make use of the many traps within this level of the Cathedral. Wherever you spot a chandelier chain that can be snapped, you can be sure Risen are nearby feasting on the corpse of a villager. There are also many opportunities to topple large rocks onto enemies by striking the wooden beams that prop up the Cathedral's walls. Make your way through this second level to the stairs leading deeper [4].

Unburied are susceptible to all manner of attacks, but a ranged hit that inflicts additional damage over time is tough to beat.

First the wall shatters in purple light, then the Skeletons are spawned. Follow the purple glow to the Tomb Guardian.

CATHEDRAL LEVEL 3

The Hero descends to the rather small third level of the Cathedral in time to witness a gang of seven Dark Cultists conducting wicked experiments on an unknown warrior. Their black magic continues to spawn a contingent of Necromantic Minions, a slightly stronger variant of the basic Skeleton so long as their circle holds.

Smash the Necromantic Minions that climb the stairs from the sacrificial circle and charge the position of the Dark Cultists—the ones that appear in this area are of a much lower level than Dark Cultists found elsewhere in Sanctuary. Hurl yourself upon them with reckless abandon. The warrior will act to defend himself once three of the Dark Cultists have been defeated [5].

Break up the Dark Cultist's circle of magic to cut off the supply of Necromantic Minions and free the warrior.

The hostage warrior is a man of few words, but he's grateful for your assistance and promises to reward you if you join forces. Lead the warrior to the chest containing the Warrior's Stolen Items. It's up the stairs leading away from the dais where the warrior was held [6]. More Dark Cultists and Necromantic Minions will likely be found around the chest you seek (which is near a waypoint). These goods belong to the man you freed—not just any warrior, but a Templar!

The Templar re-arms himself and speaks of killing Jondar, a dangerous foe who guards access to the Skeleton King. Fight past the Servants of Jondar to the other side of this level. The Servants of Jondar are a variant of Tomb Guardian that differ only in that they move slower. Look around for a possible nearby chest before descending the stairs to Jondar [7].

JONDAR

NECROMANCER BETRAYER

Jondar is a former Templar who has fallen in with the Coven and now spends his time building an army of summoned Skeletons. The Templar you rescued will take care of any Skeletons Jondar manages to summon, freeing you to focus on Jondar. He attacks with a poisonous projectile that radiates outward in all directions. Although it can be difficult for melee fighters to dodge this attack, the poison doesn't inflict much damage. Jondar will continue to summon Skeletons one by one for as long as he lives. Kill him quickly to curtail their numbers.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	7	159-212	700	Projectile Poison, Summon Skeleton	-	-
Nightmare	32	8,379-11,172	2050	Projectile Poison, Summon Skeleton	-	-

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Hell	51	148,000-198,000	2950	Projectile Poison, Summon Skeleton	-	-
Inferno	61	943,000-1,257,000	3400	Projectile Poison, Summon Skeleton	-	-

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 80 XP: 1050

The Templar now offers you his assistance in the quest to defeat the Skeleton King. You can join forces with him if you desire a follower [8]. Alternatively, ignore his offer or say no and the Templar will return to New Tristram, where you can hire his services at any time. If you change your mind, use the waypoint on this level of the Cathedral (or the Town Portal) to return to New Tristram and hire him. He'll be waiting near the waypoint in the center of town.

THE TEMPLAR BY YOUR SIDE

The Templar joins your party one level below the Hero's current level. He's armed with a javelin and buckler. Upon joining forces with him, you are able to hand-pick one of his level 5 skills (Heal or Intervene). Take your current Hero's abilities into account when deciding which skill to assign the Templar—after all, you don't need to grant him the Heal ability if you already possess such a skill.

As a rule of thumb, choose Heal unless your Hero is a Monk. When playing on Normal difficulty, either disregard his offer of service or choose the skill based on your own personal preference. For more information about the Templar, and followers in general, consult the "Hero Training" section of this guide.

It's also worth taking a moment to see if you have any rings or amulets you wish to equip him with. The Templar can use most one-handed melee weapons, along with a shield. Consult your inventory and see which, if any, of your items might be an upgrade to what he is wielding.

CATHEDRAL LEVEL 4

The fourth level of the Cathedral is the largest and is prone to having the highest concentration of Tomb Guardians, Skeletal Archers, and Skeletal Shieldbearers. Skeletal Archers crumble easily when confronted, but their ranged attacks can prove troublesome if you don't evade the arrow.

Skeletal Shieldbearers do an outstanding job of blocking frontal attacks. Fortunately, their decrepit shields are as brittle as their name suggests and break apart after absorbing two blows. It's best to flank the enemies for an unobstructed attack (or cast skills that spring up from underfoot), but don't hesitate to unleash a barrage of fast strikes to fight through the shield, particularly with stronger melee fighters.

The journey across the fourth level will likely bring you face to ugly face with several Harvesters, a creature not unlike the Grotesque encountered previously. Harvesters are stronger than the Grotesque and deploy a group of impish Fiends upon rupturing. Scour the map for loot and XP while keeping an eye out for the entrance to the Royal Crypts [9].

KEEPING THE TEMPLAR ALIVE

The Templar will automatically cast his Heal skill if you assigned it to him; otherwise, he's relying on you to keep him healthy. The best way to do that is by gathering Health Globes. Every Health Globe you collect replenishes the health of your Hero and your follower, as well (small and large Health Globes heal 20% and 35% of your max life, respectively).

On the other hand, consuming a health potion does not replenish the health of your follower.

Despite your best efforts, it is possible for the follower to lose all of his health. Fear not! Though the follower will be forced to take a knee for several seconds, he'll be back fighting alongside you within seconds.

ROYAL CRYPTS

Descend into the Royal Crypts and approach the ghosts of King Leoric and his guard. Interact with the ghostly sword to witness the death of King Leoric at Lachdanan's hands. Continue on toward the ghost of the Skeleton King.

He'll flee once again, but not before activating four pillars that spawn a ceaseless army of Skeletons and Skeletal Archers. The horde of Skeletons spawning in this area can quickly overrun an unprepared Hero, particularly one fighting without the benefit of the Templar. One option is to use an attack that inflicts damage in all directions or that has the potential to cause significant AOE damage. Another tactic is to flee up the side stairs to funnel the pursuing Skeletons through the narrow opening.

Kill as many as you can, then circle around the U-shaped sides of this room to get a clean shot on the Activated Pillars. Focus on just one Activated Pillar at a time. Once the first Activated Pillar falls, the supply of summoned Skeletons diminishes, and you'll be able to destroy the other Activated Pillars that much faster. Push back the tide of Skeletons and destroy all four Activated Pillars.

The entrance to the Crypt of the Skeleton King is just ahead, to the left of the waypoint [10]. Use the waypoint to return to New Tristram for more potions (or to hire the Templar if you regret your choice not to) before you enter [11]. This is also a good time to craft improved equipment and weaponry.

CRYPT OF THE SKELETON KING

The Skeleton King tries his best to obstruct your path to his throne, even going so far as to seal a gate on the lone bridge leading across the chasm. Little did he know the Returned that are summoned to defend the gate are no match for you [12]. These foes possess the Knockback trait, but there is more than enough room to overpower them. Use this battle (and smashing the many Ashes that typically ring the Crypt) to replenish the Hero's resource before the fight with the Skeleton King. This is particularly important when playing as a Barbarian, given his depleting resource.

Ready your potions and skills for battle and approach the Skeleton King as he sleeps in his throne [13]. Place the crown atop his slumbering head to draw the Skeleton King into battle [14].

Use this fight against the Forgotten Warriors to replenish your resource if applicable.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Skeleton King was a boss in the original Diablo game.

SKELETON KING

MAD KING OF TRISTRAM

Cain: "The Zakarum High Priests in Kurast proclaimed Leoric King of Khanduras many years ago. He ruled well until Diablo's influence drove him mad and the loyal knight Lachdanan was forced to slay him. Afterward, Diablo himself raised Leoric from the dead as the Skeleton King until the monarch's son, Aidan, vanquished him."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	8	1800	187	Cleave, Whirlwind, Teleport Attack, Summon Skeletons	-	Poison
Nightmare	33	123,250	525	Cleave, Whirlwind, Teleport Attack, Summon Skeletons	-	Poison
Hell	52	2,471,100	737	Cleave, Whirlwind, Teleport Attack, Summon Skeletons	-	Poison
Inferno	61	15,717,300	850	Cleave, Whirlwind, Teleport Attack, Summon Skeletons	-	Poison

To beat this towering foe, the Hero must understand how he fights. The Skeleton King has a number of mace-based attacks up his sleeve, but none more important to your battle plans than his Summon Skeletons ability. He'll summon two Returned and two Forgotten Soldiers in close proximity to the Hero, then immediately summon another pair of each. This adds eight additional enemies to the fight. Fortunately, none of the Skeleton King's summons has a ranged attack, thus making it very easy to avoid them. Stay on the move and, if necessary, use the stairs on either side of the large statue to lead them in circles while you focus on the primary target.

Rather than battling the summoned enemies yourself, it's possible to use the Skeleton King's aggression to do the job on your behalf. The Skeleton King has two primary melee attacks: a Cleave attack and a spinning Whirlwind strike. The Cleave is a rather swift blow that he performs at close range. The attack comes with little warning and inflicts moderate damage. The Whirlwind attack is a bit more obvious, given the lengthier windup it requires. The great thing about the Whirlwind attack is that it has the potential to obliterate the entire army of summoned skeletons. Lure the Skeleton King toward his summoned combatants and watch his Whirlwind attack decimate their numbers. His Summon Skeletons ability provides a valuable source of Health Globes, but leave these until you truly need them.

DESOLATE CHAMBER

Use the secret passage behind the throne to enter the Desolate Chamber [15]. Spiral around the perimeter of this cavern to the bottom of the crater—you've finally reached the fallen star, only to find it's not a star at all, but a man! Talk to the stranger to learn what little of his story he recalls [16]. Follow him out of the crater to the nearby waypoint and return to New Tristram [17]. Deckard Cain will certainly be able to coax more information out of this man, go to him at once [18] Quest Complete.

TRAINING HAEDRIG THE BLACKSMITH

Little by little, you can train up the Blacksmith as you gain new Pages of Blacksmithing and invest gold into his future. Best of all, early training can be purchased through gold alone! Although it takes many steps to reach the promotion of Journeyman, each increase in training grants at least one new crafting plan. It's quite possible to salvage enough crafting materials early on to manufacture equipment that is consistently more valuable than what can be purchased from local merchants.

One aspect of battling the Skeleton King that makes him tough to conquer—aside from his large health pool—is his Teleport Attack ability. Even ranged fighters like the Demon Hunter will find it hard to maintain separation from an enemy that can instantly teleport within striking range.

Not only does this teleportation ability make it difficult to land repeat strikes on the Skeleton King, but he'll Teleport close to the player and launch a sudden mace attack out of the ether. Counterattack immediately to put pressure on the Skeleton King, then back away to avoid the inevitable Cleave or Whirlwind attack. The Skeleton King is susceptible to attacks during his prolonged Whirlwind attack.

THE FIELDS

The gated cemetery north of town gives way to the most cursed lands in the region, an area known collectively as The Fields. The once-picturesque countryside, home to farmers and loggers alike, has become the breeding ground of the enraged Moon Clan tribe. The few homesteads that remain lie in ruin, strewn with the corpses of those who tried to defend their property. The Old Mill remains the only human settlement that has avoided that fate. Beyond the Fields of Misery and the Old Mill lies the Drowned Temple and the Festering Woods. True to its name, the Festering Woods lacks all of the autumnal allure of the Fields of Misery, but packs every bit as much danger.

- 3 Find the Glowing Sword Shard in the Khazra Den.

The stranger from the sky speaks of a sword, split into pieces during his fall. Deckard Cain believes that the repaired weapon may have the power to heal his memory—and perhaps bring peace to the Goatmen, who have been driven mad in recent days.

THE FIELDS OF MISERY

The conversation between Deckard Cain and the Stranger in New Tristram reveals that a piece of the Stranger's sword has fallen to the ground in the region called the Fields of Misery. Use the waypoint to travel to the Cemetery of the Forsaken and destroy the gate in the northwest corner to access this sorrowful land [1].

FORLORN FARM

Your search for the Khazra Den may lead you to a seemingly abandoned farm, complete with the carcass of a large beast of burden. This is the Forlorn Farm. Inspect the dead beast for loot to trigger an attack from a pack of Burrowing Leapers and their leader. Slaughter them all to make it safe for the Terrified Farmer to exit his cellar. He's so thankful for your assistance that he wants you to enter the basement and meet his wife. She's not much into talking these days, but there's a Resplendent Chest in the cellar to make it worth your while.

THE FAMILY RATHE

The Fields of Misery sometimes contain access to the Decaying Crypt, a two level dungeon home to Deathspitters, Decayers, and Rancid Stumblers. Descend to the second level and seek out the ghost of Willa Rathe, a young girl who requests your aid in ending her cursed family's existence. One by one you must kill the ghosts of her family starting with Father Rathe (Rancid Stumbler with Knockback), Mother Rathe (Spewing Horror with Cold Aura), and Little Jebby Rathe (Decayer with Extra Health and Fast traits). Defeat the three family members while fending off the horde of living dead that infest this tomb. The reward for your valiant effort is within the nearby Resplendent Chest. Be extra careful fighting your way toward the Dungeon Stone as there are dozens upon dozens of enemies in the lower level of the Decaying Crypt. Focus on the Spewing Horrors to avoid being overrun!

SECLUDED GROVE

Beware of the cul-de-sac in the trees where a lone Resplendent Chest rests in plain sight before a towering tree. This is no ordinary grove, but a trap set by a wily guardian known throughout the land as The Old Man. This unique Wood Wraith not only packs Knockback, but he quickly calls many additional Wood Wraiths to his side. Run along the perimeter of the Secluded Grove to lead the Gnarled Walkers in a chase. Exit to the greater Fields of Misery via the gap in the trees and mount your defense there, as the Wood Wraiths are forced to funnel through the opening one by one.

True to its name, the Fields of Misery have wrought despair on all who have settled in this inhospitable land. The husks of homes and farms lie in ruin and the corpses of villagers are scattered about. All of this and much more is due to the numerous enemies that now call this land home. Many of these creatures, such as the Wood Wraith, the Plagued Nest, and Plague Carriers, inflict Poison damage.

PILLAGED HOME

Most of the humans who tried to make a living in the Fields of Misery have long been chased off or killed, but their structures still stand. Search along the periphery of the area for a Sheltered Cottage or "Pillaged Home" you can enter. You may not find any chests, but the corpses that litter the floor are sure to carry something valuable. Other structures still house the merchants who once catered to travelers in these parts—they might still even have some items to barter.

THE PRECIOUS ORES

The Lost Mine is another dungeon that randomly appears within the Fields of Misery. This large two-level cavern contains numerous Quill Demons and Burrowing Leapers, along with several chests. Descend to the second level to meet Tashun the Miner, who has come to mine for precious gemstones and metals. He needs you to escort him to the rear of the cave where you can find the two veins he seeks. Interact with the Pure Gemstone and the Vein of Metals to complete the first part of the quest. A pack of Rare Burrowing Leapers will attack near the Vein of Metals. Slay the last of them, then speak with Tashun to gain access to a fine selection of weapons and armor he's selling, as well as some bonus XP and gold for your effort.

SCAVENGER'S DEN

Do you have the nerve to enter the Scavenger's Den? This small area is home to the corpses of numerous Villagers who thought they had what it took to root out the infestation of monsters, but never made it out alive! There's a Resplendent Chest deep in the rear of the den, but you'll have to get past numerous large packs of monsters, including Deathspitters, Leapers, and Quill Demons.

The absence of humans has made it even easier for the territorial Goatmen of the Moon Clan to take up residence here. Keep an eye out for the small hillocks within their encampments, as there is often a chest on top. The nearby Moon Clan Warriors and Impalers will defend their ground with axes and throwing spears, respectively. Members of the Moon Clan travel in fast-moving hordes. Snare them if possible to slow their advance. You can also seek out traps or natural chokepoints to eliminate the threat of being surrounded.

Trampled By Savage Beasts?

Savage Beasts sometimes lurk just beyond the bridge leading to the Fields of Misery, occasionally even a rare one! Should this happen, do yourself a favor and instantly retreat to the covered bridge. The Savage Beast (and its minions, if present) will give chase, but it's too big to cross the bridge. Accordingly, stand safe from harm on the bridge and attack with ranged magic or skills.

The entrance to the Khazra Den can be anywhere in the Fields of Misery, but is most often near the center, if not a bit further north [2]. The opening is little more than an unassuming hole in the earth, a cave in a shallow rock outcropping, marked only by the blue glow of light emanating from within. Caves that emit a yellow glow are typically home to optional dungeons and caverns that can be explored for loot and XP, but are not part of the main quest.

LOG TRAPS AND AXES

Dungeons aren't the only place you'll find traps. There are numerous large piles of logs scattered throughout the Fields of Misery that, if struck, will lose their order and spill out across the ground, crushing those who cross their path. Also watch out for tripwires that cause a massive axe to crash down from above if snapped—you can also deliberately trigger these traps to thwart unsuspecting enemies.

THE KHAZRA DEN

Deckard and the Stranger have reason to believe a piece of the sword may have pierced the Khazra Den, a well-known home for the Moon Clan. This dimly-lit area is small and eerily absent of Moon Clan members. The reason for that will be apparent soon enough: Dark Cultists! Avoid any circular paths when confronting them or they will easily surround you. There is often a Shrine or Healing Well in the Khazra Den that should help prepare you for the battle to come. Battle past the Dark Cultist defense to the rear of the cave [3].

An Enraged Zealot seeks to stop your advance to the rear of the cave, where several others are busily conducting a ritual. Blow past him and set to disrupting the summoning of Maghda. These particular Dark Cultists won't summon any Skeletons to do their bidding, but their daggers are sharp and they thrust with force [4]. They are led by a unique Dark Cultist named Urik the Seer.

An astral projection of a powerful witch named Maghda appears near the sword piece and tries to prevent you from obtaining it. She summons another group of Dark Cultists in an attempt to stop you. Slay this second group just as you did the first and claim the glowing shard of the sword piece for Deckard Cain [5].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 155 XP: 3000

URIK THE SEER

PROPHET OF TORTURE

Urik the Seer doesn't fight like the other Enraged Zealots in that he has the power to stand back and lob Fireballs from afar. He's also Electrified, which poses a problem for a melee fighters who need to get close. Stay on the move to avoid his Fireball attacks and try to get up close to strike before he begins summoning Dark Hellions. Urik the Seer can summon 10 of these creatures. The Hero will take Lightning damage at close range, but it shouldn't be life-threatening, so long as there aren't a number of other Cultists around stabbing at the Hero with their daggers.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	9	308-352	800	Fireball, Summon Dark Hellion	Electrified	-

The Hero is not the only one searching for the sword; a witch named Maghda seeks it, as well. Leah will lead the way to the Drowned Temple, where the second sword piece is believed to be held. It must be reached before Maghda and her coven take it for their own nefarious reasons.

FIELDS OF MISERY

CARRION FARM

Not all farms in the Fields of Misery are merely forlorn; some are infested with Carrion Nests! Speak with the Beleaguered Farmer about the four Carrion Nests that have taken root in his fields. They'll spawn an endless flock of Plague Carriers as you draw near. Fight your way past these creatures to destroy each of the four nests. Heroes with Poison resistance may want to farm the Plague Carriers for additional XP and hold off killing the Carrion Nests for a while. The Carrion Nests won't spawn a limitless supply of Plague Carriers, but you can certainly draw more out in this manner. Either way, speak to the Beleaguered Farmer after destroying all four nests to claim your reward of gold and XP.

Maghda's mention of the second shard having fallen "where only the Ancients may tread" leads Leah to believe the spirit was referring to the Drowned Temple, beyond the Festering Woods. Leah joins the Hero to help gain entry to the sacred temple. Use the waypoint to return to the Fields of Misery and head to the northeast, up the path toward the Old Mill [1]. Look for the Stolen Sack at the base of the path to find the "Scoundrel's Journal" lore.

The duo encounters a Scoundrel of a man halfway up the path. He's been locked out of the mill site by a band of thieves who've come to steal an item from his friend, the farmer's daughter. Follow him up the hill and through the previously locked gate to enter the property. [2].

The Scoundrel joins your party at the gate... much to Leah's eventual dismay.

Brigands aren't known for their willingness to compromise, and these fellows are no exception [3]. They attack with throwing daggers, which you can sidestep without much trouble. Slaughter the first wave to lure their leader, Nigel Cutthroat, and several of his cronies out of the farm house. Leave some of the Health Globes dropped by the other Brigands uncollected until you need them during the battle with Nigel. Defeat him and the other Brigands to help your new companion get the relic from the farmer's daughter [4].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD
GOLD: 85 XP: 1125

NIGEL CUTTHROAT

THIEVES GUILD ASSASSIN

This Leader of the Brigands is a much taller chap, who packs a lot more health than the average Brigand. Nigel Cutthroat chases after the Hero, throwing his endless supply of daggers. These attacks don't inflict much harm and are relatively easy to dodge. Leah and the Scoundrel let their arrows fly in Nigel's direction, helping to whittle down his health reserves. This battle with Nigel may take some time to win due to his Extra Health trait, but unless the Hero is at a level much lower than his, the battle should not pose much difficulty.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	9	299-343	800	Dagger Throw	Extra Health	-
Nightmare	33	16,762-19,227	2150	Dagger Throw	Extra Health	-
Hell	52	336,000-385,000	3000	Dagger Throw	Extra Health	-
Inferno	61	2,138,000-2,452,000	3400	Dagger Throw	Extra Health	-

Gather up the loot from Nigel and speak with the Scoundrel after he claims the relic from the doe-eyed farmer's daughter [5]. This wayward soul wishes to join you in your quest—at least until he can pawn his ill-gotten relic at the next town. It doesn't hurt to have another ranged ally in your band, but with Leah already at your side, the need certainly isn't critical. The choice is yours and is not permanent. You can return to New Tristram to hire this Scoundrel at any time. He can only use two-handed crossbows or bows, so be sure to upgrade his equipment accordingly.

Continue to the northeast, beyond the Old Mill and toward a waypoint at the Drowned Temple. Proceed through the nearby gate to reach the temple proper [6].

DROWNED TEMPLE

Approach the ghostly figure, Alaric the Guardian, on the right-hand overlook [7]. This mythical figure maintains eternal watch over the Drowned Temple, ensuring that only those who are Nephalem enter its domain.

The Hero may be able to prove himself worthy of entrance, provided the party retrieves the keys from the two outlying tombs. These tombs—the Warrior's Rest and the Crypt of the Ancients—lie in the Festering Woods across the river to the north. Alaric raises a stone bridge for the party to cross [8].

LAST STAND OF THE ANCIENTS

Look for a raised monument on the south end of the Festering Woods and climb the stairs to the memorial. Many soldiers have perished on these steps and a number of Ghouls, Ghosts, and Ancient Heroes are fast-approaching to see that you meet this same fate. Ancient Heroes are similar to the Returned Shieldman you encounter later in this Act—essentially an upgraded form of Skeletal Shieldbearer. The battle typically features a rare Ancient with plenty of minions, as well. Mount your defense from atop the hill near the memorial. This is a particularly advantageous position with Leah and the Scoundrel at your side—they can shoot down at enemies as they climb the hill. Survive the battle to earn 90 gold, 1200 XP, and a piece of lore about this important battle.

The Festering Woods are home to many enemies, some familiar and others not. The Enraged Phantoms often prowl the grounds alongside Ghouls. Whereas Ghouls tend to strike once, then loop the Hero in a flanking motion, Enraged Phantoms attack multiple times before fleeing. It's possible to separate them by backpedaling away from the direction of the Enraged Phantom's hit-and-run tactic. Try to finish off the Ghouls first, if possible.

Seek out the waypoint between the two tombs first. Consider a return to New Tristram if you need to stock up on potions or wish to have the blacksmith repair your equipment—remember that dying causes you to suffer a loss of 10% in equipment durability.

Ghouls have an awkward gait, but can cover ground quickly.

Fight your way to the Crypt of the Ancients and claim the Beacon of Light from the altar [9]. The crypt is quite small and contains multiple Returned Summoners, each of which will not hesitate to summon up to four Returned. Returned Summoners stand back and lob Arcane orbs, forcing you to cut through their Returned minions to get to them. Let Leah (and the Scoundrel, too, if he's with you) focus on the Returned while you go after the Returned Summoner to cut off the flow of summoned enemies.

Take aim on the Returned Summoner, leaving the Health Globes where they lie until you need them.

“Although they are my brothers, they will seek your death when you enter.”

— Alaric

Return to the surface and head to the other crypt, the Warrior's Rest [10]. This is a similarly small underground cavern, yet one that also features a lengthy land bridge. Those seeking the Beacon of Honor from this space must often battle a rare Dark Skeletal Archer and his minions. Consider its trait and adjust your battle plan accordingly. Dark Skeletal Archers have a faster firing rate than Returned Archers and they won't hesitate to unleash their arrows from close range.

DROWNED TEMPLE

Return to the Drowned Temple as soon as you have both Beacons—not even Heroes should spend a minute longer than duty requires in the Festering Woods! Place the beacons on the two pedestals to prove yourself worthy of entering the sacred temple of the Nephalem [11].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 116 XP: 1200

Enter the Drowned Temple and cross the rickety bridge toward the enemies in the distance [12]. Splash through the water-logged temple to retrieve the contents of the Ancient Chest on the platform to the left and look for other items [13]. Alaric's warning proves to have merit: his brothers serve as guardians of the Drowned Temple and do not take kindly to disturbances. The Hero must defeat Ezek the Prophet, followed by three guardians, to continue the search for the sword. This is a prime time to start being a bit more strategic about Health Globes, if you haven't already. Don't just collect them all in a hurry; instead, let them lie where they are until you truly need them. Also try to differentiate between the larger Health Globes and smaller ones, then pick them up accordingly, based on necessity.

EZEK THE PROPHET

SPECTRAL CHAMPION

Ezek the Prophet wields a massive axe and boasts considerable health. Leah's talents with the bow certainly help to whittle away at Ezek's health. Ezek offers little threat to ranged combatants who manage to avoid his axe attacks. Melee fighters should keep a health potion on hand just in case. Leah's ranged attacks will help to cut through Ezek the Prophet's Extra Health.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	10	318-371	850	Axe Swing	Extra Health	-
Nightmare	34	16,758-19,551	2150	Axe Swing	Extra Health	-

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES

Inferno	61	1,886,000-2,200,000	3400	Axe Swing	Extra Health	-

Ezek doesn't rule the interior of the Drowned Temple alone. Defeating him merely gives rise to three deceased brothers who serve as the final barrier to the sword. These three skeleton brothers attack simultaneously, each with their own unique traits [14].

Talk to Alaric after defeating the three brothers to gain a reward for proving yourself in combat against his brothers [15]. Maghda awaits just around the corner to the right, in the central chamber. She's come for the final shard of the sword, but is willing to give it up far too easily—the weak-kneed Dark Zealots she summons can be cut through like a hot axe through butter [16]. Take the shard and return to Deckard in New Tristram [17] Quest Complete.

BROTHERS KAREL, LAREL, AND MOEK

SPECTRAL GUARDIANS

Brother Larel's Molten trait poses the biggest threat, and is best dealt with last, provided you can keep away from him. Brother Moek's Fast trait makes it easier to lead him away from the others. Try to single him out and lead him back in the direction of the exit to fight him one-on-one. Once he's out of the way, you can go after Brother Karel next. This brother's Knockback ability actually helps avoid Brother Larel's Molten touch, as it tends to send you flying away to safety. Take a moment to top off your health before engaging Brother Larel, especially if you're playing as a melee fighter. His Molten touch can inflict significant damage if you're not at his level.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES

Lead Leah through New Tristram to the north, where you first found the blacksmith. Turn left and speak to the ferryman on the dock to travel across the bay to Wortham [1]. An attack on the town has left many of the buildings ablaze.

Proceed into the fiery village of Wortham. Corpses line the path, but that's not all. Maghda's Coven have descended upon the town and are set to attack in groups. The Dark Zealots wield daggers, while the Dark Evokers cast fiery magic spells. The Hero can make quick work of the Dark Zealots by combining snare-based area skills with ranged weapons or magic. The Dark Evokers fall easier, provided you avoid their fireballs. There are several side areas between the houses, but the lone road through town leads to the chapel [2].

The Dark Zealots are no match for the Demon Hunter's Bola Shot and Marked for Death skills.

Advance along the path and speak to the villager who's fleeing down the road toward the dock. He needs you to go to the chapel and save the rest of the villagers, who have barricaded themselves inside the flaming building [3].

Stand back outside the chapel's courtyard and draw any remaining members of the Covenant toward you. This reduces the risk of triggering the next phase of the battle prematurely. Kill off the remaining Dark Evokers near the chapel, then listen to Maghda [4]. She'll call upon a unique Dark Summoner named Urzel Mordreg to do her bidding.

URZEL MORDREG

DARK HEIROPHANT

Urzel Mordreg isn't just a Molten enemy, but one that can cast with fire magic, strike with a dagger, and summon Dark Hellions. Although his Molten aura doesn't inflict significant damage, it's certainly wise to attack from a distance if you can. Keep the pressure on Urzel Mordreg to prevent him from summoning too many Dark Hellions. Leah will aid with any stragglers (and the Dark Hellions), but it's up to you to take the Dark Heiropgant.

Four mace-wielding Dark Berserkers attack next. Kill the Dark Summoners that appear alongside them while trying to escape the Dark Berserkers' overhead strikes. Retaliate while their weapons are stuck in the ground. They'll pursue the Hero and Leah with equal fervor—try leading them toward the narrow opening on the trail into town to bunch them together for an attack that can hit multiple foes at once [5].

Speak with the priest near the chapel as soon as the last of the Dark Berserkers has been slain [6]. He left the fallen sword hilt with Virgil, a man keeping watch over it in the Chapel Cellar. The priest reveals an entrance to the Chapel Cellar on the side of the building. Use this hidden opening to enter [7].

WORTHAM CHAPEL CELLAR

The Chapel Cellar is empty, save for a corpse. Virgil is dead and the sword's hilt is nowhere to be found [8]. Maghda appears above the altar to confirm the Hero's suspicions: it was all a lure. While the Hero was rescuing the villagers of Wortham, she captured all three sword pieces. Use the Waypoint [9] inside the cellar to return to New Tristram at once! Head immediately to Deckard Cain's house to the right of the Slaughtered Calf Inn [10] Quest Complete.

Bookcase Treasure

Bookcases are an excellent source of gold. Places of study, such as the Chapel Cellar, often provide an ample supply of bookcases to search.

THE HIGHLANDS

Just north of New Tristram, across the bay, lies an area known locally as the Highlands. The fishing village of Wortham is reached via ferry from New Tristram. Those continuing inland from this seaside town find majestic bluffs giving way to sprawling forests. Further to the north are the private hunting grounds of the former King Leoric. The region is home to an advanced species of Goatmen known as the Dark Moon Clan, among numerous other hostiles.

WORTHAM BLUFFS

Use the waypoint to return to Wortham Chapel Cellar and head north through the gate on the other side of the chapel to the Wortham Bluffs. The entrance to the Caverns of Araneae is directly below. Take a moment to inspect Rodger the Alchemist's wares if he is there, then go down the hill on the left toward the entrance to the caves [1].

THE SACRIFICIAL HERMIT

Look for Rodger the Alchemist on the far side of the stony bridge. If he's there, he occasionally has a few potions he's willing to sell. He also needs someone to deliver a potion to the Crazy Hermit down the stairs, near the entrance to the Caverns of Araneae. You're headed that way anyway, so accept the task. Speak with the Crazy Hermit outside the caves.

DUNGEON CAVERNS OF ARANEA

The Caverns of Araneae consist of a single level cave leading to the Chamber of Queen Araneae. The main cavern is pockmarked with piles of egg sacks, holes in the floor, and large walls of impenetrable webbing. Although man has clearly had a hand in the initial construction of this area, the spider's webbing appears to be all that keeps it upright.

The Monk's Decoy ability can be a real life saver against a pack of Champion Spiderlings.

The Caverns of Araneae are home to a variety of terrible arachnids and other toxic entities. Although there aren't as many enemy species in this particular dungeon, those present attack in large numbers or possess an especially potent means of snaring their prey.

Beware of the web-spitting attack of the Arachnid Horror. The silk it spits slows movement considerably, leaving the Hero vulnerable to the creature's slashing melee attack. Stand back to bait it into spitting, then strafe out of the way and attack the spider's flank as it rushes forward. The Spiderling is another common enemy. Singularly, this pint-sized hatchling doesn't pose much of a threat. Unfortunately, the Spiderling is seldom alone and a group of five or more can bring down a level 10 Barbarian in no time at all if you get surrounded. It's important for melee fighters to have an attack that swings in a wide arc, like the Barbarian's Cleave or the Monk's Lashing Tail Kick.

Fight your way through the sprawling cavern in search of the Chamber of Queen Araneae [2]. The main cavern has multiple forks and dead-ends. Stick to the perimeter and proceed slowly at all times—rushing ahead only draws more enemies into the fray. Unlike other areas, it's quite common for enemies in this area to emerge behind the Hero, perhaps as a result of his footsteps disturbing their slumber.

Ranged Assistance is Available

Having a tough time in the Caverns of Araneae by yourself? If so, use the Town Portal to return to New Tristram and hire the Scoundrel. His ranged support will help take out Spiderlings before they get too close, particularly if you're a melee fighter.

Beware of the Toxic Lurker's plagued attacks.

CHAMBER OF QUEEN ARANEA

Enter the Chamber of Queen Araneae and approach the woman trapped in the wall of webbing [3]. She's been set aside for a later feeding and you're about to find out by what. The chamber's namesake, Queen Aranea, is about to descend from the ceiling. The only way out alive is to kill the massive spider queen [4].

QUEEN ARANEE

THE SHADOW WEAVER

Cain: "Rumor holds that Archbishop Lazarus loosed a silent terror in the caves near Leoric's Manor before he died. He labored for weeks over a group of unusually large spiders, and many of his servants quietly disappeared during this time... The largest creature led the others into the caves—none who's ventured there has returned."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES

Queen Araneae attacks in multiple phases with a variety of techniques meant to slow, poison, and weaken her prey—which makes them that much easier to digest later on! She typically begins the fight using melee-based attacks, either by biting her enemy or with a stabbing leg assault. While those with a substantive armor Aura can stand tall in the face of these attacks and slug it out with her, most Heroes will be well-served to back away, out of her reach.

If the Hero moves out of melee range, Queen Araneae shifts to a ranged assault. She'll use her Web Spit attack to snare and slow you down. The Hero suffers the "webbed" debuff whenever stuck in the spider's silk. If successful, Queen Araneae then launches into her Web Charge, quickly moving back into melee range. It's at this point when she'll unleash her most potent attack of all—Spider Vomit. The Hero is dealt continuous damage for as long as he remains in the path of the poisonous bile. Quickly strafe out of range and attack while Queen Araneae is stationary. She's unable to move during her Spider Vomit attack.

Once Queen Araneae has been reduced to 66% of her health (and again at 33%), she'll flee to the safety of the chamber's ceiling and summon six Araneae Minions. These creatures behave just like Arachnid Horrors, but possess less HP and are a lower level. Sidestep their Web Spit attacks to avoid being snared and slay the lot of them. Queen Araneae returns to the battle as soon as the sixth Araneae Minion has been killed. Some of the lesser spiders will undoubtedly drop a Health Globe—leave them for the second and third of Queen Araneae's attack phases.

Locate the Pool of Venom on the ground in the far corner [5]. This is used to dissolve the web binding the woman, Karyna [6]. There's no time to talk right now. Lead Karyna out of the cavern via the opening on the far end of the Queen's chamber [7].

SOUTHERN HIGHLANDS

CAVE OF THE MOON CLAN

This random two-level cave is home to numerous Dark Moon Clan members and Spiderlings of various evil. The upper level of the cave tends to feature narrow passages littered with boulders and wooden stakes that serve to conceal the approaching attackers. Gather the Notes of Urik the Seer en route to the second level. You may find them inside Urik's Satchel. The smaller lower level likely features several dead-ends—seek out the second set of Urik's Notes and any Resplendent Chests that may be present before using the Dungeon Stone to exit.

Exit the cavern and speak with Karyna about the Coven [8]. She saw Maghda's worshippers dragging someone to Leoric's Manor, far to the north. The local tribe of Khazra has barricaded the path to the Northern Highlands. Karyna managed to steal an important staff of theirs. If you retrieve it from her cart and give it to the Dark Moon Clan, they may let you pass. Or so she says...

Access the Waypoint before crossing the bridge to the west, from the Highlands Crossing to the Southern Highlands area. Numerous enemies roam the Highlands, many of which are a bit stronger than those you've encountered previously. Monitor your health potion supply and do not hesitate to use the Town Portal and return to New Tristram to buy more. Regardless, consider a periodic visit to see what new armor Tashun the Miner may have available.

SKEHLINRATH

Not all Goatmen wander the highlands. Some make their living inside a walled camp. Brave their inner sanctum at your risk and confront Rambolt the Lunatic, a Lightning Aura unique Dark Moon Clan Shaman and as many as two dozen of his fellow Khazra. Should you encounter Rambolt, get his attention, then back away to funnel him and his minions through the narrow gate in the wall.

This is where the adventure really starts to get tough if you haven't been fully maximizing your Hero's growth (or if you're playing without a follower). You must start concerning yourself with pulling enemies, looking for ways to isolate faster foes from those that are slower, and really paying attention to the terrain to avoid getting surrounded.

WATCH TOWER

Look for a Watch Tower along the western edge of the Southern Highlands.

This randomly-appearing two-level dungeon features a very small upper level and a larger, lower one. The upper area is likely to contain Dark Cultists; the lower area is populated with numerous Returned Archers, Returned Shieldman, and Returned Executioners. The architecture here is similar to the Cathedral.

The upper area is likely to contain Dark Cultists; the lower area is populated with numerous Returned Archers, Returned Shieldman, and Returned Executioners. The architecture here is similar to the Cathedral.

Withermoths and Highland Walkers pose a problem to those with low Lightning and Poison resistance, respectively. Try to keep your distance!

ANCIENT PYRE

The ghost of a Goatman named Gharbad may need you to retrieve a Shard of Resurrection from atop a funeral pyre so that he can return to life. Speaking with Gharbad summons forth an army of Khazra ghosts. Defeat them all and return the stone to Gharbad. Unfortunately, the resurrected Gharbad the Strong immediately attacks the Hero alongside a number of Moon Clan Impalers. Gharbad has powerful melee attacks, and the Enrage trait, but has no ranged attacks. Gharbad moves quite slowly and is susceptible to all manner of ranged attacks.

BURROWING GOATMEN

Watch out for holes that suddenly open in the ground. Three Dark Moon Clan Impalers or Warriors will spontaneously leap from these burrows and attack at close range.

©2012 DK/BradyGAMES®, a division of Penguin Group (USA) Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Head west across the Southern Highlands in search of Karyna's Lost Wagon. Several Goatmen attack as soon as you collect the Shamanic Khazra Staff [9]. The horde of Dark Moon Clan attackers includes Nalghban the Foul, an Electrified Dark Moon Clan Shaman. Lay claim to the missing Shamanic Kharza Staff and kill the remainder of the Dark Moon Clan Warriors that attack. Nalghban the Foul tends not to attack until most of the others have perished, making it possible to isolate him for a quick kill.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 122 XP: 1425

The Khazra barricade lies to the north. Take your time and explore the entire Southern Highlands before heading there, as the battles continue to grow in intensity. This is a very important area in Act 1 for leveling up your Hero. The more time you spend in the Southern Highlands fighting the Goatmen and Highland Walkers, the easier your journey north will be.

Approach the barricade and prepare for the vicious onslaught of Dark Moon Clan—they don't care who stole the staff, only that it's in your possession [10]! The switchbacking path allows for Dark Moon Clan Impalers to hurl their spears down from above. Lure enemies down the switchbacking road to gain separation from those with an elevation advantage.

Arrows Up!

The Demon Hunter can target enemies on the upper path with crossbows to deal damage safely from afar. Clear out the enemies on the current elevation, then look to target those above before rounding the switchback.

NORTHERN HIGHLANDS

The Northern Highlands aren't nearly as large as their southern counterpart, but they are not without hazard. Many of the other Highlands creatures dwell here, as well, along with the Cursed Nest and some Winged Moloks. You may encounter a rare Withermoth in these parts.

Fight your way to the Waypoint in the northwest corner of the area. Inspect the numerous weapon racks and stumps here to load up on items to salvage or possibly use. Battle up the stairs to the ruins on the north end of the clearing and continue around the crumbling structure to Leoric's Hunting Grounds.

A Mighty Combination

This is a great time to start really thinking about linking attacks and selecting skills and runes that complement one another. One such combination for the Barbarian is that of using Cleave (with the Rupture rune) in conjunction with Rend. Attack enemies with Rend to cause bleeding damage over 3 seconds, then once they're good and softened up, hit them with Cleave. The Rupture rune causes any enemies that die with Cleave to explode and deal additional damage to all enemies within 8 yards. This is an excellent low-level combo to use against the mass of Moon Clan enemies you encounter in the Highlands.

LEORIC'S HUNTING GROUNDS

King Leoric's private hunting grounds consist of a small area to the north of the Northern Highlands, just across the bridge from his manor. The Dark Moon Clan has erected Khazra Totems in a triangular formation to power their efforts. Destroy these skull-adorned totems to cut off the flow of summoned enemies into the area. Battle the enemies in this area to push for another level increase. Heroes should be at or close to reaching level 12 before entering Leoric's Manor [11]. Cross the Manor Courtyard to the entrance and head inside [12].

THE APOTHECARY'S BROTHER

Look for the rare Highlands Cave and enter it to speak with Rike the Apothecary. Dark Cultists have kidnapped Rike's brother and brought him to this cave as ransom for his elixirs. Help Rike find his abducted brother by exploring this sprawling one-level cave. Fight past the Dark Cultists and the occasional group of Dark Vessels in order to find Rike's brother lying in the open. Numerous Dark Cultists will attack while Rike tries to heal him with his elixirs. Fend off the attackers in exchange for a potion and a wealth of XP and gold. Then exit via the nearby Dungeon Stone.

LEORIC'S MANOR

Fight your way inside the Manor, then up the stairs and to the left. Many Dark Cultists have infiltrated the Manor and are busy trying to convert a select member of their Coven, The Vessel, into a creature known as Unholy Thrall. This ritualistic sacrifice yields a much more difficult creature to kill—rush toward The Vessel and cut him down before the transformation takes place.

Proceed through the wooden door to the balcony overlooking Maghda conferring with her Coven [13]. Many Dark Summoners are busy spawning Dark Hellions. Retreat to the previous area and use your most powerful skills on the Dark Hellions as they exit the door. Slay the last of the Dark Cultists and Dark Summoners, then hasten down the stairs and talk to the Wounded Man who was the center of their ritual.

DUNGEON

HALLS OF AGONY

If there was any question regarding the brutal nature of King Leoric's reign, it requires only one look at the Halls of Agony to erase all doubt. The sadistic ruler had erected a sprawling multi-level labyrinth dedicated to torture and pain. Iron maidens, sharpened cleavers, and baskets of sacrificial heads still line the blood-stained halls of this damned location.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

Though my ears had long sensed the macabre construction, my eyes still failed to believe what they saw. The path to the stairs was blocked by a series of massive cleavers! Over and over their blades slammed against the ground, sending tremors up my spine. I swiftly dodged the first cleaver as it was being raised, then decided to test their sharpness by leading a mob of Inferno Zombies into the path of the second falling blade. I almost pitied them for the puddle they had become.

I still can't believe what I saw! My exploration of these aptly-named Halls of Agony had led me to a narrow walkway overlooking what appeared to be a torture room. I beat back the Bloated Corpses and Disentombed Hulks atop the stairs, then descended to the blood^{stained} floor below. All manner of torture devices remained on display. Though I found no treasure save for some coins in a torture barrel, I gained great insight into the type of man King Leoric was: A tyrant, a lunatic, a mass murderer! There was no exit from the torture chamber other than the stairs leading back the way I came.

I spilled a fire gutter onto a pair of Dark Berserkers only to notice two doors facing me. The hallway made a square path around two interior rooms, each with a pair of doors on either end. Careful not to be overwhelmed by whatever foul creatures lurked inside those rooms, I made certain to open only one door at a time. I cut down the Bloated Corpses as they stumbled toward the door, then advanced through that room and out the other side. I completed my loop through the adjacent room, using each opened door as a chokepoint.

Having reached the second level of this dreadful dungeon, I began to think I may have seen the worst that can be thrown at me. Regrettably, I let down my guard. Whether I was distracted by the baskets of sacrificial heads or my thoughts of Deckard Cain, I cannot recall. But I was not expecting to encounter so many Dark Berserkers in such close proximity! I absently wandered through a narrow archway into a room filled with enemies. If only I had taken a wider approach I would have seen them first and gotten the upper hand. Unfortunately, I compounded my earlier mistake by fleeing directly into another similar room where even more fiends awaited!

The stone floor suddenly gave way to a metal grate. I paused to inspect this new surface, only to see a veritable inferno rise up from underneath! It was another trap, this one even more sinister than the falling cleavers. I studied the dancing flames, struggling to hear myself think amongst the roar of the fire, then made my move the moment the flames died down. And though I sprinted as fast as I could, my speed was still not enough to keep my boot heels from being singed. Thankfully, I was feeling completely healthy before making that crossing.

LEVEL 1

Descend the external stairs of Leoric's Manor toward the entrance to the Halls of Agony, just beneath the outer balcony [1].

BEWARE THE CULTIST GRAND INQUISITOR

You may encounter this unique enemy, along with Dark Vessels and Dark Summoners, on the first level of the Halls of Agony.

The red-robed Dark Summoner has Extra Health and is Electrified, making him that much harder to kill. Quickly eliminate any Vicious Hellions that were spawned and try to lure the Cultist Grand Inquisitor away from the others. This will make your task much easier.

Inferno Zombies crawl forth from the grated fire pits within the walls. They emerge one by one in slow succession, usually no more than five. Their furnace-like origin is extinguished once the last of the Inferno Zombies have been slain.

Inferno Zombies are quite a bit weaker than the other enemies you encounter, so just hit them fast and hard.

There are a number of traps throughout the Halls of Agony. Lure enemies into the drop spikes and toward the fire gutters. The latter is one of the most useful traps you'll encounter in any dungeon—coax packs of Vicious Hellions or Disentombed Hulks into the fire gutter, then spring the trap. Fight your way past the hordes of monsters and giant cleavers toward the stairs leading deeper into the Halls of Agony [2].

Move carefully past the giant cleaver traps; they're far deadlier than the enemies lurking in the distance.

LEVEL 2

Level 2 of the Halls of Agony contains a Waypoint. Find it before seeking the entrance to the Highlands Passage.

There are several large groups of enemies in this level, particularly Dark Summoners with Disentombed Hulks and Dark Hellions. Seek out traps, look for doorways to block with a void-area spell (such as Monk's Inner Sanctuary), and allow yourself to get some distance from them. Try to pull one or two enemies away from the group to make combat against large groups more manageable.

No matter how large the group of enemies, try to focus on those with summoning ability first or else that giant mob will get even bigger.

STRANGER IN NEED

You may hear the calls of a villager locked away inside an iron maiden within the pit below the exit. Defeat the Disentombed Hulk and Inferno Zombies, then interact with the iron maiden in the far corner to free the prisoner. Speak with Merhan to claim an XP and gold reward.

Continue past the exit to the Highlands Passage and investigate the pit below. This fiery trench is sometimes inhabited by a creature known as the Tormented Behemoth, a unique Disentombed Hulk. The pit also contains a wealth of Inferno Zombies just itching to wrap their fiery arms around you. Use the stairs (and the barricade at the bottom) to your advantage, and hurl attacks down at the Tormented Behemoth from elevated safety. The Tormented Behemoth packs the Knockback trait, but is otherwise quite similar to common Disentombed Hulks. Farm additional XP from the Inferno Zombies in the pit (until they stop clambering out of the fire in the center), then exit to the Highlands Passage up the stairs [3].

Ranged attackers can make quick work of the Tormented Behemoth from atop the stairs.

HIGHLANDS PASSAGE

A REPUTATION RESTORED

When Radek the Fence isn't around, Kyr the Weaponsmith is often there in his place. Talk with Kyr to learn of his thirst for vengeance. He wants you to kill Dargon to restore the Weaponsmith's damaged reputation. Defeat Dargon and his master, a Deranged Cultist, on the far side of the elevated walkway. It doesn't take much to kill Dargon, a commoner. Speak to Kyr once the deed is done to earn gold and XP based on the Hero's level. Now he will sell his impressive selection of valuable weaponry to you instead.

The Highlands Passage is a small area, but one that can vary in enemy number and variety to an incredible degree. Cross the bridge to your first encounter and brace yourself for as many as two dozen enemies. Use the narrow width of the bridge as a choke point and focus your attacks on the front of the line [4].

Fight your way across the Highlands Passage, past many more Dark Cultists, Dark Summoners, Dark Berserkers, and Dark Hellions. This area may actually be completely devoid of enemies except for one or two Dark Cultists, at least beyond the initial bridge. Follow the path toward the entrance to the Cursed Hold and head inside.

The largest group of enemies in the Highlands Passage is often just across the bridge leading away from the Halls of Agony.

DUNGEON CURSED HOLD

Those fortunate souls who manage to escape being sentenced to the Halls of Agony wound up in the Cursed Hold where they would be given the chance to rot in perpetuity. AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

My mastery of ranged combat has proven quite beneficial here in the Cursed Hold. The dozens of ironclad cells do a fine job of keeping the many skeletons confined, while allowing me to launch my attacks between the bars. Oh, how those skeletons writhe and burn when I lob my fiery projectiles at them, knowing full well they can't counterattack!

Nevertheless, I should give credit where it's due and acknowledge that those crafty Returned Archers have figured out that they can do the same. I must take care to stand behind solid masonry, lest I be pierced like a pincushion by their arrows.

Enter the Cursed Hold and speak to the ghost of Queen Asylla [5]. For years her spirit has haunted these cells in anguish, hoping there would come a day when her people would be free. She needs you to search the Cursed Hold and release the spirits of six forgotten prisoners. Collect Queen Asylla's Journal from the chest in her cell near the entrance and continue into the main area of the hold.

The souls of the six Forgotten Prisoners, left to rot in their cells long after Leoric was slain, pace endlessly around their remains. The Hero must break into each of their cells and inspect the Prisoner's Remains to free the souls [6]. This task does not require lock-picking skills—each door opens with a single click! The Forgotten Prisoners are scattered at random throughout the sprawling grid of cells. Begin your search by circling the perimeter of the eastern half of the Cursed Hold, where most of the cells are located.

Fight your way past what seems to be hundreds of Returned who patrol this insidious holding cell. These upgraded Skeleton soldiers fight with swords, bows, and shields. Returned Executioners even wield double-bladed axes. Fortunately, most of the enemies are confined to cells that you can either open or leave closed.

FINISH FAST OR FARM XP

Don't stand back and lob shots at the Returned Archers if there's a Tortured Summoner amongst their ranks. The Tortured Summoner continues to evoke additional Returned Archers as the others fall. Of course, those wishing to milk as much XP as possible can just as easily choose to keep the Tortured Summoner alive to farm more Returned Archers. Tortured Summoners won't spawn an endless supply of Returned Archers, but enough to gain a bit more XP out of the battle for those who so desire it.

This is an excellent area to use projectile attacks, like the Demon Hunter's Grenades. You can hurl them through the bars at the numerous Returned Shieldman and other skeletons that guard the interiors of many of the cells. Similarly, take note when there are Returned Archers inside the cell and conduct your hallway battles while standing in front of solid walls or doors so they can't shoot their arrows through the bars at you.

Deploy ranged attacks that can be lobbed through the bars of the prison cells to wipe out the Returned without risk of personal injury.

Forgotten as they may be, the spirits of the Forgotten Prisoners aren't unwatched. You'll soon begin to hear the angry yells of someone who is not pleased to see them being freed. These foreboding shouts continue with every other freed prisoner until all six have been released from their eternal torture.

The lone exit from the Cursed Hold leads deeper to the Halls of Agony. The only way to access these stairs is by killing the Warden. Locate a Healing Well and commit its location to memory before approaching the four-way intersection in the center of the Cursed Hold, where the Warden awaits. There's nowhere to go until you kill this unique monster and his Savage Fiend minions [7].

Hit the Warden hard, then make a run for a Healing Well to string out the minions before attacking again.

THE WARDEN

HEAD JAILER OF KING LEORIC

The Warden is an impressive beast with a powerful Mace Swing attack and ground-rumbling Knockback Slam. This super-charged Berserker-like foe fights similarly to the Dark Berserkers you faced elsewhere.

The Warden is accompanied by Savage Fiend minions that attack alongside it, though it moves slower and seldom strays from the crossroads in the center of the Cursed Hold. Hit-and-run attacks work best, not only to avoid its melee attacks, but to keep you from falling victim to his Jailer trait (at least not while he's close enough to take advantage of your temporary imprisonment). The longer you make the "and-run" portion of this technique, the better. The Warden may give chase, but you can easily outrun this foe and return to a Healing Well if one is present. Not only does this stretch out the Savage Fiend minions and makes them easier to kill, but it saves you from having to use up Health Potions. If you have access to runes or a passive skill that increase the chance for health globes to drop, slot it in and feast on the Savage Fiends as a potential source of health.

GOLD: - XP: 525

Approach the iron spiked gate on the southern side of the center of the Cursed Hold after killing the Warden. Plunder any chests you find beyond the spiked gate and fight through the throngs of Savage Fiends that attack en route to the stairs leading deeper into the Halls of Agony.

Death of a Queen

Break down the door to the left of the stairs to see ghosts recreate the death of Queen Asylla with Lazarus and King Leoric. Continue watching until the ghosts fade away to uncover the "A Page From Lazarus's Grimoire" lore.

DUNGEON HALLS OF AGONY

HALLS OF AGONY, LEVEL 3

Numerous Dark Zealots are likely to attack here, as will the Unholy Thrall if you don't kill off the Dark Vessels first. Search this small area for the fifth and final entry from Leoric's Journal. It doesn't matter which of the Lecterns you inspect first, as the journal entries will be revealed in sequential order automatically. And be sure to continue searching Musty Lecterns even after you've found all five pieces of Leoric's Journal, as the lecterns often yield a potion. The lower level of the dungeon is just ahead; continue downstairs to the Chamber of Suffering [8]. You won't find the Stranger there, at least not until you kill the Butcher [9].

CHAMBER OF SUFFERING

THE BUTCHER FLESH CARVER

Cain: "The truth about the butcher demon was more startling than I ever anticipated. Evidently, there are many of them within the Burning Hells, though they used to be solely under Diablo's command. The butchers are stitched together from the parts of other demons to combine their strengths, then given life through wicked magic."

The massive demon called The Butcher is far larger than anything the Hero has encountered thus far. Though not one of the Prime Evils, nor even a Minor Evil, it is nonetheless a considerable threat. The Butcher has several standard attacks that put its brute strength, skull-adorned axe, and lengthy grappling hook to use. And if that wasn't enough, scorching hot flames rise through the floor to pose an even greater threat. The floor is divided into a half-dozen segments that randomly alight with flame. Avoid the blaze to prevent significant burns and loss of health.

The Butcher's basic Smash melee attack is of little concern provided you stand far enough away. The powerful overhead swing is prefaced by a series of quick hops, making it easy to know when to step aside. It's what it does next that you need to worry about! The Butcher uses its grappling hook in one of two ways: it will either launch the heavy grappling chain directly at the Hero to latch on and pull its victim within striking range (and leave the Hero stunned for several seconds), or it will launch an array of spear-like chains to deal piercing damage across a wider area.

Stand far back and keep moving to avoid the fire rising through the floor. You'll get hit eventually, but the two Healing Wells in the upper corners of the arena should keep you alive—use them whenever your health drops below 75% and rely on Health Potions when the Healing Wells are inactive (30-second cooldown) or when you need an instant pick-me-up.

The Butcher has one more trick up its sleeve, and this is the one to turn against it. By staying out of the Butcher's reach, you'll force it to go into a state of Frenzy. This causes the creature to rear back and glow bright orange with anger. Any player in close range at this point will be knocked back. The Butcher then puts its head down and sprints across the arena in an attempt to trample the Hero. Dodge this charge attack and watch as the Butcher runs headfirst into a wall. The impact stuns him for several seconds and provides the perfect opportunity to attack without fear of retaliation. This is best done by moving in an irregular pattern and by striving to move perpendicular to the Butcher's orientation.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 128 XP: 1680

Kill those standing guard first to prevent the arrival of Dark Berserkers, then defeat the Cultists.

CELLS OF THE CONDEMNED

Gather up the loot dropped by the Butcher and push ahead into the Cells of the Condemned. Descend the narrow, winding stairs to the numerous members of the Coven, where they have the Angel trapped within their dark powers [10].

The Dark Cultists are joined by Dark Wizards and Dark Ritualists. These foes will fall quite easily to anyone capable of besting the Butcher. Slay those on the perimeter first to prevent them from summoning Dark Berserkers into the fray, then set about killing the Dark Cultists trapping the angel [11].

The angel has suffered tremendous injury, but is brought back to health—and then some—upon being reunited with his sword. He reveals himself as Tyrael, none other than an archangel of the High Heavens [12] Quest Complete.

QUEST

RETURN TO NEW TRISTRAM

OBJECTIVES

- 1 Talk to Tyrael in New Tristram.
- 2 Talk to the Caravan Leader.

Tyrael's reunion with his sword not only restored his health, but his memory, too. Belial and Azmodan, the last Lords of Hell, are set to unleash a tide of darkness across the land. Belial has already begun unleashing the evil of Hell upon Caldeum and the surrounding desert. The Hero, Leah, and Tyrael must head to Caldeum at once.

NEW TRISTRAM

Talk to Tyrael in the Cells of the Condemned to hear his news and use the portal he creates to return to New Tristram. Speak with the archangel again in town to forge plans to move on to Caldeum [1]. Tyrael has arranged for a Caravan Leader to transport the group to Caldeum. Speak with the man in green near the wagon once you are ready to leave New Tristram [2] Quest Complete.

Speak with the Caravan Leader only when you are truly ready to move on to Act 2.

THE CARAVAN

The Caravan carries the Hero and his Stash, along with the Followers and Artisans from one Act to the next. This includes the Templar and Scoundrel, as well as the Blacksmith. The Caravan sets up a camp at the start of each Act that will serve as your base. The center of operations was New Tristram during Act 1. In Act 2, your base is a Hidden Camp set on a cliff high above the city of Caldeum. Your Caravan will grow to include additional Followers and Artisans as the quest continues. Neither the Caravan nor your camp changes location within an Act.

CALDEUM

The Jewel of the East, Caldeum, is a thriving city with a palace home to a boy-king and a rich cultural heritage.

This bustling oasis in the desert is currently on lock-down due to the violence spreading across the sea of sand that laps at the city's walls.

The Hidden Camp high above the Caldeum Bazaar affords the Hero's caravan a glimpse at the shimmering city below, and of the palace gates that strain to keep the crush of refugees from entering the heart of the city, leaving them to mill around the Bazaar with nowhere to turn.

QUEST

Based on Normal difficulty.*

The caravan has journeyed far to a hillside overlooking the jewel city of the east, Caldeum. Belial, one of the Last Lords of Hell, has cast a pall over this fair city, but is nowhere to be seen from this vantage point. Leah and Tyrael will search for Belial while the Hero goes in pursuit of Maghda, as Cain's death shall not go unpunished.

HIDDEN CAMP

The caravan has set up camp high atop a cliff overlooking the desert city of Caldeum. There is much to do and Tyrael is anxious to get underway, but preparations are in order. Take a moment to look around the camp.

Speak with Leah to put the plan in motion. The Hero instructs Leah and Tyrael to search for Belial while he looks for Maghda. Descend the stairs on the north end of the camp to enter Caldeum Bazaar [1].

The stairs on the north side of Hidden Camp afford quick and easy access to the shops in Caldeum Bazaar.

CALDEUM BAZAAR

Asheara, commander of the Iron Wolves, stands just beyond the entrance to Caldeum Bazaar. Speak with her to learn of the refugees she saved from Maghda's Coven [2]. Asheara believes Maghda is heading toward Alcaranus, but Maghda instructed her Cultists to barricade the path leading through the borderlands—the only way to pursue her is through the Khasim Outpost, beyond the Sundered Canyon.

The journey beyond the Sundered Canyon—just a small part of the Stinging Winds desert—will be arduous. Stop at the Searing Sands Inn to stock up on health potions. It's worth speaking to the other vendors in this area, as well. They are bound to carry equipment that the Hero was unable to procure back in New Tristram.

The exit to the desert lies to the northeast, just beyond the arms dealer, Lugo the Miner. The guards near the gate tell you to seek out Captain Davyd if you happen to make it as far as the Khasim Outpost. They have their doubts that you'll be successful...

LEAH AT THE BAZAAR

Leah and Tyrael have uncovered interesting news about the Iron Wolves, Belial, and the lock-down within the city. She and Tyrael are standing just to the left of the arch you pass through after speaking to Asheara. Together, they're going to find a way into the city via the sewers.

STINGING WINDS

Beyond the walls of Caldeum lies the Stinging Winds desert. This barren, sandy landscape is all but devoid of water, plants, and friendly inhabitants. The Stinging Winds and its windswept canyons and plateaus are home to members of the fierce Lacuni and Fallen tribes. The remnants of a once thriving mining operation lie dormant along the Black Canyon, the workers' homes abandoned. The old road to Alcarnus has been blocked, forcing a lengthy trek across the heart of the desert to the Khasim Outpost.

SHADOWS IN THE DESERT

SUNDERED CANYON

Ranged attacks like Disintegrate can be used to target Sand Wasps before they descend from the cliffs.

Head down the path into the Sundered Canyon and speak to the Enchantress. She offers a dire warning of Cultists and intends to join you, as she too seeks the Coven. The Enchantress speaks of mirages ahead, traps of foul magic. Knowing her skills will come in handy, she joins your quest without awaiting your approval.

The path leads into a seemingly impassable box canyon, home to many Sand Wasps and even a few Lacuni Huntresses, the latter of which are quite fond of lobbing firebombs. Sand Wasps spew as many as four miniature wasps that serve as slow-moving projectile attacks. Stand back and wait for the Sand Wasps to fire their offspring projectiles, then skirt around these miniature wasps and attack. Fight through the Sundered Canyon to the dead end [3].

Members of Maghda's Coven materialize out of thin air and attack near the box canyon. Lay into these Deranged Cultists quickly, before they can strike with their daggers [4].

Speak to the Enchantress to learn her name [5]. Watch as Eirena uses her arcane powers to clear the path—it wasn't a dead end, but rather a powerful illusion created by the Cultists to appear as a trap!

Several Iron Wolf members approach quickly just beyond the magical obstruction. They're being pursued by Lacuni Warriors and their leader, Jarulf, needs your assistance. Lacuni Warriors attack with twin swords and should not be taken lightly. Slaughter the melee attackers as they approach to save the Iron Wolves' captain [6]. Speak to Jarulf to learn about the powerful magic being cast from within two desert lairs [7]. The Hero and Enchantress must disrupt these spells in order to cross the Black Canyon Bridge to the northeast.

Get between Jarulf and the Lacuni Warriors to ensure he isn't harmed.

HOWLING PLATEAU

SIROCCO CAVERNS

The Sirocco Caverns is a large and dangerous area, even with the Enchantress lending a hand. There are many toxic threats here to consider. Avoid stepping on the maggot-looking Larva Sacks in the corners of the cave as they let out poisonous gas when popped. The Dead Worms usually yield Brood Hatchlings when inspected and the large holes are often home to Cave Wings or Savage Rockworms, both of which are deadly. Savage Rockworms will attempt to emerge underfoot and swallow the Hero, only to spit him back out after diving back below ground. Don't be alarmed if the Hero suddenly vanishes! This is a great place to level up and gain some powerful equipment, but not without a large supply of health potions. Enter at your own risk!

FRIGHTENED GIRL

You may encounter another Dark Cultist illusion in the form of a frightened child near a cul-de-sac of small houses. This is a trap of the most sinister kind, preying on your desire to help a poor lost girl. The Dark Cultists emerge alongside a number of Frenzied Hellions and Dark Berserker Champions. Be careful and take whatever trait they have into account! Consider retreating through the narrow entrance where you can force them to line up to attack. They created the illusion in hopes of surrounding you with enemies—spoil their plan by funneling them through a chokepoint!

The Howling Plateau is a sprawling desert landscape, home to hostile members of the Lacuni, Sand Wasps, Dune Threshers and many other vicious creatures. The main road leads from the Sundered Canyon north to the Black Canyon Bridge, but the bridge is currently inaccessible thanks to the spells being chanted at the Hidden Conclave and Secret Altar. The Hero must seek these two dens and disrupt the spells, but finding them is half the challenge.

Scour the area for signs of the Cultists. The Enchantress will sense another illusion—one to cover the Cultists' footprints—and will use her magic to reveal their tracks. Head northwest to the Hidden Conclave and enter the portal. Kill the Vicious Mangler that guards the ritual, then disrupt the spell by slaying all of the Dark Cultists [8]. More will emerge from the shadows, but should be no match for you. They are not nearly as dangerous as the enemies encountered in the field, but may summon a Vicious Mangler. Fortunately, they're very focused on their ritual and the Hero has surprise on his or her side.

A MINER'S GOLD

Inspect the mining lifts and boardwalks for a lone miner standing near a Resplendent Chest. He needs you to protect him from the marauding Fallen while he works to raise the lift with the heavy chest. Try to stick close to the miner to protect him from the early waves of Fallen, then seek out any Fallen Shaman in the area. The miner will take what he came for, but leave the contents of the Resplendent Chest for you, in addition to a healthy amount of XP and gold.

Mining for Treasure

The mines may no longer be in service, but that doesn't mean the lifts don't still work. Take a look around the pit to the east to see if there is a treasure chest on one of the platforms. If so, pull a nearby lift lever to raise it within reach.

Lead the Enchantress east through the Howling Plateau to discover a second set of hidden footprints. Follow these tracks to the buildings on the far edge of the plateau to find the Secret Altar [9]. This area has more enemies and is a bit harder to clear than the Hidden Conclave. Watch out for Vicious Manglers, Pain Mongers, and summoned Accursed and Frenzied Hellions. Attack from afar, then flee the room to regroup and heal if necessary. The room has a slight chicane in the center. Stay to the right of it to avoid having summoned forces attack from your rear—always leave yourself a way out!

“They are divided into the Lesser Evils: Belial, Azmodan, Duriel, and Andariel, and the Prime Evils: Mephisto, Baal, and Diablo.”
– Deckard Cain

Courier's Corpse

*Keep your eyes peeled for the Tortured Cultist Corpse in the Hidden Conclave.
 Inspect the corpse to find the “Missive to Maghda, Part 1” piece of lore—a message from a very unholy source.*

SAND DEVILS

The desert is an inhospitable place with many dangers, both natural and arcane, including the sand devils. These swirling sand-filled twisters spring up in the desert and inflict heavy damage if you get too close. Give them a wide berth as their movements are quite unpredictable.

With the two spells disrupted, it's time to head to the bridge [10]. The Black Canyon Bridge is located further along the road on the north side of the Howling Plateau. Speak to the Enchantress to learn her true story [11] Quest Complete.

The Hero will ask the Enchantress to join her quest. Having the Enchantress along will greatly aid in your battle, but if you're also a Wizard, you may find it better to move on with the Templar if in need of a Follower. You can only have one at a time and two Mages aren't quite as effective as having a Mage and a Templar. Consider using the Town Portal to return to Hidden Camp to hire the Templar.

The Enchantress will use her powers to counteract the illusion and reveal the Black Canyon Bridge.

- 1 Cross the Black Canyon Bridge.
- 2 Find Khasim Outpost.
- 3 Talk to Lieutenant Vachem.
- 4 Enter the Command Post.
- 5 Kill the demons in the Command Post.
- 6 Open the Locked Cage.
- 7 Kill the disguised demons in Khasim Outpost.
- 8 Talk to Captain Davyd in Khasim Outpost.

COMPLETION REWARDS

HERO	GOLD	XP
All Classes	500	4600

*Based on Normal difficulty.

The Hero's pursuit of Maghda has led across the Howling Plateau to the Black Canyon Bridge. If Maghda has truly gone to Alcarnus, then the Hero must pass through the Khasim Outpost to continue his quest. This area lies further to the north, beyond the Black Canyon Mines.

BLACK CANYON MINES

Cross the bridge to enter the Black Canyon Mines area [1]. Continue along the road to the north, only to find the entrance has been blocked by a barricade of wreckage and debris—presumably from the Cultists as the guards had intimidated. The Hero will indeed need to find another way to Alcarnus.

Scour the area for enemies and treasure. The desert-dwelling Fallen are quite numerous in this area, as are the lizard-like Dune Threshers. And while the lowly Fallen are mere fodder for a Hero of your strength, the Fallen Overseers and Fallen Hounds should not be taken so lightly. Fallen Overseers attack with common melee strikes, but also possess a powerful leaping Slam Attack and a blood-curdling roar.

Seek out the treasure within the cellars in this area and along the mining scaffolds. Raise the Miner Lift on the east (overlooking the Howling Plateau) to access the chest often located on the mining platform. Continue on from Black Canyon Mines to the primary Stinging Winds area via the narrow opening to the west.

Unlike the other barricades the Hero has encountered, this is no illusion. He'll have to go around.

Many of the suspended platforms contain a chest. Look for a nearby lever to raise the platform.

TUNNELS OF THE ROCKWORM

Look for the Deserted Cellar and head inside to find a unique monster named Graveljaw the Devourer. This Rockworm resides in a hole in the center of the floor. Ranged fighters can stand back and lob attacks into its wormhole. The Demon Hunter's Grenades are perfect for this. Melee fighters must defeat Graveljaw with more direct tactics. Enter the vacated crater to descend into the Tunnels of the Rockworm. This is a small empty cave with several loot items to collect, making your exploration of the Deserted Cellar well worth the effort.

DESERTED CELLAR

There's more than one Deserted Cellar, so you may encounter a host of Stinging Swarms or perhaps an altogether different unique monster inside. Beware of the unique monster named Hurax, an Unholy Thrall with the Electrified trait.. Hurax will multiply, but if you keep quick-tossing ranged attacks like the Demon Hunter's Chakram, you'll cut through the lot of them and find yourself an impressive collection of loot, health globes, and gold. With any luck, you'll simply find a cellar containing a Resplendent Chest and a number of lesser creatures.

SAVED FROM THE HOUNDS

Enter the Blood Cellar and set about slaughtering the three packs of Fallen Hounds that are feasting on the corpses there. These creatures move fast and attack with all the aggression of ravenous wild beasts, so use of a defensive skill is advised. A survivor will appear as soon as the threat has been eliminated. Speak with him to receive a small amount of gold for your effort.

THE RUINS

The Ruins are a dark and dusty tomb of variable size containing a number of new enemies, including Sentient Obelisks and Stinging Swarms. Most threatening are the serpentine demons known as the Serpent Magus and Writhing Deceiver. The Serpent Magus will often form a large circle of lightning energy that is extremely dangerous and must be avoided. Writhing Deceivers shimmer, disappear, then reappear at close range to attack. There are numerous Resplendent Chests in The Ruins, but it's a perilous place to be without an ally, especially if you're not at least a level 17 Hero. This optional dungeon is very difficult for melee fighters, even with the Enchantress by your side (unless you've stashed aside some great loot for her to use).

THE IDOL OF RYGNAR

Enter the Chamber of the Lost Idol and talk to Poltahr. He's searching for a prized artifact known as the Rygnar Idol and he needs you to lead him through the dungeon to find it. Access the satchel lying nearby to read his notes before setting off. This tomb resembles The Ruins architecturally, but it contains an entirely new breed of enemies, including two types of elemental guardians: Noxious Guardians and the much stronger Frost Guardians. There are many Dead Plunderers to loot, but the primary goal here is to earn XP and gold. The Rygnar Idol is protected by four Idol Guardians—the aforementioned Frost Guardians. They appear in separate corners. Quickly charge one of the Frost Guardians, then move on to another to avoid being surrounded by all four in the center. Complete the exploration of the Chamber to find the Dungeon Stone or use the Town Portal to return to the Hidden Camp, then use a waypoint to travel to the Stinging Winds.

THE CRUMBLING VAULT

The Crumbling Vault is a large two floor dungeon that contains a number of chests, but many more enemies. Expect to encounter numerous Guardian Towers throughout the ruins. These obelisks spawn a variety of elemental Spiderlings. Attack the Guardian Towers immediately to limit the number of Spiderlings that are summoned into the area. Seek out the portal to the Crumbling Vault Treasure Room within the time allotted to find additional chests and even a Resplendent Chest along with a portal leading back to the Stinging Winds exterior. Only battle those monsters that are truly in your path, or else you may not reach the Treasure Vault in time. This event may occur during the portion of Stinging Winds in the following quest.

THE LOST CARAVAN

Just west of the entrance to the Stinging Winds often lies an area containing the Lost Caravan. The scattered supply crates, barrels, and chests offer plenty of loot, but the caravan has also attracted a host of Fallen to the area, many of whom have been summoned by Beyatt the Reviver, a unique enemy boasting the Electrified, Fast, and Teleporter traits. Beyatt attacks directly with a Charged Bolt that deals Lightning damage, but his primary threat comes in the form of many summoned Fallen. You must focus your attacks on him directly to minimize the number of Fallen that are summoned.

THE RESTLESS SANDS

Sometimes in lieu of the Lost Caravan, you may run into a Necromancer named Mehtan. Speak with him to be presented with this event. Activate the two Necromancer Totems and defeat the Deathly Haunts that attack. Mehtan and his Bone Warrior minions will assist you in the battle. Speak with him after slaying all six of the Deathly Haunts (three from each Necromancer Totem). Several members of the Coven will appear, along with a pair of Vicious Manglers. Kill the lot of them to earn an XP and gold reward. Look in the area of this event for a piece of lore.

The Stinging Winds is a rocky and geographically challenging area that lies between the Black Canyon Mines and the Khasim Outpost. This barren stretch of land has claimed the lives of many a wanderer. The Lost Caravan area you might encounter just west of the entrance, between the two massive outcrops, is grim testimony of this.

The Stinging Winds is also home to a variety of enemies, including some unique monsters that can appear at random. The path to the Khasim Outpost is not far, but there are challenges here. Tread carefully and advance slowly to avoid getting cornered. Don't hesitate to flee beyond the wall to the Black Canyon Mines area if the battle gets too intense.

Continue to the northwest. Locate the winding boardwalk leading up a hill and follow it to find the Khasim Outpost and a waypoint [2].

KHASIM OUTPOST

Head past the guards and around the corner. Collect the Guard's Orders document from the chest, then speak with Lieutenant Vachem in the center of the outpost [3]. He thinks you're crazy for trying to pursue Maghda, but says Captain Davyd has the gate key. He's in the nearby Command Post.

The Command Post is located in the nearby basement. Descend the stairs to find Maghda, along with a number of the Emperor's guard [4] (or so it seems). The aptly-named Writhing Deceivers disable their illusionary cloaks and reveal their true form. Maghda will flee the Command Post, but you'll at least be able to kill her spear-wielding Writhing Deceivers [5]. Vanquish them all, then open the cages to free Captain Davyd and his Iron Wolves [6].

Head back outside to kill the other demons in the area. A number of Serpent Magus and Writhing Deceivers are attacking the people of the outpost [7]. The Serpent Magus possesses a powerful area-of-effect Lightning attack that must be avoided. Focus on the Writhing Deceivers if you're playing as a melee fighter and allow the Iron Wolves to take on the Serpent Magus. Speak with Captain Davyd as soon as victory has been secured. He'll open the gate once and for all—you must get to Alcarus quickly [8] Quest Complete.

*"There is a sacrifice here, but it is not I.

QUEST

CITY OF BLOOD

OBJECTIVES

- 1 Travel through Khasim Outpost's east gate.
- 2 Find Alcarnus.
- 3 Find the Lair of the Witch in Alcarnus.
- 4 Kill Maghda.
- 5 Return to the Hidden Camp.

COMPLETION REWARDS

HERO	GOLD	XP
All Classes	785	6600

*Based on Normal difficulty.

The Cultists' barricade of the Road to Alcarnus forced the Hero along a detour through the Khasim Outpost. This may have bought Maghda some extra time to prepare, but the Hero's thirst for vengeance grew ever more intense with each scorched step across the desert.

THE RESTLESS SANDS

The center of this area is sometimes home to a crumbling village and a man named Mehtan the Necromancer. He tells of spirits trapped within the totems. He believes the Coven will use them for ill intentions and wants you to banish them once and for all. Free them from the southern and northern Necromancer Totems, then set about slaying them. Do not take this fight lightly, as multiple Deathly Haunts are released from each totem and they are of a much higher level than other enemies in the area (Normal difficulty only). Deathly Haunts tend to attack with blade-like appendages and perform swift hit-and-run strikes. Whatever you do, don't release the Deathly Haunts from both totems simultaneously! Talk to Mehtan after killing them, then defend him against the Dark Cultists to receive 480 gold and 1220 XP. Look for Mehtan's Bag and his log nearby.

Captain Davyd unlocked a gate leading to another section of the Stinging Winds, one separated from the previous area by a massive chasm [1]. Gradually make your way south while crisscrossing the Stinging Winds desert to gain as much XP and loot as possible.

She's a Charmer

If you decided to assign the Enchantress the Charmed spell, be sure to watch for the spiraling icon above the heads of enemies. This indicates which monster she has charmed into attacking other foes. Don't attack the charmed enemy, as the confused creature will actually fight on your side until the effect wears off.

HADI'S CLAIM MINE

Inspect the central area of the map for possible entrance to this small mining cave. A unique enemy known as the Dervish Lord has taken up residence inside this cavern. This creature packs the Electrified and Extra Health traits. Clear the cave and raise the mine lift in the center to retrieve a hidden chest.

Ranged attackers should split from the Enchantress to strike the enemy from multiple directions.

Be on the lookout for anything out of the ordinary, including a desiccated ship buried in the desert. Rummaging around this ship will likely lure many Fallen Lunatics out of hiding, so be careful. Elsewhere, Crazy Cultists and Pain Mongers will seemingly emerge from the sand to attack. Fend them off and continue to make your way southeast toward the Road to Alcarnus.

ROAD TO ALCARNUS

Use the nearby waypoint to return to the blacksmith in Hidden Camp to craft anything you might be able to use. This is a good time to stock up on potions and to see about upgrading the Enchantress' wand either through crafting or via purchase.

Return to the Road to Alcarnus and explore the western portion of the area before heading east. The entrance to Alcarnus is just steps away, right through the gate to be exact, but there are obstacles to overcome [2]. Lure all other enemies away from the beast called Shatterbone and take them out first to have a large supply of health globes available throughout the fight if you need it.

SHATTERBONE

ACOLYTE OF TORMENT

Shatterbone is a massive Berserker-style enemy with a hefty mace that can be swung horizontally, as well as overhead. Shatterbone packs a lot more health than typical Dark Berserkers due to the Extra Health trait. Although the horizontal attacks are relatively quick-hitting, it's the overhead Berserker Power Hit you must take care to avoid! Watch for Shatterbone to wind up for the attack by raising the mace far behind its head. Dodge to the side to avoid the strike and circle around behind it to attack Shatterbone from the rear. The beast's Berserker Power Hit inflicts 3x standard damage, but it also gets stuck in the sand when it misses. This gives you several seconds to attack without repercussion!

TOWN CELLARS

There are a number of possible cellars you may have access to within Alcarnus, each bearing a name like Alcarnus Cellar, Town Cellar, and Sandy Cellar. These areas often contain caged prisoners (see Bonus Quest), a handful of enemies, and maybe a Resplendent Chest or number of Torture Barrels. You'll often encounter Dead Vessels, Crazy Summoners, Frenzied Hellions, and perhaps a Subjugated, too. The cellars are quite small and well worth the time it takes to clear them of enemies.

Continue across the bridge into Alcarnus. Maghda isn't far, but she's got this town very well protected. It's important to proceed slowly and lure enemies away from their cohorts in an attempt to divide and conquer. Fight your way eastward past the cellars along the southern part of the town. Use the buildings to your advantage and keep them between the Hero and magic-casting enemies. Focus your attacks on the Crazy Summoners to avoid facing a dangerous number of Frenzied Hellions.

Bonus

SAVE 8 PRISONERS

The Coven hasn't yet killed all of the refugees; they've left many to rot an agonizing death within narrow cages that don't even contain enough room for the prisoner to sit. There are many caged prisoners scattered throughout the southern end of Alcarnus, including in the cellars. They are located in random locations and marked on the mini-map. Free at least eight of them to complete this bonus quest and receive extra gold and XP.

Fight your way east across town, then up the stairs to the north where several groups of Crazy Summoners and Corrupt Vessels stand in ritualistic circles. Attack the Corrupt Vessels before they can be transformed into Tormented Thralls. Focus on the Crazy Summoners next as their Frenzied Hellions and fireball magic can wear you down quickly. Don't be afraid to retreat to the southern part of town to heal. This also gives you the chance to funnel enemies down the stairs and make them easier for melee Heroes to handle.

The Lair of the Witch is found in the northeast corner of Alcarnus [3]. Use the Town Portal to return to Hidden Camp and Caldeum Bazaar to stock up on potions before entering the area. The battle with Maghda will be much easier if your equipment is in good condition and you have enough potions [4].

Tortured Coven Minion

Look for the Tortured Coven Minion that may be near the entrance to the Lair of the Witch to find the "Missive to Maghda, Part 2" lore, if you haven't already.

LAIR OF THE WITCH

MAGHDA

LEADER OF THE COVEN

Maghda: "When I joined the Coven, it was weak and idle. The leaders were content to do nothing while the Prime Evils were imprisoned. I convinced another witch to help me poison them and together we took control. She... left some years later, but I continued, bringing the Coven to glory under Lord Belial."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	17	2944-3312	2400	Punish, Moth Dust, Summoning Ritual, Teleport, Maghda's Mask, Forcefield	-	-
Nightmare	36	89,984-101,233	9200	Punish, Moth Dust, Summoning Ritual, Teleport, Maghda's Mask, Forcefield	-	-

Inferno	62	7,868,960-8,852,580	32,000	Punish, Moth Dust, Summoning Ritual, Teleport, Maghda's Mask, Forcefield	-	-

Maghda is done running and is finally ready to stand and fight, but don't think for a second she's going to do it alone. The battle begins with her summoning five Dark Cultists into the Lair of the Witch. Strike these minions down quickly, then set to attacking Maghda personally.

This servant of Belial has numerous abilities and attacks, but no elemental resistances or special traits. Maghda will summon Berserker pets (Thralls of Maghda) into the arena three at a time throughout the battle. Attack them only when necessary and focus on Maghda. Her gauntlets are inset with Teeth of Diablo, which allow her to buff the Thralls of Maghda she summons—indeed, they're slightly harder to kill than standard Berserkers.

Many of Maghda's attacks incorporate her dominion over the moth and other insects. If Maghda is attacked at close range, she will open her mouth and spew a swarm of tiny moths known as Moth Dust. This attack deals periodic damage for as long as the Hero is caught in the cloud. She'll also throw an energized cloud of moths at those who oppose her from afar. This attack, Punish, has no effect on her Thrall of Maghda pets.

Maghda will teleport around the arena throughout the battle, particularly after sustaining heavy damage. She'll vanish for several seconds during her teleportation—use this time to attack the Thralls of Maghda and collect any available health globes.

The most difficult aspect of this battle comes when she activates her Forcefield. She'll do this at random points and is completely immune to all attacks once the Forcefield is active—there is nothing you can do to hurt her. The only way to dislodge her from this shield is to defeat all of the summoned Thralls of Maghda. As luck would have it, she often burdens the Hero with Maghda's Mask after activating the Forcefield. This mask attracts the Thralls of Maghda and makes them target the Hero for 25 seconds. Slay the Thralls of Maghda, then unleash your most potent attacks to kill Maghda.

Use the Town Portal to return to Hidden Camp where Tyrael awaits [5]. Tyrael confirms what Maghda had taunted you with: that while you were away hunting Maghda, Belial has kidnapped Leah. Belial has used his Writhing Deceivers to pose as Imperial Guards and fill the boy emperor with lies, not only concerning their allegiance, but also of the events at Khasim Outpost and Leah's arrest in the sewers. Now it's up to Asheara to gain entry beyond the city gates and lead the Hero to the emperor before it's too late.

CITY OF CALDEUM

Descend to Caldeum Bazaar and speak with Asheara near the bridge leading to the city gates. Asheara is eager to discuss the urgency of the situation [1]. She'll convince Captain Ravan to let the two of you pass, but he's certain the Emperor won't be very receptive. Cross the bridge after her and speak with her again [2]. She'll lead the Hero through the city and onward to the Imperial Palace.

The child Emperor has been convinced by the impostor Imperial Guard that the Hero is responsible for the slaughtered innocents at Khasim Outpost. Leah is marched in to the Imperial Palace and the guards are ordered to kill all three visitors. It's only after the Emperor leaves the room that the Writhing Deceivers reveal themselves. Leah bursts free from her shackles with the same awesome power she showed back in New Tristram. Join forces with Leah and Asheara and kill the Writhing Deceivers in the palace [3].

Asheara agrees to hang back and cover your escape. Follow Leah back through City of Caldeum to the entrance to the sewers. The path is straightforward—there are no forks or confusing intersections where you might run astray—but it's crawling with dozens of Writhing Deceivers and Serpent Magus. Fight your way southward along the walkway with Leah to escape the Imperial Palace [4].

The road bends to the east where a large contingent of enemies is guarding four Demon Summoners. Numerous Serpent Magus start to attack and more will continue to appear until you defeat the Demon Summoners [5]. Destroy them quickly; otherwise, you could find yourself facing off against a dozen or more Serpent Magus at once!

Keep your distance from the Serpent Magus, especially as they begin to spread out and cover more area with overlapping Lightning fields. Strike the Writhing Deceivers that get directly in your way.

Furious Charge Ahead

The Barbarian's Furious Charge is good for knocking the Serpent Magus aside and interrupting the chant that powers their circular Lightning attack. Furious Charge generates plenty of Fury, too; consider following it up with a Hammer of the Ancients attack to let those snakemen know who they're messing with!

Continue around the perimeter of the city and down the stairs toward the sewer entrance where many more enemies lurk. Kill the Writhing Deceivers and Serpent Magus from atop the stairs, gradually inching your way down the steps to get the attention of just a couple enemies, then fleeing back out of sight to pull only a few at a time after you. Ranged attackers like the Demon Hunter and Wizard can use the elevation of the stairs to their advantage. Access the Sewers of Caldeum via the circular grate [6]

Leah and the Hero flee Belial's hellspawn by escaping to the Sewers of Caldeum. There, Leah reveals she has learned that her mother, Adria, is alive. She believes Adria is being held in the Sewers of Caldeum.

DUNGEON SEWERS OF CALDEUM

The Sewers of Caldeum—this section at least—is just two levels in size, the deeper tier consisting of a single room called the Wretched Pit. Navigating the Sewers of Caldeum will not be difficult, but there are many poisonous creatures. Although there is some loot to be had, there are also several objects, both organic and architectural, that spawn enemies when you interact with them, so think carefully before you poke at something unfamiliar.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

I gamely fended off the Betrayed with one hand, all the while trying to plug my nose with the other. The smell of bloated corpses and rat nests nearly dropped me to a gut-wrenching crawl, but I continued on toward the flashing light in the distance. The arrow-straight sewage channel led me to a pit in the center of an intersection, a foul trench containing numerous Serpent Magus. This area is called the Wretched Pit, and for good reason. The Serpent Magus spread its lightning arc across the entirety of the pit as I stood above, awaiting an opportunity to strike. If only I had a ranged attack or spell to lob down at it!

SEWERS OF CALDEUM

Target the Diseased Bodies from afar to avoid the Poisonous gas that is released.

Speak with Leah at the base of the ladder to hear what she's learned about Adria, her mother. Leah believes Adria is being held within a corner of the sewers known as the Wretched Pit. The entrance could be anywhere in this randomly-generated dungeon. One thing for certain is that having some level of Poison resistance will certainly come in handy. Diseased Bodies spawn a type of undead known as the Betrayed, which are highly toxic and explode on death, leaving a poisonous green cloud.

Beware of the Sandlings that leap from the sewer drains. They're weak and typically run away, but they can be a nuisance in large numbers. Leah often targets the bricks surrounding the grate to collapse it, which triggers the arrival of the Sandlings. Similarly, poking at Bloated Corpses often dislodges a Stinging Swarm.

The Sewers are not particularly large and typically consist of several lengthy corridors, each with a couple of short dead-end protrusions. Explore the area fully, but be careful what you—and Leah—interact with, as disturbing too many sewer pipes, Diseased Bodies, and Bloating Corpses can pose a problem. The enemies that appear in this area tend to either be dominated by skeletons (Bone Warriors, Skeletal Sentries, Noxious Guardians) or primarily snakemen (Writhing Deceivers and Serpent Magus). Battle your way through the Sewers and climb a ladder to enter the Wretched Pit [1].

Falling Rafters

Be on the lookout for a sudden collapse of the ceiling boards. Small squads of Bone Warriors often drop in to attack from above and can catch inattentive Heroes off guard.

WRETCHED PIT

The Hero and Leah arrive in time to see a number of snakemen holding Adria hostage. Their leader, Goz'turr the Torturer, is hard at work trying to extract information about the Black Soulstone from Adria, but so far she hasn't divulged any secrets. How much does she know?

Fight your way past the Writhing Deceivers. Adria breaks free from her magical binds and helps you defeat Goz'turr the Torturer [2]. The Wretched Pit is a large room with a cross-shaped depression in the center, where Adria is being held. Stay on the upper perimeter during the fight to avoid being surrounded.

GØZ'TURR THE TORTURER

REAPER OF PAIN

Goz'turr the Torturer is a unique Serpent Magus. He's much larger and is capable of the same Lightning attacks and summons that a Serpent Magus can perform, but his special traits are what you need to take into consideration most. Goz'turr the Torturer can Teleport around the Wretched Pit upon being attacked and is difficult to pin down. Focus your efforts with skills that inflict the highest percentage of weapon damage you can manage to maximize each opportunity. Be on the lookout for Desecrated land and give it a wide berth to avoid taking damage, particularly if there are Writhing Deceivers in the area.

The Black Soulstone isn't as foreign to Leah as Adria might have suspected. Leah read about it in Deckard Cain's journal, but had no idea of the power the Black Soulstone holds. The device was created by the mage Zoltun Kulle, a renegade Horadrim, to trap demonic souls. Zoltun Kulle was dismembered long ago, his head sealed away in the Dahlgur Oasis. The party must retrieve Zoltun Kulle's head and resurrect the dark wizard to activate the Black Soulstone.

FLOODED CAUSEWAY

The only way to reach the Dalghur Oasis is through the Ruined Cistern beyond the Flooded Causeway. Enter Caldeum Bazaar and loop around to the left, past the merchants, to find a sewer entrance that leads down to the Flooded Causeway. This area is home to several of the refugees who have fled to Caldeum in recent days. One refugee, Karla, has some equipment for sale that may prove enticing. You can find her near the oasis gate [1]. Keep your eyes peeled for Cain's Lost Satchel and the lore it contains.

The Flooded Causeway contains more than just refugees. The child emperor has sneaked away to this place in hope of meeting the Hero. Speak with Emperor Hakan II, who not only agrees to help you, but opens the gate for you to continue [2]. Descend the ladder beyond the gate to reach the Ruined Cistern.

Emperor Hakan II will open the gate after you speak with him.

DUNGEON RUINED CISTERN

The Ruined Cistern is very similar architecturally to that of the main Sewers of Caldeum. It's slightly larger and contains several additional sources of loot, but features many of the same monsters. The tactics employed in the Sewers of Caldeum will serve you well here.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

My patience had expired. With each step the putrid water seeped through the lining of my boots, chilled my feet, and soaked my pantlegs. I wanted nothing more than to find the exit to Dahlgur Oasis as quickly as possible. That is, until I started to encounter small sets of stairs near many of the intersecting spillways. Not only did these terraced slabs of stone lead to dry ground, but they were occasionally flanked by a chest. The light from a nearby cauldron illuminated the contents, revealing a most resplendent cache of treasure!

RUINED CISTERN

This single-level dungeon is prone to containing more loot than the Sewers of Caldeum, along with a Shrine or two. Explore each of its branches to maximize the XP and loot you earn while seeking the ladder leading up to the Path to the Oasis [3]. There's often a Resplendent Chest hidden in the corner of a dead-end, so search thoroughly.

The Ruined Cistern contains numerous dead-ends where the Betrayed often lurk, waiting to trap you.

PATH TO THE OASIS

Flowing with water strong enough to turn a paddlewheel, the Dahlgur Oasis is a welcome spectacle for the thirsty traveler. Many men have found fortune and refuge here, but this is no place to let down your guard. The sprawling desert respite is home to several deadly varieties of flora and fauna. Nevertheless, those who brave the darkened sanctuary and explore the full breadth of this hazardous place will be richly rewarded.

QUEST CONTINUED

BETRAYER OF THE HORADRIM

PATH TO THE OASIS

The path leads from the spillway exit up a short path to the Dahlgur Oasis. Although it has its own waypoint, the path itself occupies a very small area and is little more than the mere trail its name suggests. The main Dahlgur Oasis begins steps ahead. Keep an eye out for Cain's Lost Satchel—it contains another piece of lore.

DAHLGUR OASIS

You can find a number of random sub-areas in the Dahlgur Oasis. We describe several of them below. You may also encounter the Tomb of Sardar and a Ransacked Cellar.

ANCIENT CAVE

This sprawling two-level cave is as potentially rewarding as it is dangerous. The Ancient Cave is home to the deadly Webspitter Spider, Brood Hatchling, Rockworm, and Savage Flyer, among other enemies. Its very narrow passages are prime locations for Rare Webspitter Spiders to trap you. Be extra careful of their web spit, which slows the Hero dramatically. Webspitter Spiders circle their prey after snaring them in the webbing, unlike the earlier-encountered Arachnid Horrors that lunge straight at you. The Webspitters expect you to back away in the opposite direction and they'll circle around the webbing to get you while you're slowed. You may also encounter Vile Swarms, Electric Eels, and Chilled Constructs. Come prepared for a difficult battle, as many of these enemies range from levels 17 to 20 (Normal difficulty).

THIRST FOR SALVATION

Not all piles of Defiled Bones are the same. Investigating one of the slightly different Bone Piles triggers the emergence of a large army of Cursed Pilgrims.

These Bone Warriors attack with swords as retribution for disturbing their burial ground. Their leader, a Horror named Fezuul, packs Extra Health and Knockback and will soon appear to join the fray. Finish them off to collect the spoils, gold, and XP, but beware the Blood Childs (unique Corpse Worms) that emerge from Fezuul's ruptured belly as he's slain.

PRISONERS OF KAMYR

You may encounter several villagers tied to posts during your travels. Rescue one of these Captive Prisoners to initiate the event, then free the other three. There are four Captive Prisoners total, including the one you rescued to start the event. Two are located on the upper ledge and two more down below. Don't rush to save them, as there are numerous Fallen in the area, led by an army of Fallen Overseers. Defeat the Fallen, then tend to the Captive Prisoners. The Hero earns a fair bit of gold and XP for the trouble. It's also possible to encounter a single prisoner by the name of Mikal, who hands over a valuable weapon as a sign of his appreciation. Either way, a Hero should always assist those who ask for help.

MYSTERIOUS CAVE

Listen for the sounds of a man begging for mercy and set to killing the Deathly Haunts that so terrorize him. The man goes by the name Zaven the Alchemist.

He was searching for trinkets in the nearby cave, but decided against it upon seeing the dangers that lurk in this area. He'll open the Mysterious Cave and also avail his shop to you—he sells Miscellaneous items. The Mysterious Cave is a two-level watery, subterranean area that contains multiple Resplendent Chests, but is crawling with Skeletal Rangers and Shock Guardians, among other nasty enemies.

ROTTING, SWAMPY, STORM CELLARS

The Dahlgur Oasis contains many cellars you might find, each of which is small, dangerous, and contains either grateful villagers or a merchant happy to sell you his wares. It's common to encounter Writhing Deceivers in the Rotting Cellar and Swampy Cellar—kill them to save Javad the Merchant or the villagers, respectively. The Storm Cellar often contains numerous Fallen harassing Lugo the Miner. Save him from their demonic torments, then browse his impressive assortment of weapons and armor. Despite the name of the cellar, it's always worth checking it out.

THE LOST TREASURE OF KHAN DAKAB

It's not unheard of to encounter a stone-lined spring in the center of the oasis. Search for a Resplendent Chest en route to the two wheels that flank a central aqueduct. Turn these wheels (one will likely summon a Rare enemy) to open the heavy stone door that seals the entrance to the Tomb of Khan Dakab. Locate and operate a lever to open the door to the treasure vault. Upon opening the Resplendent Chest in the center of the vault, the Spirit of Khan Dakab is summoned with four other Grim Wraiths to fend you off. Defeat these creatures and enjoy the spoils.

FLOODED CAVE

This two-level watery cave is home to numerous Webspitter Spiders, Rockworms, and Winged Moloks. Many of its passages are quite narrow, making skills that strike multiple enemies in a line quite effective. You're likely to find a wealth of loot and gold inside a Resplendent Chest deep inside this optional cave. Just beware of any elite Rockworms, especially those that appear in packs.

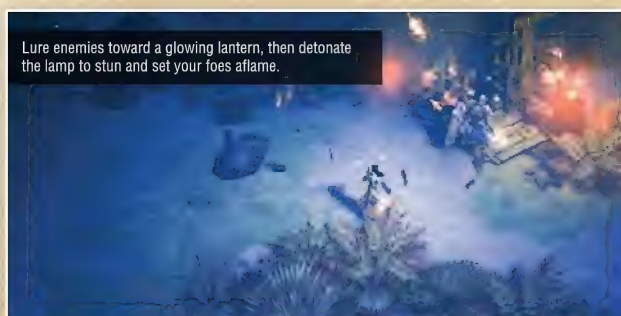

The Dahlgur Oasis widens away from the Overgrown Path to include numerous encampments, forts, and water wheels. The desert travelers who long ago came to this oasis for refuge from the searing sand had erected a number of elevated structures, perhaps as a defense from the poisonous vegetation indigenous to the area. These toxic plants burst as you draw near, releasing a large cloud of deadly pollen with a wide area-of-effect.

The large bulbous plants that line the oasis release a wide-ranging burst of toxic pollen.

Poisonous flora isn't the only threat to the Hero in the oasis. There are also several traps that, when deployed incorrectly, can be as hazardous to the Hero as the enemies they're intended to damage. It's possible to collapse the large rock walls down onto enemies to stun and damage them. Even more lethal are the bottles of lantern oil scattered throughout the oasis, often atop barrels. It's best to target these red-glowing objects from afar as they have a short fuse and can engulf melee fighters in a ball of flames before they can get away. Hit them with a ranged attack as enemies pass by.

Lure enemies toward a glowing lantern, then detonate the lamp to stun and set your foes aflame.

The entrance to the Forgotten Ruins may not be far from the Path to the Oasis, but you should still explore the entire Dahlgur Oasis before moving on with the objective. There are several dangerous enemies in this area, but also many possible sub-events and caves.

The Hero will be well-served by plumbing the depths of the Ancient Cave, which is commonly present. Take your time and squeeze every last drop of XP out of this area before entering the Forgotten Ruins.

Of the new enemies you'll encounter in the Dahlgur Oasis, the Dune Dervish and Gore Harrier pose the greatest threat. The Dune Dervish is a spinning enemy that, in addition to Lightning-infused slicing damage, also inflicts the Slow status on those caught within the radius of its rotating blades—definitely attack this foe from afar! The Gore Harriers, in contrast, sometimes fly overhead and wait for their prey to appear distracted before swooping in for the attack. Watch their shadows closely!

Melee fighters should stand back and wait for the Dune Dervishes to stop twirling before moving in to attack.

The center of the Dahlgur Oasis is dominated by an elaborate water wheel and scaffolding. The many ramps and boardwalks that crisscross the structure ultimately lead to a Resplendent Chest guarded by a unique Fallen Shaman by the name of Mundunogo. Although it's not necessary to kill Mundunogo to collect the nearby loot, it's certainly much easier to gather it all up once he's out of the picture.

Try keeping Mundunogo away from the other Fallen so he doesn't have any corpses to resurrect.

MUNDUNOG*

BAD MEDICINE CHIEFTAIN

While you're in this area, there's chance you may encounter a Unique Bad Medicine Chieftain named Mundunogo. This monster isn't like normal Fallen Shaman, since he has the ability to both Teleport and launch Fireballs. Try luring him onto the narrow section of the platform where he has limited areas to Teleport away to and fewer enemies to resurrect. He'll fight to guard the Resplendent Chest, making it possible to keep him relatively close by. Strike quickly when he's visible, then focus on killing any other nearby Fallen during Mundunogo's Teleportation. Leave the health globes for when you truly need them. It can be tough for melee fighters to avoid his Fireball attacks (or to keep up with his Teleportation) but it's imperative that you don't spend too much energy fighting the other Fallen, as Mundunogo will only resurrect them anyway.

MODE	LVL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES

* Unlike other Uniques that we highlight in the Quest Guide, this creature only appears randomly.

Strengthen your Hero and stock up on additional potions before returning to the entrance to the Forgotten Ruins [4].

Hot-Footed Monks

The Monk typically gets good and close to his enemies during combat, and this poses a special problem with Molten foes. The Retribution skill will help protect against direct contact, but don't forget about the Molten explosion after killing the enemy! This can be particularly lethal if the Monk is distracted by other nearby enemies.

F DUNGEON T H E R F O R G O T T E N R U I N S

Home to the Ancient Guardian, set to guard the head of Zoltun Kulle, the Forgotten Ruins lie in a state of disrepair. Windblown sand dusts the floors and gathers in dunes wherever a column or altar still stands. This single-floor tomb is home to many of the enemies encountered in similarly-styled dungeons of the Stinging Winds.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

I forged ahead, deeper into the Forgotten Ruins, across a narrow walkway toward a pair of stone columns in the distance. Though cracked and missing their caps, these mighty sandstone towers stood as solid as the day they were built. And they served me well. The area beyond was crawling with Blazing Guardians and Dust Imps; I couldn't risk being surrounded! I advanced just enough to get their attention, then fell back, leading them one by one through the narrow opening where I then struck them down. I paused to collect my thoughts, then brought the full heft of my weapon down atop the final enemy.

Time and again I had descended a set of stairs in hopes of crossing over to the adjacent room, only to be met by a massive pile of sand and rubble. My instincts told me that this mountain of debris was impassable, despite my map's indications to the contrary. Alas, I eventually stumbled up the pile while battling a pair of Bone Warriors and realized the sand was not as soft as I had feared. I continued the ascent and quickly reached the area I was searching for. After all these years, the map was still accurate!

The Forgotten Ruins are similar in both architecture and enemy composition to The Ruins found in the Stinging Winds. There are a number of enemy types you might encounter, but the Shock and Blazing Guardians, along with the Guardian Towers, pose the biggest threat. The skeletal guardians not only attack with their corresponding element, but also summon Bone Warriors to fight alongside them. Meanwhile, the Guardian Towers conjure all manner of elemental Spiderlings to swarm after the Hero. It's imperative that you destroy these Guardian Towers quickly.

A Deadly Combination

Be extremely careful around any enemies with both Frozen and Desecration traits, as even Dust Imps with this combination can bring you down in a hurry. Whatever you do, don't allow yourself to be surrounded!

Locating Zoltun Kulle's head is simply a matter of exploring the entire Forgotten Ruins, as it is likely located near the Dungeon Stone [5]. Lay claim to Zoltun Kulle's head and either quickly use the Dungeon Stone (if it's nearby) or engage the Ancient Guardian in battle [6]. Once outside, use the Town Portal or the nearby waypoint to return to Hidden Camp and talk with Adria [7] Quest Complete.

Zoltun Kulle's head is often right next to the Dungeon Stone.

There may not be a lot of room to maneuver when fighting the Ancient Guardian, so it pays to have the Templar with you.

ANCIENT GUARDIAN

HORADRIC MAGE CONSTRUCT

The Ancient Guardian is a unique Sand Dweller that has both Knockback and Extra Health. It attacks with short melee swings and moves slowly, but its reach is considerable. Employ hit and run tactics to stay out of harm's way and utilize any skills and runes available to stun or slow the enemy further. Attack with your best single-target DPS strikes and lead the Ancient Guardian back away from where you found Zoltun Kulle's head if you need to buy time to allow Life to regenerate or a potion to cooldown.

Retrieving the head of Zoltun Kulle has made it possible to resurrect the dismembered wizard. Now he wants to bargain. He'll activate the Black Soulstone and aid in the goal of trapping the remaining Prime Evils within it, but only if you retrieve his blood from the Desolate Sands and fully bring him back to life.

DAHLGUR OASIS

Speaking to Adria and Zoltun Kulle's spirit in the Hidden Camp reveals that Zoltun Kulle wants to be made whole again. It's a risky proposition, but one in which you must place your faith. Get his blood from the hands of the Horadric constructs and bring him back from the dead. Nobody trusts Kulle, but it's the only way to have a shot at trapping the remaining Lords of Evil. Fortunately, Leah comes along for the journey.

Gear up for this lengthy quest at Caldeum Bazaar and use the Hidden Camp's waypoint to return to Dahlgur Oasis. Fight your way across the bridge in the northeast corner to reach the Aqueducts [1]. The spirit of Zoltun Kulle, never far behind, will open the gate for you.

DUNGEON

ANCIENT WATERWAY

The Ancient Waterway leads from the Dahlgur Oasis to the arid wasteland known as the Desolate Sands. The path, a relic of a time long past, has been sealed away beneath a waterfall. The only way to reach the Hidden Aqueducts that lead to the Desolate Sands is to first find and pull both of the levers that turn off the flowing water. Only then can the Hero brave the underground waterways in hopes of reaching the most barren stretch of land this side of Lut Gholein.

EMPEROR'S GREETING

Emperor Hakan II awaits the Hero and Leah inside the Ancient Waterway; he thinks he has uncovered the identity of Belial. The duo must hurry and release the levers in the Western and Eastern Channel to reveal the secret entrance to the Hidden Aqueducts.

WESTERN CHANNEL

The Western Channel consists of a few narrow passages, most of which end abruptly at a dead-end not far beyond their junction with the main corridor. It's possible to collapse a support beam to topple a wall. You can also strike the larger rack holding the wooden water barrels to topple them as a trap. This can be effective against large groups of Bone Warriors and the Skeletal Sentries you're likely to encounter.

Continue to the Western Flow Control room and pull the lever connected to the gears [2]. This not only helps to reveal the secret entrance you seek, but also opens a set of stairs leading directly to the Eastern Channel.

EASTERN CHANNEL

The Eastern Channel often contains more treasure, as well as a greater number of enemies. Watch out for Stinging Swarms that emerge from the Bloated Corpses and keep a safe distance from the Desert Hornets. Make your way toward the Eastern Flow Control room. Once there, pull the lever and return to the Ancient Waterway central entrance area and Emperor Hakan II [3].

Now with both levers pulled and the Hidden Aqueducts reachable, you can continue toward the Desolate Sands where Kulle's blood is being stored [4].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 265 XP: 1950

WATERLOGGED PASSAGE

Descend the steps to the Waterlogged Passage and continue up the path toward the pile of Diseased Bodies and a most peculiar barrel [5], which is featured in a short cinematic. The Diseased Bodies yield numerous Betrayed that explode in a suffocating poisonous cloud when killed, so be very careful. The voice calling from within the barrel is begging for your assistance, but you must first kill the Betrayed [6].

Smash the barrel to free the man trapped inside [7]. Talk with Covetous Shen to learn about his search for the Jeweler's Crucible [8]. He had hired a guide named Gavin to aid in his search, but Gavin sealed him away in the barrel. Covetous Shen needs your help to search for Gavin and find the Jeweler's Crucible. Lucky for him, you're already heading in that direction. Continue through the cascading water and down the steps to the Hidden Aqueducts.

Deflecting the Sting

The Vile Swarms can inflict a lot of damage by stinging their prey from close range. Being surrounded by multiple Vile Swarms can be positively lethal! This is why it really helps to use a skill that deals damage while enabling you to break free from their grasp.

HIDDEN AQUEDUCTS

The Hidden Aqueducts are likely to contain numerous Serpent Magus, Writhing Deceivers, and Vile Swarms. Try to ignore Covetous Shen's incessant chatter and focus on the enemies and chests you're bound to find along the way. Follow the main path through the Hidden Aqueducts toward the Jeweler's Crucible [9]. Covetous Shen will run off as soon as he spots it. Unfortunately, Gavin the Thief is already there. You have no choice but to kill him to get the Jeweler's Crucible [10].

GAVIN THE THIEF

Gavin the Thief decided his daily bag of gold wasn't quite enough and opted to keep the Jeweler's Crucible for himself. And if the axe he carried wasn't enough to overcome, he's also been bitten and now carries the Plaguebearer trait. It's best to give Gavin a wide berth and attack with ranged attacks and magic, but melee fighters will likely have no choice but to get close.

Take out the remaining Serpent Magus first to avoid having to contend with their lightning attacks while battling Gavin. His poisonous plague doesn't inflict significant damage and his axe cannot stand up to the Hero's weaponry. Leah will help from afar, expediting your recovery of the Jeweler's Crucible [11]. Monitor Gavin the Thief's Life bar and back away just as it empties to avoid being caught in the poisonous cloud that is released upon his death.

DESOLATE SANDS

The Desolate Sands have long occupied a most frightening corner in the mind of Caldeum's citizenry. Inhospitable, deadly, and barren, this remote plateau in the desert has served as the final resting place of many a criminal. Those who run afoul of the law have been left for dead in this harsh landscape, challenged to survive the tar pits, man-eating Rockworms, and flocks of territorial Bloodhawks. And not a single soul has ever made it back to Caldeum alive.

QUEST CONTINUED

BLOOD AND SAND

ANCIENT PATH

Exit the Hidden Aqueducts to the Ancient Path just beyond the altar where the Jeweler's Crucible was left. Leah and Covetous Shen will both go back to town, Leah to learn the spell needed to restore Kulle's body and Covetous Shen to open his shop in Hidden Camp. Proceed up the path, past the Waypoint to the Desolate Sands [12].

JEWELER NOW AVAILABLE

Return to Hidden Camp via the Town Portal and talk to Covetous Shen. This convinces him to join the caravan as the second artisan. Covetous Shen will use his newfound Jeweler's Crucible to combine three identical gems into one larger one. He can also remove gems from sockets. Unlike the Blacksmith, Covetous Shen does not need any recipes to perform his craft in Normal mode (he does at higher levels), but nonetheless requires training in order to work with larger, more valuable gems.

DESOLATE SANDS

The Desolate Sands are an expansive desert filled with the bones of the massive creatures that roamed these lands eons ago. Endlessly circling Bloodhawks, packs of Desiccated Imps, and marauding members of the Lacuni make travel in these parts a treacherous ordeal. Climb the switchbacking path up to the plateau and set out for the Cave of the Betrayer and Vault of the Assassin.

Pay attention to the mini-map to maintain your bearings. The Desolate Sands are almost shockingly barren and there are few places to take cover from the hellspawn that inhabit this area. Move carefully and take full advantage of any protective abilities you have. It's also a good time to return to Hidden Camp to stock up on potions or to even hire a Follower.

CAVE OF BURROWING HORROR

Watch for a unique Rockworm to emerge from within a ring of Ancient Bones. Kill the behemoth to gain access to a burrow you can enter! This very challenging cave is filled with Reapers, Charged Stingers, and Murderous Fiends. Brave explorers have the potential to earn a lot of gold, and maybe even a Resplendent Chest. It's a two-level cave with several poisonous threats. The Cave of Burrowing Horror is the only location where you'll encounter the dangerous Reaper, a deadly relative of the Burrowing Leaper. Beware!

VILE CAVERN

This two-level cave is filled with all of the toxic insect larva, eggs, and sacks you would expect to find in a subterranean area with this name. The Webspitter Spiders, Charged Stingers, and Rockworms add to the horror. The cave is a series of narrow corridors leading to larger, open cave rooms lined with Slime Spewers. Advance slowly, as many of the seemingly innocuous holes in the cave's floor can spawn a swarm of Charged Stingers.

TAR PITS

The Desolate Sands are not all sand and stone; there are also large pits of tar. These black pools of oozing carbon aren't deep enough to prove fatal, but they will slow your movement if you attempt to wade through them.

Protect the Nest

Bloodhawks don't like seeing their homes disturbed and will attack en masse if you so much as poke at their nest. There's treasure to be had, but don't say we didn't warn you when these angry creatures descend!

Those who explore the entirety of the Desolate Sands often encounter a spiraling path that descends to a Resplendent Chest. This is every bit the trap the Hero believes it to be. Do not brave this depression without full Life, and ensure that your protective skills aren't awaiting a cooldown to end. Squads of various skeletons and Constructs will likely spawn as you attempt to spiral your way back out after raiding the chest.

When you're ready to resume the main quest, search for the portal and cave entrance in the center of the Desolate Sands. If you head too far north and encounter a bridge leading across a chasm, you've likely gone too far. Return along a southeasterly course.

CAVE OF THE BETRAYER

The Cave of the Betrayer is a two-level area filled with Webspitter Spiders, Rockworms, and Charged Stingers, among other hostile entities. Beware of the Slime Spewers that grow along the walls of the cave, as these toxic nests spew poisonous projectiles at those who pass too close. It's far safer to destroy Slime Spewers from afar or just let them be.

The Cave of the Betrayer often contains a circular section beyond a central path leading to a large ring. Head in either direction around the perimeter and look for chests and Shrines. The entrance to the lower level can be anywhere, so check even the smallest of offshoots.

The lower level of the Cave of the Betrayer may not be quite as large as the upper, but contains just as many Larva Sacks, Slime Spewers, and other hazards as the upper level. Continue toward the Dungeon Stone to find the Blood of Zoltun Kulle [13]. Collect the blood only when you're ready for a fight—four Chilling Constructs materialize the moment the blood is disturbed!

The Chilling Constructs launch multiple frozen projectiles that can slow the Hero's movement. They inflict little melee damage, but can fire their projectiles at close to medium range. Either lead them into a group to hit them with an area-of-effect skill or charge them one by one and beat them into submission. It definitely pays to have an ally with you for this fight, particularly if you're playing as the Monk or Wizard. The Witch Doctor would do well to summon a Gargantuan for the fight.

The Barbarian's Weapon Throw skill is particularly useful against Webspitter Spiders and Rockworms.

Four Bone Warriors attack the moment the blood is collected!

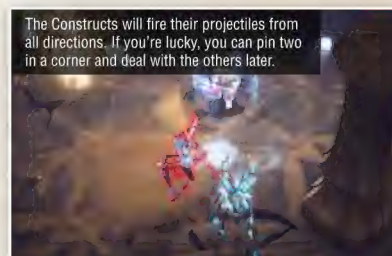

VAULT OF THE ASSASSIN

The Vault of the Assassin is a large tomb not unlike the Forgotten Ruins you explored previously. It contains numerous Guardian Towers and their corresponding elemental Spiderlings, but also many Blazing Guardians and various skeletons.

Mage Lord Misgen will attack as soon as the Hero collects the vial of Zoltun Kulle's Blood. The Vault of the Assassin is a bit more spacious than the Cave of the Betrayer, so have a ranged attack on hand. Seek out the nearby Dungeon Stone to return to the Desolate Sands [14]

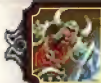

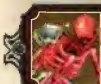

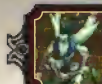

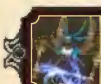

Quest Complete. The next quest begins immediately—fight your way north across the Desolate Sands to the entrance to the Archives of Zoltun Kulle.

THE TERMINUS

The Terminus lies beyond the Archives of Zoltun Kulle, a mystical place with three detached areas linked only by portals. The Terminus exists on no map and can be reached only with the direct assistance of Zoltun Kulle himself. The halls of the Terminus contain no enemies, yet the Storm Halls, Unknown Depths, and Realm of Shadow are among the most deadly locations in the Caldeum region.

*Based on Normal difficulty.

With Zoltun Kulle's head and blood recovered, it's time to return him to the realm of the living. Leah has memorized the spell needed to perform this perilous procedure and rejoins the Hero in the Archives. The order went to great lengths to see to it that Zoltun Kulle was never made whole; now it is you who must release the Shadow Locks and do just that.

ARCHIVES OF ZOLTUN KULLE

Travel northwest from the Desolate Sands waypoint to the bridge leading westerly across the bottomless chasm. Zoltun Kulle will once again reveal himself to activate the portal to his archives [1].

Cross the bridge toward the waypoint in the distance. Leah and Emperor Hakan II have also made the journey to the Archives of Zoltun Kulle. Leah has learned the spell needed to resurrect Zoltun Kulle and the Emperor believes he knows where Belial is. Things are progressing well, but there is much to be done. Continue past the waypoint and down the stairs to the Terminus [2].

Leah and Emperor Hakan II await the Hero at the waypoint in the Archives of Zoltun Kulle.

The only way to make Zoltun Kulle whole again is to use the vials of his blood on the Shadow Locks in the Unknown Depths and Storm Halls. Three sand bridges span outward from where Kulle stands, each one leading to a different portal. The left branch leads to the Unknown Depths, the right to the Storm Halls. The central bridge leads to a currently inactive portal.

THE UNKNOWN DEPTHS

The lengthy bridges and staircases of the Unknown Depths are home to numerous Fallen, Rock Giants, and Toxic Constructs. Navigating this realm is not nearly as complicated as The Forgotten Ruins and other tombs within the desert. Here, the path is relatively straightforward—devoid of the rubble, piles of sand, and branching paths that made travel less certain in the previous areas.

Fight in a path away from the entrance to a lengthy bridge that, in all likelihood, leads to an intersection of two or four staircases. Fallen Masters often accompany Fallen Curs in this area (although you may encounter various Skeletal enemies instead). The swift Fallen Curs tend to not possess as much individual power as their club-wielding masters, but should be dealt with first. Their lunging bites can quickly bring the Hero to her knees if she's surrounded. The only time it's not worth targeting the Fallen Cur first is when you have a clean shot at a nearby Fallen Conjurer!

Pairing the Sentry with the Guardian Turret rune creates a protective shield that spans the entire bridge—creating roadblocks such as this is important on Hell and Inferno modes.

The Unknown Depths are quite large, bigger, in fact, than they appear at first. Ranged fighters are encouraged to advance slowly to get a shot on any Arcane Constructs or Guardian Towers before they can prove harmful. Take advantage of the cascading sheets of sand that fall from many of the arches, as enemies from beyond are loath to pass through them. The Hero shouldn't step through the falling sand until first clearing out all of the enemies on the near side.

Explore the lone floor of the Unknown Depths until you discover a massive spiked sphere known as a Shadow Lock, commonly at the far end of a very long and narrow bridge guarded by multiple varieties of Constructs and Vile Revenants. This device resembles the Arcane Constructs found throughout the area, only larger. Zoltun Kulle's spirit will be present near the lock—pour his blood onto the latch to open it [3]. An exit portal should be close by.

THE STORM HALLS

Unlike the Unknown Depths, the Storm Halls tend to be occupied by numerous Skeletal Raiders, and Skeletal Bowmasters. Nevertheless, the architecture of the Storm Halls is quite similar to the Unknown Depths. The cascading sand continues to serve as a barrier of sorts, protecting the Hero from the enemies on the far side while she deals with those in the immediate area.

The many lengthy bridges in the Storm Halls often lead back and forth between intersecting staircases. Keep the enemies in front of you at all times. Directed skills are more useful here than those that radiate out in all directions. The Barbarian's Earthquake, the Demon Hunter's Rapid Fire, and the Witch Doctor's Firebats are all good choices on bridges, especially when going up against Venomous Spinners and Rock Giants. Fight your way to the Shadow Lock and use the other vial of blood to unlock it [4].

The Hero may encounter multiple chests lying out in the open en route to the exit. As with the Unknown Depths, it's common for Toxic Constructs to appear after opening these. Wizards can make quick work of surrounding foes with the Wave of Force skill, especially with the Forceful Wave rune equipped. Find the dungeon's exit and return to the Terminus.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 280 XP: 2175

Greater Health Potion

It's worth having a couple of Greater Health Potions on hand before venturing to the Storm Halls. The battles that take place near the Shadow Lock and the dungeon exit can be quite difficult without some stronger potions.

REALM OF SHADOW

With the Shadow Locks opened, it's time to retrieve Zoltun Kulle's body. Advance along the center energy bridge and enter the Realm of Shadow [5]. This area is similar to those that contained the Shadow Locks, but cast with a diffused blood-red glow. Sand Behemoths lurk in place of Rock Giants, but an even more ominous creature also resides here: The Shade Stalker, a mere vermin-class enemy, but one that attacks with great speed and in such large numbers that it poses a threat more significant than its size might suggest. Hold your ground and wait for them to come to you, then unleash a potent AOE attack, preferably one that either slows or stuns as well as it harms. Shade Stalkers disappear into the ground, but will return before long and the control effect icon above their heads can help you track them.

The Realm of Shadow isn't as large as the dungeons containing the Shadow Locks, but Zoltun Kulle's body is far more protected. Two unique monsters, a Molten Sentinel and a Frost Sentinel, emerge in formation to surround the Hero upon approaching Kulle's body [6].

SENTINELS AND CONSTRUCTS

The two elemental Sentinels that watch over Zoltun Kulle's body look and behave similarly to the standard elemental Constructs you've already encountered. One difference between them is that the Sentinels are typically of a lower level than the Constructs (on Normal difficulty). This helps to make up for the fact that you'll be facing four of them simultaneously, each from a different element.

It is not necessary to defeat the two Sentinels—you can just collect the body and run for the exit—but these creatures do make this difficult. Move to the perimeter using ranged attacks, even if it's just the Barbarian's Throw Weapon. The Sentinels each have ranged magic attacks, and one of four magical traits, but are most dangerous at close range, especially the Molten and Vile Sentinels. Stay close to the perimeter to attack from afar and avail yourself to an escape route. The Sentinels drop valuable loot, so killing them certainly has its spoils.

Grab the body and return to Leah via the gate-like portal that appears beyond where the corpse was located [7]. Talk to Leah in The Terminus and watch as she returns Zoltun Kulle to life. He then takes his leave, unable to control the treacherous cackle that emerges from his lips. Follow him to the Soulstone Chamber [8].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

SOULSTONE CHAMBER

Zoltun Kulle has led you to the Soulstone Chamber, but approaching him reveals that he's not about to forfeit its power [9]. Not without a fight. With the Black Soulstone floating in the center of the circular chamber, the Hero has no choice but to battle Zoltun Kulle and his two Eternal Guardians to prevent the combined power of the Lords of Hell from sweeping across the land [10].

ZOLTUN KULLE

DARK HORADRIM

Adria: "Murderer. Torturer. Monster. These were the titles bestowed upon Zoltun Kulle by the Horadrim. Though it cost them dearly, they killed the wizard for his crimes against nature and sealed his broken corpse within a shadow realm. It seems they were afraid he might return."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	20	9568-9867	1350	Energy Twister, Time Bubble, Ceiling Collapse, Vanish, Fiery Boulder	-	-

Inferno	62	15,737,920-16,229,730	16,000	Energy Twister, Time Bubble, Ceiling Collapse, Vanish, Fiery Boulder	-	-

Zoltun Kulle isn't about to thrust himself immediately into battle so soon after being resurrected—he's got his Eternal Guardians to do his fighting for him. These twin monstrosities are similar in appearance and fighting style to the Rock Giants you encountered elsewhere, only they pack more than twice as much HP! Fortunately, they're as slow as they are ugly and can be kept at a distance—perfect for ranged tactics! Melee fighters are advised to use hit-and-run techniques to avoid the Eternal Guardians' powerful melee attacks.

Zoltun Kulle primarily sticks to the far side of the ring-shaped walkway, but will lob his patented Fiery Boulders periodically, even before the Eternal Guardians have been defeated. Use any available armor auras or protective skills you have to minimize the damage these attacks do while continuing to focus on the Eternal Guardians. Attack Zoltun Kulle if he gets close, as this will likely cause him to turn invisible and move elsewhere in the chamber. He won't attack while invisible, thereby giving you an opportunity to focus on the Eternal Guardians.

Leave the health globes dropped by the Eternal Guardians until you truly need them. The good thing about the shape and size of the Soulstone Chamber is that it's possible to simply run away to the far side of the area if you need to wait for a health potion's cooldown to end. Make sure the Eternal Guardians don't split up and attempt to catch you in the middle. Zoltun Kulle will almost always chase after you rather than turn around in an attempt to cut you off from the front.

Zoltun Kulle has a number of attacks that mimic many of those the Wizard can perform, namely the Time Bubble and Energy Twister. While these threats are relatively easy to avoid, Kulle's Ceiling Collapse attack is far deadlier. Watch for when Zoltun Kulle makes a grasping motion toward the ceiling, calling down a shower of boulders. This is a great time to use a skill that avoids incoming attacks such as the Demon Hunter's Vault ability, the Barbarian's Ignore Pain, or the Wizard's Diamond Skin.

Stay on the move, dodge Zoltun Kulle's Energy Twisters and incoming attacks, and continue to strike out at him. Zoltun Kulle poses little threat at close range—he relied on his Eternal Guardians to provide the muscle—but he will unleash his magic from any distance. Fiery Boulder continues to be his most common attack throughout the duration of the battle. Watch for him to draw his hand back, as this precedes the formation of a large flaming rock. It's relatively slow and can be avoided, but having some Fire resistance will certainly help.

Cross the energy bridge that appears to claim the Black Soulstone from the center of the chamber [11]. Adria, Leah, and Tyrael use a nearby portal to return to Hidden Camp. Exit the Soulstone Chamber and use the Town Portal to join them there and speak with Adria [12]

The clash with Belial is fast arriving, but Caldeum's citizens will surely pay the price if the Hero's bid to vanquish the Evil Lord proves successful. The refugees must be taken to safety before they are slaughtered in Belial's wake.

CALDEUM BAZAAR

Asheara is waiting in Caldeum Bazaar, near the manhole entrance that leads to the Flooded Causeway. Descend the steps from Hidden Camp and sprint through the city to the sewer entrance [1]. Belial's attack has begun and acidic bombs have already begun falling throughout the city. Avoid the green shadows that mark their point of impact. Asheara awaits your arrival near the sewer entrance. Speak to her to learn of the plan to save the refugees [2].

You have three minutes to save as many refugees as possible. Their hiding places are marked on the mini-map, but they are also identifiable in the environment by the sparkling glitter rising up from these locations. Many of the refugees are cowering under carts and behind furniture (including the area beyond the previously locked gate to the southwest). Click the cart to coax the refugee out of his hiding place. He'll automatically fall in behind the Hero and follow. Guide the refugee back to the sewers [3]. There are also pockets of refugees in the corners of Caldeum Bazaar. Be sure to check the far northern and southern ends of the area to find groups of refugees cowering out in the open.

Bonus

SAVE THE REFUGEES

The citizens of Caldeum are hiding throughout the Bazaar. Use the mini-map to locate them, then guide them back to Asheara to gain 108 XP and a small amount of gold for every refugee you save. The first descends the ladder to the Flooded Causeway immediately after speaking to Asheara. You don't have to rescue any others, but it pays to do so.

The refugees will do their best to sidestep the falling fireballs, but not all of the threats originate from the sky. You must also protect them from Doom Vipers and Writhing Deceivers. It's best to slash a path through Belial's fiends before rescuing any nearby refugees or else they may be cut down during the ensuing fray. Some of the Doom Vipers will undoubtedly attack while you have refugees following you. Rather than stopping to fight them to the end, just quickly hit them with a skill that inflicts Knockback or Slow, then keep on moving.

Three's Company

The Hero can have multiple refugees following him at once, but it's a good idea to avoid getting too carried away. You only receive gold and XP for every refugee that makes it to the Flooded Causeway safely. The more you try to lead at once, the harder it becomes to keep them all safe. Limit yourself to three refugees for the best results.

CITY OF CALDEUM

Meet with Leah and Adria at the entrance to the Flooded Causeway—the time has come to break into the inner city and advance on the Imperial Palace! Fight past the Doom Vipers that guard the walkway from the Bazaar and lead Leah to the Caldeum gates [1]. She'll use her powers to bust open the doors.

The party enters the City of Caldeum just in time to find a number of civilians cowering at the mercy of Belial's imitation Imperial Guard—the Serpent Magus and Doom Vipers! Adria and Leah will do their best to assist in the battle, but it's up to you to do the bulk of the killing. Try to lure the Doom Vipers away from Leah and Adria so they can assist with their arrows and fireballs, respectively.

Climb* the stairs to the poisonous gates. Wait for the rising toxic fumes to subside, then sprint past the fissures in the ground to avoid the next dose of poison gas. Close in on any Serpent Magus you spot and attack at all costs to keep them from performing their lightning attacks. Advance between the gates, kill the next wave of attackers, and continue on toward the circle ahead.

A large number of Fallen, led by Kamyr, a unique servant of Belial, attacks where the path to the palace turns to the right. Strike the Fallen Masters and Fallen Peons in the area before dealing with Kamyr. A powerful AOE spell works wonders against the Fallen Peons. Leah and Adria will do their best to keep Kamyr at bay while you clear out the others. Kamyr falls easily once the Fallen have been dealt with. That is, if he isn't killed indirectly during the larger fight.

The poisonous vents crisscross the final path leading to the Imperial Palace, making it even more critical to watch your step. The toxic gas rises in an alternating zigzag pattern across the floor. Tread carefully and continue past the Doom Vipers and Serpent Magus to the gates. Use the Healing Well near the steps and enter the palace once Leah opens the gates [2].

KAMYR

STALKER OF THE SHADOWS

Kamyr is a rather weak enemy, obviously concerned more with serving Belial than enhancing his combat worthiness. His arcane projectile attacks can inflict moderate damage, but he uses them sparingly. Kamyr relies on the confusion caused by the mass of Fallen that surround him. Isolating him from the Fallen puts Kamyr at your mercy. Although he's the same experience level as the enemies surrounding him, his Extra Health trait provides a large boost to his HP.

Return to the Store

This is your last opportunity to return to Caldeum Bazaar and purchase additional potions from the inn. You can get there by retracing your steps or by using the Town Portal. Make sure that your armor is also completely repaired.

You'll find that the merchants previously scattered throughout the Caldeum Bazaar are now located along the cliffs in Hidden Camp.

IMPERIAL PALACE

The party makes it to the Imperial Palace in time to witness Belial's emergence from the husk of Emperor Hakan II's youthful body. The Imperial Guard surrounding the throne reveal themselves to be Veiled Sentinels, a stronger version of the Writhing Deceivers you faced previously. The time to slay Belial has come [3].

BELIAL

LORD OF LIES

Cain: "Belial, Lord of Lies, is the most elusive of the Seven Evils, and is a master of deceit. It is said that he manipulated Azmodan into revolt against the Prime Evils. This began the Burning Hell's civil war, which ended with the Dark Exile of the Prime Evils to our mortal realm."

The skills listed in the table above are merely a suggestion for first time players. Although these loadouts were proven effective by us, there are many paths to victory. Experiment!*

The battle against Belial consists of three stages, with the first being spent fighting against seemingly endless waves of Veiled Sentinels and Veiled Evokers. The crescent-shaped Imperial Palace provides just enough room to maneuver from end to end; use this tactic to buy time, keep the enemies from closing in around the Hero, and launch ranged attacks. Skills that slow/snare enemies or do damage to all targets in front of the Hero are best during the first phase of this fight.

The battle against the Veiled Sentinels and Veiled Evokers should not be taken lightly, as it can quickly become overwhelming if you don't make good use of health potions and health globes. Strike a few enemies to soften them up, unleash an area of effect skill to slow them—the Monk's Blinding Flash and Witch Doctor's Grasp of the Dead work especially well—then back away to fend off those closing in from the other direction.

Belial will eventually grow tired of watching you massacre his guards and join the fray himself. Although he will use his sickle to slash at the Hero at close range, his most common attack consists of three green fireballs, accompanied by a swarm of insects similar to those Maghda controlled. The green fireballs spread apart as they travel, making it easier to step between them the further you are from Belial.

Belial's current form has as much as 15x the HP of the Veiled Sentinels he summons to reinforce his efforts, so it's not feasible to ignore the Veiled Sentinels and focus on Belial. You must eliminate at least some of the Veiled Sentinels and Veiled Evokers to prevent them from surrounding you. This has the added benefit of providing you with a steady supply of health globes. Focus on evading the Veiled Sentinels—and Belial's fireballs—and close in on Belial. Use attacks that swing in a wide enough arc to hit multiple enemies and thereby strike Veiled Sentinels and Veiled Evokers while also focusing damage on Belial.

The third and final phase of the battle is unlike anything the Hero has encountered thus far. Belial reveals his massive demon form, the weight of which crushes much of the Imperial Palace, leaving the Hero atop the semi-circular platform hovering in space. Belial props himself against the walkway and spans the entire crescent where the throne had been. Quickly cast any protective armor spells you may have and immediately begin striking Belial. It doesn't matter where you hit him—his entire body is vulnerable to damage.

Belial has many deadly options at his disposal during the third phase, but his most common is a melee attack. He can strike with either his right or left appendage. Fortunately, this attack is telegraphed by a swarm of flies and a green circle that appears on the ground. Stay clear of this impact zone and circle around it to strike Belial's body. A similar circle appears prior to his Ground Pound attack. This two-armed attack releases a massive swarm of flies and a powerful shockwave. The Ground Pound is typically aimed at the center of the arena, so the Hero must move to the far ends of the platform to avoid the arms.

Ranged and melee fighters alike should continue to use hit-and-run tactics on Belial throughout his melee attacks. Watch to see where the green targeting circle appears, then step clear of the area (don't forget to make room for the entire arm) and continue attacking. That is, until Belial shifts to his ranged attacks.

Belial's Lightning Breath attack sweeps across the balcony from left to right, dealing heavy damage to anything caught in its path. Although skills like Diamond Skin and Ignore Pain can help to protect against this attack, it's best to just move to either end of the platform and wait it out. Belial telegraphs this attack by pulling his arms back away from the battle area, as if to draw in a deep breath.

The other major attack to watch for is Belial's Lightning Strikes. When Belial places his appendages down on the left and right ends of the balcony, steer clear of the swarms of flies that indicate where the ensuing barrage will be directed. Green explosions shoot from the ground for approximately seven seconds and burst all around the impact area. This devastating attack can drain the Hero of Life quickly if you're not careful to avoid it. It's often possible to slip in between the outstretched arms and continue the assault right on Belial's face! Monitor your Life, avoid the green targeting circles, and don't stop attacking! Belial has a massive amount of HP and the only way to win this war of attrition is to remain on the offensive.

Descend the stairs to the Armory and go inside to see how Leah and Adria are handling the Black Soulstone. Those looking for additional lore can find some in Leah's Belongings, on the table in the adjacent room. Exit the Armory via the stairs in the northwest corner to enter the Stronghold proper.

The Stronghold serves as your town for Act 3 and is home to numerous merchants, your Followers, and the Artisans. Your Stash is also located here, right beside the Waypoint.

Take a few minutes to explore the Stronghold and get a feel for where each of your travelling companions can be found. Stock up on potions, consider hiring a Follower, and locate the lore inside Captain Haile's Supply Chest.

Once you're ready, cross the drawbridge to the right and head through the door leading to the Skycrown Battlements. Slice through any Demon Troopers along the way, but don't delay!

SKYCROWN BATTLEMENTS

The Skycrown Battlements are essentially a lengthy, zigzagging wall with numerous lookouts, ramparts, and walkways that jut from and parallel to the main path. Barricades were set up across the Skycrown Battlements in an attempt to slow the assault of Azmodan's forces, but to little avail. These items are all shattered with ease during combat and do little to hold back the teeming hordes. The barrels and crates at least yield a wealth of gold and loot.

DEMONS ON THE WALLS

If Captain Cyrillis is present, he solicits your help in defending the walls, but will be killed by a Demonic Hell Bearer as soon as you speak with him. Avenge the good captain by setting your sights on slaying the murdering beast and the Demon Troopers that sprint up the stairs to join the fray. More Demon Troopers emerge from the Demonic Hell Bearer periodically, so work fast. Spill the Burning Oil nearby to eradicate some of the problem, then attack the Demonic Hell Bearer with all of your might. Once the monster is dead, you receive a generous reward of gold and XP.

Hot Cauldrons of Oil

Large barrels of Burning Oil are perched along many of the walls on Skycrown Battlements. Like the Fire Gutters in the Halls of Agony, these cauldrons can be tipped over and used to set a number of enemies aflame. Target the Boiling Oil as enemies draw close to spill the burning fluid all over them.

Climb the stairs to the widest part of the wall and set about slaughtering the numerous Fallen Soldiers and Fallen Mongrels you're likely to encounter. The Barbarian's Whirlwind attack is excellent for breaking through the suffocating hordes of Fallen. Numerous Demon Troopers make their presence known as you near the first Signal Beacon. These over-aggressive brutes aren't as tough as their armor and mace suggest, and can be killed with a variety of attacks as long as you avoid being surrounded.

The Wizard's Disintegrate attack paired with a Summon Hydra can make quick work of the Demon Troopers and Demon Hell Bearers alike!

Round the corner to the left and scale the steps to the narrow walkway leading to the first Signal Beacon (note its location on the mini-map). This is a prime opportunity to use a skill with a narrow focus to cut right through the Demon Troopers funneling forward along the wall. The Wizard's Disintegrate skill and the Monk's Deadly Reach are both good examples.

Interact with each Signal Beacon to rally the troops!

The first Signal Beacon isn't far ahead, but there's a Demonic Hell Bearer lording over it. These foes don't attack—they have no offensive capabilities—but clamber up the sides of the ramparts to belch forth a nearly endless supply of fresh Demon Troopers in groups of three. Target Demonic Hell Bearers as soon as you encounter them. They have a ton of HP, but it's the only way to cut off the supply of Demon Troopers. A powerful AOE attack aimed directly under the Demonic Hell Bearer will likely damage this spawning creature, as well as the Demon Troopers it regurgitates.

Follow the path of the Skycrown Battlements up the stairs to each of the lookouts in search of the Signal Beacons. They appear on the mini-map even before they're lit and are always located near the perimeter of the wall, usually at a corner junction [1].

BOMBS AWAY!

Avoid the swirling black and red circles that appear on the ground. These mark the locations of incoming lava bombs dropped by the Demonic Hellflyers. Stay clear to avoid suffering heavy damage.

The Vision of Azmodan appears as you near Sergeant Dalen.

Keep your distance when engaging the dual-wielding Colossal Golgor that often emerges just before you reach the fifth Signal Beacon. This mighty foe is immune to knockback and delivers a deadly uppercut attack. Light the final Signal Beacon, then continue along the wall to Sergeant Dalen's position near the locked door [2]

QUEST

TURNING THE TIDE

OBJECTIVES

- 1 Raise the 3 catapults in Stonefort.
- 2 Return to the Bastion's Keep Stronghold.

COMPLETION REWARDS

HERO	GOLD	XP
All Classes	885	8800

*Based on Normal difficulty.

Azmodan's forces weren't going to give up that easily! The demons are marching en masse toward Stonefort, and Sergeant Dalen needs you to assist the Captains of the Guard in raising the three catapults before it's too late.

STONEFORT

WAITING FOR REINFORCEMENTS

The only way to reach the catapult crews is to first assist Captain Haile in raising the drawbridge so his reinforcements can access the area. Talk to Captain Haile up ahead. He's stationed with just three guards and there's no way across the gap in the wall until the lift rises. Demon Troopers and Demonic Hellflyers will attack the area surrounding the square pit. Keep to one side and slay the enemies as they appear while the lift is raised into position. A unique Demon Trooper named Dragus will cross the bridge to attack once it's in position. This foe uses Mortar, Electrified, and Fast traits. Defend against the demon ambush to reap XP and gold.

DANGEROUS TRAITS

Although you weren't likely to encounter any Rare monsters at Skycrown Battlements, you may begin to fight foes with two new traits in this area, especially on Nightmare difficulty and above. The Illusionist trait is for Rare enemies only that adds an exact clone of the monster to the squad alongside the minions. Rares possessing the Invulnerable Minions ability have the benefit of extra health and, more importantly, their minions cannot be defeated! Just pray you don't see both Invulnerable Minions and Illusionist traits in the same Rare enemy in Nightmare mode or higher, as that's a lot to handle.

Search the Lookouts

Stonefort has numerous lookouts that extend from the upper wall. It's worth climbing the stairs to each of these perches; many contain a chest or piece of lore.

It's a good idea to enlist some help, whether by a Follower, summoned pet, or turret.

Once the lift is raised into position, continue across the top of Stonefort toward the three catapult positions. The enemies you battled on the Skycrown Battlements return in even larger numbers. You'll also encounter more Colossal Gorgs, Demonic Hellflyers, and a greater likelihood of Champion enemies.

BARRICADE TACTICS

The barricades do sometimes succeed in holding back enemies such as the weaker Fallen. Be on the lookout for situations where foes are kept at bay by the barricades and leave them be. Kill all other nearby monsters before destroying the barricade and attacking those behind it.

Try to combine AOE skills with single-target DPS attacks to deal with stray foes that penetrate your initial defense.

Fight your way through the crushing mass of Fallen and Demon Troopers to Sergeant Burroughs near the first catapult [1]. With your help, he's confident that the recruits will be safe while trying to raise the catapult. Follow him to the nearby gate to retrieve the recruits, then return to the catapult winches. Recruits will man the winches, usually just one or two at a time, as you and Sergeant Burroughs work to keep them safe. Use the nearby boiling oil to douse the Demon Troopers and keep your eyes peeled for Demonic Hellflyers that land to attack. The battle can get pretty tough. Fortunately, there's often a Healing Well up the stairs to the left of the catapult and additional recruits will arrive on the scene as others perish.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 285 XP: 2250

Lieutenant Lavail oversees the crew in charge of the second catapult [1]. Continue along the wall to reach him near the next set of catapult winches. Scouts report that a number of Demonic Hell Bearers are set to attack in quick succession at this very location. You must protect the soldiers from the Demonic Hell Bearers (and their Demon Troopers) while the soldiers raise the catapult. The Demonic Hell Bearers initially attack one at a time, but you must kill them quickly or else the Demon Troopers will pose a problem. Move around the semi-circular perimeter of the wall near the catapult and target the Demonic Hell Bearers as they appear. Use armor skills or other protective wards to keep the Demon Troopers at bay. Don't turn your back on the Demonic Hell Bearers once the catapult is raised—finish them off!

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 285 XP: 2250

The Wizard's Ice Armor helps to repel the Demon Troopers so he can focus on the Demonic Hell Bearer.

The third catapult isn't far ahead [1]. Speak with Lieutenant Clyfton to discover that you and he must raise the catapult yourselves. The lieutenant will man the winch on the left, leaving you to handle the one on the right. Continue to click on the winch to raise the catapult into position. Demon Troopers and Demonic Hellflyers will attack you and the lieutenant, but not nearly as many as at the previous catapults. Monitor your Life and stop turning the wheel to defend yourself only if your health becomes significantly threatened. Having a Follower or summoned pet to protect you certainly helps. Consider returning to the Stronghold to hire the Templar or Enchantress for the final leg of this mission if you find yourself unable to fight and crank the winch at the same time. Lastly, the enemies here are primarily melee attackers and can be repelled with knockback effects and area of denial skills such as the Monk's Inner Sanctuary.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 285 XP: 2250

With the catapults in position, it's time to return to Bastion's Keep Stronghold [2]. Continue along the wall past the third catapult to look for any loot or chests at the end, then use the Town Portal to return to Tyrael in the Stronghold.

A Thorny Issue

This is a prime time to equip any "Thorns" armor that you might have been holding onto. Thorns armor causes melee attackers to suffer a small amount of damage each time they strike the wearer. If you don't have any equipment with a high Thorns rating, look for runes and passive skills that reflect damage back at the attacker, as this will make it easier to concentrate on raising the catapult.

Continue to work the winch to raise the catapult. Stop only when absolutely necessary!

Azmodan's demons aren't merely aggressive, they're also resourceful. The catapults may have thwarted their plans for a direct assault, but they've managed to burrow underground and attack from below. The Hero must delve into the depths of Bastion's Keep to locate the breach and plug it before it's too late.

DUNGEON THE KEEP DEPTHS

Beneath Bastion's Keep lie the Keep Depths, a three-level dungeon comprised of storerooms, corridors, and barracks. Although some areas of the Keep Depths contain cranes, fiery grates, and even molten rock, much is made of wood and stone. Heroes who explore the entirety of the Keep Depths will find themselves best prepared for the battles to come.

AN EXPLORER'S JOURNAL

I felt the heat long before I saw the red glow of the molten rock coursing through the room. A bead of sweat dripped from my nose and vanished in a sizzle on the blistering floor—what kind of foul beast could tolerate such conditions? The Blazing Swordwielder shambled forth, seeming to rise from the very flames that now danced above the grates in the surface. Although they looked frail, I couldn't stay long enough to interrogate them—the flames would surely cook me alive. I smashed my way through the fiery skeletons and sprinted across the grates to the inviting darkness just beyond the far exit.

I soon came to yet another room of irrepressible heat, only this time there were no flames. Large pits had been dug in the center of the room and flooded with molten ore. I braced myself against the scalding temperatures and used these pits of lava as a barrier between myself and the foes amassed across the divide. I launched a barrage of attacks at them and smiled as they realized they were without counter and no time to flank.

Imagine my surprise when delving deeper into the Keep Depths led to a chasm not only open to the elements, but to snow! It was there where I encountered a pair of siege bridges buttoned-up tight in the center of the pit. That shouldn't be! I lowered the gangway on the first bridge and was about to open the second when I noticed the horde of enemies on the far side. I realized then it would be much safer to leave the second bridge as I found it and lure all the enemies across a single bridge—right into my blade!

THE KEEP DEPTHS, LEVEL 1

FORGED IN BATTLE

Ironsmith Maldonado needs someone to defend him while he forges some better weapons for the men. Protect him against an onslaught of enemies for 45 seconds. He'll begin on the right-hand side near the furnace, then move to the anvil on the left. Stick close to him and don't let anything get past. This is easier with ranged piercing attacks, a Follower, or summoned pets like the Witch Doctor's Gargantuan. Protect Ironsmith Maldonado until he's done crafting some better weaponry to receive a reward of 6200 XP and 580 gold. He also becomes a vendor who can sell and repair weapons.

Beware that many of the rooms you'll enter contain groups of enemies in multiple locations—some you may not even detect until you fully enter the room. Cut down on the risk of surprise by luring foes back out the door you came through, then hitting them with piercing skill attacks that travel forward and deal additional damage, such as the Monk's Deadly Reach skill.

The first floor of the Keep Depths is almost sure to contain a large fiery room, basking in the glow of molten ore. Flames periodically leap through the grated sections of flooring, making it essential to move briskly through these sections. This is the only area where you'll find the Blazing Swordwielders. Fiery as they are, they can be destroyed with relative ease compared to many of the other creatures of the Depths.

This sprawling network of rooms and hallways leads to many dead-ends, but there are also several corner rooms from which to mount an impressive stand. Be mindful of rooms with two exits. Those working as a team—or benefitting from a Follower or summoned ally—can move quickly from door to door to lure multiple foes into this corner trap. Those who are both fast and forceful can generate an impressively large Massacre Bonus and earn plenty of additional XP!

The entrance to the Keep Depths Level 2 is often in the far northeast corner of this area [1]. Use the nearest Waypoint to return to the Bastion's Keep Stronghold for crafting and the restocking of supplies, then continue deeper into the Keep Depths.

THE KEEP DEPTHS, LEVEL 2

The second level of the Keep Depths is home to the formidable Swift Skull Cleaver. This foe is extremely dangerous in groups, so avoid getting surrounded. Retreat through doors and plant traps to blow them apart as they funnel through. Do not try to stand toe to toe with them, especially if they attack in packs of three or more. Instead, try to slow them down with a widespread AOE attack, such as the Wizard's Blizzard skill, or burn them down with the Barbarian's Earthquake ability.

Level 1 is a large dungeon that's filled with Dark Skeletal Bowman, Skeletal Marauders, and Icy Quillbacks among others. The Skeletal foes tend to stick to themselves and rarely attack alongside other creatures, except for the occasional Demon Trooper. It's important to quickly ascertain whether the enemies are Skeletal Marauders (melee) or Dark Skeletal Bowman (ranged) and counter their strength. Use the numerous doorways as chokepoints and funnel the Skeletal Marauders into your attack. Conversely, it pays to bring the fight directly to the archers to limit their effectiveness. Or, if you need healing, flee through a doorway and quickly step to the left or right to use the wall for cover.

Iron Gates of Fury

It's possible to strike through iron gates before opening them to deal tremendous damage to melee enemies on the other side. You can also send ranged or piercing attacks straight through them with little threat of retaliation.

Swift Skull Cleavers aren't the only new foes you'll encounter. This area is also home to Fallen Maniacs and Demon Raiders, among others. Fallen Maniacs are extremely volatile and can blow up on short notice. Try to lead them toward other enemies, then hit them with a ranged attack to detonate them from a safe distance. Similarly, look for their telltale green glow beyond any grated doors you encounter and aim to detonate them before opening the door.

The second level of the Keep Depths is only slightly smaller than the upper level and very similar in design. Continue through the dungeon until experiencing another vision of Azmodan at the breach [2]. He won't be far from the entrance to the third level.

The Barbarian's Weapon Throw skill allows him to remote-detonate a Fallen Maniac amid a crowd of foes.

THE KEEP DEPTHS, LEVEL 3

Like level 2, the third level of the Keep Depths is home to one of the most intimidating foes this side of the Twin Seas—the Demonic Tremor! These creatures shake the ground with each stride and use their massive frontal legs to shield them from attacks. They are faster than they look and, unlike any other monster you'll encounter, they can crash right through doorways that would otherwise be too narrow for them!

The Demonic Tremor will temporarily ball up and defend itself when attacked.

Employ hit-and-run tactics to avoid the Demonic Tremor's ground pound attack. Strike from afar or from behind it and conserve your resource when the Demonic Tremor balls up in its defensive stance. A shimmering aura surrounding the Demonic Tremor absorbs many of the Hero's attacks while the Demonic Tremor shields itself—that's your cue to back off until it regains its normal fighting posture. Battle your way through this smaller level of the Keep Depths to find the entrance to the Larder [3].

THE LARDER

The Larder is a small area that consists of little more than a hallway leading to Ghom, the creature Azmodan had sent forth through the breach. Use the Waypoint outside the entrance to the Larder to return to the Stronghold if necessary, then venture forth and destroy the creature named Ghom [4].

COMING THROUGH!

Don't think for a second that escaping through a narrow doorway will keep you safe from the Demonic Tremor! These beasts can burst right through doorways, knocking a hole in the wall to accommodate their massive girth.

GHOM

LORD OF GLUTTONY

Cain: "Ghom is the largest of Azmodan's Sin Lieutenants and he possesses no less than four mouths. Though his voracious appetite is certainly his greatest weapon, his bile and, well... "other" noxious excretions are equally lethal. When last seen in battle, the Lord of Gluttony swallowed half a dozen angels whole, spears and all."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	26	36,200-43,440	3300	Sneeze, Chomp, Gas Cloud, Acid Slimes	-	-
Nightmare	46	746,000-896,000	12,000	Sneeze, Chomp, Gas Cloud, Acid Slimes	-	-
Hell	58	6,714,000-8,057,000	29,000	Sneeze, Chomp, Gas Cloud, Acid Slimes	-	-
Inferno	63	38,249,000-45,899,000	32,000	Sneeze, Chomp, Gas Cloud, Acid Slimes	-	-

Of all the foul denizens of hell, Ghom is certainly one of the most grotesque. This wretched beast waddles across the floor of the Larder in an attempt to get close enough to attack. Ghom is a rather slow creature and uses its Gas Cloud emissions to slow its enemies. Steer clear of the Gas Cloud's radius to avoid suffering the Slowed debuff and resulting Chomp attack. Ghom uses its massive stomach-maw to attack with a mighty bite, but only if it can catch its prey. Those who avoid being slowed by the Gas Cloud have a good chance of avoiding the Chomp.

It may be easy to avoid Ghom's physical attack, but the cretin's Sneeze attack has a bit more range to it. Watch for Ghom to momentarily rear back, as this means it's about to Sneeze. The poisonous bile that is spewed forth covers the ground and inflicts periodic damage over time until the attack ends or the Hero escapes the affected area. Ranged attackers can maintain a safe distance throughout much of the fight, but melee fighters have no choice but to put themselves in harm's way. Try to stay behind or to the side of Ghom when going in for the attack to steer clear of the Sneeze.

Stay on the move and continue to assault Ghom with everything in your arsenal, except attacks that inflict movement controls such as Knockback or Slow. Ghom is far too big to be susceptible to crowd control measures other than Stun. Try to stay behind Ghom and attack his rear with either ranged attacks or hit-and-run melee strikes. Those who keep a far distance must watch out for one final attack: Acid Slime.

Ghom will spit Acid Slime at the Hero as a ranged attack. Ghom aims to strike with these attacks directly, but errant shots don't just disappear. Up to four Acid Slimes can be summoned at once. Although slow, these creatures will follow after the Hero until Ghom has been killed. Acid Slimes have their own Life bars and can be killed rather easily, but it's often best to focus on Ghom and simply outrun these slimy minions. Stepping on the Acid Slime releases a toxic puddle that inflicts damage over time.

Be extra careful when collecting the loot after killing Ghom, as his toxic gases persist for quite some time. Locate the Half-Eaten Guard near the periphery of The Larder to find Ghom's Log lore. Use the Town Portal or nearby Waypoint to return to the Stronghold [5] Quest Complete.

You arrive back at the Stronghold only to find it in a state of duress. The guards are scattered throughout the area; many resting, others running around in panic. Lieutenant Lavail reports of terrifying noises coming from the Armory. Tyrael went to investigate and you should follow suit.

THE ARMORY

Descend the stairs in the Stronghold to the Armory to learn what the commotion is all about [1]. Once there, you'll see Leah struggling to contain the demonic rage within the Black Soulstone. The darkness is escaping in the form of Shadow Vermin that must be killed [2].

The Shadow Vermin, also known as Terror Spawn, are lesser creatures of the darkness. Though they are of a higher level than many of the enemies you've encountered thus far, the ones unique to this battle have half the life of those you'll fight later in your journey. These creatures can be deadly if given the chance to attack without reprisal, but there's no reason to give them that advantage. Smite them as they exit the Black Soulstone, then speak with Leah [3] Quest Complete.

Leah couldn't contain the Shadow Vermin trying to escape. Kill them!

FIELDS OF SLAUGHTER

Beyond Bastion's Keep and the Arreat Gate lies an area collectively known as the Fields of Slaughter. Here you will find the Battlefields, the Bridge of Korsikk, and Rakki's Crossing, in addition to the region's namesake fields. The frozen tundra makes for an inhospitable battleground and only the rarest of creatures not directly involved with Azmodan's war can survive this region. The frozen caves in the Fields of Slaughter are home to monsters found nowhere else in Sanctuary.

*Based on Normal difficulty.

The breach has been plugged, the walls secured, but Azmodan's forces continue their march. They've moved a number of siege weapons into position beyond the Arreat Gate, on the Fields of Slaughter. The integrity of Bastion's Keep can be maintained only by bringing the fight to the enemy; no longer can you enjoy the relative safety of these walls. The enemy siegecraft must be destroyed before the Keep is sacked!

THE ARREAT GATE

BLOOD TIES

This random event takes place on the lower level of the optional dungeon known as The Barracks. You'll find this area to the left of the catapults, where Sergeant Pale is standing. The Barracks is a sprawling two-level dungeon that typically contains at least one Resplendent Chest and a good chance to encounter some Champion enemies that also drop good loot. You may need to turn a control wheel to lower the drawbridge over the icy canal within The Barracks. Expect to face a multitude of Fallen here.

Fight your way to the lower level and speak to the guard just beyond the stairs to learn of his injured friend, who is missing somewhere on this level of the dungeon. Explore the perimeter of The Barracks Level 2 and always search behind shut doors, as he may be found inside a closed room. The guard you lead to his friend will not fall in battle and will even help to a certain extent. Find his missing friend to receive substantial XP and gold.

FORTIFIED BUNKER

The entrance to the left of the catapults may send you to the Fortified Bunker instead of The Barracks. The Fortified Bunker isn't wholly unlike The Barracks, but consists of two levels filled with Demonic Hellflyers, Winged Moloks, Demonic Tremors, Tormented Stingers, and Plagued Swarms. Forge ahead through the maze of rooms and hallways to eventually find a Resplendent Chest not far from the dungeon portal. Regardless of which dungeon you discover, the skills you've used in navigating the Keep Depths will undoubtedly come in handy, as will the XP and gold you will earn here.

Speak with Tyrael in the Armory to start the quest, then exit via the drawbridge in the Stronghold and continue straight ahead to the Arreat Gate [1]. Descend the steps to the catapults and talk with Sergeant Pale [2]. He needs you to fight your way across the Battlefields to the Bridge of Korsikk. From there, you'll continue deeper into the Fields of Slaughter to Azmodan's siegecraft.

THE BATTLEFIELDS

BATTLEFIELD STORES

The center of the Battlefields often contains a small fort with stairs leading up to a lookout, as well as another set of stairs leading down into either a Foundry or Stores. The Battlefield Stores is a two-level dungeon similar to the Keep Depths. Fight through numerous Skull Summoners and Skull Swords to the lower level. Skull Summoners summon Skeletal Marauders as minions and will continue to do so for as long as the Skull Summoner stands. They're also capable of flinging arcane orbs. The lower level often contains a bridge leading to a Resplendent Chest and dungeon portal. Turn the wheel to lower the bridge.

TIDE OF BATTLE

The Battlefields is often home to a barricaded camp that's under attack by the Blood Clan. Lend a helping hand in defeating the Blood Clan Warriors and Spearman during the initial rush, then brace yourself for the Colossal Firewing that appears. This unique enemy is much larger than a Winged Molok and packs roughly 5x the HP. The Colossal Firewing uses its tusks and claws to inflict physical damage in between spewing fiery projectiles. Defeat the Colossal Firewing and any remaining demons in the area, then speak with Colonel Severyn to collect your gold and XP reward.

THE FORWARD BARRACKS

Keep an eye out for an entrance leading to The Forward Barracks. This small underground area typically harbors only a few enemies, but does contain a Resplendent Chest, numerous barrels and crates, and a number of Dead Guardsman. It's an incredible source of loot and gold when present!

INVEST THE TIME

This quest isn't overly lengthy, but full exploration of The Barracks and Battlefield Stores (if they are both present) does take quite a bit of time. Don't let that stop you! These two dungeons in particular are excellent sources of gold and XP and will really help make your upcoming battle with Azmodan much more manageable. Use the gold to continue to train your Artisans and to craft a piece of the best equipment the Blacksmith can make at this point—ideally a combination of Adept and Journeyman equipment.

Fight your way east into the Battlefields against the Blood Clan Warriors and Spearman. These members of the khazra are tougher than those you've encountered elsewhere, but they fight in a similar fashion as their namesakes in the Moon Clan. The enemy you must be prepared for is the Herald of Pestilence. This toxic creature plunges its lengthy arm into the ground, only to have it rise up in close proximity to you. The arm can burrow several yards through the ground and provides the Herald of Pestilence with a stealthy ranged attack. Bait the creature into using its arm attack, then circle around the arm and attack the stationary beast from the side. Your poisonous target can't move or attack while its arm is plunged into the ground.

ALLIES IN NEED

Many Guards of the Keep have become separated from their units. Those who escaped a quick death can sometimes be found cowering along the perimeter of the Battlefields. Speak to them to enlist their help, but don't grow too attached to your new comrades; they'll surely perish before long.

The Battlefields contain a large crater in the center where you may find stairs leading down to an entrance to the Foundry, Forward Barracks, Cryder's Outpost, or Battlefield Stores, as well as a lookout above that may contain a chest. Loop around the area and clear out the enemies to gain XP and loot, and to help the other soldiers. The Battlefields is not a large area and the Bridge of Korsikk is just to the northeast.

The Bridge of Korsikk is a short span with several enemies, multiple Scorched Barrels and Charred Crates, and perhaps even a chest or Shrine. The bridge has suffered heavy damage, but don't worry about it collapsing. Cross the bridge to access the Fields of Slaughter in the distance [3].

ICEFALL CAVES

This frigid two-level den of creatures often contains enemies you won't find anywhere else, including the Great Horned Goliath and Possessed.

These horrible beasts contrast with the stark beauty of the ice-lined cavern. Be extra careful when engaging a Great Horned Goliath in one of the narrow chasms; you won't have much room to dodge the monster's charge attack. Similarly, the Possessed often release a swarm of dangerous

Frostbiters upon death—don't let your guard down!

CAVERNS OF FROST

Similar to the Icefall Caves, the Caverns of Frost consist of two levels and often contain a Resplendent Chest on the lower level. The Caverns of Frost harbor many of the same enemies, such as Frostclaw Burrowers and Icy Quillbacks, but are also home to Wintersbane Huntresses and Stalkers. These cold-loving relatives of the Lacuni attack with slashing and spinning strikes and should be dealt with from afar whenever possible. Explore the entirety of this area and inspect each of the numerous Frozen Mounds to glean everything you can while here.

HELL BRINGERS

Beware of the stationary device-type demons known as Hell Bringers. They are often accompanied by traps that spring as you get near, but the real hazard is when the Hell Bringers open up and reel you in from afar, allowing nearby enemies to surround you. They have very low HP and can be slain quickly. They rarely drop loot and don't inflict much damage, but are a nuisance nonetheless and should be dealt with accordingly.

The Demonic Ballistae are each massive siege weapons designed to fire arrow-like projectiles. Clear the area surrounding each Demonic Ballista of enemies, then launch your attack on the siege weapon. The Demonic Ballista poses no threat at close range, but does have a significant amount of HP. Continue attacking it until it has been destroyed [4], then repeat this pattern to destroy the two remaining Demonic Ballistae.

The gargantuan Trebuchet occupies much of the large pit in the center of the map. Its controls—the Trebuchet Device—are mounted at the end of a short overhang that juts out above it from the southwest corner of the pit. Perform a series of gradual approaches in a sweeping pattern to eliminate all of the Demonic Tremors and Blood Clan Warriors in the area before tackling the Catapult Guards (promoted Blood Clan Warriors). Fight your way up the skinny approach and destroy the Trebuchet Controls to put it out of commission [5].

With the siegecraft destroyed, it's time to continue on toward Rakki's Crossing. This lengthy bridge—much larger than the Bridge of Korsikk—lies to the northeast, beyond the most distant Demonic Ballista [6]. Tyrael stands on the near side of the crossing, awaiting your arrival. Speak with him to learn of your next maneuver [7] Quest Complete.

"It has been too long since I felt the thrill of battle myself."

NEW MINIONS OF HELL

Blood Clan Sorcerer

Normal	25	Nightmare	45
Hell	58	Inferno	63

CRAZY CLIMBER

Look for Private James near the base of the watchtower on the left. If he's there, he'll ask you to bring a spyglass to his lieutenant at the top of the tower. Climb the stairs and battle past the Demonic Hell Bearer to Lieutenant Gryffith at the top. This is a quick event that nets you a nice reward of gold and XP.

BRIDGE STORES

Smash through a door to find the Bridge Stores, then head down the stairs to speak with Vidar the Collector and browse his wares. Alternatively, you may see a Guardsman crawl from the Bridge Stores on his hands and knees, only to die after uttering a final warning. Descend the stairs to see what you may find. Some will encounter a pack of Blood Clan Warriors. Others may simply find a number of Dead Guardsman, along with a supply barrels and crates. Either way, there's a chance to find lots of gold in this small side-area.

THE UNDERBRIDGE

Look for the entrance to this small dungeon near the Waypoint. Here, you'll likely discover a Resplendent Chest and numerous other sources of loot. It's not unheard of to encounter a Treasure Pygmy in this area, as well, making the total haul quite considerable. Before you go smashing crates and opening chests, check to see if there's also a Fortune Shrine present. If so, procure a blessing first to increase the amount of gold you'll recover!

The Edge of the Abyss is straight ahead, on the far bank of Rakkis Crossing. Together with Tyrael you must fight your way across the crumbling, burning bridge. Rakkis Crossing is under heavy assault by the Blood Clan, as well as the Demonic Hell Bearers, standard Demon Troopers, and Colossal Golgors you fought previously. The action is intense, and the enemies numerous, so proceed slowly and keep the opposition in front of you at all times.

The one new enemy to appear in this area is the Blood Clan Sorcerer, a mage capable of buffing his fellow demons with the Blood Boost ability. This increases all of the affected demon's physical traits, making it much harder to defeat. Enemies benefitting from the Blood Clan Sorcerer's Blood Boost appear cloaked in a swirling orange aura. Target the Blood Clan Sorcerer at once to limit the number of enemies it buffs.

Shut off the supply of Blood Boost by taking out the Blood Clan Sorcerer first!

The war-torn remains of Rakkis Crossing contain countless Scorched Barrels and Charred Crates to plunder. These wooden containers may be burnt on the outside, but there's plenty of valuable loot tucked away within. You'll also find several piles of burning debris. Don't let these smoldering timbers keep you from investigating the many small rooms built into the structure of Rakkis Crossing. Smash through and see what's inside. You may even find a chest or piece of lore!

BLAZE OF GLORY

Captain Haile can sometimes be found halfway in the middle of Rakkis Crossing, bracing for another demon assault. Help him repel the attack. The battle lasts about 45 seconds and features several Demon Troopers, Winged Moloks, and a Demonic Hell Bearer. Focus on the Demonic Hell Bearer as soon as it appears, trusting Tyrael and Captain Haile to watch your back. Finish off the remaining demons and talk to the captain to claim your XP and gold reward.

Take the Stairs!

Many of the stairs found on either side of the bridge merely lead to a small room or a collapsed ledge on an upper level. These stairs may not go anywhere, but they can be of strategic importance. Retreat halfway up the stairs whenever you begin to feel overwhelmed by the demons present. This will force them to line up to reach you, and avoids the possibility of being surrounded.

Make your way to the burning barricade at the end of the viaduct and head left down the stairs into what remains of the interior. Continue to battle past the burning ruins of Rakkis Crossing to the Waypoint in the distance. Descend the stairs to the right of the Dead Beasts and wind your way around the pit and up the stairs on the other side. Proceed north across Rakkis Crossing and enter the Edge of the Abyss [1].

EDGE OF THE ABYSS

Make your way across the barren plateau to the demon gate. Tyrael will use his sword, El'druin, in an attempt to shatter the demon gate, only to watch it remain shut. That is, until the Siegebreaker Assault Beast bursts through. This monstrous demon must be killed before you can proceed [2].

The demon gate is one of the very few substances that can withstand the might of Tyrael's sword, El'druin!

SIEGEBREAKER ASSAULT BEAST

LIVING SIEGE ENGINE OF HELL

Cain: "The siegebreaker is a monster of legends—of nightmares, and thin whispers in the dark. It is the most prized champion of the demon lords because its massive size and strength could turn any battle in its favor. I wish I knew more, but alas... all who have seen it have perished."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	27	25,110-25,947	170	Three-Hit Mini Charge, Leg Stomp, Charge, Grab & Throw	-	-
Nightmare	47	519,000-536,300	620	Three-Hit Mini Charge, Leg Stomp, Charge, Grab & Throw	-	-
Hell	59	4,793,250-4,953,025	1450	Three-Hit Mini Charge, Leg Stomp, Charge, Grab & Throw	-	-
Inferno	63	22,949,760-23,714,752	1600	Three-Hit Mini Charge, Leg Stomp, Charge, Grab & Throw	-	-

The Demonic Hell Bearers are just one variety of the many siege beasts Azmodan has in his army, a front-line unit that could be risked on the open battlefield. The Siegebreaker Assault Beast, however, is different. This high value unit is as rare as it is powerful, and is used only in the most critical of situations. The Hero and Tyrael should be honored that Azmodan has deemed them worthy.

The Siegebreaker's entry into the Edge of the Abyss demonstrates its significant power and should be all the cue you need to give it a wide berth. Its primary attack is a three-hit mini-charge, consisting of a trio of quick arm swipes that can inflict critical damage. The Siegebreaker performs this attack only when the Hero is within melee range.

Watch for the Siegebreaker to rear back on its hind legs and let out a lengthy roar. This is your signal to retreat! It stands on its hind legs for a few seconds, then forcefully slams the ground, dealing AOE damage over a wide radius.

The leg stomp isn't the only attack the Siegebreaker broadcasts. The beast will also rush directly at the Hero immediately after kicking the dirt for traction. This charge is both fast and deadly and must be avoided. All classes should equip an evasive skill that aids in dodging an attack of this sort. Consider the Barbarian's Sprint, the Demon Hunter's Vault, or the Wizard's Teleport. Those with a very high Dodge Chance or Block Chance rating have an added layer of protection, but one that is not foolproof. The best course of action is to stick to the perimeter and bait the Siegebreaker into charging headfirst into a wall or other obstacle. This gives you the chance to attack as it recovers.

The Siegebreaker is surprisingly agile for its size, but it's possible to keep away from it by running around the perimeter and using the pillars for cover. This is especially important when injured. There are no Healing Wells in the area, but each of the Heroes can stay safely out of the Siegebreaker's reach while waiting for their health potion cooldown to end or for their Life to regenerate.

The Siegebreaker is immune to Knockback, but can be Slowed or Stunned. Hit it with your highest single-target DPS attacks, preferably those with a rune that adds a chance to Stun or Slow. Skills that inflict AOE damage over time aren't very effective given the Siegebreaker's tendency to charge. It's wise to Stun this enemy prior to attacking or else you'll be subjected to its grab and throw maneuver—the Siegebreaker quickly grabs hold of the nearest player, unleashes a spit-filled roar, and forcefully slams the player into the ground.

The beast's only way of attacking you at range is with its telegraphed charge attack. Long range DPS attacks such as the Wizard's Frost Ray are particularly useful, but even shorter or less potent attacks like the Barbarian's Weapon Throw and the Monk's Wave of Light can work well, too.

Collect the loot and follow Tyrael to the demon gate where Adria awaits. She has travelled to the Edge of the Abyss to spread the news of the Sin Hearts within Arreat Crater [3] Quest Complete.

ARREAT CRATER

Arreat Crater is the epicenter for Azmodan's assault on humankind. The crater is a multi-level cavern spiraling down within the bowels of the northern mountain that shares its name. Arreat Crater contains the Towers of the Cursed and Damned, home to the Sin Hearts and Azmodan's sultry concubine. The Hero treads onward alone, deeper into the crater and one step closer to Hell itself.

Leah's vision of twisted, demonic towers housing each of the two Sin Hearts is most unsettling. Tyrael believes Azmodan must have dredged these massive, beating organs up to power his army in the war against mankind. Before taking on Azmodan, the Hero must first battle through the towers and destroy the Sin Heart entrenched in each core. Only then will the path to the Core of Arreat—and Azmodan—be revealed.

ARREAT CRATER, LEVEL 1

Demonic Serpents erupt from underfoot and send the Hero flying into the air!

The Blood Clan residing within Arreat Crater are upgraded versions of those you fought en route to this place. The Blood Clan Impaler and Mauler represent the ranged and melee versions, respectively. Similarly, the Blood Clan Occultist is an enhanced version of the Blood Clan Sorcerer you faced on Rakkis Crossing, complete with the Blood Boost ability. Though dangerous, these are not the creatures you need fear the most.

It's vitally important to equip a skill that can get you out of a trapped position, either via relocation or by quickly repelling the demons around you. The scurrying, ferocious Tormented Stingers attack by the dozen and will instantly swarm you, seeking to hold you in place. These scorpion-like creatures possess a bite far worse than their pint-sized form suggests and they are positively lethal en masse. Similarly, the Demonic Serpents will spring forth underfoot, swallow you whole, and may spit you from one to another, leaving you with barely any time at all to escape.

The Wizard's Wave of Force skill works especially well against the Tormented Stingers, as does the Barbarian's Hammer of the Ancients paired with the Thunderstrike rune, which stuns all nearby enemies for 3 seconds whenever a fatal blow is delivered. For a more proactive approach, try using the Witch Doctor's Wall of Zombies skill to set up a line of defense in front of the encroaching Tormented Stingers.

The Wizard's Wave of Force skill can instantly repel the Tormented Stingers.

Waypoint to Healing

Use the nearby Waypoint to return to Bastion's Keep Stronghold for a free blessing from Brother Andreus the Healer. This not only spares a health potion, but also allows you to avoid waiting for the Town Portal to be conjured.

Arreat Crater Level 1 is a large area with many dead-ends, branching paths, and hazards. Watch out for the flame geysers that spread across the main path, as well as the Hell Bringers and Demon Summoners. It pays to have a rune or passive skill slotted that boosts the frequency of health globe drops and/or the percentage of Life recovered from health globes, as the combination of Tormented Stingers and Demonic Serpents can be overwhelming.

Continue northeast to the entrance to the Tower of the Damned [1]. Another Vision of Azmodan appears with a warning shortly before the entrance.

TOWER OF THE DAMNED

The Tower of the Damned is a three-level spiraling construct and each floor is a gauntlet in design. There is typically only one path on each level that allows access to the central spire, which houses the stairs leading deeper into the tower and brings you closer to the Sin Heart. The halls of the Tower of the Damned are home to many of Azmodan's demons. They are led by his maiden, Cydaea, whose voice will beckon you onward.

TOWER OF THE DAMNED, LEVEL 1

Descend the stairs to the central path and spiral your way around the perimeter to more steps leading down to the next level. The entrance to the stairs is in the 3 o'clock position and, unlike on other levels, can be reached from either direction.

Some of the enemies from Arreat Crater inhabit the Tower of the Damned, but the Hulking Phasebeast and Succubus are the main threats. The former can teleport directly behind you and attack with its twin axes at close range. It's important to use hit-and-run tactics or attack from afar, especially if you encounter a pack of Champion Hulking Phasebeasts.

In contrast, the Succubus hangs back and fires homing projectile attacks that diminish the Hero with the Blood Star curse. This causes major status effects that vary according to class. Barbarians and Monks suffer 50% Armor reduction while the Witch Doctor, Wizard, and Demon Hunter classes incur damage equal to the casting cost of any skills they perform. The Blood Star curse typically lasts about 5 seconds, as indicated by the debuff icon above the action bar and the red sparkles above the Hero's head.

TOWER OF THE DAMNED, LEVEL 2

You'll enter this level from the center spire. Follow the spiraling path as it radiates outward in a clockwise direction to reach the entrance to Level 3 at the 10 o'clock position.

The Infernal Cocoons in this area often have a stray Tormented Stinger within them, so be ready for more than gold in return as you strike them. The second level of the Tower of the Damned contains many of the same enemies as the upper level, though one could be forgiven for thinking the Soul Rippers have a greater presence here. Soul Rippers attack in packs, have a tremendous bite, and can use their tongues to grab their prey and pull themselves closer. It's very difficult to outrun them. Unleash an AOE attack centered on your position to rid this area of them.

HEART OF THE DAMNED

Cydaea continues to goad you forward, closer to her position near the Sin Heart. Follow the spiraling path down toward the bottom of the tower in a counter-clockwise direction. Beware of the Hell Bringers and flaming jets that line the walkway of this smaller level. Hell Bringers can suck you into a pack of Tormented Stingers if you aren't careful. Make your way around the perimeter to the 3 o'clock position to find the Sin Heart [2].

Cydaea leaves you to the mercy of the Daughters of Pain, a triumvirate of Succubi that hastily inflict their Blood Star curse on you [3]. Kill them as soon as you can, before the Blazing Ghouls clamber up the sides of the platform and swarm your position. Fend off the Blazing Ghouls as you destroy the Sin Heart and continue down the stairs to Arreat Crater Level 2 [4].

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 305 XP: 7550

RENDEZVOUS WITH THE MAIDEN OF LUST

Cydaea awaits your arrival near the Sin Heart, but isn't quite ready to give you her full attention just yet. Immediately attack her spider-like form while sidestepping her toxic projectiles. Cydaea may summon poisonous Spiderlings during the battle, but these can be killed quite easily. Stay on the move to dodge her web traps that slow you down, and hit her with heavy DPS attacks to quickly deplete her Life meter by one-third.

She'll flee after a set amount of time, absorbing up to about 50% damage to her Life and leaving you to fight a pack of Blazing Ghouls and Succubi. Resist the urge to unleash any massive AOE attacks on Cydaea and instead conserve the resource (and cooldown) for the enemies that attack after she leaves. This isn't the last you've seen of Cydaea.

ARREAT CRATER, LEVEL 2

The second level of Arreat Crater is every bit as large, complex, and dangerous as the first. Cross the narrow bridge toward the Waypoint and into what is sure to be a suffocating mass of Soul Lashers, Blood Clan Impalers, and other nasties. Hellhide Tremors make their first appearance here, along with Stygian Crawlers. Hellhide Tremors are upgraded versions of the Demonic Tremors you encountered in the Keep Depths that pack a far more powerful punch! Similarly, the Stygian Crawler is a stronger, more deadly version of the Tormented Stinger.

If you've made it this far without having to ever run for cover or flee from your enemies, this is the time to start doing so. Running back in the direction you came helps to string enemies out and allows you to battle a more manageable number of foes at once. The combination of Demonic Serpents and Stygian Crawlers makes for a dangerous combination and one that you could easily fall victim to if you're not careful. Continue east across this area to the Tower of the Cursed [5].

The imposing Hellhide Tremor is best fought only after isolating it from other enemies.

Shields Up!

Watch out for enemies bearing the Shielding affix, as they can be quite difficult to defeat. Kill off all other nearby foes before engaging this variety whenever possible.

*"I can feel the blood hemorrhaging from the Sin Heart...
Oh, you will pay for this."*

— Cydaea

TOWER OF THE CURSED

The Tower of the Cursed is nearly identical in design to the Tower of the Damned. This, too, is a three-level spiraling structure in which the floors each resemble a maze of short walkways, dead-ends, and small staircases. You can travel in only one direction on each level to access the central spire that houses the stairs leading deeper into the tower. The second Sin Heart lies in the Heart of the Cursed, at the very bottom of the tower.

TOWER OF THE CURSED, LEVEL 1

This floor is very similar to the first level within the Tower of the Damned. Here you'll encounter the same enemies, but with potentially many more melee-focused Blood Clan Maulers. Keep to the perimeter and make your way around the tower in a counter-clockwise direction to reach the path crossing to the center stairs in the 6 o'clock position.

TOWER OF THE CURSED, LEVEL 2

Make your way clockwise around the edge of this level. Smash all the sources of loot along the way to hopefully stock up on Major Health Potions, as well as the gold you'll need for repairs and the purchase of additional potions. Despite the potion cooldown, you'll want to have at least six Major Health Potions heading into the Heart of the Cursed.

Cross to the center of the tower on the north side and descend the spiraling stairs to the entrance to the Heart of the Cursed.

HEART OF THE CURSED

The Heart of the Cursed contains a long and narrow walkway that circles the interior of the tower in a clockwise direction. There are neither enemies nor sources of loot in this area. Continue to the stairs leading down to the Sin Heart in the center, where Cydaea awaits [6]. She will not leave the battle unfinished this time, thus giving you the chance to kill her [7].

CYDAEA

MAIDEN OF LUST

Cain: "Though Azmodan is close to all of his lieutenants, Cydaea is his special favorite.

The Maiden of Lust is both beautiful and grotesque in appearance, with the torso of a woman and the legs of a spider.

Her voice is said to be as smooth as honey, but she only speaks words of death."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	28	29,010	-	Melee, Pain Bolts, Spider Pits, Web Trap	-	-
Nightmare	48	601,000	-	Melee, Pain Bolts, Spider Pits, Web Trap	-	-
Hell	59	4,793,000	-	Melee, Pain Bolts, Spider Pits, Web Trap	-	-
Inferno	63	22,949,000	-	Melee, Pain Bolts, Spider Pits, Web Trap	-	-

The Maiden of Lust revealed a mere handful of her attacks during your previous encounter. She has several more at her disposal. Although she will attack with melee strikes when the Hero is at close range, this is not her preference. Cydaea favors to attack using the poisonous pain bolts she emits from her torso or by shooting a patch of sticky webbing that covers the ground and slows those standing in the affected area.

Cydaea also periodically summons a number of Spiderlings to attack alongside her. These arachnids will explode and inflict minor poison damage once they get close to the Hero, but are not a severe threat.

Focus on avoiding the patches of sticky webbing and Cydaea's pain bolts while moving into position to either attack her at close range or to launch a ranged attack. Cydaea's relatively slow speed makes it possible to hit her with all manner of attacks, including those that inflict damage over time like the Barbarian's Earthquake skill and Witch Doctor's Acid Cloud.

Cydaea periodically retreats to the ceiling of the area and summons a number of spider pits. These green pits aren't toxic to the Hero, but do spawn large quantities of Spiderlings. Lead them on a short chase, then loop back and crush the lot of them with a powerful AOE skill. The Spiderlings are a source of health globes and can be easily slain. Cydaea will rejoin the fight within moments.

Cydaea may serve as Azmodan's closest lieutenant, but she is not on par with her master. Use her brief retreats to the ceiling to allow your high-powered DPS attacks to cooldown, then hit her with a barrage of strikes when she returns. Cydaea is susceptible to being stunned, slowed, frozen, or blinded, but cannot be knocked back. Monitor your Life meter, keep up the pressure, and victory will be yours in no time.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 610 XP: 6800

Gather up the loot Cydaea drops and destroy the Sin Heart [8]. Now it's time to go after Azmodan himself. Descend the stairs on left to reach the Core of Arreat.

©2012 DK/BradyGAMES®, a division of Penguin Group (USA) Inc. All Rights Reserved.

CORE OF ARREAT

The Core of Arreat has the same enemies as Arreat Crater Level 2, but is much smaller and far less of a maze. Fight your way across the Core of Arreat to the entrance to the Heart of Sin in the distance. Stop before the door and use the Town Portal to make one more visit to Bastion's Keep Stronghold to prepare for the battle ahead. There's no going back once you're inside the Heart of Sin, so make all preparations before leaving the Core of Arreat—stock up on health potions, make sure your gear is repaired, and consider your skill selection now (see our suggestions in the table below).

HEART OF SIN

Descend the steps to the platform within the Heart of Sin, where Azmodan awaits. The time has come to kill the Lord of Sin [9].

AZMODAN

LORD OF SIN

Cain: "The Valorous manuscript lists Azmodan as the best battlefield commander of all demons, having defeated the angels many times in the Eternal Conflict across Pandemonium and the Prime Evils in the demonic civil war. If the Lord of Sin ever assaults our realm we truly have much to fear."

The skills listed in the table above are merely a suggestion for beginning players. Each of these builds proved effective during our playthroughs, but there are many paths to victory. Experiment!*

The massive, multi-legged Lord of Sin and commander of the Burning Hells dominates the spacious Heart of Sin within Arreat Crater. For all his size and strength, Azmodan eschews physical brutality in favor of spell casting. This isn't to say he won't defend himself at close range. Those who move within striking distance will quickly feel the force of Azmodan's muscular arms as he performs a standard melee attack. Not only does this inflict damage, but it slows the Hero, as well. Those foolish enough to approach Azmodan head-on will often get knocked back by the Lord of Sin's powerful belly flop attack.

Azmodan's assortment of attacks grows as he takes damage. In addition to the melee attacks described, Azmodan has two others he uses right from the start: Globe of Annihilation and Falling Corpses. Watch for a red ring to appear on the floor and quickly exit the space to avoid getting hit by a shower of Falling Corpses. Azmodan also doesn't hesitate to throw large, fiery projectiles at the Hero. These massive fire globes track the player's movement, but explode after several seconds. Globes of Annihilation are a persistent threat—and his deadliest—but can be avoided if you just keep moving.

There are no Healing Wells in this area, so it's important to have a high Life Regen rate or buy some time running along the perimeter of the area to wait for the health potion cooldown to end. Pepper Azmodan with high DPS single-target attacks such as the Demon Hunter's Impale skill or the Wizard's Ray of Frost. Melee combatants can use hit-and-run tactics to keep from being slowed or knocked back.

Azmodan will incorporate two more attacks into his arsenal once he's below 75% Life, one of which actually helps you in a way. Beware of the powerful laser attack that is emitted from his eye. It cannot be interrupted, but is relatively easy to dodge provided you don't stand still. He also begins to summon special Demon Troopers known as Minions of Azmodan into the battle via Demon Gates that rise up from the floor. Watch for the small gray circles that appear on the ground, as these indicate the location of the next Demon Gate. Attack the Demon Gate to destroy them and cut off the influx of Minions of Azmodan into the arena. On the other hand, those in need of Life should consider allowing several of the Minions of Azmodan to spawn as a potential source for health globes.

It pays to equip a high-mobility skill for when Azmodan drops below 50% Life. This is when he begins to summon multiple Pools of Destruction. These massive black pools appear on the floor and spread overlapping one another and providing very little in the way of safe ground to stand upon. The Hero takes periodic damage whenever in one of these Pools of Destruction. Using skills like Sprint, Vault, and Teleport help to keep away from them and make it possible to quickly avoid the attack and resume the offensive.

Leah will use her powers to trap Azmodan's soul within the Black Soulstone.

Collect the massive amount of loot Azmodan drops and approach the shimmering orange sparkle that represents the Soul of Azmodan [10]. Leah, Tyrael, and Adria will arrive to contain the soul within the Black Soulstone. Use the Town Portal to return to Bastion's Keep Stronghold [11].

RETURN TO BASTION'S KEEP STRONGHOLD

Use the Waypoints along the way or the Town Portal to return to Bastion's Keep Stronghold whenever you need to purchase potions, hire a Follower, or craft/buy new equipment. Keep in mind that the availability of the Town Portal is somewhat limited here in the High Heavens. We include notes throughout this chapter that alert you to places where preparations must be made before advancing.

Descend the steps and make your way past the Waypoint to where Tyrael is standing. Speak with Tyrael after Imperius leaves—Tyrael is all but paralyzed by the guilt he feels for having indirectly brought Diablo's wrath to the High Heavens [1]. You must go on without him. Enter the portal atop the dais to enter the Vestibule of Light [2].

Mortals such as you should hold their tongue until after Imperius leaves.

Iskatu, one of Diablo's minions, is waiting for you in the Vestibule of Light and he's far from alone. Mobs of Shadow Vermin pour into the room and attack moments after you arrive. They can be beaten back with relative ease, provided you don't panic. Unleash your best assortment of AOE attacks and make certain to grab any health globes that are dropped. The Barbarian's Earthquake ability and the Wizard's Blizzard spell are capable of destroying dozens of Shadow Vermin in a single attack! Don't worry about trying to be precise or looking for the Shadow Vermin as they'll come to you from all directions. Just unleash a barrage of attacks and don't let up! Leave some health globes on the ground for when Iskatu joins the fight [3]

Quest Complete.

The Barbarian's Earthquake ability can take out 40 or more Shadow Vermin in a single attack!

It's not a bad idea to summon a Mystic Ally to aid the Monk in this battle on higher difficulties.

ISKATU

MINION OF DIABLO

Iskatu is just one of several unique demons you'll encounter in Act IV. This elite creature attacks with razor-sharp claw slashes. Iskatu also uses his Desecrator trait, igniting small areas on the ground and inflicting heavy damage whenever the Hero strays into the burning hotspot. It's best to pepper Iskatu with ranged attacks, or to use high DPS melee strikes, then quickly back away. Iskatu will disappear into a puff of smoke if you manage to escape its reach, only to phase out of the shadows within striking range. Shadow Vermin emerge from the shadow pools that appear on the ground—they are a great source of health globes!

*Based on Normal difficulty.

If Tyrael is going to allow his self-pity keep him from doing what he can to stop Diablo, then you'll have to do it yourself. By defeating Iskatu, you have shown that you have the strength and the will to defy Diablo's conquest of the High Heavens. But you need help. Auriel, the Archangel of Hope, is in need of rescue. Go to her and prove yourself once again.

VESTIBULE OF LIGHT

Collect the loot dropped by Iskatu and climb the stairs to the Waypoint where Itherael awaits [1]. Speak to Itherael to learn that the Archangel of Hope, Auriel, has been captured by the Lord of Despair [2]. Rakanoth has taken Auriel to the Library of Fate within the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier. Proceed through the archway beyond Itherael to begin the search for Auriel.

GARDENS OF HOPE 1ST TIER

Rush to the aid of the Angel Troopers in the distance and set to attacking the fire-breathing Oppressor immediately. Bait it into attacking, then quickly sidestep its fiery exhalation and attack from the flank. Bile Crawlers in the area are relatives of the Soul Ripper you fought in Act III and can be killed rather easily with AOE attacks.

The Gardens of Hope 1st Tier is brimming with enemies of new and dangerous forms. Avoid the orange target-like circles that suddenly glow on the ground; these indicate where an Armored Destroyer is about to crash-land on the scene (or where a Darksky Fire Demon may be dropping a mortar bomb from above). Keep away from the Armored Destroyer's business end and chip away at its thick skin from the side.

Not all of the enemies in this area are as massive as the Oppressors and Armored Destroyers. The smaller Subjugators are fond of standing on the periphery of the battle while lobbing firebombs at you. Dodge their explosives and move in for the kill, but beware of their slashing melee attack. The Vile Temptress, an upgraded cousin to the Succubus, is another enemy that prefers to stand in the background and cast her attacks from afar. Avoid the swirling starburst projectiles to keep from being cursed with their Blood Star debuff! As with the Succubus you fought earlier, defeating any nearby Vile Temptresses should be your top priority, as it's very risky to take on the Oppressors or Armored Destroyers while suffering the effects of Blood Star.

WELL OF BLESSINGS

The Gardens of Hope 1st Tier contains a most tranquil setting at the intersection of three descending staircases. Interact with the Well of Blessings in the center to receive a blessing similar to those attained from the traditional Shrines throughout Sanctuary. The Well of Blessings also restores lost health.

Fight your way across the bridge to the Waypoint to the west, near the entrance to the Library of Fate [3]. You will not be able to use the Town Portal once inside, so either use the Waypoint or the Town Portal before entering if you need to return for additional Super Health Potions or equipment. Then enter the Library of Fate [4].

LIBRARY OF FATE

The Library of Fate is where you'll find the Lord of Despair, Rakanoth. Descend the steps and proceed out into the center of the large ornamental room and kill Rakanoth [5].

IN NEED OF GOLD?

The battle against Rakanoth is not an easy one and you may find yourself low on gold with seemingly no possible way to buy more potions or better equipment, and without a way to repair the equipment you have. Fortunately, you have two options: First, you can leave the game, re-enter it later, and clear the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier again (it will repopulate with enemies and breakable sources of loot). Another option is to leave the game, switch to a different/new character, and play on another one of your account's characters. All Heroes on your account share the same gold and stash. Log back in with the Hero you are using now and spend the gold you earned with the other character.

RAKANOTH

LORD OF DESPAIR

Cain: "In the beginning, Rakanoth served Andariel, the Maiden of Anguish, with efficient brutality—for his touch may open up many painful wounds. He was also the warden of Izual during many long years that the angel suffered in Rakanoth's own Plains of Despair, but he has quit his realm unexpectedly in recent times."

MODE	LEVEL	HP	XP	ATTACKS	TRAITS	RESISTANCES
Normal	29	5400	38,000	Blade Strike, Energy Blast, Summon, Eye of Judgment, Teleport	-	-
Nightmare	49	19,800	809,000	Fireballs, Blade Strike, Energy Blast, Summon, Eye of Judgment, Teleport	-	-
Hell	60	46,500	6,756,000	Fireballs, Blade Strike, Energy Blast, Summon, Eye of Judgment, Teleport	-	-
Inferno	63	48,000	26,774,000	Fireballs, Blade Strike, Energy Blast, Summon, Eye of Judgment, Teleport	-	-

Rakanoth may not be on the order of the Prime Evils, but he is no simple minion either. This beast is one of the most brutal of Diablo's servants, a true demon lord with a penchant for torture and a thirst for sadistic cruelty. Rakanoth wields two massive blades that have grown from the ends of his arms. He uses them to slash away at the Hero whenever in melee range, and is a very skilled and well-equipped physical combatant. Rakanoth will often teleport within melee range if his prey manages to slip beyond his reach. This teleport attack is often followed by a lethal strike in which Rakanoth spins and thrusts the blades downward into the Hero's back. There is no way to overstate the magnitude of this attack—it's imperative that you stay on the move to minimize the risk of receiving this deadly blow.

Rakanoth will also teleport to the center of the room and shoot Ice Bombs in a sweeping motion around the room. These projectiles doesn't extend to the Library of Fate's perimeter, so you need only back away from him to clear their range.

Rakanoth will periodically summon 2-3 Soul Devourers into the battle. These minions are a good source of health globes, but they are not mere fodder. Soul Devourers can quickly close in around the Hero and deliver Knockback blows with their lengthy tongue attack. Do your best to kill the Soul Devourers quickly while still keeping an eye on Rakanoth.

GARDENS OF HOPE 1ST TIER

You'll return to the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier in the center of the previously explored area, near the Corrupt Growth blocking access to the north. Strike this corruption several times to destroy it, but remain on your guard for the Bile Crawlers that often emerge from underneath the destroyed Corrupt Growth.

The safest way to beat Rakanoth is with high DPS ranged attacks. Barbarians and Monks are advised to bring a Follower to the battle, as even with their Weapon Throw and Wave of Light skills, Rakanoth is very dangerous. Employ hit-and-run tactics to stay clear of Rakanoth's blades. Strike, back away to dodge his counterattack, then strike again. Whatever you do, don't stand toe to toe with Rakanoth!

It's important to select runes and/or passive skills that help to reduce the cooldown of at least one or two of your major attacks. Also, those who lack a high Life Regen rate or healing ability should consider enlisting the help of others whether it be a Follower, Call of the Ancients, Zombie Dogs, or a human ally. Rakanoth is susceptible to Chill, Freeze, and Slow and can therefore be crowd-controlled to a certain degree, but his teleporting ability can nullify this.

MINOR OBJECTIVE REWARD

GOLD: 315 XP: 2700

Take a deep breath and collect the loot Rakanoth drops upon his death. Approach Auriel's Prison at the far end of the Library of Fate and click on it to destroy it [6]. Speak to Auriel to gain the ability to dispel the corruption that had blocked access to the other areas in the Gardens of Hope [7]. Use Auriel's portal to return to the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier, but not until you're absolutely ready as you may be thrust right back into a major battle [8].

The first of two Hell Rifts is located somewhere in the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier, under one of the patches of Corrupt Growth (typically in the southeastern corner of the area). Help the Hero continue to strengthen and level up for the inevitable showdown to come by fully exploring the entire area. Seek out all of the corruption and destroy every last bit of it as you sweep across the area. You'll likely encounter an inactive portal along the way; Auriel will fly down to remind you that you must close the Hell Rift before proceeding. If so, note its location and continue the hunt. Seek the Hell Rift portal and step through it [9].

Angiris Archives

There's often an Angiris Archive near the Hell Rift portal. Take a moment to interact with the sword-shaped pedestal to retrieve the lore it contains.

Kill any nearby Armaddons or Oppressors before attacking the Corrupt Growth.

Locate the Hell Rift portal beneath one of the Corrupt Growths.

HELL RIFT

The Hell Rift is a single floor mini-dungeon that contains a number of Mounted Armaddons (ridden by Subjugators), Warping Horrors, and Bile crawlers. Warping Horrors are a nastier version of the Hulking Phasebeast, capable of teleporting into position behind the Hero and quickly slashing with its twin axes. Advance slowly to avoid leading a trailing gang of enemies into a larger battle.

Continue to the rear of the Hell Rift to encounter the guardian of the Rift Oculus, a Mallet Lord by the name of Hammermash. This electrified creature has four giant arms that it slams downward onto the ground to deal devastating—and shocking—damage to all within the impact area. The Mallet Lord's slow windup leading to this overhead swing attack is your saving grace—it's both easy to spot and slow enough to be readily dodged.

Defeat Hammermash to have uninterrupted access to the Rift Oculus at the rear of the Hell Rift. Destroy the Rift Oculus as requested [10]. Auriel will appear in the Hell Rift and create a portal for you to use to return to the Gardens of Hope 1st Tier [11]. Once there, head north to the portal that leads to Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier [12].

The circular path soon leads out onto a narrow land-bridge swarming with Bile Crawlers.

Strike Hammermash while its legs are on the ground, then back away when it starts to swing them upwards.

Strike the Rift Oculus several times to destroy it.

Auriel has activated the portal leading to the Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier and will join you there.

GARDENS OF HOPE 2ND TIER

The Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier always contains two of the four sigil rooms listed below (see note on next page).

HOLY SANCTUM

The Holy Sanctum contains a large pool covered by disappearing and reappearing floor tiles. Make your way across this platform puzzle to the far right-hand corner to find an Exquisite Chest. Armored Destroyers attack as you lock some of the tiles into place by stepping onto them. Avoid running across too many platforms at once or you'll draw an unmanageable host of enemies onto your tail. Those looking to squeeze the most XP out of every instance can try to lock every platform into position to draw out the maximum number of Armored Destroyers.

BLESSED CHANCEL

Fight to the stairs and head down to the square walkway below. It's a little too quiet! If there's an Exquisite Chest, open it and watch as numerous Demon Marauders and Shadow Vermin flood the area. Fend them off and fight your way back up the stairs to exit the sigil room. You'll likely face some tough enemies on the way back out, so don't let your guard down—a Rare Oppressor may even make an appearance.

SACELLUM OF VIRTUE

The Sacellum of Virtue features dozens of Demon Marauders and Oppressors fighting to keep you from possibly reaching an Exquisite Chest. The treasure is located at the rear of a square-shaped walkway. Pick a direction and methodically sweep around the perimeter in that direction toward the chest. Collect the loot and continue the fight in the direction you were travelling to clear the area of remaining enemies. This is a great place to gain a ton of XP and gold from enemies.

ABOUT THE SIGIL ROOMS

The Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier always contains two of the four possible sigil rooms (Blessed Chancel, Holy Sanctum, etc.), but their locations are random. Search the perimeter of the area for stairs leading into one of the sigil rooms. The accompanying screenshot shows just two of the possible locations (as well as a third marking a possible Hell Rift location and fourth showing the portal to the Crystal Colonnade).

Auriel's portal lands you in the Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier, very close to a Waypoint. This is a great time to return to Bastion's Keep Stronghold and stock up on potions and salvage or sell the equipment you've recovered. Your task on the 2nd Tier is the same as it was in the earlier level: you must destroy the Corrupt Growths to uncover the hidden Hell Rift portal leading to the second and final Rift Oculus. This area of the Gardens of Hope is quite large and contains many possible locations for the Hell Rift portal.

The Armaddons encountered previously are not commonly sporting a rider. Beware that an Armaddon can Stun with its ground-pound attack and that killing a Mounted Armaddon ejects the Subjugator off of it and into the fray. Corrupted Angels also attack in this area; avoid their swooping pole-hammer attack.

The Mounted Armaddon will try to Stun you while the Subjugator on its back throws a fireball.

Make your way across the northern portion of the 2nd Tier in search of Corrupt Growth and the Hell Rift portal. There are also two optional sigil rooms hidden throughout the area. Angel Troopers will periodically swoop in to fight alongside you, but they provide little help against the Oppressors and Mounted Armaddons.

THE MORLU MENACE

Morlu Invaders will turn to ashen statues upon death. Shatter their ashen remains before they revive themselves. You won't get any loot or XP for killing them until after their ash statue form has crumbled.

The Hell Rift portal location on the 2nd tier is random. Search the complete area to reveal the entire map. This provides the best chance to find the two sigil rooms and possibly collect the Exquisite Chests from within them. Enter the portal to access the Hell Rift once you find it [13].

HELL RIFT

This second Hell Rift is very similar in size and feel to the one you explored earlier. Fight to the rear of the Hell Rift where you will encounter another unique Mallet Lord named Sledge. Whereas Hammermash exuded lightning damage, Sledge may bear the Molten trait. Use ranged attacks to avoid coming in contact with the Molten foe; otherwise, space your assaults out to allow time to heal. There is often a Healing Well near the Rift Oculus and Sledge. Defeat Sledge, then set your sights on the Rift Oculus at the back of the Hell Rift [14].

Keep Sledge close by the Healing Well so you can quickly use it in case of emergency.

Auriel will meet you in the Hell Rift as she had done previously. Use the portal she opens to return to the Gardens of Hope 2nd Tier [15]. Seek out Tyrael and the portal to the Crystal Colonnade [16]. Talk to Tyrael about his change of heart [17]. Use the portal to enter the Crystal Colonnade [18] Quest Complete.

With Tyrael by his side, the Hero travels to the Crystal Colonnade and finds that Diablo's assault has spread to the Silver Spire. The Hell Rifts were not shut soon enough! The fight must continue, and not everyone has bought into the idea of trusting a human to save the High Heavens.

THE CRYSTAL COLONNADE

Head up the walkway with Tyrael to find a number of Angel Troopers battling an army of Oppressors. Imperius appears on the scene and smites the Oppressors with ease. He quickly flies away, warning the Hero and Tyrael not to proceed—they don't belong here [1].

Auriel and Itherael appear shortly after Imperius leaves and tells the Hero to pay Imperius no mind. The entrance to the Silver Spire lies directly ahead. Defeat the Shade Stalkers that appear, use the Waypoint to return for more potions if needed, and continue on [2]

GATEWAY TO THE SILVER SPIRE

Lead Tyrael past the few Shade Stalkers in the area and out onto the bridge toward the ghost in the distance. The ghost will transform before your eyes into the Aspect of Terror, a Terror Demon not wholly unlike the Iskatu, the Oppressor you fought in the Vestibule of Light. The Aspect of Terror doesn't have the Desecrator trait, but can summon additional Terror Demons into the battle. There isn't much room to maneuver on the bridge, so attack hard and fast. Back away to get a view of the summoned Terror Demons (and to allow them to focus on Tyrael), then unleash an AOE attack to clean them up.

Fight past any Shade Stalkers that may appear beyond the Aspect of Terror and continue to the platform directly ahead. Interact with the lift to reach Silver Spire Level 1.

THE SILVER SPIRE LEVEL 1

Talk to Mira Eamon's ghost to initiate the battle with the Aspect of Lies, a servant of Belial (this is randomized, so you may talk to another ghost and fight another Aspect). The Aspect of Lies isn't a Terror Demon, but a unique Demonfire Nightmare. The Aspect of Lies has enhanced Bone Armor, can teleport and summon Oppressors, and is Plagued. Fortunately, it doesn't pack much of a punch and can be defeated without much trouble provided you work fast. Attack as soon as it appears to avoid getting caught between it and a number of summoned Oppressors.

The battle against the Aspect of Lies was just a small taste of what's to come on the Silver Spire. For starters, it's important to be careful where you walk on the Silver Spire. The floor is heavily cracked and the fissures sometimes sprout spikes, especially on the parallel bridges. Not all is harmful, though. The Tormented and Tortured Angels typically drop good loot, so be sure to set them free as you encounter them. They can be a relatively consistent source of Super Health Potions. Keep your eyes peeled for the rare Angiris Repository to claim "The Creation of Sanctuary" lore.

There are also several new enemies in this area. Morlu Incinerators are capable of calling down a Meteor attack, so avoid the red target area on the ground—give it a wide berth and take out the Morlu Incinerators at once! Both Morlu Incinerators and Morlu Legionnaires will revive themselves if you don't destroy their ashen statues, just as with their Morlu brethren in the Gardens of Hope. The other significant threat is the deadly combination of the Hell Witches and Mallet Lords. Hell Witches cast the hampering Blood Star curse, leaving Monks and Barbarians in no shape to withstand the Mallet Lord's powerful attack.

Fight across the Silver Spire Level 1 toward the lift leading to the Great Span. Board the platform with Tyrael and ascend to the level above.

THE GREAT SPAN

Take your time crossing the Great Span to the center platform, as a worthy foe awaits you there [1]. Tyrael's former lieutenant, Izual, stands between you and the upper level of the Silver Spire. You have no choice but to kill him [2].

Gather up the loot Izual drops and continue across the Great Span to the platform leading higher within the Silver Spire. Diablo's taunts are a sure sign that you are getting closer...

IZUAL

THE BETRAYER

Izual is a unique Oppressor, but attacks with a Frozen blast instead of the fire breath common to typical Oppressors. Nevertheless, he still wields a powerful mace and can move around the arena quite swiftly. Use hit-and-run tactics to avoid the Frozen Bombs. Izual is aided by Oppressors, Swift Player Demons, and Corrupted Angels, making it all the more critical that you avoid being frozen—the Oppressors are all too anxious to thaw you with their fire breath! Attacks that leave a trail of fouled ground behind you work well, as does an evasive skill like Vault or Teleport. Lean on Tyrael for help with the lesser enemies while you focus on Izual, but keep an eye out for health globes dropped by slain foes.

SILVER SPIRE LEVEL 2

THE GHOSTS OF PAST EVENTS

Leah, Mira, and Captain Rumford aren't the only ghosts whose spirits can be used by the Prime Evils. The Aspects of Anguish, Pain, Hatred, and Destruction may also arise from the spirits of Maghda, Zoltun Kulle, Deckard Cain, or even Marius, a character from Diablo II. These various Aspects are always a unique form of another Act IV enemy, though often with a Molten or Electrocute trait.

The ghost of Captain Rumford (or another ghost, see our note) stands before you on the bridge leading into the area. Watch as he turns into the Aspect of Sin, Azmodan's Legionaire. The Aspect of Sin takes the form of a unique Oppressor bearing the Molten trait. You have fought many Oppressors after making it this far and this one should be treated no differently. Slay the beast quickly before it enlists the assistance of the Demonfire Nightmares and Armored Destroyers in the area.

This second level of the Silver Spire is similar in appearance and design to the first, though of a uniquely random shape. Enslaved Nightmares attack in large numbers and inflict a Curse of Resistance that lowers your resistances by 50%. It's important to advance slowly and never retreat deeper into the area. Proceed gradually, grab the attention of a couple of enemies, and immediately fall back. Fast-moving escape skills will serve you well here, as will those that leave a trail of fouled ground or traps in your wake.

The Morlu Incinerators here will continue to cast Meteor attacks, but will also summon Oppressors from the circular pits common to the center of this area. Fight past the remaining enemies to the lift leading to the Pinnacle of Heaven [3]. The dangers of the Silver Spire are considerable, but it's worth collecting as much gold and potions as you can now. The only enemy left to fight after boarding the lift for the Pinnacle of Heaven is Diablo. You'll have time to prepare after speaking with Tyrael, but those who are close to gaining another level should seek out all the XP they can get in the Silver Spire, as leveling up can really help in the fight to come.

Try to keep your distance from the Aspect of Sin's Molten's eruption upon death.

Kill the Morlu Incinerators around the circular holes in the floor before they can summon more Oppressors.

THE PINNACLE OF HEAVEN

Imperius and his Angel Troopers stand guard near the Crystal Arch, but are incapacitated during Diablo's attempt to extinguish the Crystal Arch's light. Tyrael is unaffected since becoming mortal and opens the gate to the Crystal Arch. Speak with him before making one more trip to Bastion's Keep Stronghold to prepare for the final battle [4]. Enter the Crystal Arch when you're ready to face your ultimate challenge [5].

THE CRYSTAL ARCH

Climb the steps in the Crystal Arch to find where Diablo has been hiding [6]. The time has come to put an end to Diablo's reign of terror once and for all [7].

DIABLO

THE PRIME EVIL

Cain: "Diablo was the youngest of the Prime Evils, but I found him the most dangerous—for his power over terror left him incapable of feeling fear. Though he had easily possessed and corrupted many humans, Diablo's essence was finally trapped in a soulstone and banished to the unfathomable Abyss 20 years ago."

The skills listed in the table above are merely a suggestion for beginning players. Each of these builds proved effective during our playthroughs, but there are many paths to victory. Experiment!*

The battle against Diablo consists of three phases, beginning with the Prime Phase. Diablo doesn't waste any time in demonstrating his awesome power. Those who stray within melee range will be subject to a base melee swipe (which can cause Curse of Destruction, a debuff that inflicts additional damage over time to the Hero and allies). Diablo has more powerful attacks at his disposal, though; many of them dealing with Fire. It pays to have a high Fire resistance or to equip a rune or passive skill that reduces non-physical damage, such as the Barbarian's Superstition passive skill.

PRIME PHASE

Diablo's ground stomp attack emits a large series of fireballs that radiate outward in all directions. This inflicts one-time damage, but does not set the Hero aflame, unlike the Ring of Fire attack. Step clear of Diablo's fire projectile, as it spawns a ring of flame on the ground. Standing anywhere within the circle of fire causes continued burning damage. These three attacks aren't terribly difficult to avoid as long as you pay attention and don't get greedy when going on the offensive. Wait for a powerful attack to cooldown, or for your resource to regenerate, then hit him fast and hard.

Watch for Diablo to raise his hands above his head, then look to see the circular shadows begin to form on the ground. These are the locations where his hell spikes will rise up and try to trap the Hero. Steer clear of these or you'll be stuck in the cage until Diablo teleports within range and grabs hold. Once in Diablo's grasp, the Hero suffers damage until being slammed into the ground, causing the Curse of Destruction debuff. Diablo typically raises about five hell spike cages in each instance. Weave between the shadows on the ground where the hell spikes will emerge and move in for the attack!

The Crystal Arch contains two Healing Wells, one on either side. Healing Wells have a 30-second cooldown, which is brief enough to allow you to successfully alternate between Healing Wells throughout the fight. We recommend staying clear of the middle area of the arena, where Diablo first appears, as it's easy to get trapped within that space. Watching the mini-map helps you to identify Diablo's location, but he has access to a charge attack that enables him to cover long distances in a flash. Don't be surprised if you suddenly find yourself with a towering beast bearing down on you!

Diablo can be controlled with attacks that Slow, Chill, Stun, or Freeze, but is immune to all other forms of crowd control. Stay on the move, hit Diablo with quick, high-DPS attacks, and focus on avoiding the hell spikes at all costs. Gradually drain Diablo of roughly 50% of his Life to send the battle into the second stage, the Terror Phase. Diablo will teleport to the Hero's location and the two then travel to the Realm of Terror where the Hero must defeat the Shadow of Diablo [8].

TERROR PHASE

The Shadow of Diablo has access to all of the same attacks as displayed in the Prime Phase, but can now also summon Shadow Clones. These foes mimic the Hero's class and gender and attack with various skills available to that class (not necessarily the ones you have equipped). Diablo will disappear right before summoning the Shadow Clones and reappear once they've been defeated. Shadow Clones have far less Life than you do and can be slain without much trouble.

The battle against the Shadow of Diablo places an emphasis on agility, the ability to increase the frequency of health globes, and an adeptness at making your health potions last. The hell spikes can be difficult to spot before they rise thanks to the darker ground within the Realm of Terror, thus making it more likely that you'll fall into the Shadow of Diablo's grasp. Do not turn your back on the Hooded Nightmares, as their Curse of Rust will make it far harder to survive the Shadow of Diablo's attacks. Summon a pet or use a spell like Mystic Ally, Call of the Ancients, or Sentry to chip away at Shadow of Diablo's HP while you eliminate the others. The Shadow of Diablo will disappear and call upon Shadow Clones each time he loses a third of his Life. Kill the Shadow of Diablo to return to the Crystal Arch for the final, Ultimate Phase.

ULTIMATE PHASE

Diablo has only half of his Life for the third and final phase of the battle, but he has two new devastating attacks at his disposal. For starters, he now operates on overdrive and casts each of his attacks at an increased frequency, including the hell spikes, ground stomp, and others. It's not uncommon for Diablo to cast multiple rings of fire in quick succession, in an overlapping pattern. He can also raise more hell spikes than in the Prime Phase.

Diablo's deadliest attack is, by far, his lightning breath. Watch for him to lean back and take a deep breath, as the lightning breath he exhales is capable of inflicting severe damage. Make no mistake, this attack can kill the Hero instantly if not properly guarded against non-physical damage. Diablo will rotate slowly in place, emitting this energy beam in a sweeping motion across a 180-degree swath of the Crystal Arch. If you can teleport behind Diablo and attack him during this attack, do so. Otherwise, your only safe recourse is to flee!

Continue to rely on the Healing Wells and focus on attacking in between bouts of the lightning breath and hell spike attacks. Keep up the pressure and you'll eventually knock Diablo to his knees, allowing you to slay the Prime Evil with a final death blow [9].

Collect the loot Diablo drops and relish in the satisfaction of knowing that you alone were able to kill the Lord of Terror and return the light to the High Heavens. Speak with Auriel to end your journey [10] Quest Complete.

ARTISANS & CRAFTING

Traditionally, upgrading equipment in the Diablo series hinged on amassing huge piles of glittering loot. This is true in Diablo III, as well. In previous games, however, upgrades came primarily from monster drops: you equipped your character with better found items, sold off your unused loot, and used the proceeds to buy new items from town merchants—sturdier helms, more impenetrable armor, sharper weapons, and so forth. You can still do this in Diablo III, but the game also provides a new way to acquire a better arsenal.

THE CRAFTING SYSTEM

Here's how it works: In Act 1, you meet a blacksmith named Haedrig Eamon. Haedrig can “salvage” any of the unwanted Magic, Rare, or Legendary gear you've collected. He breaks it down into raw materials that can be used to craft newer, better equipment, but you can't do the crafting yourself. Only Haedrig can do the job, and it costs you gold, as well as the salvaged materials.

Once met, Haedrig joins your “caravan,” the personal entourage that accompanies the Hero from base to base. Later, in Act 2, you meet another artisan, Covetous Shen the Jeweler. For a price, Shen can combine lesser gems into more powerful ones that you can insert into socketed equipment to boost specific stats. Shen also joins your caravan, giving you another great resource for upgrading your stuff.

When you first meet each artisan, his respective list of “recipes” (blacksmith plans or jeweler designs) is quite limited. To get new, higher-level recipes you must train up your artisans to higher ranks. But this training requires a healthy investment of gold. In addition, after the first few rank increases, artisan training also calls for special Pages of Blacksmithing for Haedrig and Pages of Jewelcrafting for Shen.

“WORLD DROP” RECIPES

A number of Legendary plans are found only as “world drops” (items dropped by slain monsters or recovered from other loot sources). You must find and deliver these to your artisans; they can't learn them through training alone.

THE CRAFTING MATERIALS

Again, Haedrig the Blacksmith can salvage Magic, Rare, or Legendary gear, converting it into raw crafting materials. The quality of material generated by salvaging matches the quality of the item salvaged: Magic items (blue lettering) yield Magic crafting materials; Rare items (yellow) yield Rare crafting materials; and Legendary items (orange) yield Legendary crafting materials.

The following is a list of the crafting materials available in each of Diablo III's four difficulty modes.

CRAFTING MATERIALS: NORMAL

The following crafting materials can be acquired when playing Diablo III on the Normal difficulty setting.

SUBTLE ESSENCE	FALLEN TOOTH
Obtained by salvaging Magic weapons and armor in Normal mode.	Obtained by salvaging Rare weapons and armor in Normal mode.

CRAFTING MATERIALS: NIGHTMARE

The following crafting materials can be acquired only when playing Diablo III on the Nightmare difficulty setting.

SHIMMERING ESSENCE	LIZARD EYE
Obtained by salvaging Magic weapons and armor in Nightmare mode.	Obtained by salvaging Rare weapons and armor in Nightmare mode.

CRAFTING MATERIALS: HELL

The following crafting materials can be acquired only when playing Diablo III on the Hell difficulty setting.

WISHFUL ESSENCE	ENCRUSTED HOOF
Obtained by salvaging Magic weapons and armor in Hell mode.	Obtained by salvaging Rare weapons and armor in Hell mode.

CRAFTING MATERIALS: INFERNO

The following crafting materials can be acquired only when playing Diablo III on the Inferno difficulty setting.

EXQUISITE ESSENCE	IRIDESCENT TEAR	FIERY BRIMSTONE
Obtained by salvaging Magic weapons and armor in Inferno mode.	Obtained by salvaging Rare weapons and armor in Inferno mode.	Obtained by salvaging Legendary weapons and armor in Inferno mode.

THE ARTISANS

Each artisan has a particular specialty. Haedrig the Blacksmith can salvage unwanted gear and craft powerful new armor and weapons. Covetous Shen the Jeweler can combine lower-quality gems to produce a higher-quality cut; he can also remove gems from sockets so you can re-use gems over time.

TRAINING THE ARTISANS

Each artisan starts as an Apprentice with low-level crafting recipes. The quality of crafted items available improves as you train your artisans up to higher ranks—to Journeyman, Adept, Master, and beyond. Every artisan training rank upgrade costs gold and, eventually, special Pages or Tomes of Training. These Pages/Tomes drop from slain monsters or from smashed loot sources (chests, barrels, etc.), but only when playing Diablo III in its higher difficulty levels:

Page of Blacksmithing
(Nightmare Only)

Page of Jewelcrafting
(Nightmare Only)

Tome of Blacksmithing
(Hell Only)

Tome of Jewelcrafting
(Hell Only)

Tome of Secrets
(Inferno Only)

Training Tip

All Hero classes can benefit from the handiwork of both artisans, but there's a major time gap between when you unlock Haedrig the Blacksmith in Act 1 and Covetous Shen the Jeweler in Act 2. Focus primarily on training up the Blacksmith in your first Normal mode playthrough. Worry about the Jeweler only after Haedrig has advanced to higher ranks.

Each time an artisan moves up to a new rank, watch the transformation as his workshop expands. Note that artisans keep their current rank across all the different characters on the same Battle.net account—similar to how your Stash is shared between characters. So for example, a Grand Master Blacksmith will be at the Grand Master rank for every other character you create on your account.

HAEDRIG THE BLACKSMITH

Haedrig's blacksmith skills are unlocked at the conclusion of Act I, Quest 3: "A Shattered Crown." This character can perform two very helpful tasks for you. First, he can salvage unwanted equipment into raw crafting materials. And second, he can forge new weapons and armor—first-rate gear that you won't find anywhere else in the game.

SALVAGE

Haedrig can also salvage Magic, Rare, or Legendary items that may be clogging up your inventory, breaking them down into the raw materials you need for crafting new stuff.

FORGE

Haedrig can forge powerful new weapons and armor using blacksmith plans, as well. Each plan starts with a base item—say, a wand or a helm—then adds “essences” and sometimes other crafting materials to enhance the item's capabilities. The number of plans available depends on Haedrig's current rank, with higher ranks unlocking more and higher quality plans. He starts as a Level 1 Apprentice, but you can train him all the way up to the Level 10 rank of Exalted. Each rank has five training stages.

Here's an example of how forging works:

Let's say you open the Forge Armor tab and ask Haedrig to forge the wrist bracers listed as “Apprentice Leather Cuffs.” All rare and magic items created by the Blacksmith have a certain number of Random Magic Properties. So crafting and equipping these bracers will imbue this item with a property (or properties) that is determined randomly... and only after the crafting begins. No stopping the process, and no refunds allowed!

Crafting the Apprentice Leather Cuffs costs 320 gold, plus two samples of the Magic crafting material called Subtle Essence. If you have the money and material, click the “Craft” button. In this example, Haedrig crafts bracers called the Gathering Leather Cuffs of the Bear, and they add +16 Armor and +1 Vitality when equipped. The random magic property imbued is “Increases Health and Gold Pickup by 2 Yards.”

FOUND BLACKSMITH PLANS

Training Haedrig, even to the Exalted level, doesn't give you access to all of the blacksmith plans available in the game. Indeed, dozens of recipes can be found only as “world drops”—that is, as items dropped by slain monsters or sprung from broken chests, barrels, or other sources of loot. Once acquired, you can give these recipes to Haedrig.

Note that each found plan requires a minimum level of blacksmithing expertise, so Haedrig may not be able to accept the recipe from you without additional training. To give Haedrig a found blacksmith plan, click on him and select Craft to open the crafting interface, then just right-click on the new recipe in your Inventory. If Haedrig's blacksmith rank is high enough to forge the new item, the plan automatically transfers into his recipe list.

We list the plans that can be found for each respective training level in tables later in this chapter.

COVETOUS SHEN THE JEWELER

You gain access to Covetous Shen's gem expertise when you return to camp after finding the Jeweler's Crucible during Act 2, Quest 7: "Blood and Sand." By combining lower level gems, Shen crafts powerful new gems that really buff your gear when inserted into equipment sockets. Shen acquires most of his jewelcrafting recipes, called "designs," via training. However, you can also find a handful of Exalted-level designs (Exalted is a jeweler's highest rank) dropped by slain monsters or other loot sources.

GEM COMBINER

Shen can combine three like gems into a single gem that is one tier higher in quality—for example, three Chipped Emeralds become a single Flawed Emerald, while three Flawed Emeralds become one normal Emerald. The higher the jeweler's rank, the better gems he can create. Details are provided in the Training Levels section later in this chapter.

REMOVE GEM

For a gold cost, Shen can remove any gem that is currently socketed into your gear. This action returns both the gem and the equipment item to your inventory, separate and intact.

FOUND JEWELER DESIGNS

Just training Covetous Shen doesn't give you access to all of the jeweler designs available in the game. A handful of high-level recipes can be found as "world drops"—that is, as items dropped by slain monsters or sprung from broken chests, barrels, or other sources of loot. Once acquired, you can give these recipes to Shen for learning... but only if he has been trained to the Exalted (highest) rank.

To give Shen a found jeweler design, click on him and select Craft to open the crafting interface, then just right-click on the new recipe in your Inventory. Again, if Shen is an Exalted-level jeweler, he "learns" the design and it automatically transfers into his recipe list.

See the "Level 10: Exalted" table at the end of this chapter for a complete list of the jeweler designs not available via training.

Your blacksmith's Apprentice training regimen has five stages. Haedrig can forge gear using a starter set of armor plans right away, so the first stage of training is free. But it costs gold to train Haedrig up through the succeeding stages of his Apprentice skills.

TRAINING STAGE 1

Again, this first stage is "free" in that you don't have to pay any training costs. The blacksmith Armor and Weapons plans listed here can be purchased from the very first time Haedrig is available to craft items for you.

THE LOOT SYSTEM

Every time you kill a monster or smash a breakable object in Diablo III, there's a chance that the fallen foe or broken barrel will yield a "loot drop"—a pile of collectible items that falls to the ground for easy pickup. These items can be gold, health globes, potions, gems, dyes, weapons, armor, or other equipment. In this chapter, we review these items and take a look at the unique way that Diablo III generates them.

How loot appears in the game—whether or not it drops, the amount, and the properties of each item—is randomized based on several key variables. If a monster drops loot, the quality of the item(s) dropped is most affected by the monster's level. If the loot bursts from an environmental object like a chest or barrel or pile of bones, the type/quality of items is most affected by where you're at in the game.

Other factors can come into play, as well. The fact is, Diablo III monsters can drop a wide range of loot items, but the odds of a low-level monster dropping a high-quality item are extremely small. So overall, it works just as you'd expect: The higher a monster's level, the better chance that it drops good loot after you slay the beast.

ITEMS AND AFFIXES

Some of the loot dropped in Diablo III is equipment that can enhance the Hero's attributes—like a better helm to boost your Armor stat, a better sword to increase the Damage you inflict and maybe add elemental damage, and so on. But unlike other games, Diablo III can't just provide you with a static list of all items available.

Here's why: if the game generates an item drop after you slay a monster, it starts with a base piece of equipment and determines its quality and rarity. These traits are "weighted" by the quality and rarity of the monster itself. In other words, the system's odds favor a loot drop that roughly matches the slain monster's level.

But that's not all. Within parameters and ranges based on monster level and other variables, the system may also randomly assign special properties to the item. These enhancements are indicated by "affixes"—descriptive word tags added before or after the base item's name.

Here's an example: Let's say you kill a monster and it drops an item called the Broad Axe of the Leech. The base item is the Broad Axe, a low-level one-handed axe. In this particular case, the game has also randomly assigned an affix that indicates an enhancement to the weapon—the suffix "of the Leech."

This weapon, then, has two elements: The Broad Axe has a damage range of 4-7 per hit.

The suffix "of the Leech" heals the Hero every time you successfully land a blow.

Again, the higher the monster's level, the higher the quality of item(s) it drops when killed. One reason is that the special properties bestowed on base items by affixes get more powerful as the monsters get tougher. We explain the details of these Treasure Tiers in a second.

With hundreds of items and affixes available for random combinations, the number of items the game can generate is really, really big. Listing all possible items would fill a set of encyclopedias. So instead, we'll explain further how the loot system works, and then list only its basic components.

TREASURE TIERS

Again, there are ranges of quality for both the base item and for any affixed special properties. As we said, the primary variable that determines the quality of a slain monster's loot drop is the monster's level—the higher the monster level, the more the odds are weighted in favor of it dropping a higher quality base item, and the better chance that the game will also attach higher quality enhancements (or “affixes”) to that base item.

These item/affix ranges are divided into “tiers” that correspond to the monster levels. If the monster is a low-level creature, chances are that any gear it drops will be selected from the lower tiers of items, and enhancements assigned (if any) will be from lower-tier affixes. Thus, each monster is said to have a “treasure tier” based on its level—the game tends to drop random items selected from item/affix tiers that correspond to the monster's level.

As mentioned earlier, it is possible for a lower-level monster to drop a mighty, marvelous, high-quality item. But that chance is very small.

TYPICAL LOOT DROP

Before we move on, here's another simplified example. Let's say you kill a monster and the game randomly decides that the slain beast will drop a one-handed mace enhanced to inflict Cold damage:

- One-handed maces range in quality from the lowly Club (required level to use is 1) with its average damage per second (DPS) rate of 5.1, all the way up to the fearsome Demolisher (required level to use is 60) with its average DPS of 272.
- Cold damage affixes for weapons range in quality from the tier 1 affix “of Winter” which adds 1-4 Cold damage per hit, all the way up to the tier 14 affix “of the Avalanche” with a Cold damage bonus range of 86 to 345 per hit.

So if you kill a very low-level monster, and the game randomly chooses to drop a one-handed mace with Cold damage bonus affix, chances are it would drop something like the “Club of Winter.” But if the slain monster is an extremely high-level beast, the dropped item will probably be something more like “Demolisher of the Avalanche.”

Again, this is a simplified example. There is an element of random chance in every item drop, with the game making selections as if rolling many-sided dice. (In fact, the game designers often refer to the game as “rolling” a selection when an item is dropped or a monster spawns in a particular area.) But this gives you a good illustration of how item drops are typically generated in Diablo III.

SPECIAL ITEMS

Most items found in the game are of the common sort, but some are more special, with added properties. These fall into three categories: Rare & Magic items, Legendary items, and Special Sets.

RARE & MAGIC ITEMS

Rare and Magic items are imbued with random combinations of special properties. Rare items feature yellow backgrounds and lettering in their info pop-up windows; Magic items have blue backgrounds and lettering.

LEGENDARY ITEMS

These items have special names—Leoric's Crown (a helm), Echoing Fury (a mace), Eye of Etlich (an amulet), and so on. Each one features a potent mix of enhanced qualities that include some random properties. Look for Legendary items to drop when you slay powerful monsters or from chests and other environmental containers. Legendary items feature brown backgrounds and lettering in their info pop-up windows.

SPECIAL SETS

In Diablo III, you can find or craft certain items that can be grouped together into matching sets. Individually, these items have plenty of special properties. But when you equip all items of the same set at once, you pick up additional powers and enhancements. Items that are part of item sets feature green backgrounds and lettering in their info pop-up windows.

Here's an example: If you find the blacksmith plan for the item set called “Born's Aegis” and deliver it to Haedrig the Blacksmith, he can craft the following three items: Born's Pauldrons (shoulders), Born's Carapace (chest armor), and Born's Seething Rage (one-handed sword). Each item is powerful in its own right, but equipping the entire set significantly boosts your Defense stat! Of course, each piece of the set is very expensive to craft, as well.

THE EQUIPMENT AFFIXES

Affixes are word tags that designate specific enhancements added to a piece of equipment. Each affix indicates a stat boost or some other special effect. The tag can be a suffix at the end of the item's name, or a prefix added before the item's name.

So a simple Dagger might be enhanced by the prefix "Keen" to become a Keen Dagger, which increases its attack speed by 6-7 percent. Or the Dagger might add the suffix "of Flame" to become the Dagger of Flame, which adds 1-5 points of Fire damage to your dagger strikes. Or it could add both— as in, the Keen Dagger of Flame!

Note that the same affix sometimes spreads across several "tiers" or levels of an effect. For example, the prefix "Pure" is the same for the first four tiers of the Poison Resistance attribute, although the stats increase for each tier. Again, these "tiers" roughly correspond to the difficulty you faced in acquiring the item with the affix. If the slain monster that dropped the item was a low-level creature, chances are that both the item and the affix attached to the item are each also of a lower tier.

AFFIX LEVEL MINIMUM

Inside the Diablo III game engine, all items have an internal level number, and every affix has an "affix level minimum." If an item's internal level number is below an affix's level minimum, the affix cannot be applied to the item. This prevents the incongruity of attaching extremely powerful affixes to crude, lowly items.

BASE EQUIPMENT

Base equipment for your Diablo III Heroes includes armor and weapons; offhand items such as shields, quivers and mojos; and jewelry such as rings and amulets. Each piece of equipment is typically comprised of a base item imbued with a standard set of stats, plus one or more “special property” affixes attached.

Note that you can also acquire a number of Legendary items as well as “set” items that are part of powerful matching equipment sets. For more on this special equipment, see our sections on Legendary Items and Special Sets later in this chapter.

A NOTE ON DAMAGE VALUES

The base damage that a weapon inflicts with any given hit is drawn from a range of damage values—the game actually draws from a minimum damage range and a maximum damage range for each weapon.

But to simplify the stats we just list the lowest and highest possible damage values for each weapon variety. These won't be the exact values of the damage range for any specific weapon of that variety, but they'll be very close.

WEAPONS

AXES: ONE-HANDED

All five classes can wield a one-handed axe, with its default slot being the Hero's main (right) hand. Both the Barbarian and the Monk can dual-wield these weapons.

In Diablo III, each Hero's body has eight different "equippable" areas that can wear protective armor: head, shoulders, wrists, hands, waist, torso, legs, and feet. All armor boosts your Armor stat, which reduces the amount of damage you take from enemy hits. Most of this gear requires you to reach a specific level before you can equip it.

Remember that the game also randomly adds enhancements (identified by affixes tagged onto the gear's name) to armor items that boost stats or bestow special abilities when you don the gear. So a slain monster may drop a base armor item such as the Plated Helm with an affix added—for example, the "Plated Helm of Cruelty." When equipped, a Plated Helm (the base item) adds 90-113 points to your Armor stat, but the affix "of Cruelty" also boosts your Dexterity stat by 42-47. For details on these enhancements, see the Equipment Affixes section earlier in this chapter.

One other note: Overall, the initial version of Diablo III features 17 different armor sets of base equipment. Except for Armor Set 1 (which has no head or shoulders gear), every armor set has one piece of equipment for each of the eight equippable body areas.

CLASS/GENDER SPECIFIC

Armor items are visibly unique to each Hero class. In other words, an item may have the same name yet look distinctly different, depending on the class and gender of the Hero. A male Monk's Armor Set 5 not only looks different from that of a Barbarian or a Demon Hunter, but also has a unique appearance compared to Armor Set 5 of a female Monk.

OFFHAND EQUIPMENT

In the Inventory page, the Offhand slot is the right slot (the Hero's left hand). Shields are the most common Offhand items, usable by all classes. You can also acquire a number of class-specific Offhand items. These are typically comprised of a base item with one or more affixes attached.

Remember that you can also acquire a number of Legendary Offhand items, as well as special "set" items that are part of powerful matching equipment sets. For details on these, refer to our coverage of Legendary Items and Special Set Items later in this chapter.

SHIELDS

Shields are held in the Hero's off (left) hand to provide extra Armor, plus a chance to block incoming enemy hits. All five Hero classes can use shields.

JEWELRY

Amulets and rings are typically comprised of a base item with an affix attached. Again, the game generates unique pieces of jewelry by taking the base item and adding random affixes to bestow special properties. The higher the jewelry item's level, the better chance that the game will assign a more powerful set of affixes to the item.

Remember that you can also acquire a number of Legendary jewelry items, as well as jewelry that's part of powerful matching equipment sets. For details on these special items, see our coverage of Legendary Items and Special Set Items later in this chapter.

Here are the base rings in the game. Rings are worn when placed on the two Finger slots in your Inventory.

FOLLOWER SPECIALS

During the course of your Diablo III adventure, you run into three characters that may join the Hero and fight by your side, one at a time. Each Follower can carry special items, unique to his/her calling. Note that these items alone (as listed here) have no intrinsic powers. But the game attaches random affixes to each item that bestow special properties.

ENCHANTRESS FOCI

Eirena the Enchantress can carry unique foci associated with scrying and hypnotism; items such as eyes, mirrors, and herbs. These are more than just trinkets—they channel the ancient mysticism of her sect, and thus provide her with potent increases to her abilities.

PAGES AND TOMES

When you first meet Haedrig the Blacksmith and Covetous Shen the Jeweler, each one is an Apprentice with only a small handful of low-level crafting recipes. However, you can train both artisans to higher ranks—to Journeyman, Adept, Master, and beyond—so that they learn more recipes that produce higher quality items.

This training costs you only gold at first. However, as your artisans reach higher ranks, the training gets more expensive, and you must supplement your gold payments with special training pages or tomes that you find out in the world. Look for slain monsters or smashed loot sources (like chests and barrels) to drop these pages/tomes during your Diablo III sojourns.

DYES

Bottles of dye change the color of a single piece of equipment. To apply a color, simply right-click on the dye bottle in your inventory to activate it, then left-click on the item you wish to dye.

NAME	COLOR/EFFECT	DESCRIPTION
 Aquatic Dye	Light Blue	Sailors from Lut Gholein distill the waters of the Twin Seas and apply the bright blue mixture to their sails in order to blend in and avoid detection by pirates.
 Bottled Cloud	Beige	The gentle wind of the heavens cools the air, infusing the area with a soft glow.
 Bottled Smoke	Dark Gray	An eerie howl emanates from within as creeping shadows spill forth.
 Cardinal Dye	Dark Red	Once reserved only for nobility, this rich red pigment is now donned by both the influential and the courageous.
 Desert Dye	Light Brown	Sandy brown pigment is carried by the merchant caravans of the Dry Steppes to reflect the sun and hide dust.
 Elegant Dye	Fuchsia	The bright magenta colors of the Hezra flower are always a favorite amongst the fashionable elite of Caldeum.
 Forester's Dye	Green	The Wardens of Duncraig wear coats of rich green velvet while patrolling the woods for poachers and wolves.
 Golden Dye	Gold Yellow	Flecks of gold are melted into boiling oil to create a rare pigment used strictly by nobility.
 Summer Dye	Yellow	This bright yellow dye is extracted from spices shipped from Kurast at great expense.
 Winter Dye	Gray	Jars of crushed Veilwood petals are buried in the snow throughout the winter to create this soft white hue.
 Spring Dye	Light Green	Bright green garb is traditionally worn during the Hearth Festival in Bramwell to celebrate the first thaw of springtime.

NAME	COLOR/EFFECT	DESCRIPTION
 Tanner's Dye	Brown	Leatherworkers use a variety of oils to seal their skins with a rich, natural brown pigment.
 Autumn Dye	Orange	The monks from the Order of Yir crush the first orange leaves of autumn into tea, and apply it to their robes during the Ceremony of the Harvest Moon.
 Ranger's Dye	Yellow Green	Hunters and bandits alike use the bark of the Gorsenna plant to blend in with the rustic green shadows of the forest.
 Royal Dye	Purple	For many years the color purple was forbidden to all citizens of Kingsport outside of the Royal Family.
 Lovely Dye	Pink	Named for the beauty of Queen Asylla, who once had a thousand gowns created in this beautiful pink color as a gift from King Leoric.
 Mariner's Dye	Blue	Officers of vessels navigating the Skovos Isles wear deep blue garments to indicate seniority.
 Abyssal Dye	Black	The inky blackness seems to grow even darker when exposed to the sun, as though it were drinking in the very light that touches it.
 Infernal Dye	Red	The bottle is warm to the touch, seeming to flicker with bright red liquid fire.
 Purity Dye	White	This mysterious mixture seems to make any material it is applied to impossible to soil, swirling and coalescing like a perfect white cloud.
 Vanishing Dye	Renders a single piece of armor invisible	Causes materials to vanish before your very eyes! Be sure not to apply this to your undergarments.
 All Soap's Miraculous Dye Remover	Returns a single piece of armor to its original color	The miraculous, mystical tonic that removes stains, cures rotfoot, and tastes great! It's got what plants crave! Warning: Do Not Drink.

LEGENDARY ITEMS

This is your comprehensive resource of the awesome Legendary weapons, armor, and other equipment in Diablo III. These powerful items with unique names are typically loaded with special affixes that make them particularly valuable.

Here's a quick explanation of the table categories for each Legendary item:

Total Affix Count lists how many affixes the Legendary item will have—a guaranteed total.

Bonus Affixes lists how many randomly selected affixes can be “rolled” on the item, up to the Total Affix Count.

Guaranteed Affixes lists the affix types that always will be applied to the Legendary item.

INTRODUCTION

Heroes fight better when they know their enemies well. Many, many monsters roam the haunted halls and killing fields of Diablo III. Our A-to-Z Bestiary listing gives you an accounting of each hellish species, its variants, and its basic capabilities.

But before we examine individual monster types, let's review some general monster characteristics. As we do, keep in mind that Diablo III is a game of variance, chance, and randomization. Aside from boss battles, few things about how enemies present themselves are set in stone.

MONSTER RANKS

Almost every monster you face in Diablo III is randomly generated, meaning that combat in most areas will be somewhat different each time you play through—different enemies spawning in different spots. One part of this randomization is the monster rank system.

Many enemies have a chance to spawn as Normal, Champion, or Rare monsters. As these names suggest, Normal monsters are your standard, everyday rank and have the greatest percentage chance of appearing. Champions are tougher and appear far less frequently; Rares are tougher still and appear, yes... rarely.

Normal

Monsters of the Normal rank represent the bulk of hell's horde in Diablo III—these foul troops comprise more than 98 percent of the enemies you face in the game. Each Normal monster type has a basic set of stats and abilities that you can review in our Bestiary tables.

Note that "Normal" only refers to the monster's rank in relation to higher-level versions of itself (Champion or Rare). A monster of the so-called "Normal" rank may actually be quite remarkable. For example, the Normal-rank version of the fearsome Enslaved Nightmare is an extremely rare and powerful beast, found in only two areas of the game. So if this nightmarish foe spawns as a Champion or Rare ranked monster, look out!

Rare

SCAROS, LORD OF DAMNATION

FAST MISSILE DAMPENING

Rare monsters are also bigger versions of Normal monster types, but they're even tougher and deadlier than the Champion rank. Rares glow yellow and feature yellow lettering in their pop-up info box. Each Rare monster also has a distinct, randomly generated name that often includes an appellation, such as "Eydolonn the Revenant" or "Tyrant Foulspawn." Rares tend to drop an awesome pile of loot when they die.

Aside from their boosted health and damage stats, Rare monsters also spawn with special traits (see our Monster Traits section in this chapter) that give them abilities and powers well beyond those of their Normal cousins. These traits are listed directly under the monster's health bar that appears at the top of the screen when you mouse over that creature. Each Rare monster also arrives with an escort of special minions that sometimes share the special traits of their "parent" monster.

Minion

Minions are Normal monsters with boosted stats that escort any Rare monster that appears. Minions are the same level as their "parent" Rare monster, and typically feature higher HP and damage ratings than their Normal relatives. In many cases, minions also share the special monster traits of their "parent" Rare monster.

Unique

We don't cover Unique monsters in our Bestiary. They appear at specific points in the main story, so we provide info about them at the appropriate place in our Quest Guide. Each Unique features purple lettering in its pop-up info box and has a special subtitle—for example, the Moontooth Dreadshark you may encounter in the sewers of Caldeum is also known as "The Shadowswimmer." Think of Uniques as "special actors"—hand-picked enemies placed in an area to create a sub-event that adds flavor or drives the story.

Note that although Unique monsters are sometimes very tough opponents, their purpose isn't necessarily to create a more difficult combat challenge. In fact, sometimes Unique monsters are actually less powerful than the Normal version of their monster type.

Also note that in many cases, where Unique monsters appear is still somewhat randomized. For example, The Old Man, a Unique version of the Wood Wraith, always appears in the Fields of Misery in Act 1, but his exact spawning location within those fields can be different for each playthrough. So it is possible to miss some of the Unique monsters as you move through the maps.

Champion

Champion monsters are simply bigger, tougher versions of Normal monster types. The chance that a monster type will spawn as Champion rank rather than Normal is lower, but trust us, you'll see your share of Champions. They're easy to identify: they glow blue, and their pop-up info box features blue lettering when you mouse over the creature. Keep in mind that Champions typically travel in small packs, making their appearances even more threatening.

DEMON TROOPER

MISSILE DAMAGE ENTANGLER

The Champion version of a monster type is always the same level as the Normal version and earns you the same XP for defeating it. However, Champions have significantly higher damage and health stats than their Normal versions, making them more lethal and tougher to kill. So what's the reward for defeating Champion foes? Well, chances are very good that they'll drop more and better loot when they die than Normal monsters.

Champions always have special monster traits (see our Monster Traits section in this chapter) that give them abilities and powers unseen in their Normal cousins. Any such traits are listed directly under the monster's health bar that appears at the top of the screen when you mouse over that creature. If you encounter a pack of Champions, be ready for a difficult fight.

MONSTER TRAITS

The non-Normal monsters encountered in Diablo III—i.e., Champion, Rare, and minion monsters—almost always spawn with special powers or “traits” that make them more dangerous. The game’s design team refers to these traits as “affixes” because they’re added as modifier terms directly under the monster’s health bar that appears at the top of the screen when you mouse over a creature.

The following is a list of all possible monster traits in the original version of Diablo III. Note that monsters that spawn with traits at level 14 or higher will have more than one trait affixed.

Arcane Enchanted

Monsters imbued with the Arcane Enchanted trait can summon a deadly purple beam. These beams rotate in a withering circle of pain that inflicts Arcane damage.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Arcane
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	Arcane

- Arcane Enchanted monsters spawn a glowing, orb-like source every few seconds. This source emits a purple Arcane beam that rotates for a brief time.
- If the Hero walks through the beam or the source, he suffers Arcane damage.

Avenger

Only Champion monsters can spawn with the Avenger trait. When a Champion group imbued with Avenger arrives, the death of each group member imbues the remaining Champions with added powers as they wreak their frenzied vengeance on the Hero.

- When a Champion bearing the Avenger affix falls, all remaining Avengers gain increased movement speed, attack speed, and damage inflicted until they are killed.
- This effect stacks 3+ times, growing greater in the avenging survivors as each Champion is killed.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	51
AVAILABLE TO	Champions Only
DAMAGE TYPE	Standard
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Desecrator

Monsters with the Desecrator trait can conjure a deadly void directly underneath the Hero. Desecrator monsters are granted no new resistances, and the standard damage they deal is not modified.

- The Desecrator creates a glowing void zone beneath the targeted Hero.
- The void zone inflicts periodic damage to any Hero standing within its radius.
- Once cast, void zones are locked in place. To escape a zone, just walk away from it. The zones disappear after a short time.
- Minions that accompany a Desecrator cannot create void zones themselves.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	22
AVAILABLE TO	Rare, Champion
DAMAGE TYPE	Physical
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Electrified

Electrified monsters are granted Lightning resistance and deal Lightning damage when attacking. The Electrified trait also gives the monster a special Lightning-based ability. The trait is available to all Champion and Rare/Minion monsters above level 26.

- When you hit an Electrified monster, it spews charged bolts of Lightning in multiple directions.
- If a charged bolt strikes the Hero or allies, it deals Lightning damage.
- Remember that minions of an Electrified Rare monster are Electrified, too, and also emit charged bolts when hit.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	26
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Lightning
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	Lightning

Extra Health

This trait bestows the imbued monster with extra HP. Only monsters at level 31 or above can acquire the Extra Health trait. Extra Health is available to Champion, Rare, and Minion monsters.

- Extra Health monsters start with 150% of their normal health.
- Note that this affix is available to minions of an Extra Health monster.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Fast

This trait speeds up monsters, making them run, attack, and cast magic faster. All Champion and Rare/Minion monsters at level 31 or above can acquire the Fast trait. Monsters imbued with Fast are granted no additional resistances, nor do their attacks inflict extra damage.

- Fast-imbued monsters have their running speed increased by 40%.

- Fast-imbued monsters have their attack speed increased by 20%.

- Fast-imbued monsters have their spell-casting speed increased by 10%.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Fire Chains

This trait extends burning chains between Champion monsters that spawn in as a group linked with the Fire Chains affix. (The trait is applied to the entire linked group.)

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	Champions only
DAMAGE TYPE	Standard
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- Fire Chains extend and dissolve repeatedly between the members of the linked Champion group.
- The Hero suffers damage if he touches or even gets near one of the fiery links.

Frozen

Frozen-imbued monsters inflict Cold damage with their attacks and have strong Cold resistance. They also wield a pair of Cold-based special attacks.

- Frozen-imbued monsters inflict a slowing effect when they hit you with basic attacks.
- The Hero turns a light shade of blue for a short time when affected.
- During this period, your movement speed is reduced by about 50 percent. The effect can stack.
- Frozen monsters explode in a powerful blast of flying ice shards when defeated.
- Area-of-effect damage is distributed to the Hero and any allies standing within the blast radius.
- Frozen minions also explode in a Frost Nova when killed.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
ICY TOUCH

SPECIAL ABILITY:
FROST NOVA

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	22
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Cold
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	Cold

Health Link

This special trait is for Champion monsters only, and it activates only if more than one Champion is present. (Champions typically appear in small packs.) Health Link reduces the amount of damage taken by the Champion with that trait by linking his HP to that of all other Health Link champions in the area. This makes it much harder to clear an area of Champion monsters.

- When a Health Link Champion takes damage, that damage is divided equally amongst all other Health Link Champions in the vicinity.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	51
AVAILABLE TO	Champion packs only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Horde

This special trait is for Rare monsters only. Horde increases the squad of minions that spawn in with a Rare monster, crowding the battlefield.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	Rare only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- Horde monsters spawn with three extra minions.
- Note that it's a hidden trait—neither the Rare Horde monster nor its minions will have the "Horde" affix listed under its health bar.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
EXTRA MINIONS

Illusionist

The Illusionist trait imbues a creature with the ability to create dangerous clones of itself. The trait grants no new resistances, and the damage dealt by an Illusionist is not modified in any way. Illusionist is available to minions, as well as Rare and Champion monsters.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	26
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- Each Illusionist has the chance to use Polymorph to create two clones of itself when damaged.
- Each clone created has the same HP as its host.
- Clones cannot create clones of themselves.
- No loot or XP is awarded for killing clones.
- Minions escorting a Rare Illusionist can Polymorph just like the parent monster.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
POLYMORPH

Invulnerable Minions

Only Rare monsters above level 51 can spawn in with the Invulnerable Minions trait. These Rares arrive with a squad of indestructible puppet minions and an expanded health pool.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	51
AVAILABLE TO	Rare only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- The health pool for an Invulnerable Minions Rare monster is increased by 50%.
- The Rare monster's minions are indestructible until the parent falls. When the Rare parent is killed, all of its minions are also terminated.
- The minions are only invulnerable to damage. Status effects will work against them; use these as crowd control tactics so you can focus on the Rare parent monster.

Jailer

The Jailer trait gives monsters the ability to immobilize the Hero in a conjured prison. The effect is brief, but long enough to make you an easy target.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	8
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- Each attack by a Jailer monster has a 25% chance to inflict his debuff on you.
- The Jailer effect completely immobilizes the Hero.
- The Dashing Strike skill lets you move, but doesn't free you from the trap. Spirit Walk lets you escape entirely, however.

Knockback

The Knockback trait adds the possibility of a powerful pushback blow to every melee hit delivered by the imbued monster. Any Champion or Rare monster (including minions) at any level can spawn with Knockback. The trait grants no new resistances, and the damage dealt is not modified in any way.

- Knockback monsters have a chance to perform a special knockback attack with each melee swing.
- Characters hit with a knockback blow are sent flying backwards a short distance.
- The monster's knockback blow inflicts normal damage to the Hero.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	0
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Standard
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Missile Dampening

Only Rare monsters can spawn with the Missile Dampening aura. Creatures imbued with the trait generate a reddish sphere around themselves. Any projectile entering this sphere moves considerably slower.

- Any projectiles fired at a Missile Dampening monster slow by 50% once they enter the dampening field.
- The projectiles speed up when leaving the aura range or the imbued monster is killed.
- The Rare monster's minions are not imbued with the Missile Dampening trait.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	8
AVAILABLE TO	Rare only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Molten

Enemies with the Molten trait are granted Fire resistance and add Fire damage to their normal attacks. They also exhibit a pair of Fire-based special attacks. As they move, Molten creatures leave a trail of painful lava pools. When they die, they explode in a fiery blast.

Champion or Rare monsters and their minions of level 8 and above can be spawned with the Molten trait. Minions, however, cannot acquire the Explosion special ability (see below).

- All Molten monsters emit a trail of flaming lava pools.
- If the Hero and/or allies stand on or near a lava pool, the heat inflicts periodic damage to them as flames rise up around them.
- Flames rise up around afflicted characters to visually mark the damage.
- When killed, Rare and Champion monsters imbued with the Molten trait explode in a blistering ball of fire.
- Minion monsters imbued with Molten do not explode when killed.
- The Hero and/or allies suffer damage if caught within the blast radius.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
FLAME TRAIL

SPECIAL ABILITY:
EXPLOSION

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	8
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Fire
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	Fire

Mortar

All monsters with the Mortar trait add a persistent bomb-lobbing attack to their regular attacks. Champion or Rare monsters plus their minions can spawn with Mortar.

- The Mortar monster launches a quick volley of three firebombs at the Hero every 4-5 seconds.
- The bombs inflict Physical damage.
- The Mortar monster keeps tossing bombs until he dies.
- Minions also spawn with the trait if their parent Rare is a Mortar monster.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
GRENADES

LEVEL MIN/MAX	22
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Physical
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Nightmarish

Any Rare monster and its Minions of all levels can spawn with the Nightmarish trait. This imbues a monster's attacks with an element of Fear. Any attack by a Nightmarish foe has the chance to send your character fleeing in terror.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	0
AVAILABLE TO	Rare only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- Any attack made by a Nightmarish monster has a chance to cause the Hero to run away in fear for a short time.
- The trait is not available to Champion monsters, nor is it to the minions of the Rare Nightmarish.

SPECIAL ABILITY: TERROR

Plagued

All monsters at level 14 and above can be spawned with the Plagued trait. All damage dealt by a Plagued monster is Poison-based. The trait also grants Poison resistance to the monster (including minions) and triggers three special Poison-based attacks.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	14
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	Poison
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	Poison

- All Plagued monsters unleash a melee swing attack that deals Poison damage.
- A splash of green slime visually marks the Poison-imbued attack when the Plagued monster lands a blow.

- A pulsing, toxic green cloud appears when your character gets in close proximity to a Plagued monster.
- The poisonous cloud deals damage over time, slowly draining the Hero's health while he's caught within the cloud's radius.

- When a Plagued monster dies, a large toxic cloud of green poison gas emits from the corpse.
- The poisonous cloud deals damage over time, slowly draining the Hero's health if she's caught within the cloud's radius.

Shielding

The Shielding trait gives Rare monsters and their minions a brief invulnerability to all forms of damage.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	22
AVAILABLE TO	Rares and their minions
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- A protective field emanates from the Rare monster with Shielding for a short duration.
- The field protects the Shielding monster from all forms of damage.
- The Rare's minions will be imbued with Shielding, as well.

Teleporter

The Teleporter trait allows monsters to zap around the field of battle, phasing away when attacked only to jump back next to you moments later for a counterattack. The trait has no effect on damage or resistances.

LEVEL MIN/MAX	0
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- All Teleporter monsters systematically teleport during encounters.
- Teleporter monsters tend to teleport away when they get too close to the Hero, and teleport closer when they're too far away from the Hero.
- Minions of a Rare Teleporter will spawn with the ability, too.

Thorns

All Champion and Rare monsters (but not minions) above level 26 can have the Thorns trait. When you strike a Thorns-imbued foe with a melee attack, you suffer automatic damage in return.

- When you attack a Thorns monster, 20% of the damage you inflict is dealt back to the Hero.
- The monster's retaliation damage is triggered only by your melee attacks.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
RETALIATION

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	26
AVAILABLE TO	Champion, Rare
DAMAGE TYPE	Standard
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Vampiric

The Vampiric trait allows monsters to literally feast on the damage they inflict on you by turning it into health for themselves. All Rare, Champion, and minion monsters at level 31 or higher can acquire the trait.

- Twenty percent of the damage dealt by a Vampiric monster is refunded back to it in the form of health points.
- Minions of Vampiric Rare monsters also benefit from this ability.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
LIFE STEAL

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	31
AVAILABLE TO	All
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

Vortex

This trait allows monsters to draw their foes into close quarters, so Vortex is particularly dangerous if your character relies on ranged attacks. The ability itself does not inflict damage, however. Rare and Champion monsters of level 8 or higher can have the Vortex trait, but not their minions.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	8
AVAILABLE TO	Champion, Rare
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- This ability functions as a kind of reverse Knockback, pulling the Hero toward the Vortex monster.
- Vortex itself does not damage the Hero.
- Minions that accompany a Vortex monster cannot perform this ability.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
VACUUM

Waller

Waller allows Champion monsters imbued with the trait to erect impenetrable barriers on the battlefield for brief durations of time. No Rare or minion monsters can spawn with the trait.

MONSTER LEVEL MINIMUM	8
AVAILABLE TO	Champions only
DAMAGE TYPE	N/A
ADDITIONAL RESISTANCES	None

- No source of damage can take down a Waller-created barrier. The walls are indestructible.
- The walls cannot damage Heroes.
- Attacks or abilities that strike walls are absorbed; they do not bounce off or reflect.
- The Waller effect disappears after a short duration.

SPECIAL ABILITY:
THE WALL

BESTIARY

Here it is, your field guide to Hell's wildlife. The entries are in alphabetical order, so if you encounter a monster and want a quick overview of its basic behavior, stats, and special abilities, just mouse over it in-game to see its name on the pop-up, then look it up here.

Remember that this listing includes only the basic monster types. Individual Champion or Rare names and affixes are randomly generated, and Unique monsters are covered in the corresponding sections of our Quest Guide. Of course, Boss-type monsters are covered extensively in the walkthrough, as well.

OTHER NOTES ON THE BESTIARY

DAMAGE

All of the numbers listed in our damage tables refer to Physical damage inflicted by a basic melee strike. Certain monsters also inflict additional pain in the form of elemental damage: Fire, Cold, Poison, Lightning, or Arcane. If so, we note this in the damage table for that creature.

HEALTH GLOBES

When you fight a monster, there's always a chance that it will drop a red health globe after (and sometimes during) the battle. You can consume these to restore your health. The "drop chance" differs depending on the monster rank:

Common Monsters have a varying chance to make a health globe drop, so we list the percentage for each one in our tables. Commons drop one globe when killed, which restores 20 percent of your Max Health.

Champion Monsters have a 60% chance to drop a health globe for every 50% of their health that they lose. So Champion monsters can drop up to two health globes during a fight. Each globe dropped by a Champion restores 35% of your Max Health.

Rare Monsters have a 100% chance to drop a health globe for every 25% of their health that they lose. So Rare monsters will always drop four health globes during a fight. Each globe dropped by a Rare restores 35% of your Max Health.

HEALTH GLOBE DROP
RANK	DROP %	GLOBE SIZE (PERCENT OF MAX HP RESTORED)	DROPS WHEN?
COMMON	Variable	20	Monster killed
CHAMPION	60	35	Every 50% of monster's health lost
RARE	100	35	Every 25% of monster's health lost

FALLEN FIREMAGE

MONSTER CLASS: FALLEN (SHAMAN)

A basic description of the monster's behaviors.

The light-skinned Fallen Firemage has no melee attack, preferring to sling fireballs from long range. But his most aggravating power is indirect: If any Fallen infantry are nearby—and they typically are—the mage's magic can raise them back up just seconds after you cut them down. To avoid an endless fight, hunt down the Fallen Firemage first, then target the grunts.

Look here to find what to expect when you confront each monster—and where it can be found.

SPECIAL ATTACKS & ABILITIES

RESURRECT FALLEN

A Fallen Firemage can resurrect any Fallen Grunt you smite. If you see Fallen Grunts suddenly glow green and pop back up after you've slain them, look around for the mage who is reviving them and take him out immediately.

FIREBALL

The Fallen Firemage can conjure up flaming spheres with either his sword or staff, then fling them at you. These inflict Fire damage, as you might suspect.

Specific details on the monster's special attacks and abilities: everything you need to prepare for, defend against, and counter these powerful strikes.

ACCURSED

MONSTER CLASS: ACCURSED

The Accursed can be tough to hit. This hyperkinetic mummy circles its targets with manic, jerky intensity, then strikes with a quick melee slash, slicing its long claws either upward or downward. Sometimes it strikes so hard that it whips into a full front somersault. When slain, the Accursed expires in a gruesome, green explosion of poisonous bile. Keep clear!

ARMADDØN

MONSTER CLASS: SUBJUGATOR

This level 29 beast (in Normal mode) may be the lower half of the demon rider team, but the Armaddon is a formidable foe in its own right. Its massive, fang-filled jaws chomp hungrily and can inflict painful damage. It also unleashes an occasional slam attack, hammering the sharp, bony point of its great chin down on foes who foolishly wander in too close. (This slam often follows a powerful, taunting roar, so watch for that tip-off as the Armaddon rears back.) Its attack also drains Mana/Arcane Power. When ridden by a Subjugator, it forms a fearsome mounted unit.

ARMORED DESTROYER

MONSTER CLASS: DEMON ELITE

Watch for the telltale orange, fiery glow on the ground, marking the spot where an Armored Destroyer is about to drop from the sky. True to its name, this elite demon is heavily armored, and thus difficult to dispatch. The destroyer's fighting style couldn't be any more straightforward: after hitting the ground, it simply hustles directly at the Hero, flailing away with its sharp, piercing forearm armor. Keep flanking this powerhouse and chip away at its formidable protection until it falls.

BETRAYED

MONSTER CLASS: ACCURSED

Like its speedy cousin the Accursed, the hyperactive mummy known as the Betrayed can be difficult to target. Spawned from rotting piles of corpses (called "Diseased Bodies" in-game), the Betrayed relentlessly circles its targets on all fours, then strikes with a quick melee slash, slicing up or down with rending claws. Sometimes it strikes so hard that its slash pulls it into a full front somersault! When killed, the Betrayed explodes in a poisonous, green cloud that can inflict significant damage if you're nearby.

BLAZING GUARDIAN

This fiery, imposing skeletal mage is quite comfortable with Fire, being partially immune to its elemental damage. BLAZING SWORDWIELDER

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

This fiery, red-boned skeleton rises from the fires of the Keep Depths. The Blazing Swordwielder is slow but relentless, and his constant circling may let him slip behind you in a wild melee. His attacks should be quite familiar by the time you meet him, since they're the basic skeleton variants: a swift front kick and a hacking sword slash.

When you "kill" a Bloated Corpse, his fallen form sometimes tears apart... and suddenly his head and upper torso crawl to the attack! When you "kill" a Bloated Corpse, there's a chance that his upper torso will tear itself from the rest of the fallen body and then crawl, trailing strands of entrails, to continue the fight. Fun! BLOOD CLAN MAULER

The Blood Clan Mauler prefers brutal, old-school melee combat, trading blows while standing toe to toe. This mutant reddish behemoth staggers slowly toward its prey and slashes with huge heinous swipes of each arm. One arm has a full four-fingered claw, the other a single bony blade on a stump. FIREBALL

The Blood Clan Occultist likes to conjure up a fireball and fling it at the Hero. The fiery projectile moves slowly enough that you can dodge it if he casts from a good distance. Note that this fireball inflicts Physical damage, not Fire.

BLOOD CLAN SORCERER

BURROWING LEAPER

The Leaper also uses its special burrowing ability to surprise its prey or escape pressure when attacked.

LEAP

The Burrowing Leaper occasionally uncorks a leaping, open-mouthed lunge that can strike from several yards away. Don't get complacent when the creature emerges from the ground out of close melee range!

BURROW

The Burrowing Leaper is named for its propensity to burrow suddenly underground, then pop up unexpectedly nearby when you approach the spot where it dug in.

CARRION BAT

MONSTER CLASS: BAT

The Carrion Bat is the archetype of its class. This bat's basic attack is a jab with its electrified anterior stinger. After a sting or two, the Carrion Bat flaps away to a safe distance, bides its time, and then swoops in again for more Lightning-infused jabs. Carrion Bats are spawned from Carrion Nests; find and destroy these bat factories if you want to clear an area of this pest.

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON MAGE

This is essentially the same electrified skeletal mage as the Shock Guardian, but at a higher level with far more HP. LIGHTNING SHOT

The Charged Construct delivers a charged blast of Lightning with long range accuracy. The shot moves fairly quickly, but the Construct telegraphs it with an exaggerated inhalation-like prelude that gives you a couple of seconds to move out of the shot's trajectory.

CHILLING CØNSTRUCT

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON MAGE

Like its cousin the Frost Guardian, the Chilling Construct has an immunity to Cold damage. His medium-range Ice Shot launches a trio of frigid ice bolts—each can chill the Hero, turning him blue and slowing his movement. Regardless of range, the Chilling Construct flings three ice bolts in a single toss that spread apart as they travel; at close range he can hit you with all three! These projectiles inflict Cold damage, and they also Chill you if they hit, slowing you briefly. The bolts don't travel very fast, making them easy to avoid at a distance.

CØLOSSAL GØLGØR

MONSTER CLASS: COLOSSAL GOLGOR

This hulking, thousand-pound melee monstrosity roams the areas around the Arreat Crater. The Colossal Golgor wields massive twin maces that are formidable enough individually, but really hurt when hammered together on either side of your head. Watch out for his double-mace uppercut, as well. Its knockback force can send you flying. SPECIAL ATTACKS & ABILITIES

SUMMON HELLION

Every few seconds during a fight, the Dark Conjuror calls up a Vicious Heliion to attack you. No more than three summoned heliions can be on the field at a time, and each one has a short lifespan of about 30 seconds. The Conjuror can only summon beasts at range; he won't call up heliions when at melee distance.

FIREBALL

At longer ranges, the Dark Conjuror can summon up a flaming sphere and sling it at the Hero to inflict Fire-infused damage.

ACT
II

DARK CULTIST

MONSTER CLASS: DARK CULTIST

The Dark Cultist class is seemingly everywhere in Act 2, coming in three variants which differ in level, stats, and clothing color. All cultists wield the same ornate knife-blade and hit you with the same pair of melee slashes. Dark Cultists don't move much—they simply stand toe to toe with you and exchange strikes—so they're easy foes to target.

When you come across a Greater Vessel, the crazed priest is chanting and rhythmically pounding his staff on the ground. Kill him quickly, while he's defenseless! ICE ORB

At long range, the Dark Moon Clan Shaman targets you with his Ice Orb attack. As the shaman summons the orb, a glowing blue aura surrounds him, giving you fair warning. Once conjured, the dark orb zigzags toward your position and hits with a debilitating explosion that inflicts Cold damage and slows you down with the Chill effect. When you see the shaman's glowing aura, hurry away from your current position!

DARK SKELETAL ARCHER

This entity is ubiquitous in Act 2. The Deathly Haunt drifts in for a series of melee slashes with its blade-like appendages. Death Swarms buzz around the Halls of Dusk. These annoying clouds of voracious gray insects employ the standard "circle-strafe" method of attack: they relentlessly circle the Hero, swooping in to bite occasionally, slowly sapping away vitality in little chunks of flesh. DEATH SPIT

The Deathspitter can blow chunks of vomit that inflict Physical damage when they strike.

DECAYER

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD

This hungry zombie moves slowly, but don't let his tortured shuffle lull you into ignoring him. If the Decayer gets in close, his bite and claw-slash hurt, and he's quick enough on the pivot to make it hard to flank him. Wait for him to strike, then counterstrike quickly. SPECIAL ATTACKS & ABILITIES

BONE ARMOR

The Demonfire Nightmare can conjure up Hell-hardened bones that whirl around the sorcerer demon, providing armored protection.

GATEWAY TO HELL

The Nightmare opens a black hole through which it summons great hellbeasts, including such dread creatures as the Mallet Lord, the Oppressor, and the Armored Destroyer.

NIGHTMARE CURSE

At random intervals, the Demonfire Nightmare casts one of four different curses. The Curse of Mud reduces your movement speed to 80 percent; the Curse of Rust reduces your resistance to Physical damage by 50 percent; the Curse of Weakness reduces your damage output by 25 percent; and the Curse of Resistance reduces your elemental resistances by 50 percent.

DEMON RAIDER

MONSTER CLASS: DEMON TROOPER

The Demon Raider is a tougher, higher-level version of the Demon Trooper. Like the Trooper, this monster pounds away with a massive mace, hammering you with grim melee attacks. He's lumbering but relentless, never retreating—once engaged, the Raider stays locked into combat, interspersing mace hits with howls and spitting taunts.

DEMON TROOPER

MONSTER CLASS: DEMON TROOPER

These hellish shock troops seem to be everywhere in Act 3. The Demon Trooper pounds away with his massive mace, hammering you with grim melee attacks. He's lumbering but relentless, never retreating—once engaged, the trooper stays locked into combat, interspersing mace hits with howls and spitting taunts. This foul gargantuan retches up hostile Demon Troopers, and that's it. The Demonic Hell Bearer has no attack; his sole purpose is to summon hell's forces. SUMMON TROOPERS

The Demonic Hell Bearer spits out three Demon Troopers right away as you meet. The moment you kill one Demon Trooper, the huge spawner immediately spits out another one, keeping three troopers on the field at any given time.

DEMONIC HELFLYER

MONSTER CLASS: DEMONIC HELFLYER

The term "flyer" doesn't quite describe this monster's basic behavior. After its initial swoop down from the sky, the Demonic Hellflyer doesn't fly much—instead, it gallops in circles around you, stopping every few seconds to expel a deadly fireball, then occasionally running directly away. If you manage to get close, the demon slashes you with its claws or razor-sharp tusks. But then it quickly dashes away, preferring to fight a ranged battle.

FIREBALL

The Demonic Hellflyer can spit a blistering, fire-infused sphere at its foes from long range. The fireball is slow-moving, however, so you can dodge it fairly easily unless you're at close range.

DEMONIC SERPENT

MONSTER CLASS: ROCKWORM

This variety of Rockworm is found only in the Arreat Crater of Act 3. Like all such worms, the Demonic Serpent bursts suddenly from the ground, opens its multi-hinged jaws, and tries to clamp down on the Hero. If you retreat, the beast retracts into the ground. But if you move just a short distance away, it bursts out next to you again for another feeding attempt.

DEMONIC TREMOR

MONSTER CLASS: DEMONIC TREMOR

The Demonic Tremor has a pair of basic melee attacks: a quick sideways swipe with one lobster-like claw, and a thundering, double-clawed ground-pound that sends out a damaging knockback. The great creature also circles slowly around your flank between attacks. His special shield ability adds more difficulty to your attacks. The Dark Cultist is ubiquitous in Act 2, coming in variants of unique level, stats, and clothing color. Melee cultists wield the same ornate knife-blade and hit you with the same pair of melee slashes. Deranged Cultists don't move much—they simply stand toe to toe with you and exchange strikes—so they're easy foes to target.

DISEASED BØDIES

MONSTER CLASS: ACCURSED (SPAWNER)

This wretched heap of plague-ridden corpses can spawn a total of 10 diseased abominations known as the Betrayed; however, only two Betrayed spawn can be active at any one time. If one Betrayed dies, the pile of Diseased Bodies quickly spews out a replacement monster. After it spawns the tenth Betrayed, the pile automatically explodes into grisly viscera and body parts. DUST EATER

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD

This staggering, red-skinned zombie roams the Desolate Sands of Act 2. He hits you with two different melee attacks: a quick single-hand slash or a powerful upward thrust with both arms. When you "kill" a Dust Eater his fallen form often rips apart... and suddenly his head and upper torso crawl to the attack! This Dust Biter torso pursues relentlessly, but is weak and easy to kill. (For more, see "Dust Biter" in this Bestiary.)

TORSO CRAWLER

When you "kill" a Dust Eater, there's a chance that his upper torso will tear itself from the rest of the fallen body and then crawl, trailing strands of entrails, to continue the fight. The crawler torn from a Dust Eater is called a Dust Biter. (See "Dust Biter" in this Bestiary.)

DUST IMP

MONSTER CLASS: DUST IMP

This prototype variant of the Dust Imp species is a small but vicious creature with speedy, darting attacks and swift circling movements. When Dust Imps begin to circle, they toss up their hands and start running and cackling. They have no special abilities, but can be difficult to target precisely. They also tend to travel in packs, so keep them from swarming by using area-wide knockback attacks.

MONSTER CLASS: DARK CULTIST

The Enraged Zealot is first encountered in the Khazra Den of Act 1. All dark cultists who aren't summoners wield the same ornate knife-blade and hit you with the same pair of melee slashes. Enraged Zealots don't move much—they simply stand toe to toe with you and exchange strikes—so they're easy foes to target.

BONE ARMOR

GATEWAY TO HELL

The Nightmare opens a black hole through which it summons great hellbeasts, including such dread creatures as the Mallet Lord, the Oppressor, and the Armored Destroyer.

NIGHTMARE CURSE

At random intervals, the Enslaved Nightmare casts one of four different curses. The Curse of Mud reduces your hero's movement speed to 80 percent of normal; the Curse of Rust reduces your resistance to Physical damage by 50 percent; the Curse of Weakness reduces your damage output by 25 percent; and the Curse of Resistance reduces your elemental resistances by 50 percent.

FALLEN

MONSTER CLASS: FALLEN (GRUNT)

Your basic Fallen grunt in his various forms can be found crawling all over Act 2. These low-level Fallen infantry all fight the same, differing only in skin color and level. The lowest-level grunt, simply named the Fallen, is red. His basic attack is a melee strike with a spiked club—a quick sideways swing from either side, or an overhead slam. He likes to strike and circle, adding in an occasional impatient hop. The Fallen tend to run away wildly when one of their comrades is killed. But their bloodlust brings them back eventually.

Also note: A Fallen Shaman can resurrect any Fallen you smite. If you see Fallen popping back up after you've slain them, look around for the shaman who is reviving them and take him out immediately.

FIERY SPIDERLING

MONSTER CLASS: SPIDERLING

As you move through the Unknown Depths and Storm Halls of Act 2, watch for multicolor towers that spawn elemental spiderlings. Glowing red Guardian Towers produce Fiery Spiderlings, speedy little red arachnids that inflict Lightning damage with each bite. Each tower spawns spiderlings until six are crawling on the field; if you kill any spiderlings, the tower instantly spawns enough new ones to replace the lost ones, up to the limit of six total. The towers are easy to destroy, so hit them quickly to stop the spawning.

LEAP

The Frostclaw Burrower occasionally uncorks a leaping, open-mouthed lunge that can strike from several yards away. Don't get complacent when the creature circles out of close melee range!

BURROW

True to its name, the Frostclaw Burrower likes to burrow suddenly into the frozen ground, then pop up unexpectedly nearby.

GHASTLY GRAVEDIGGER

GHASTLY KNOCK

The Ghastly Gravedigger packs a Knockback punch with some swings of his shovel.

GHØUL

MONSTER CLASS: GHOUL

The Ghoul is the archetype of his class. Wielding a nasty, jagged sword, the monster swings it for a powerful single hit—either a quick downward rip or a curving horizontal slash—then quickly circles you for another strike. The Ghoul repeats this pattern for the duration of the fight: a single melee strike, followed by a quick flanking movement.

GREAT HØRNED GØLIATH

MONSTER CLASS: BEAST

This is the cold weather version of the Beast, encountered in the Icefall Caves of Act 3. A brutal melee fighter, this monster likes close combat, mauling you with teeth and horns, then rearing up on its hind legs for powerful, ground-pounding slam attacks. Beware of its lightning-fast Charge—just when you think you've gained separation for a breather, the Great Horned Goliath makes a sudden ramming dash that's difficult to avoid.

CHARGE

The fearsome Charge of the Great Horned Goliath is a surprisingly fast dash attack that ends with a thunderous head butt. Watch for the telltale snort of smoke and ground-pawing activity that immediately precedes it. The attack's cooldown time is just a few seconds, so by the time you disengage and get separation from the monster, it's often ready to charge again. Keep circling the Goliath so it can't lock onto your position.

GRIM WRAITH

MONSTER CLASS: GHOST

Like its ghost cousins, the Grim Wraith drifts in for a series of melee slashes with its blade-like appendages. After one to four hits, it withdraws offscreen, pauses a few seconds, then darts in close again for another attack. This yellow apparition generally dashes straight back at you from the direction of its withdrawal, but occasionally circles to a new attack angle. It also features a siphoning ranged attack.

GØTESQUE

This class of massive creatures has a "Frankenstein's monster" quality to it, since each bloated corpulent has been stitched together from chunks of various corpses and then reanimated. The pale Grotesque pierces you with spiked melee attacks or knocks you backward with a quick push. When a Grotesque dies, a swarm of slithering worms explodes from its corpse—some of these worms will attack you, so be prepared.

GUARDIAN TOWERS

MONSTER CLASS: N/A

As you move through the Unknown Depths and Storm Halls of Act 2, be prepared to encounter these multicolored towers. They look pretty, but they spawn elemental spiderlings. Each Guardian Tower's color indicates which variant it spawns: dark blue spawns Shocking Spiderlings, light blue produces Icy Spiderlings, red spawns Fiery Spiderlings, and green produces Venomous Spiderlings. The towers are easy to destroy, so hit them quickly to stop the spawning.

SPIKE ATTACK

When in melee range, the monster flings its arms outward as multiple spikes burst through its patchwork skin to inflict damage. The Harvester also unleashes painful spikes during its melee slam punch.

SUICIDE BOMB

HELLHIDE TREMOR

MONSTER CLASS: DEMONIC TREMOR

The Hellhide Tremor is a tougher, higher-level version of the Demonic Tremor. You meet this great monster only in the Hell Rift of Act 4. It has a pair of basic melee attacks: a quick sideways swipe with one lobster-like claw, and a thundering, double-clawed ground-pound that sends out a damaging knockback wave. BLOODSTAR

From long range, the Succubus can summon a blazing red star of energy that she sends your way. This deadly comet tracks your movement, so don't think a simple sidestep puts you in the clear. A Bloodstar strike reduces your Barbarian's or Monk's armor by 50 percent for a short time. If you're playing as Demon Hunter, Witch Doctor, or Wizard, a Bloodstar hit briefly inflicts a status effect that turns the casting cost of any ability into Damage toward the caster.

HERALD OF PESTILENCE

MONSTER CLASS: HERALD

It should come as no surprise that a monster called the "Herald of Pestilence" can inflict serious Poison damage. The Herald's basic melee hit with its huge mutant arm inflicts plenty of knockback, sending the Hero flying when hit. But the arm also has a creepy burrowing ability that lets the Herald hit you from a mid-range distance, too.

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD

This lumbering, blue-skinned zombie hits you with a pair of melee attacks: a quick single-hand slash or a powerful upward thrust with both bloated arms. When you "kill" a Hungry Corpse, his fallen form frequently tears apart... and suddenly his head and upper torso crawl to the attack! This Hungry Torso is quick and pursues relentlessly, but is weak and easy to dispose. (For more, see "Hungry Torso" in this Bestiary.)

ICY SPIDERLING

MONSTER CLASS: SPIDERLING

As you move through the Unknown Depths and Storm Halls of Act 2, watch for multicolor towers that spawn elemental spiderlings. Light blue Guardian Towers produce Icy Spiderlings, speedy blue arachnids that inflict Lightning damage with each bite. Each tower spawns spiderlings until eight are crawling on the field; if any die, the tower spawns enough new spiderlings to replace the lost ones—as many as three at once, up to the limit of eight total. The towers are easy to destroy, so hit them quickly to stop the spawning.

MORLU LEGIONNAIRE

MONSTER CLASS: MORLU

The Morlu Legionnaire is a simple melee fighter, albeit an extremely powerful one. He swings his blade-bristled staff from several angles, but each registers as a single melee strike. What makes the Legionnaire unique is his ability to resuscitate after you land what appears to be a death blow. Keep hitting all Morlu Legionnaires until they completely dissipate.

MOVEMENT SPEED: Slow

KNOCKBACK DISTANCE: Medium

LIKELY LOCATIONS: The Silver Spire: Levels 1-2

SPECIAL ATTACKS & ABILITIES

REVIVE

When you land the blow that depletes the Morlu Legionnaire's health bar, he falls into a statue-like kneeling position. But his demise is not yet final. If you don't strike this frozen form until it dissolves, the Legionnaire will suddenly reanimate with a reduced amount of health.

The great beast slams you with its head if you get close, and its rider flings grenades if you keep your distance—a real pick-your-poison scenario. Your attacks hit the Armaddon until it expires, and then the Subjugator dismounts and fights on foot. (See the Subjugator entry in this Bestiary for details on his solo behavior.)

Lurking in the caves of Act 2, the Murderous Fiend swings its jagged sword for a powerful single hit—either a quick downward rip or a curving horizontal slash—then quickly circles the Hero for another strike. The Retching Cadaver disgorges the contents of her stomach to produce Ravenous Dead zombies. She can vomit a total of 10 zombies.

DEATH SPIT

The Retching Cadaver can spew chunks of poisonous vomit that inflict damage when they strike.

RETURNED

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

Like its Skeleton-class brethren, the Returned rattles around in a slow circle, pausing occasionally to attack or laugh at you. His basic attacks are a simple kick and a sweeping sword slash. The Returned is easy to out-manuever, but his constant flanking motion may let him slip behind you in a chaotic fight.

The Returned Archer can strike from considerable range with an uninterrupted stream of sharp missiles. Retaliate quickly with a ranged counterattack while moving side to side, or zigzag in close for a melee strike. RETURNED EXECUTIONER

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

This ragged, blue-hooded skeleton drags a huge twin-bladed axe as he staggers slowly in pursuit of the Hero. When the Skeletal Executioner gets within striking range, he grunts and performs one of two attacks: a great, hacking downward slash or a swooping horizontal swing. Either one hurts a lot. Slide out of range when the axe-man begins a swing, then step in quickly for a counterstrike when he finishes.

BLOCK

The Returned Shieldman can block your attacks with its glowing shield. Once you inflict enough damage, the shield shatters making it easier to finish off the undead monster. You can also strike the skeleton directly when it lowers its shield to deliver blows.

RETURNED SUMMONER

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

The Skeleton Summoner sub-class features powerful skeletal spellcasters who arrive with a crew of bony minions and who summon up replacements for any of those minions that you shatter, up to a summon cap of four. When they're not spawning skeletons, these summoners sling deadly Arcane Orbs at the Hero from long range. They keep their distance, and flee when you get too close. The Returned Summoner arrives with an escort of four Returned, summoning replacements as they fall. Note that eliminating the Returned Summoner ends the summoning activity, but any remaining skeletal minions will fight on until you smash them, too.

CHARGE

The Beast's fearsome Charge is a surprisingly fast dash attack that ends with a painful head butt. Watch for the telltale snort of smoke and ground-pawing activity that immediately precede it. The Charge's cooldown time is just a few seconds, so by the time you disengage and get separation from the monster, it's often already prepared to charge again. Keep circling the Beast, so it can't lock onto your position.

SAVAGE FIEND

MONSTER CLASS: GHOUL

Found throughout the Cursed Hold, the Savage Fiend swings its jagged sword for a powerful single hit—either a quick downward rip or a curving horizontal slash—then quickly circles the Hero for another strike. SAVAGE ROCKWORM

This variety of Rockworm is found only in the Tunnels of the Rockworm or Sirocco Caverns areas. Like its relative, the standard Rockworm, the Savage Rockworm bursts suddenly from the ground, opens its multi-hinged jaws, and takes huge chomping bites at its prey. If you don't move, the worm actually drags you underground for a short time before spewing you back out. If you retreat, the great burrowing monster retracts into the ground. SHOCKING SPIDERLING

MONSTER CLASS: SPIDERLING

Watch for multicolored towers that spawn elemental spiderlings. Glowing dark blue Guardian Towers produce Shocking Spiderlings, dark blue arachnids that inflict Lightning damage with every bite. SKULL SUMMONER

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

The Skull Summoner sub-class features powerful skeletal spellcasters that arrive with a bony crew of minions. If you smash a minion, the summoner can conjure a replacement, up to a total summon cap of four. When they're not spawning skeletons, these magicians sling deadly Arcane Orbs at the Hero from long range. They keep their distance, and flee when you get too close. Each red-boned Skull Summoner, encountered in the Foundry of Act 3, appears with an escort of four shielded Skeletal Marauders; the caster summons replacements as they fall. Note that although eliminating the Skull Summoner ends his summoning activity, any remaining skeletal minions will fight on until you smash them, too.

ARCANE ORB

When not summoning Skeletal Marauders, the Skull Summoner conjures up dark energy orbs and slings them at you from afar. These orbs inflict Arcane damage with each strike.

The Skull Summoner arrives with a contingent of four shield-bearing Skeletal Marauders. Every time you destroy one of these skeleton minions, the magician summons another to takes its place. Each Skull Summoner can have no more than four minion Skeletal Marauders at any one time.

SKULL SWORD

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

Encountered only in the Battlefield Stores of Act 3, the red-boned Skull Sword resembles the Skeletal Warrior. Like its skeletal cousin, it stalks you in a slow circle, pausing occasionally to attack or laugh. Its basic attacks are a kick and a sword slash. The Skull Sword skeleton is easy to out-manuever, but its constant flanking motion may allow it slip behind you in a chaotic fight.

TORTURED SUMMONER

MONSTER CLASS: SKELETON

The Skeleton Summoner sub-class features powerful skeletal spellcasters that arrive with a crew of bony minions. The conjurer can summon up replacements for any of those minions that you shatter, up to a summon cap of four. When they're not spawning skeletons, summoners are slinging deadly Arcane Orbs at the Hero from long range. They keep their distance, and flee when you get too close. Each Tortured Summoner, found in The Cursed Hold of Act 1, appears with an escort of four Returned Archers, summoning replacement archers as they fall. Note that while eliminating the Tortured Summoner ends the summoning activity, any remaining skeletal minions will fight on until you smash them, too.

VENOMOUS SPIDERLING

MONSTER CLASS: SPIDERLING

As you move through the Unknown Depths and Storm Halls of Act 2, watch for multicolor towers that spawn elemental spiderlings. Glowing green Guardian Towers produce Venomous Spiderlings, speedy greenish arachnids that inflict Poison damage with each bite. Each tower spawns spiderlings until six are crawling on the field; if you kill any, the tower instantly spawns enough new spiderlings to replace the lost ones, up to the limit of six total. LEAP RETREAT

When you get in close, the Vile Temptress can make a sudden backward leap that propels her instantly out of melee range.

BLOODSTAR

From long range, the Vile Temptress can summon a blazing red star of energy that she sends your way. This deadly comet will track after you as you move! A Bloodstar strike reduces your Barbarian's or Monk's armor by 50% for a short time. If you're playing as Demon Hunter, Witch Doctor, or Wizard, a Bloodstar hit briefly inflicts a status effect that turns the casting cost of any ability into damage toward the caster.

VORACIOUS TORSO

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD

When you kill one of the staggering green-skinned zombies known as the Bloating Corpse, there's a chance its fallen form will tear apart. (For more, see "Bloating Corpse" in this Bestiary.) If this happens, the head and torso chunk continues to pursue you relentlessly, seeking to snack on your viscera. This Voracious Torso can bite or slash with its hands.

WALKING CORPSE

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD

This slow, bloated, pale-skinned zombie features two basic melee attacks: a quick single-hand slash or a powerful upward thrust with both arms. When you "kill" a Walking Corpse his fallen form often rips apart... and suddenly his head and upper torso crawl to the attack! This Crawling Torso is quick and pursues relentlessly, but is weak and easy to kill. (For more, see "Crawling Torso" in this Bestiary.)

When you "kill" a Walking Corpse, there's a chance that his upper torso will tear itself from the rest of the fallen body and then crawl, trailing strands of entrails, to continue the fight. The crawler torn from a Walking Corpse is called a Crawling Torso. (See "Crawling Torso" in this Bestiary.)

VORACIOUS ZOMBIE

MONSTER CLASS: RISEN DEAD (SKINNY)

This greenish, undead flesh-eater is slow and his melee attacks aren't very flashy, but he's aptly named: his hunger for flesh is relentless. The Voracious Zombie has two basic attacks: a lunging bite and a vicious hand slash.

WEB SPIT

Webspitting Spiders, as their name suggests, feature the same special web-spitting ability as their Arachnid Horror cousins. Once expectorated, the sticky white webbing spreads over the ground and slows your movement if you walk through it. However, the Webspitting Spider is more thorough—it circles its prey, spitting multiple web globs before creeping in for the kill.

WINTERSBANE HUNTRESS

MONSTER CLASS: LACUNI

The Wintersbane Huntress found prowling in the Caverns of Frost is the icy cousin of the Lacuni females encountered earlier in the game. She exhibits the same jungle-cat reflexes and ferocity as her warm weather kin. At close range, the Huntress slices her prey to pieces with cold, razor-sharp fore-claws. If you try long range attacks, she simply lobbs punishing firebombs, then closes the distance rapidly with a single, stunning leap.

WINTERSBANE STALKER

The Wintersbane Stalker is a cold-weather relative of the Lacuni males. The Stalker targets you with his basic attack, slicing each of his icy twin blades outward in quick succession. THE DIABLO III AUCTION HOUSE SYSTEM

WHY AN AUCTION HOUSE?

Since the early days of Diablo, a big part of the player experience has centered on upgrading your hero with glorious, awe-inspiring gear. Item drops are random in Diablo and that means the odds of finding any particular item are quite low. Since players don't always find the exact items they're hunting for on their own, trading has become an important and effective way for players to find their next big upgrade.

In previous versions of Diablo, there have been a number of different ways to trade including buying and selling items outside the game via forums, Battle.net chat channels, or through third-party web sites. Unfortunately, these methods are often inconvenient, confusing, or unsafe. So for Diablo III, Blizzard wanted to improve the quality of the trading experience by creating a robust in-game exchange called the Auction House.

This new system provides a safe and easy-to-use marketplace for Diablo loot. It lets players buy and sell individual items like weapons and armor, as well as stackable items like gold, gems, pages, tomes, and crafting materials. The Auction House also affords players with the option to buy and sell items using either in-game gold or real-world currency.

Item Level Restrictions

Acquiring items through the Auction House is an effective way to deck your out hero with the gear you'll need to fight the legions of Hell. That said, it wouldn't be any fun to buy the most powerful items you can find and then just breeze through the game. Therefore, every item is level-restricted, which means your character cannot equip the item until he reaches the minimum level specified by the item.

The Diablo III Auction House provides players with several ways to make purchases—credit/debit cards, the Battle.net Balance, and balances with external payment providers (note that these methods may differ by region.) Again, no matter where you are or what currency you choose to use, Blizzard is facilitating all transactions, making the exchange safe regardless of the payment method used.

REGIONAL DIFFERENCES

In some regions, there are several Auction Houses, each using a different currency. These are provided to allow players to buy and sell items in their local currency. The items listed within each currency's Auction Houses are unique and will not show up in another Auction House. Please be aware that regulations regarding real-world currency can differ by country, so be sure to refer to the Auction House Terms of Use for additional information.

Additionally, keep in mind that all Diablo III items are bound to the region in which they're purchased. For example, items acquired while playing in the Americas Region are not available to any characters you might have created in the Europe Region (and vice versa).

THE “NO-WALLET” EXPERIENCE

When designing the Diablo III Auction House, the Blizzard team wanted to make it easy for players to participate without requiring the entry of a credit card. To remove this hurdle, players will be able to list their epic loot in the Auction House for free. Here's an example of how this works:

Let's say you've been rewarded with an awesome legendary axe after taking down a mean boss in-game. The axe isn't the best fit for your wizard though, so you choose to post it in the Auction House. The axe sells and you use the auction proceeds to bid on a powerful dagger that was just listed in the Auction House. Your bid ends up winning the auction and you've just used the Auction House to trade one great weapon for another without spending a dime!

TWO HOUSES: SEPARATE YET LINKED

Players can conduct transactions using either in-game gold or real-world funds. Each currency has its own separate Auction House, and once an item is listed in one Auction house, it cannot be listed in the other until the auction has resolved. That said, players will generally find it easy to move items back and forth between the gold and real-world currency Auction Houses. If, for example, your item did not sell in the real-world currency Auction House, simply wait for the auction to expire and try re-listing the item in the gold Auction House. You might find more willing buyers ready to snap up your item!

Anonymous Auctioning

All player transactions in the gold and real-world currency Auction Houses are completely anonymous.

Neither your real name nor your BattleTag will be revealed to other players.

HOW DOES THE SYSTEM WORK?

Access the Auction House interface by clicking on the Auction House button on the Menu screen just before you enter the game. Once you're in the Auction House interface, you can toggle between gold and real-world currency by clicking the currency selection button in the upper right corner of the main window.

SELLING ITEMS

You can start selling your discovered loot by selecting the “Sell” tab at the top of the Auction House menu screen. From here, choose to auction either a piece of equipment or some of your stackable items like gems, crafting materials, or gold. You can auction any items directly from your shared stash (storage common to all characters on your game account) or from any individual hero's inventory.

SETTING BID AND BUYOUT PRICES

If you've chosen to sell a stackable item like gems—let's say a batch of Flawless Round Amethysts—you'll be presented with the "Sell Gem" pop-up interface. This lets you enter the sell quantity. It also lists the price per unit and total value of the potential sale. Once you've set your quantity, click the button to access the "Sell Item" screen.

If, on the other hand, you've chosen to sell equipment—let's say the Overfiend, a powerful one-handed mace—you go directly to the "Sell Item" screen. Here you set a starting bid price and an optional "buyout" price. The buyout is a price that, if offered by a buyer, immediately resolves the auction with a successful sale and delivers the item to the buyer. This screen also indicates any fees that might apply, and displays the auction duration timeframe.

When you're ready to start the bidding, click the "Create Auction" button at the bottom of the panel. There will be a short delay before the item is officially locked in to the Auction House to provide players with the option to cancel the auction (just in case a player accidentally posts the wrong item.) After the "cancel" countdown is complete, the item is transferred to the Auction House exchange for the world to see! It will remain in the Auction House until the auction timeframe has elapsed, or until another player offers the items buyout price. If the auction is successful (meaning a buyer is found), the item will be automatically transferred to the buyer's "Completed" auctions tab. From there, the buyer can send the item to his shared stash. If the auction was unsuccessful, the item will be transferred to the seller's "Completed" auctions page.

FEES

The Diablo III Auction House does not assess any listing fee to the seller at the start of an auction. Instead, a seller will have a maximum number of active auctions that are available at one time. Once an auction resolves, a new auction slot opens up and the player can list an additional item. This is intended to help encourage sensible listings and discourage the mass posting of low quality items. At the close of successful auctions, a nominal transaction fee will also be deducted from the seller's proceeds. Specific details related to these fees may vary by region.

BUYING ITEMS

When you use the Auction House to go shopping for your heroes, you'll find a nifty, easy-to-use search tool to help find upgrade options without wading through hundreds of irrelevant listings. Once you've entered the Auction House, click on the Search button and then select the category of items you want to search: Equipment, Gems, Crafting & Dyes, Crafting Recipes, or Tome & Pages.

THE "SMART SEARCH"

If you're looking for gear and selected "Equipment," use the "Search Equipment For" drop-down menu to choose any of the Diablo III heroes associated with your game account. The smart search feature will then "read" your character and assesses which item slots have upgrades currently available in the Auction House. The search tool will then automatically create a 'Recommended Items' list specifically designed just for you! The listing includes each item's stats, the latest bid, buyout price (if any), and remaining time in the auction for that item.

You can even refine the search by specifying an item type and a set of preferred criteria. For example, you can narrow the search to one-handed axes imbued with Vitality and the Lifesteal quality. The Auction House also features an advanced search function that lets you further specify the parameters of items you're interested in buying. You can determine character level, item rarity, and set minimum numerical criteria for the qualities you're looking to find. For example, you can set a minimum Strength of 60, with a minimum of 4 percent Lifesteal. You can even choose to search for a unique item—say, the powerful Arreat Axe—by entering its name in the designated field at the bottom of the panel.

MAKE A BID

Once you find an item you desire, select it from the 'Recommended Items' list and click on Bid to bring up the "Bid On Item" window. Enter your current bid; you can also set a maximum bid amount. This will automatically increase your bid should another buyer come along and bid on the same item. If you're in the real-world currency Auction House, use the drop-down menu to select the payment method you plan to use for your bid. Click on Bid and your bid will be submitted!

Now that your bid is entered, you can click Auctions at the top of the screen and check on the status of any auctions in which you're currently participating. Every auction is broken down into auction status, your maximum bid, the current winning bid, the buyout price, and the time remaining in the auction. If you have been outbid, you can manually enter a follow-up bid by clicking on the Bid button at the bottom of the screen. Alternatively, you can click the Buyout button if you want to skip the bidding process and just purchase the item immediately for its listed buyout price.

SUCCESS!

After you win an auction, your newly acquired items will be available for pickup on the "Completed" auctions tab. Once you're on that page, just click on the "Send to Shared Stash" button to deliver the item in game.

For the seller, note that there may be a short delay in receiving payment as the auction results are being processed.

RELISTING PURCHASES

Any item purchased in the Auction House becomes fully "yours." That is, it has the same ownership status as any item acquired through your own in-game adventures. Thus, you can turn around and re-list it on either the gold or real-world currency Auction Houses. Aside from some special quest items, there are very few items that will be "soulbound" to your character and cannot be traded.

AUTHOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Doug Walsh: This tome could have not been possible without Blizzard's full support and cooperation behind us. Not only did the Diablo III development team welcome us into their offices, provide us with our own writing room, and tend to our every request, but they genuinely made us feel as part of the team. I wish to extend my deepest thanks to Blizzard's George Hsieh, Matt Panepinto, and James Southall for helping us accomplish what seemed at times to be an impossible task. I'd also like to thank Jeremy McIntyre and his team of Brett Crawford, David Kingsbury, Alex Neyman, Travis Shute, Eric Yasukochi, Daniel Van Essen, Kevin Gu, and Adam Jackson for poring over every word, number, and screenshot we submitted in effort to ensure its accuracy.

When I look back at my time as a strategy guide author, this is the book I'll remember most. I want to thank Mike Degler and Leigh Davis of BradyGames for the opportunities they continue to afford me. To David Bartley, our editor, thank you for all you did to help make this massive undertaking go as smoothly as possible. I want to also thank Keith Lowe, Dan Caparo, and Wil Cruz for their incredible—and tireless—work on the book's design and production. One of the things I'm particularly grateful for is having finally gotten the chance to collaborate with my co-author Rick Barba, a man whose love of sports, bourbon, and running gave us no shortage of things to talk about. It was great working with you, sir! Lastly, I want to thank my beautiful wife, Kristin, who remained as supportive and loving as always despite the many weeks spent out of town on this project.

BRADYGAMES ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

All of us at BradyGames would like to express our sincere gratitude to everyone at Blizzard for working directly with us these past several months to create this magnificent tome of Diablo III wisdom. Special thanks to George Hsieh, Jerry Chu, Skye Chandler, Matt Panepinto, James Southall, and Sean Masterson. Your extraordinary efforts have helped make this guide great.
